A THAW BRINGS NO HOPE

OF RELIEVING THE DISTRESSED POOR OF EUROPE.

Several Persons Killed and Wounded at Folkestone, Sussex, by a Landslide—Voices Across the Sea—Telephonic Communication Between France and England.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The thaw throughout England continues. One of its effects was a disastrous landslide at Folkestone. Three people were crushed to death in the avalanche of snow and earth which fell upon their cottages.

The thaw is general throughout England and in consequence thousands of those who have been deprived of enjoyment by the closing of inland navigation and the recent rigorously cold weather are resuming work. The effects of the storm are still felt, however. The poor-boxes kept in the magistrates' courts are exhausted in answering the calls of respectable and well-recommended hungry people and thousands are known to be starving at home sooner than accept the alternative of going to the workhouse. The Salvation Army shelters are crowded and for several nights many have had to be turned away for lack of accommodation. The charge at these shelters for supper, bed and breakfast is four pence, but those without money are received and allowed to pay in labor.

Disastrous floods have occurred in many parts of the country, especially in Kent, where roads, bridges and even houses have been swept away.

The seaport of Focamp, at the mouth of the Focamp River, is inundated. The town was flooded so quickly that it was with difficulty the inhabitants were rescued.

In Paris the authorities are hiring additional buildings for the reception of the destitute, many of whom wander all night in the streets.

The warming rooms for the poor in Vienna are very successful in alleviating misery, and a movement is on foot to add a bowl of soup for each person.

A petition has been presented to the German Emperor, representing the terrible condition of the inhabitants of Schweidnitz and other districts in Silesia where typhus fever, brought on by hunger, is claiming many victims. The Duke of Ratibor, leader of the Feudal party in Prussia, owns much territory there but appears indifferent to the sufferings of hiss opie.

No Precedent Since 1740.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 21.—Seven fishermen yesterday crossed the Zuider Zee on the ice This feat is without precedent since 1740.

GERMAN EMIGRATION.

The Subject is Under Discussion by the Members of the Reichstag.

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—In the Reichstag to-day the question was raised as to whether the Government was preparing a bill to regulate emigration. Dr. Von Boetticher, secretary of the Imperial Home Office, replied that the Government must wait and see the effect which the passage of the new Hamburg law upon the subject and the recently revised Bremen regulations would have before any additional action could be taken.

Herr Markus of Bremen made a statement, during which he said that he attributed the defects in the accommodations afforded to emigrants on board ocean steamers leaving German ports to the rapid growth of the Bremen Lloyds service.

Herr Lingens, a member of the Centre party, said that the arrangements made to accommodate emigrants at Bremen were better than similar preparations made at Hamburg and at Antwerp.

Valuable Tapestry Burnt.

NEWCASTLE, Jan. 21.—Fire broke out at Eastnor Castle, near Ledbury, the seat of Lady Henry Somerset. Two valuable pieces of tapestry, representing summer and autumn, were much damaged before the flames could be extinguished. The tapestry formed a portion of a set of four pieces which came from Fontainebleau and were worked during the time of Louis XV.

Scotch Railway Strike.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Scottish railway strike continues to show signs of breaking up, and there is a general disposition to "save himself who can." Forty-four of the strikers, including a number of veteran engineers, resumed work to-night.

HARTLEPOOL ELECTION.

THE GLADSTONIAN CANDIDATE CARRIES THE SEAT.

Important Speech by Salisbury at Gladstone—The Recent Donnybrook Fair of the Irish Party Shows that They Could Not be Trusted With Home Rule.

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 21.—Lord Salisbury, in a political address here to-day, said he did not believe either that the Home Rule contest was on the point of victory or that it was now dead. Many positions must be carried, he said, before Home Rule is victorious. In the absence of documentary evidence it is probable Mr. Parnell's account of the Hawarden conference is in the main correct.

But what Mr. Gladstone thought a year ago is no guide to his thoughts a year hence.

Lord Salisbury continued: "I hesitate to speak of Mr. Parnell's character in this university, of which he is a distinguished alumnus. But his opponents can hardly be considered champions of morality, since they took 10 days to decide they would no longer associate with him. The Home Rule rehearsal in London and Kilkenny was not edifying, and seems to have involved a Donnybrook fair. The rehearsal proved that Irishmen were quite incapable of conducting an independent Parliament. It has further shown the unlimited power of the priesthood, whose matchless organization had swept down a man who had been the despot of the whole Irish movement here and in America. That is the ruthless organization beneath whose heel you would place Protestants by granting Home Rule. We shall be mad indeed if we neglect the lesson which the tempest has unveiled. The antagonist with which you have been contending is the sinister domination of Croke and Walsh. To me it is a matter of rejoicing that the disclosure has happened, as it will fortify Ulster. If she is true to herself Home Rule will never be carried.

Lord Salisbury attributed the suffering and discontent in Ireland to natural difficulties due to climate and absence of mineral resources. He believed construction of light or relief railways, the peasant proprietary system and emigration were more important for Ireland's well-being than experimental legislation. If the unionist efforts succeeded in dissipating ill dreams and passions and passing good measures, the present unionists' struggle would be in the future regarded as the foundation of Ireland's prosperity.

The Hartlepool Election

LONDON, Jan. 21.—An election was held at Hartlepool to-day to fill the Parliamentary seat made vacant by the death of Thomas Richardson. Mr. Furness (Gladstonian) received 4603 votes, against 4305 polled by Mr. Gray (Unionist). At the last election Mr. Richardson, who stood as the Liberal Unionist candidate, received 3381 votes, M. L. Hawkes, Home Ruler, polling 3402.

The constituency has always been very strongly Liberal, having been carried on one occasion by a Liberal candidate by over two to one. The late Liberal member, Mr. Richardson, carried the constituency in 1885 by over 1000 majority, and it is safe to say that had he remained with the Gladstonians he would have again won the seat for them in 1886. He was a man of great wealth and influence, being an engine builder and ship owner within the constituency, and it is probable that it was owing to his personal influence and position that over 1300 Liberal votes were given him as the Unionist candidate. The present election was fought out with a more strict regard to the great issue before the country.

Mr. Christopher Furness, the successful Gladstonian candidate, is a son of the late Mr. John Furness, who removed to West Hartlepool shortly after the commencement of the town. There Mr. Christopher Furness was born and educated and settled in the shipping and ship-broking business. He is interested in the Middleton Shipbuilding Yard, in the Hartlepool Salt and Brine Company, and other undertakings. Mr. Furness is a member of the West Hartlepool Council and has filled many other local offices. He is one of the largest owners of steam shipping on the northeast coast.

The defeated candidate is also a shipbuilder and his establishment is one of the largest in the north. He was councillor, alderman and mayor in the old borough of Hartlepool, and was the first mayor of the jubilee borough of West Hartlepool. He is a director of the Northeastern Railway Company and in religious views a Presbyterian. He was knighted in May, 1890.

The Daily News says the victory of Mr. Furness at Hartlepool is the most splendid victory since the general election.

The Chronicle claims the victory for the labor unions, the leaders of which had told the members to support Furness because he took the pledge to employ only union labor, while Mr. Gray refused to take the pledge.

FATAL FIRE DAMP.

More Than One Hundred Lives Known to be Lost.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—News has been received here of a terrible explosion of fire damp in a colliery at Jasinowata, near the city of Charkov, in European Russia. Only meagre details of the accident have been learned, but is known that over 100 miners have been killed.

European Disarmament

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—The Saale Zeitung today referring to the dinner Herr Miguel, the Imperial Minister of Finances, gave on Friday last, at which the Emperor, Chancellor von Caprivi, several ministers and a number of members of the Reichstag were present, says that upon the occasion referred to, the reports circulated as to the possibility of a general European disarmament were the subject of some hilarity.

The Emperor, according to the newspaper referred to, remarked that Germany was satisfied and had no thoughts of fresh conquests. It is possible, the Emperor is said to have added, that smokeless powder would eventually result in terminating the era of war, and although there existed no question in regard to disarmament the new conditions of warfare rendered warlike developments improbable.

John Daly's Prison Changed.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—John Daly, who has been imprisoned for several years under sentence for participation in dynamite outrages, was removed to-day, in company with several other men undergoing sentences for similar offences, from Chatham Prison to Portland Prison. Friends of Daly who saw him while he was being transferred from Chatham say that though his face has undergone a great change in appearance, his general health appeared to be greatly improved.

Death of an Irish Cricketer.

DUBLIN, Jan. 21.—Horace Hamilton, a well-known cricketer, who will be remembered by many American friends, as he visited the States with the Gentlemen of Ireland team, dropped dead yesterday.

A PATHETIC STORY.

A Barrie Woman Frozen to Death Searching for Her Body.

BARRIE, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Charles Cross, a resident of Blake-street started out in search of her son James, who with a friend had crossed the bay to Tollendal to get bait for fishing. The boys turned up the creek and Mrs. Cross, not noticing followed the shore to Bear Point about eight miles down the bay, where it is supposed she lost her way. Tracks showed that she had walked in a circle for about three miles and had stopped at about the same place she had started where she was found by John Cross and James Gasley with her face buried in the snow and frozen to death. The snow was undisturbed around the body, showing that she had fallen benumbed by the extreme cold and died. An inquest was held and a verdict returned that she had met her death from cold and exposure. The circumstances surrounding the case are very sad, the poor woman having met her death while in search of her boy, whom she could not bear to have out of her sight.

THE CHILIAN INSURRECTION.

Insurgents Occupy the Chief Nitrate Ports.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—A despatch from Buenos Ayres says the Chilian insurgents have occupied Pisagua one of the chief nitrate ports.

France to Send Men-of-War to Chili.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—It is stated in diplomatic circles here that the French Government has decided to order several French men-of-war to rendezvous in Chilian waters. The representatives of foreign governments at Santiago de Chili have entered formal protests against the blockade of Chilian ports by the war vessels in possession of the insurgents.

Insurgents Gaining Ground.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Despatches from Buenos Ayres state that affairs in Chili are far from improving. Considerable dissension exists among the Chilian troops and this feeling is rapidly spreading. It is certain a number of Government troops have already joined the insurgents. The latter are preparing to take vigorous action. The insurgents seem to be gaining ground.

MONTREAL FAILURES.

Liabilities Exceed $700,000—The Principal Creditors of the Montreal Firm.

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—The firm of McLachlan Bros. & Co., composed of Messrs. William McLachlan and Frank W. Radford, have assigned and filed a list of their creditors in court, from which it appears that their liabilities are over $700,000. The banks to which the firm are indirectly liable, together with the amounts involved, are:

Bank of Toronto, $200,000.
Merchants' Bank, $100,000.
Bank of Commerce, $25,000.
Molsons Bank, $100,000.

Principal Creditors.

Mrs. J. S. McLachlan, $30,000; estate Mrs. J. S. McLachlan, $30,000; estate late Mrs. William McLachlan, $10,000; Mrs. William McLachlan, $16,000; R. W. McLachlan, $6064; Hochelaga Cotton Company, $4000; Montreal Cotton Company, $[illegible]; D. Morrice, Sons & Company, $3013; Stormont Cotton Company, $3400; Canada Cotton Company, $2013; Millichamp, Coyle & Co., $2840; Feodor, Boas & Co., $2604; Moorhouse Dodds, $2840; J. H. Wylie & Co., Almonte, $3302; St. Hyacinthe Mill Company, $8793; George D. Ross, $1162; Merchants' Manufacturing Company, $1797; Paris Wincey Company, $1012; Nova Scotia Cotton Company, $1319; Ontario Cotton Company, $4157; Coaticook Knitting Company, $1454; Kingston Hosiery Company, $691; Kingston Cotton Company, $366.90. Mr. J. Murray Smith, manager of the Bank of Toronto, has been named provisional guardian, and a meeting of creditors will be held on the 28th inst.

Another Heavy Failure.

The firm of Gilmour, Lindsay & Co. had two separate demands of assignment made upon them to-day, one by George H. Labbe, wholesale furniture dealer and importer and the other by the Toronto Bank. Their total liabilities will reach nearly $225,000, the principal creditors being the Molson's Bank to the extent of $12,000.

"THE LAMP OF DEATH."

In Love and Out of Work He Suicided by Poison.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—In the rear of an undertaker's establishment in Eighth-avenue there reposed in an ice box yesterday the remains of Alexander Elmer, 49, an unmarried man who was traveling agent in this country for the jewelry firm of J. Ratzersdorfer of Vienna. On top of the ice box was placed a glass of oil in which floated a lighted taper, a Jewish custom known as the "lamp of death."

The unfortunate man left several letters in which he declared that life was not worth living because he had been recalled from his position. Elmer stated in one of his letters that he was in love with Mrs. Helena Reiss of No. 76 Avenue B, a married woman, whose husband lives in Austria.

The Strike On the Chicago & Erie.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—First Vice-President Middleton of the New York & Erie Railway in relation to the strike on the Chicago & Erie Railroad said this afternoon: "Under no circumstances will despatcher Scott be reinstated. By his carelessness two freight trains were nearly wrecked. Such conduct cannot be tolerated. The despatchers places have been filled, and those of the conductors inside of 24 hours. Scott is secretary of the Order of Railroad Conductors and Despatchers, hence the sympathy expressed for him by his associates. Scott has been found to be unreliable before this. This last error was made at Huntington, Ind., when he issued a 'lap order.' A catastrophe was averted by the merest chance."

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 21.—A despatch from Marion says there is not a freight train on the Chicago and Erie between Chicago and Marion. The whole trouble seems to be a dislike of Scott by Superintendent Merrill. The railroad has arranged with the Pennsylvania and P.C.C. and St. Louis to handle all passenger and perishable business west and east, via Urbana and Mansfield.

Trainmen Join the Strikers.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—A Fort Wayne, Ind., special says the trainmen have taken up the case of the Chicago & Erie train despatchers and refuse to take orders for the movement of trains from any but the old men.

A Novel Operation.

DECATUR, Ill., Jan. 21.—A surgeon of this city has just completed a novel surgical operation. He removed part of four ribs of a cat and inserted them in the nose of a young lady, forming a bridge for the nose. The bones of the nose were damaged and were removed.

Earthquakes in Austria.

VIENNA, Jan. 21.—Yesterday several severe earthquake shocks were experienced at [illegible] and Linz. The shocks caused much alarm. Windows rattled, pictures fell from the walls and cracks opened in the walls of a number of houses.

CALLS HIM A DUMMY.

THE EPITHET O'SHEA APPLIES TO M'CARTHY.

A Letter Which Created a Sensation in the Irish Party—Parnell Will Undertake to Suppress the Virulence of Tim Healy, the Black Sheep.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Dillon and O'Brien are with the Parnellites unless the McCarthyites come to the terms which Dillon and O'Brien have agreed to consider reasonable. Such is the statement to-day put forward by one of the best informed men in the Irish party. Parnell is willing to resign, but McCarthy must also resign. It is thought that by to-night a decision will be arrived at for peace or war. The present indications are not favorable to peace, for English Liberal influence is being powerfully brought to bear against anything like a surrender to Parnell. Should the decision be war Parnell is preparing to take a leading part in parliament, if need be, in suppressing men like Healy, whose virulence is not turned against himself. The Freeman's Journal to-day says that notwithstanding the assertion that the cities alone were for Parnell it now appears that the towns are also in sympathy with that leader. The Journal declares that the speech of Mr. Parnell at Athlone yesterday was uttered in the true spirit of nationality and independence.

The sergeant-at-arms of the House of Commons has notified the Irish leaders that he cannot provide a room any longer for the continuance of debates over the question of Irish leadership, as all the rooms are required for the various commissions. This is looked upon as a hint that the House does not wish the wrangle continued in the halls of Westminister, as the officer no doubt acted under instructions.

It is understood that Vincent Scully, the defeated Parnellite candidate for Kilkenny, has abandoned his petition for the unseating of Sir John Pope Hennessy.

O'BRIEN INTERVIEWED.

He Says Substantial Progress Has Been Made Toward Peace.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—At an early hour this morning a reporter called on Messrs. O'Brien, Dillon and Gill, who are staying at the house of Mr. Raffalovitch, Mr. O'Brien's father-in-law. In consequence of their conference lasting until a late hour last night they had not risen, but Mr. O'Brien received the reporter in his bedroom. In answer to the question as to what had been the result of the conference, he said: "It is difficult under the existing circumstances to make any statement with respect to the conference, as it is still necessary for us to preserve silence on the matter." Then Mr. O'Brien dictated the following statement:

"As I had every reason to anticipate, Mr. Dillon and myself are in full agreement, and with a view to success our reticence, patience and mutual forbearance will continue. That is as necessary as ever. The matter is so delicate and so surrounded with difficulties that it is hard to be too sanguine of the result. All I am free to say is that we have made substantial progress toward a settlement which will be satisfactory to the British as well as to our own sentiment. There has not been a single day's needless delay. We shall not leave France without exhausting every effort for peace, and a very few days now must determine the result."

While this was being written Mr. Dillon entered the room, read the statement and signified his approval of it. It is improbable that the conference of Boulogne will be resumed.

Mr. O'Brien Makes An Explanation.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—In an interview here today Mr. William O'Brien said he knew nothing of the alleged circular announcing that the promoters of the new national paper in Dublin were offering to return the money which had been subscribed for the enterprise owing to his declining to accept the editorship. Mr. O'Brien further said that the new company was launched during his voyage homeward, and that those interested in the paper had no authority to announce him as the chairman of the company or the editor of the publication.

Capt. O'Shea Expresses His Opinion of Justin McCarthy in Forcible Language.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—It became known today that on Dec. 9 last Capt. O'Shea wrote a letter to Justin McCarthy demanding he should apologise for hinting during a speech delivered at the Leinster Hall meeting that a different color would have been given to Parnell's conduct in connection with Mrs. O'Shea if, during the divorce proceedings, Capt. O'Shea had been cross-examined. To this demand, according to Capt. O'Shea, Mr. McCarthy is said to have replied with several letters classed as "shuffling" communications by the captain and his friends. Capt. O'Shea then on Jan. 15, addressed a letter to Mr. McCarthy denouncing his replies as "contemptible quibbling," and adding: "However funny you must always appear as a leader of men, ill-constructed dummy that you are, the straw starting from every seam, I acknowledge you possess two qualifications for your present post—meanness and mendacity." Capt. O'Shea's letter has created a stir in Irish Parliamentary circles, and a warm reply from Mr. McCarthy is expected.

Not Approaching a Settlement.

DUBLIN, Jan. 21.—The Freeman's Journal says it regrets that the Irish party in Parliament for the first time in years is disunited upon the re-assembling of Parliament. The conferences, according to The Journal, have not tended to advance the questions in dispute further towards a solution.

The Crimes Act.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—At the re-assembling of Parliament Justin McCarthy will ask for a day when he can introduce a motion in connection with the administration of the Crimes Act, especially with reference to the Tipperary trials.

Timothy Harrington and John Redmond have gone to Boulogne to meet Mr. Dillon and the other Irish leaders at that place.

$4600 Robbery at Calgary.

CALGARY, Jan. 21.—Burglars entered Jacques & Co.'s jewelery store, Calgary, last night and picked the combination of the safe in which the most valuable jewelery was stored. They took $4600 worth. There is no clue to the thieves.

D. B. Hill Elected Senator.

ALBANY, Jan. 21.—Every member of both houses of the Legislature was present when the joint ballot for United States Senator was taken at noon. The vote as announced gave D. B. Hill 81 votes, W. R. Evarts 79 votes. D. B. Hill was declared elected.

Lady Dunlo's Friend in Jail.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—[illegible], who was connected with the [illegible] divorce case, and who had [illegible] lavish style at the Langham [illegible], has been committed to prison for [illegible] of debt.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

WHY FARMING DOESN'T PAY.

An Able Essay Pointing Out Mistakes in Farming.

The following paper was read at the Farmers' Institute at Keene by Mr. John Lancaster. It was highly commended by Prof. Deane and others and the request was made that it be published in full:—

It is with a great want of confidence in myself that I attempt to approach such a momentous subject as, "why does farming not pay."

When I look around upon the farmers assembled here to discuss farm topics, farmers who have grown old, and comparatively wealthy, by tilling the soil, men who are infinitely more able than I am to do justice to the subject of "why does farming not pay," for it is men with experience, coupled with thought and energy, who are the successful farmers of to-day. Just look about as you drive through the country, and you will see that the successful farmer is the man who makes his occupation his thought and study, and has energy and brains to direct it. But I hope to learn something from others, or I would not have brought this subject before this meeting.

I think most of us have come to believe that farming does not pay, from hearing the cry wherever we go, and that without giving it a thought that it is mostly our own fault that farming does not pay, for where would we be, or what would have become of most of us, if farming had not paid us? If we would only be true to ourselves and our calling, I am sure we can make farming pay, and I know we are of the right kind of stuff to do it if we will only try.

1. The first reason I will give why farming does not pay, and most of our other operations hinge on it, is we try to till to much land. If we would till one third less land each year, and do it better, we would be richer at the year's end; and the third we do not try to till would always grow something, either hay or pasture, and we would be richer still by what this one third would grow. Let us always remember that if our work begins to drive us, our seasons work is almost a failure; and the way elements will seem to fight against us if we once get behind.

2. It is just the same with our hoe crops, we nearly always plant too much, the weeds get the start of us, and at the best our root crop is only half a crop, while our land is dirtier than when we began, while if we had only sown half the breadth we could have had as many bushels with less labor.

3. How many of us consider that one wet day each week is two days lost as far as farming operations are concerned, for after a wet day land is scarcely ever in a fit condition to work next day and in a month amounts to from eight to ten day or about one third of working time in a month.

4. Another reason why farming does not pay is keeping too much stock. We should never keep more stock than we can feed well. Half a dozen well fed and comfortably housed animals are worth more than a dozen half starved miserable things, and if we starve our stock it will starve us and our stock will not pay.

5. Another reason why farming does not pay is, many of us do not get our land properly prepared in the fall for spring seeding. It is the wide awake farmer who has made every acre as nearly ready as he possibly can in the fall for spring seeding, who reaps the bountiful harvest, and it is his neighbor, who has not prepared his land in the fall, who is the man who grumbles and says that farming does not pay.

Another reason why farming does not pay is we often sow the wrong kind of grain. Soils vary so much that we should make it a study which kind of grain will pay best on such a soil, and not sow wheat when we should have sown oats or peas, or oats or peas where we might have grown a good crop of wheat. And in connection with this, I would advise every farmer who has land fit and ready to sow it with fall wheat, to grow it, because we cannot compete with the almost boundless wheat fields of the great West in growing spring wheat, but they cannot grow fall wheat, or very little, on their plains, and as it is almost impossible to do without fall wheat flour. We can grow something which they cannot, and for which we can get a fair price.

Another reason why farming did not pay is, we do not seed enough land to grass each year; if we would seed more and plow oftener we would have better crops, and with far less expense and labor.

Another reason why farming does not pay is, we do not take care of our farm implements and machinery as we should do. How often do we see while driving along our roads a costly binder or other implement housed in a fence corner, and only covered with the clouds, until a more convenient time to remove them to the shelter of the barnyard, there to be trampled on by the stock; or perhaps we leave them in the field until we need them next season. In this way thousands of dollars are annually lost to the farmers of Ontario every year. It is a great pity we cannot see the great loss we suffer in this way, when but a very few dollars would at least put a roof over them; the interest on the loss we annually suffer in this way would in a few years build a substantial building for all our implements, and there would be one reason less why farming does not pay.

Another reason why farming does not pay is, we spend, and very often foolishly, too much. None of us like to be behind our neighbors in our carriages, implements and so on, and I am very sorry to say many of us will rush into debt for a costly article or other luxury, so as to appear the same as our neighbor, who perhaps is better able to afford such a luxury than we are, without considering how we are to pay for it. Brother farmers, when we are tempted to buy by the soft, persuasive tongue of an agent, some article for which he tells us he will give us all the time we want, that he does not want the money down—it is this giving of time in which to pay, that is the slough in which many of our hopes are sunk forever. If we had had to pay the cash we would not or could not have bought. We give a note, it may be for a few months, it may be for a year, but remember the pay day will surely come and perhaps we are in a worse position to pay than on the day we bought and we are not really free men until that note is paid.

Another reason why farming does not pay, and I might give you dozens of reasons, which are all or nearly all traceable to our own want of thought, neglect or foolishness. But I think the greatest reason of all is, we do not try to keep our boys and girls on the farm; we do not try in the right way to interest them as we should do in the work of the farm. We all know, or at least anyone who has had the care of children know, how soon they take a liking to something or other about the farm; it may be a horse, a cow, or gardening, or working among trees; then let us give them a colt, or a calve to raise as their own, or a piece of ground to till and plant, to grow something to sell for themselves, and we will be surprised to see how much attention and energy they will bestow on what is their own, and it will not hinder them from helping us all they are able; it would be the means of keeping our boys and girls at home, in keeping them from getting into bad company, or wanting to go to places of amusement that is not fit for them. Let us assist them all we are able, both with advice and example; let us ask their advice on all things possible; it will teach them to have confidence in us and themselves; let us always remember that they are to be the men and women after we are gone. Let us try this plan, I am sure we will never regret it. In this way we will soon know which of our children will make farmers, and we will send to the professions and trades only such of our children as will never make successful farmers. Let us give our children plenty of good sound reading matter, and not all of one kind, for what will amuse and instruct one, will not always suit the tastes of others. Let us not take from our children what we have once given them, or they will lose confidence in us, and will be sure to leave us as soon as they can. Let us make a home for them that they will never wish to leave, unless it be to make a home for themselves; let us make our homes as attractive as possible for our children, it will be sure to keep them from many of the dangers that beset them while young.

In this way I am sure we would keep our children more on the farm, and rear a class of boys and girls—boys who would not be ashamed to work, boys who would have pluck and energy, and brains to direct it; and girls who would be a blessing to us, girls who would not be ashamed to leave the piano and help their mothers wash dishes and clean the house; and in a few years we will have a class of farmers and farmers' wives who would make farming pay, and by their example would induce others to do the same, and the cry that farming does not pay would disappear from the farmers' dictionary forever.

NORWOOD NEWS.

An Interesting Budget of Village Intelligence.

Correspondence of the Review.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.—The Baptist anniversary services were conducted by the Rev. T. M. Dowling, of Colborne, who lectured on Monday evening.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Rev. Neil McDermid occupied the pulpit of the new Methodist church on Sunday morning and evening.

VILLAGE COUNCIL.—The village council met on Monday evening. Dr. Ford was returned to his old position of High School trustee.

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING.—The Presbyterians hold their annual congregational meeting in the basement of the church on Thursday evening.

LAW OFFICE.—We are pleased to hear that Mr. W. A. T. Campbell, a young barrister of Stirling and a former Peterborough boy, is about to open a law office in Stephenson's block. We wish him success.

PREPARATORY SERVICE.—Rev. E. F. Torrance, M.A., of Peterborough, will conduct the services preparatory to communion in the Presbyterian church on Friday.

THE CHURCH OPENING.—The Methodists are to be congratulated for the number of excellent speakers and lecturers they have secured on the occasion of their new church opening. The last lecture, delivered by the Rev. O. O. Johnstone, of Napanee, was a grand effort. The next who will address a Norwood audience is the Rev. "Move-on" Wilson.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.—The attendance of non-residents at the High School is greater than that of last year and is daily increasing. The townships of Smith and Monaghan have quite a good representation. It is clear that a new High School building is absolutely necessary to meet the demands.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free. At all druggists.

Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $50,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1300 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formerly it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $2.40, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5 60, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $3 00. Send in your orders.

The Business Tax.

This matter is occupying public attention. The pros and cons of it are being discussed. Good men advocate it, and the assumption is that it is a new and reasonably fair way of apportioning the tax on personal property. In the meantime the reflection comes, no matter how the business tax may effect a fellow's pocket, that at Hawley Bros. teas can be had at old prices, at old qualities, both of the best. Go to Hawley Bros. for your teas. d&w

Physical education has been suspended in the New York public schools this year from lack of an appropriation necessary for the purpose.

Charles D. Young, a Denver boy of fifteen has just built the smallest coal-burning locomotive in existence. It is about five feet long and weighs 295 pounds.

A column of army worms invaded Woodbridge, Cal., recently. It was half a mile long and was followed by immense swarms of blackbirds which preyed upon them.

Very few people know that Georgia produces olive oil. A planter in St. Simon's Island has a grove of 160 trees, nearly in full bearing, from which he has made about two hundred gallons of oil besides the fruit picked.

Steel trinkets set off with artificial pearls are likely to be the rage in London next winter. An artificer of steel jewelry has made a hit with coronets, brooches, necklaces and garlands of steel beads mixed with artificial pearls.

A Russian captain has been sent on a mission through the country to collect opinions from generals, divines, wardens of prisons, etc., on a great variety of subjects. It is thought that this phonographic collection is intended for the emperor.

The salt works at Saltair, Utah, cover 900 acres. The vats are fifteen feet above the surface of the lake, and are filled by means of a huge rope driven at a high speed, which lifts the brine in a steady stream at the rate of 15,000 gallons a minute.

The postal savings banks of Japan, which for several years received but little attention from the people, have become a great success. They were established in 1875, but at the end of the year had only $15,250 on deposit. In 1882, however, it amounted to $1,056,000, and in 1889 to $35,450,000.

A town in England, Skiddaw, Cumberland, stands unique as a township of one house and one solitary male adult inhabitant. This man is deprived of his vote because of the fact that there are no overseers to make out a voter's list, and no church or public building on which to publish one, if made.

According to a correspondent of the Topeka Capital, stock raisers have noticed in the last three years an apparent increasing sterility in heifers. It is ascribed to the practice of dehorning. The horns on the cattle must fulfill some useful function or they would not have been provided by nature.

B. S. Kerr, of Almond, N. Y., claims that he was the last union prisoner to leave Andersonville prison. He secured the rebel flag which had so long floated over that prison and the wretchedness and misery its wall inclosed, and has it still in his possession probably one of the most interesting relics of the civil war.

A squad of Tenth Maine Volunteers, while out scouting at South Mountain, came across an old woman hiding in a log cabin. After the usual salutations one of the squad named Spaulding asked her: "Well, old lady, are you a secesh?" "No," was the answer. "Are you union?" "No." "What are you, then?" "A baptist, and always have been!" The scouting party was satisfied.

Secretary Johnson, of the Indiana State board of Charities, reports that there is in one of the institutions of that state a girl who has a face and some of the characteristics of a pig. She realises her affliction and avoids strangers in consequence. This is where she differs from many males, who resemble her in the possession of porky characteristics, which they always intrude on strangers.

Just as Henry George is more discussed here than at home, so Bellamy's "Looking Backward" finds its greatest army of serious students in crowded, discontented England. His notion of a public umbrella has been put into operation in a new street just opened at Brixton, where the sidewalk is sheltered by a glass roof ten feet wide, supported by slim, graceful pillars rising from the curb. Everybody hails this innovation with delight and there is a great clamor to have its use extended throughout London. Certainly nowhere on the habitable globe is such a contrivance more needed than here, where rain is the rule for seven months in the year and where silk hats are insisted upon by the severest decrees of fashion and commercial usage.

Here is the witty answer by which a hero, whom Bismarck was commissioned by the emperor to decorate with the Iron Cross of the first class, discomfitted the chancellor's attempt to chaff him. "I am authorized," said Bismarck to him, "to offer you 100 thalers instead of the cross." "How much is the cross worth?" asked the soldier "Three thalers." "Very well, then, your highness, I'll take the cross and 97 thalers." Bismarck was so suprised and pleased by the ready shrewdness of the reply that he gave the man both the cross and the money.

A good story is told of the late Bishop Ullathorne, of Birmingham; who had absolutely no ear for music, and was continually enforcing on his clergy the use of plain chants. During one of his visitations he came to a certain church where the choir gave a capital rendering of the "Twelfth Mass." After the service the organist was presented to him, and he ventured to hope that the bishop had enjoyed the music. "Not at all," was the startling reply. "Very poor stuff." "But," urged the poor organist, "Dr. Newman was here last Sunday, and he was delighted." "Oh, I dare say," said the bishop, "he fiddles."

They tell a story of Strauss, which he claimed was true. It is to the effect than an old lady admirer of the Strauss music, a Viennese, ordered in her last will and testament that a Strauss waltz should be played at her funeral, for which each member of the orchestra was to receive a florin. The heirs objected at first on religious grounds to carry out this plan, but the provisions of the will were distinct and could not be violated without endangering their own claims; so Strauss and his musicians were engaged and placed in a circle around the grave, and while the coffin was being lowered they played the favorite waltz of their late lamented admirer.

In December an interesting centenary will be celebrated at Pawtucket, R. I., where Samuel Slater, on the 21st December, 1790, virtually began the manufacture of cotton in this country. Slater was a pupil of Arkwright, and, as the English law forbade the communication of models of cotton spinning machinery, Slater, working from memory, reconstructed a machine previously completed in part by Arkwright. He was unable to recall certain important details of the machinery, without which it was useless, and in his dilemma he lay down in his shop and fell asleep. Mr. Slater told his friends that during this sleep he saw the perfected piece of machinery in a dream, and on awakening proceeded at once to supply what was lacking in the machine upon which he was then at work.

Miss Elsie De Wolfe, who, of her own sweet will, snuffed the brief candle of fame that some two years ago was vigorously burning before her shrine as an amateur actress of no small capacity, is making ready for a debut in legitimate drama on the board professional stage, say some knowing ones just home from the other side, where Miss De Wolf has been spending her summer. "What does it mean," says one little lady who wears pince-nez for near-sightedness and manages to see more than ordinary clear eyed folks, "when a young woman buys frocks and frocks, and seems to take only a business-like interest in that hollest of all feminine duties; has interviews with managers; wears a book under her arm; is cut to friends all the early part of her days; vibrates with a sudden and awful rapidity between Paris and London, and wears a mysterious smile when one mentions meeting her in 'the States?' The stage, of course, or the omens by which we reckon are at fault."

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Personal.

Mr. W. S. Leslie, editor of the Endeavor Herald, Toronto, is in town.

A Visit From Grand Officers.

Mr. Thos. Lawless, of Toronto, Grand Secretary of the Independent Order of Good Templars, and Mrs. Scott, of Toronto, Grand Superintendent of Juvenile Templars, were in town yesterday and held a conference with the members of the Order in Peterborough, and representatives from Mount Pleasant and Smith, on juvenile work and other matters connected with the society. In the evening Mr. John E. Wilson, of Galt, Grand Worthy Chief Templar, arrived, and the conference was continued during the evening.

The Man Who Used the Knife.

Michael Murray, the man who in a drunken moment attempted to stab Wm. Browne at the restaurant at the C. P. R. station, was arrested last night. Two informations have been laid against him, one for assault and one for "maliciously wounding with a sharp instrument." Mr. W. A. Stratton, who appeared for the prisoner, asked until to-morrow morning to elect how he would be tried and the enlargement was granted. Browne, the injured man, received a severe cut, some twelve stitches having to be taken in his forehead. Murray went to gaol.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Ladies Auxiliary met yesterday afternoon, Mrs. H. S. Griffin presiding. The attendance was large and representative. Final arrangements were made for the grand promenade concert on Thursday evening next in the new market building. A choice programme of instrumental and vocal music, readings, etc., will be given by the leading talent of our town, assisted by the Y. M. C. A. band. No effort will be spared to make this a most delightful and enjoyable evening for all who attend. Refreshments will be furnished. Proceeds in aid of the furnishing fund of the Association. On behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and the Association, we tender our sincere thanks to Mr. John Armstrong, grocer, for an electric lamp.

Y.P.S.C.E. District Conference.

The local Billeting and Reception Committee are requested to meet and report at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening at 7.30. We trust our citizens will manifest their interest in this work among young people by their attendance at the conference Friday afternoon at 2.30, and evening at 7.30. THE SINGLE TAX APOSTLE

REV. FATHER HUNTINGTON ADDRESSES AN IMMENSE AUDIENCE.

An Eloquent Address Attentively Listened to—England 300 Years Ago, and England To-Day—The Monopolization of Land Condemned—The Rental Value of the Land to be Taken.

Rev. Father Huntington, of New York, the eloquent apostle of the Single Tax doctrine, who was to lecture on "The Religious Phase of the Single Tax Theory," faced an audience in the opera house last night which filled that building to its fullest capacity. The Anglican clergyman's visit was heralded with eulogistic comments on his eloquence and power as an orator, and this, together with a somewhat growing anxiety for enlightenment on the theory which he advocates, drew the immense audience to the opera house. And those who attended were not disappointed, for they heard a master of eloquence and English deliver an address which was in the main logical, enlightening and entrancing to the listeners and a forcible advocacy of the Henry George theory. It occupied over two hours in delivery, and the interest of the audience was not allowed to lag at any point, his arguments being elucidated with illustrations, which, while they put the points clearly, were amusing in themselves and in the clever manner in which they were told. Of necessity the address can only be summarized. Mayor Stevenson presided, and on the platform were Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's; Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., and Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C. The lecturer came here under the auspices of the local branch of the Single Tax Association, and was a great success.

THE ADDRESS.

Rev. Father Huntington, who is a young man in appearance with a frank, open countenance and bright, piercing eyes, was introduced with a few words by the Chairman. In rising he was received with applause. In opening he said it was a source of great satisfaction to him as he went from place to place throughout this Province to find such large and very intelligent audiences wanting to hear him, and he felt that they were placing him under a great obligation. They had not come there to listen to mere vageries or dreams, but came to hear plain facts. He was not going to indulge in any flights of oratory or tickle them with eloquence, and he proceeded to lay before his audience the condition of England and its people 300 years ago under the feudal system, pointing out the relations of the King, barons and serfs or masses. The picture he painted, he said, were taken from no casual or chance investigations, but the painstaken study of a man, whom they knew to reverence and respect—Prof. Thorold Rogers. He dwelt upon the condition of the serfs in the fuedal age and referred to the democratic movement of the fourteenth century when all duties which had been paid in kind were turned into money payments. To the monks of the monasteries he gave the credit for the securing of these rights to the people. Then followed 150 years, a period which he called of English labor, when eight hours was the length of a day's work and the people ate, slept and fared better in the land then they did to-day. Then labor was free and the laborer worked with an ambition to put his ideas in form which was testified in the beautiful carvings and buildings which were still to be seen. To-day labor was enslaved and turned into most ingenious machines to turn out flimsy fabrics and poorest kind of slop work. He contrasted further the condition of the people 300 years ago with the people of to-day, whose condition had been growing worse, and held that the people of the "golden age of Merry England" were better situated than those of to-day. In the cities of England there were 7,000,000 of people poorer to-day than the poorest of 300 years ago and who, he asked, would think of calling East London or the Black county merry England now. Then he came to the United States and said in that country there were 3,000,000 of men travelling the streets looking for work and many thousands in tenement houses whose condition was as deep and hopeless as could be found anywhere. Eloquently he told of the poverty and degradation to be found in cities and said in Toronto he was told there were girls who were working on wages too small to enable them to lead a virtuous life. The same influence which brought misery into the world was increasing and would not stop short in the towns and cities of Canada, but would reach the farthest settlement. Men might ask what is the cause, what law of God has been broken? He would ask them to stand with him on the one

SURE AND SAFE FOUNDATION.

He had spent a good many years looking into social questions and had sought to look at them in the proper light and he had found only one good stand with any hope and that was a belief in the Almighty God of righteousness and love, God, not merely as a world-ruler, but God the Father of mankind. With this belief they could see a purpose in this world about them. God never made a soul without giving it a purpose, a destiny to accomplish. They did not stand alone, but existed in a fellowship. He then condemned two fallacies, as he called them, the doctrine of Rev. Mr. Malthus and the theory of "Social Contract," that man created society. It was society, he held, that created the individual, for every man was born in society. Then he reverted to the fellowship of man, saying God created a purpose for every life and for every nature. This was clearly brought out in both the Old and New Testaments. The first relation was to God, Who made him. If they obeyed God they would accomplish the destiny God had set before them. To do this a nation must be free, and he proceeded to set forth the necessity of labor being free. God's purpose, he pointed out, might be defeated by the enslaving of either labor or land.

AS TO CAPITAL,

he said this was simply stored-up labor, it was labor expended, but the fruits had not been gathered. The result of labor only was capital, for God intended what a man made to be his own. He went on to argue that God had given the land to the people, quoting Scripture to support his claim, and said he would refer them to Nehemiah 5 to see how God dealt with those who gobbled up land. Then the speaker disabused all minds of the idea that he wanted to cut Canada up into small pieces and give each man a piece. He believed in evolution and did not think that the world was the same now as it was 300 years ago, but the principle laid down in the Bible was unchanged, the land was given to the people. Principal Grant had said it was stealing to take property from any man without compensation. He would go further and say it was stealing to take from any man his property with or without compensation. Property was that which one owned, which was peculiar to him, which was self-created, but, he asked, who made the land? Had any clever Yankee started a factory to manufacture land? (Laughter). No, God had made it and the Bible said He had given it to the children of men. He denounced any monopoly of land as robbery and stealing. He said he had not come to tell them how the wrong was to be made right, but he wished them to see the wrong and injustice, to rouse them up and make them uncomfortable so that they would do their share, to give every man an opportunity. He did not want them all to be farmers, but he wanted every man to have an opportunity to get a job, to have access to the land. In reply to Principal Grand he said it was not a question as to whether a laborer was making a little more now than 300 years ago, but was he getting a fair share or proportion of the increased production? He said they wanted no tax on production, they did want a man fined for his improvements. Take off indirect taxation, the tax on income, on improvements. They should take the rental value. When this was done the people would have what God had given them. They would not have the land, but the worth of it, which was the same thing. All would then have an opportunity, and land would not be held, but given to those who wanted to build or till it. In closing, he hoped he had made some uneasy, and said there were a few gentlemen in town that saw the "cat," and they would like others to see the beautiful proportions of the feline monster as well. He solicited questions, promising to answer them. He resumed his seat amid applause.

Mr. D. W. Dumble asked a question in regard to compensation to be given if the holders are required to give the rental value of the land they held. The lecturer replied with an illustration from the slave question in the States holding that the land belonged to God, and there would be no injustice done the present holders if the people were given their rights.

Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Dumble, moved a vote of thanks which was enthusiastically tendered the lecturer. After an acknowledgement the meeting dispersed.

The Dedication To-Night.

The mission building in the South Ward will be dedicated this evening by the Bishop of Toronto at 8 o'clock. The congregation are asked to bring prayer and hymn books with them.

An Omission Supplied.

When giving a list of the buildings erected during the past year a fine dwelling built by Mr. R. Tivey in Ashburnham was overlooked. This building is constructed of red brick, is 28x38 feet and two storeys high, with a two storey kitchen, 16x19, containing nine rooms, including bath room, and with sheds, etc. It is substantially built and well finished throughout. The contractors were—Messrs. T. Begley, brickwork; S. Pollock, plastering, and W. S. Cocks, painting. Cost $1,800.

The Building By-Law.

Two cases for breach of the Fire By-law occupied the attention of the Police Court until noon to-day. Mr. T. Fitzgerald was charged by Inspector Pope with keeping a wood yard within the fire limits. Evidence was taken and argument heard, but as Mr. Fitzgerald intends moving his yard to a lot on Bethune-st., outside the limits, the Magistrate allowed the case to stand for judgment. Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., appeared for the defendant. Mr. Ed. Phelan was charged with a breach of the by-law by having a frame ice house on his premises. Mr. Phelan promised to brick the building and this case was also allowed to stand. Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared for the prosecution in both cases.

Brevities.

—The St. John's new south ward mission building is to be formally opened this evening.

—The Rev. Father Huntington went to Cobourg where he lectures this evening.

—The "Zozo" Company arrived here this morning.

TO HOUSE THE POOR.

The Advantages of a Refuge Home—A Committee's Conclusions.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Since writing you upon the subject of Houses of Refuge, I have received a copy of the report of a Committee of the County Council of the County of Victoria, upon the same subject, presented to the December sitting of that council. The Committee visited a number of Houses of Refuge, and I find that a greater number of Counties have established them than I had supposed. They are in operation in nine Counties, viz.: Waterloo, Elgin, Middlesex, Welland, York, Lincoln, Norfolk, Wellington and Brant. The Committee report favorably upon the working of these institutions and their beneficial effect. They say that when the question of establishing this institution in the County of Elgin was being considered, opinion was much divided, and the proposition carried by a bare majority, but now every member of the Council and the people of the County are unanimous as to the advantage of having the Refuge. The report is a long one, giving the particulars of each place visited, but they have submitted the following conclusions to the County Council:

1. That the destitute poor can be maintained more humanely by grouping them in an institution managed by persons who are qualified for the position, in which inmates can be fed, clothed and sheltered in a condition of comparative comfort.

2. That when a house of refuge is established in a county, the exercise of charity is directed into one channel, in which the expenditure of moneys devoted to that purpose can be effectually regulated and controlled, and the local municipalities are relieved of all charges except for the erection and maintenance of the institution.

3. That the existence of a house of refuge in a county has not the effect of developing a disposition on the part of poor individuals to throw themselves on the community for support, but, on the contrary, the institution acts as a deterrent and corrective to persons of that class, who may by exerting themselves procure means of self support.

4. That the destitute poor can be maintained in such an institution at less expense to the community, taking into account both public grants and private benefactions, for it cannot be claimed that in any of the cases summarized in the statement relating to the cost of charity in the municipalities in this county, the persons are wholly maintained by the moneys paid by the municipalities.

5. That taking the number in this county who are wholly supported by charity and comparing it with the numbers of the same class in other counties in the province, in which houses of refuge are considered indispensable institutions, it would seem that the county council may soon, in justice to the helpless people resident in this county, be constrained to take up the question of their support and make it a practical one.

6. That there are, undoubtedly, among those described as receiving casual or occasional assistance from the municipalities, a number of persons who are in truth also wholly dependent on charity for support.

7. That a farm containing fifty to seventy-five acres of suitable land, the soil of which should be largely sandy loam, but with a considerable portion consisting of the right quality for producing pasturage, would be sufficient for all purposes.

8. That the necessary land could be purchased, a house of refuge erected thereon and the same sufficiently equipped in all respects, to meet the demands upon such an institution in this county for many years to come, for the sum of $20 000 in all. From that amount would fall to be deducted the government grant of $4000, leaving the net cost to the county the sum of $16 000. In all probability five per cent. debentures for the sum of $15,000, with the premium upon them, would realize the net amount required. The interest on $15,000 would be $750, and the sinking fund $450, requiring a total annual levy during the first twenty years of $1,200, which on the basis of the present equalized assessment, would be a little under one-eighth of a mill per annum.

9. That after the first year, in which the farm might not produce as much towards the support of inmates as in future years, the cost to the county for fully maintaining an average of fifty inmates for the whole year would not exceed $2,260, an amount very slightly in excess of the aggregate sum paid by the municipalities alone in 1889 for the partial support of the destitute.

As the County Council of the County will meet shortly, the matter will no doubt be brought under their consideration, and the report and conclusions of the Victoria Committee will be of great value to them in arriving at a proper decision, I have thought it advisable to ask you to give space for these remarks in your valuable journal. Is not this a matter worthy of consideration also by the Town Council?

Yours truly,
January 21, 1891. JOHN BURNHAM

MASONIC.—Seldom has a more enjoyable evening been spent by the craftsmen of Lakefield, than that of last Friday, the 16th inst., when the Grand Master honored Clementi Lodge, No. 313, A.F. & A.M., with a fraternal visit, gave an address, and delivered a lecture on the history of Freemasonry in Canada during the past hundred years. The lecture was a most interesting one, and was listened to with the greatest attention by all present. Quite a number of visitors attended, who were only sorry it was not much longer. The Grand Master was introduced by Very Wor. Bro. John Hull, and Wor. Bro. Sparham Sheldrake, the I.P.M., and was received by the Wor. Master in the usual form, who also read the following address:—

To the Most Worshipful J. Ross Robertson, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A.F. & A.M.:

MOST WORTHY SIR AND BRO.,—On behalf of the officers and members of Clementi Lodge, No. 313, I would extend to you a cordial welcome and true Masonic greeting. I can assure you that it is exceedingly gratifying to meet you in our Lodge room when we remember the high position you hold in the craft.

We hope, indeed we feel assured, that your short visit will be of great benefit to our Lodge, inasmuch as your Masonic career should be an incentive to every Mason to make a daily advancement in Masonic knowledge.

I am sure, Most Wor. Sir, we cannot too highly eulogize your untiring efforts on behalf of the craft, and your deep interest in everything pertaining to its welfare, especially have we to record our high appreciation of your practical illustration of those truly Masonic ornaments, Benevolence and Charity.

In conclusion we trust that your term of office may be the brightest year we have yet to record in the annals of Freemasonry, that this your first visit to Lakefield, may be to yourself and to every member here assembled a pleasing reminiscence, and that your fraternal courtesy to Clementi Lodge may form a precedent for future Grand Masters.

R. Q. DENCH, T. F. LILLICRAP,
Secretary. W. M.

The Grand Master in reply said it was his endeavour to earn the esteem of the brethren by doing what he deemed right as a Grand Master. It can be truly said that his efforts to do so were fully appreciated by all who had the pleasure of hearing him speak in Clementi Lodge.

The Picturesque Zozo To-Night.

The Lewiston, Me., Journal of Nov. 12th says:—"The Zozo company had a packed house at Music Hall, Tuesday evening. It was the pink of propriety, from burlesque and spectacular standpoints. An Irish comedian saves Zozo from being tiresome. He does it effectually. His name on the bill is C. E. Edwards, and he does the German Minstrels style of Irish comedian in a way to be side-splitting. He is a 'Joedandy' in the vernacular of the front seats. He has a make-up face like the anthropoid ape and a facial contortion that carried the house until the rafters shook. Zozo works the old lines of the fairy queen and the Satanic powers, and, as usual, modesty and beauty in tropical attire and pink slippers and attended by Amazonian marcher, gets away with the gentleman in red tights and a three tined pitchfork. It all ends happily, of course, and the comedian marries the prettiest fairy in the lot and Zozo's heart is crushed by a sweet naval officer in equally tropical attire." The music is remarkable and the audience was tickled half to death by the whole show." This company will appear in the Opera House to-night and present the picturesque Zozo. 1d

Central Office.—All right, go ahead.

Dolan the Clothier.—Hello! Well, what is it.

News Gleaner.—Can one of the Review's modest attaches speak with Mr. Dolan himself.

Dolan the Clothier.—Certainly, of course, only too glad.

News Gleaner.—What is the cause of the crowd around your store?

Dolan the Clothier.—Nothing usual. No tragic event and nothing of a comical nature. Biz is quite lively, store is full of customers and the clerks are flying around.

News Gleaner.—I have just heard that there was a great jam around your corner and I did'nt know but I could gain particulars for a local item.

Dolan the Clothier.—You can by making my business the subject. Say that I have stocks of bargains for all classes young and old. Mention the one-price system and also mention how pleased I am to show people goods buy or not buy, and also put in that I exchange goods willingly or refund the money without any persuasive arguments to buy something else, and finally explain the cause of the great crowd in and out of the store by simply and impressively stating that they are after the bargains I am offering in Winter Clothing. To cut it short write up a two-inch notice. 'Twill do me good and your numerous readers will be pleased and entertained. Good day. That's all.

LIBERALS RETAIN HOME RULE.

They Flank It, However, With Other Projected Reforms.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Much discussion is going on among the members of Parliament who are already gathering here as to the position of the Liberal party. On the side of the Liberals it is assumed that the West Hartlepool address embodies the future program of the party. This address retains Home Rule, but also makes conspicuous, as points to be advocated, the abolition of the hereditary principle in the House of Lords, shorter parliaments, one man one vote, and the placing of the liquor traffic under popular control. This program is more moderate than that advocated by many Radicals, but is broad enough to take all the Liberal party.

The Unionists, on the other hand, offer a judicious scheme of Irish county government and the settlement of the agrarian question by making the tenant the owner of the land. On English questions the Unionists are virtually silent, and for this reason the Liberals are sanguine of victory.

What the Separatists Want.

ATHLONE, Jan. 21.—The following placard has been posted on the walls in Athlone, and extensively circulated through the counties of Roscommon and Westmeath:

"Irishmen! True Irishmen! Now you are called to stand to the cause of the independence of your country. The reverse at Kilkenny is a trumpet-call to close up your ranks, and make one last, one great, one supreme fight for the cause of Fatherland. The cause of Ireland is now threatened with a calamity greater than a thousand Coercion Acts. It is a hauling down of the flag of Irish independence on the vague promises of English statesmen. Irish history teems with instances of the disasters of bribery in English promises. Men of Westmeath and Roscommon, then, stand to the tried policy. Stand to the policy of an independent party in parliament, with a united people in Ireland and America behind it. Stand to the leader who has made that policy and led you victoriously to the present hour. Do not be led away by those whose calling makes them set the main issue aside. The main issue is: Are we to have an independent party, and are we to choose our own leader, or are we to have a party merely part of the English Liberals, and a leader dictated to us by the leader of England! That is not Home Rule. We want real Home Rule. We want what Emmett died for and Lord Edward gave his noble life to obtain. We were going forward to victory under a good leader. Why should we desert him? Stand to him and the cause of Ireland forever. God Save Ireland!"

SWINDLED BY WHOLESALE.

Two Pittsburg Absconders Arrested at Hamilton Charged with Stealing $85,000.

HAMILTON, Jan. 21.—Two American defaulters from Bradford, Pa., named Isaac Rich and D. W. Robinson were arrested here this afternoon on a capias issued at the instance of James Werner of Boston, Mass. Rich and Robinson were in company in the wholesale boot and shoe business in Bradford, Pa., and were supposed to be doing a first-class business and considered very trustworthy. They got credit to the extent of about $108,000 from different houses and on Dec. 20 they left for parts unknown, leaving stock to the value of only a few thousand dollars on the premises, the rest having been sold on short notice and the proceeds pocketed by the defaulters. Werner, who is a traveler for Little, Maxwell & Co., Boston, Mass., who are creditors of Rich & Robinson, got on the track of the pair and followed them to this city. Rich and Robinson were both accompanied by their wives when arrested and were on their way to England. The extent of their defalcation is said to be in the neighborhood of $85,000.

She Died in a Laundry for Love.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 21.—"I died for love," was the message written on a scrap of paper found inside the waist of Jennie White's dress when they found her dying of poison in the laundry at the home of J. B. Miller, her employer, in South Main-street, this morning. She was 20 years of age. A young iron-worker had recently discontinued his visits to her, and this fact is supposed to have caused her suicide.

Will Germany Interfere?

LONDON, Jan. 21.—A Berlin despatch states that the German court has been asked to remonstrate with Russia against the harsh treatment of the German settlers in Russian Poland. The settlers were induced by the Russians to come to Poland and take up lands from which the Poles had been expelled. The German colonies have become very prosperous, the Berlin company at Iwabon owning a railway. Now that the relations of Germany and Russia are changed, Russia has discovered that the Germans are dangerous and threatens to drive them out of the empire.

Murder Suspected.

RAT PORTAGE, Jan. 21.—Stipendiary Magistrate Lyon has returned home from Rainy River, where he has been holding an inquest on the body of Blake Carruthers, formerly of St. Marys, who was recently found shot in the head. The jury disagreed, the evidence being conflicting. There are suspicions of foul play, several circumstances coming out which negatives the supposition of suicide.

Stole a Horse.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 21.—Last evening Alfred LaBagne, a Frenchman, aged 22, was arrested here, charged with stealing a horse and Portland cutter, the property of Mr. Almas of Hagersville.

An Earldom for a Dakota Farmer.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Right Honorable the Earl of Caithness, whose death was announced yesterday, was formerly a banker and chartered accountant of Aberdeen, and established his claim to the Earldom last year. His son, Lord Berriedale, who is living at Berriedale Farm, Dakota, succeeds to the title.

ADVERTISING MRS. POTTER.

A Sailor Shoots Himself on the Stage in Front of Mrs. Potter.

SYDNEY, Jan. 21.—A sensational scene was witnessed during a performance by Mrs. Potter and Kyrle Bellew in "Hero and Leander." The curtain had fallen on the first act, and Mrs. Potter and Bellew were bowing in front of it in response to a recall.

At this moment John Payne, a seaman of H.M.S. Orlando, sprang on the stage, drew a revolver and shot himself in the abdomen. He fell heavily forward, breaking one of the electric footlights. The wildest excitement prevailed. Women screamed and Mrs. Potter fainted.

The wounded man was taken behind the scenes and Mr. Bellew addressed the audience with assuring words.

Payne was taken to the hospital, where he died soon afterward. The performance was continued. Mrs. Potter was much upset by the event, but struggled bravely through to the end.

Voices Across the Sea.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Arrangements are now completed for the opening early in March of telephonic communication between this city and London. It is proposed by the managers to charge ten francs for a conversation limited to three minutes. Upon the occasion of the opening of the line it is proposed that Queen Victoria and President Carnot shall be the first persons to use the wire. The words spoken by them will be collected by phonographs.

Fire in a Noted Little Isle.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—The Town Hall and Tribunal at Saint Martin-de-Re, on the island of Re, were burned to-day.

The island of Re is opposite La Rochelle and about 22 kilometres distant. Saint Martin-de-Re has a population of about 2472 souls and possesses a church which dates from the twelfth century, together with fortifications erected by Vauban. It is an historic little island and has ever figured the fortunes of war of La Rochelle.

Our Ain Wee Way.

Some folk are unco proud an' stiff, an' dignified an' grand',
They look as if they thocht themsel's the cheeny o' the lan',
Pair folk, of course, are only delf, or pig, or common clay.
But we're maybe jist as happy in our ain wee way.

Our ain wee way, our ain wee way;
We're maybe jist as happy in our ain wee way.

They may hae a' that wealth can gie, an' treasures rich an' rare,
An' jist the very finest aye, tae eat an' drink an' wear;
But though they get the cream o' life, while we get but the whey,
We're maybe jist as happy in our ain wee way.

Our ain wee way, etc.

To live within the castle wa's is nice enough, nae doubt,
But the strongest wa' that e'er was built 'll no keep sorrow out;
An e'en the King himsel' may lack some joys that we have aye,
So we'er maybe jist as happy in our ain wee way.

Our ain wee way, etc.

I daursay some that keep a coach, an' never walk a bit,
Are often jist as weary as them that gang on fit;
So though our burden's heavy an' the path o' life is stey,
We're maybe jist as happy in our ain wee way.

Our ain wee way, etc.

THE ADJUSTABLE MAN.

His Clothes Never Fitted Him, but They Fitted His Pal at Misfit Prices.

"Yes," said a fashionable tailor in Broadway, "there are very many ways in which men in my business are cheated out of their money. One of the cleverest tricks I ever heard of in this line was so wonderful and so apart from the usual way in which sharpers get ahead of us that it is well worth while to describe it.

"Some years ago a good looking and well dressed man, who gave his name as Thomas Jenkins and had references with him which we didn't think it worth while to investigate, since the goods were to be cash on delivery, came to my store, which was then in Sixth avenue, and got measured for a full suit of clothes that was to cost him $45. He was just six feet tall and not at all peculiarly shaped in any way. He was very precise in giving directions as to how the suit was to be built up and it was to be ready for him on the following Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Jenkins appeared at the appointed time and went into one of the little dressing rooms to try the suit on. When he came out into the store again, he was in a terrible rage, for the clothes didn't fit him, and looked as though they had been made for a man three inches shorter than he and with a chest and stomach about half as big again as Mr. Jenkins'. The man who had taken his measure was called up from down stairs, and you never saw so surprised a look on anybody's face as there was on his when he came to examine his work. The book was consulted, and there, sure enough, under Mr. Jenkins' name was the record of his proportions as the man had taken it down but, bless your soul, the proportions were not at all those of Mr. Jenkins as he stood before us in the flesh. It was the most singular case of misfit I ever saw, and, of course, I could not blame my customer either for being angry or refusing to take the clothes. The upshot was that Jenkins went off in a powerful huff, and the man who had taken his measure was discharged. The suit was set aside, of course.

"A few days after this another man came to the store and wanted to have a suit made for him of just such materials as Jenkins had ordered, and when I saw him and sized him up I knew that the Jenkins suit would fit him to a T, and so I suggested that he should try it on. He did so, and it fitted him 'shoost like de paper on de wall.' He got the clothes for $30, and I was glad to get rid of them.

"Three or four weeks after this I was talking with another tailor who did business over in Eighth avenue, and he told me of a singular case of misfitting that he had recently had at his store, although he took the measure himself and was an expert at the art. A man had called at the store and ordered a suit. He was short and fat, but when he came for the clothes and tried them on they seemed to have been made for some other chap, who was rather tall and had no paunch at all to speak of. Of course he refused to take the goods, but luckily, on the next day a man called whom he sized up, just as I had sized up my customer, and found that he probably would go into the misfit suit as slick as a sausage. This turned out to be the fact, and the man got the clothes for less than half the original price. It isn't often that two such coincidences occur within a few days of each other, and we laughed over the matter as a sartorial curiosity.

"Within the next two or three months I heard of several similar cases of awful misfit, and they set me to thinking. A man with a hump half as big as a bushel basket had given an order to a Third avenue friend of mine, and when he came to try it on the hump had all gone down, and he insisted that he never had any hump, at all, and so refused to take the cloths. We all seemed to be in luck, both good and bad, about that time, for within a week a hunchback came into my friend's store, and finding that the misfit suited him exactly in every particular he paid for it at greatly reduced rates and disappeared.

"To make a long story short, I will tell you just how the trouble came about. At one of the shows in the Bowery there was a contortionist, who had the singular faculty of being able to tie himself up in knots bring his eyebrows down under his chin and then waft them back to the top of his head, swell out his lungs and chest in a fearful manner, pull one of his legs up into his abdomen, as it seemed, till he looked like a meditative goose standing on the other leg, make one arm shorter than the other, and, in short, do just about as he pleased with his body. Well, this chap had just hired himself out to twenty or thirty more or less deformed men among his vast acquaintance, taken their measure, and then, built up on the exact lines of their abominable make-up, he had gone round to various tailors and got measured for them. Of course, the clothes didn't fit him and did fit them. The whole affair was so supremely ridiculous that nothing was ever done about it. This is the cutest piece of swindling tailors I ever heard of, or anybody else, for that matter."—New York Sun.

How Johnny Won the Prize.

The village chestnut stands."

Canadians are Becoming Wiser.

As a rule the people of Canada think before they act; this course is certainly commendable. We are aware of the fact that, owing to circumstances in the past, our people have been forced to act cautiously and with judgment. This is apparent and easily seen now-a-days in the purchase of remedies for the various ailments common to all. The many deceptions and frauds, worthless preparations and dangerous mixtures for the cure of all diseases, have appeared of late and in the past, causing extra suffering and aggravating disease, that men and women now require proof positive of their value before handling any of them. Amidst the scores of preparations in our land to-day, Paine's Celery Compound is the only one that has thoroughly won the confidence of all classes, and is the only remedy that physicians can truly recommend for all nervous troubles, sleeplessness, loss of strength, dyspepsia and impaired digestive vigor.

Paine's Celery Compound guarantees renewed strength, vigor, sound rest and great vitality. It gives a glow of health to the pale cheek and brightness to the dull eye, as well as a cheerful and happy state of mind. No other remedy can do this. Try it reader, and you will soon be convinced of its great merits.

The buildings consist of a modern and well built solid brick two story house 40x42 with two-story kitchen attached. The house contains nine rooms besides bathroom, linen closets, pantries, etc., and is heated by a wood hot air furnace with registers in every room. There are also coal grates and mantles in each room. There is a cellar under the whole house and a separate one under the kitchen.

There is also a summer kitchen and wood shed leading into a brick driving shed and stable, with room for two horses, harness room, etc. A cow house, hen house, barn and small green house.

The house is well supplied with soft water from two large cisterns and by splendid spring water from a never failing spring which is carried into the house, and also to the grounds for watering purposes.

Ten acres of the land are under cultivation and well stocked with apple and pear trees, grapes, small fruits, rhubarb and asparagus, etc., etc. There is an orchard of 300 apple and pear trees and 1½ acres of grapes in full bearing and best varieties. The remaining six acres are in lawn and park about the house.

The house is built on high ground and commands a fine view. The land itself slopes to the east and south and can be advantageously sub-divided into building lots, and as it lies just west of the property on which the Edison Co. are building, will at once come into the market.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

WILL THERE BE AN APPEAL TO THE COUNTRY SHORTLY?

Renewal of the Rumors that the House Will be Dissolved Before Another Session—Considerable Excitement at Ottawa—The Demand for Voters' Lists.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—It is reported to-day that Sir John has definitely decided to dissolve Parliament and appeal to the country the last week in February. Several M.P.'s who are here complain that they are still in ignorance of Sir John's intentions. At all events the election talk has resulted in a demand for voters' lists, which are being forwarded by every mail.

The rumors about dissolution went down. To-day the report was in circulation in more than one department to look out for a dissolution notice in next Saturday's Official Gazette. Inquiries pushed in other quarters failed to elicit confirmation, and more than one high official expressed confidence in the previous announcement that there would be no dissolution until after the census and that parliament would meet about the second week of March. The fact that a rush for voters' lists from the various parts of the country has of late developed and that members from distant constituencies have received hints not to be out of easy reach, may have had something to do with encouraging the rumors that a dissolution is at hand.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

Negotiations With the New York Central Authorities Now in Progress.

HAMILTON, Jan. 22.—Last evening a railway man, who is behind the scenes in railway affairs in Canada, said some rather important things to The Spectator on condition that, if they were printed, his name would not be revealed. This is the substance of what he said: "You may depend upon what I am going to tell you as being true, for I speak from personal knowledge and not from hearsay. The prospects of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company are brighter now than they have been at any time since the city passed that bonus bylaw. When the promoters of this road launched into the enterprise they endeavored to come to a definite agreement with Mr. Ledyard of the Michigan Central. In this they failed. They went from Mr. Ledyard to the New York Central authorities and tried to open negotiations with them. Again they failed. The Central people were not inclined just then to dabble in any new schemes. In the meantime the city bylaw was passed. But the projectors were not able to go on with construction simply because they had not succeeded in interesting any of the great railway corporations in the scheme. All the time since then, while they have been making a bluff at "preparing for active construction" here in order to save the bylaw, they have been working hard and pluckily to induce the New York railway magnates to back their enterprise. Well, after months and months of unsuccessful effort, they have at last succeeded, in a measure. The measure of their success, so far is that they have induced the New York Central authorities to consider their proposals and negotiate with them, and the negotiations are now in progress. The Central people want a line from the Niagara River to Toronto, and the T., H. and B. company's operations have to some extent cleared the way for such a line. If the negotiations now going on prove to be successful, the T., H. and B. will be built. It will connect with the Canada Southern at a point near the Niagara River, and be built through Hamilton to Toronto. The line between Hamilton and Brantford will probably not be built."

AN UNGRATEFUL THIEF.

A Young Englishman Who is Badly Wanted for Forgery and Housebreaking.

SHELBURNE, Jan. 22.—Joseph Costigan, a young Englishman who came from Dr Barnardo's home and who has for some time past been working for Amos Davison a farmer living near here, ransacked his employer's house yesterday of some loose silver a silver watch, a revolver and a note for $155. James Davison's house was also entered. Costigan then came to Shelburne and endorsing Mr. Davison's name on the note presented it at Halstead's Bank, he Halstead being suspicious advanced Costigan $10 until he could make further investigation. Warrants have been issued for Costigan's arrest.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

PARNELL OUTGENERAL'S JUSTIN MC CARTHY.

By Being First to Move the Enquiry Into the Operation of the Crimes Act—Parnell Also Says That He Intends to Continue to Lead the Party.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Parliament reassembled to-day with a scanty attendance. Mr Parnell gave notice he would call attention to-morrow to the administration of the Crimes Act, and would offer a resolution asking the Government to facilitate discussion on the subject.

Justin McCarthy and Thomas Sexton introduced Sir John Pope Hennessy, the new Nationalist member for North Kilkenny. Sir John was greeted with long and loud Liberal and anti-Parnell cheers. The Parnellites made no counter demonstration.

Parliament Will Not Dissolve.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Lord Salisbury writes that an early dissolution of parliament is not probable.

T. P. Gill's Influence With O'Brien Used in Favor of the Leader.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—It is now stated that Thomas Patrick Gill, M.P. for Louth, one of O'Brien's companions on his American tour is really in sympathy with Parnell, and that much of the leniency shown by the editor of United Ireland to the latter is due to Gill's influence. Timothy Healy was recently serenaded at Roscrea, Tipperary, by his anti-Parnellite friends.

This was so repugnant to the feelings of Parnell's followers in that town that last night they gathered in force, and breaking into the room where the musical instruments were kept smashed them so effectually scattering the fragments through the streets that the unfortunate bandsmen will be unable to play for either faction until they are replaced.

The campaign tenants in Ireland give as their reason for settling with the landlords that the league had failed to sustain them, financially, as promised.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Mr. Parnell to-day declared his intention to assert his authority as leader of the Nationalist party and to engage actively in work during the present session of Parliament. It is claimed the motion in regard to the administration of the Crimes Act made by Mr. Parnell at to-day's session of the house cuts the ground from under Mr. McCarthy's feet as obtaining precedence of McCarthy's motion concerning the trial of William O'Brien.

The Hartlepool Election.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—It is impossible to exaggerate the joy and enthusiasm of the Gladstonians over the victory of their candidate, Mr. Furness, yesterday, over the Liberal Unionist candidate at Hartlepool. Coming just before the reassembling of Parliament and just after the Irish controversies, the victory has cheered Gladstone's followers to an immense degree. Mr. Gladstone has telegraphed the following reply to a correspondent at Hartlepool who wired his congratulations:

"The election is from the time and circumstances by far the most important since 1886. The limits of a telegram preclude giving my full meaning, but all must see that the simple figures of the poll reduce to dust and ashes the declarations of Lord Salisbury, Sir Henry James, Mr. Goschen and the Duke of Westminster upon what they call recent events."

The Duke of Bedford's Suicide.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The Duke of Bedford had been suffering from extreme and acute congestion of the lungs, and this had so weighed upon and depressed him as to cause insanity and to shoot himself as reported the other day. Coroner Troutbeck held an inquest privately last Friday morning before the remains of the dead Duke were taken to the crematory. The bullet had gone through the head, penetrating the brain, and death had been instantaneous. The jury returned a verdict of "suicide while laboring under temporary insanity." This verdict, however, was kept secret, as were all details concerning the Duke's death. The remains were cremated Friday, and the urn containing the ashes was buried Saturday. Only the most intimate friends of the family were informed of the cause of death, and the truth has only now become public through gossip of members of the coroner's jury.

A Remarkable Strike.

CORK, Jan. 22.—The laborers employed upon the works at Hare Island and Skibbereen, commenced by the Government for the relief of the distress existing among the poor classes of those neighborhoods, have struck for an increase of wages.

It is said this will probably cause the Government to stop the work on the ground that as the works are started for a charitable object alone, and as the people employed cannot afford to work for the wages the Government is paying, the distress cannot be so great as represented.

The Knife to Inject the Lymph.

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—At the Charity Hospital to-day Prof. Sonneburg exhibited a consumptive patient whom the doctors had cut open in order that Koch lymph might be injected in the cavity in a diseased lung. The Professor said the patient, who was in an advanced stage of the disease, had been making rapid progress toward recovery since the operation was performed. This is the first case in which a patient has been operated upon with the knife for the purpose of injecting the lymph.

Through Dining Cars to Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—It is reported the C.P.R. intend after April to run through dining cars between Montreal and Winnipeg and between Winnipeg and the mountains.

The Chicago & Erie Strike.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Jan. 22.—The strike situation on the Chicago & Erie road is unchanged. No trains are running on the road between Marion and Chicago.

Blinded by the Fire.

PORT HOPE, Jan. 22.—Mr. Robert Sharpe, 5th con. of Clarke, whose house was burned on Sunday last, and whose child was incinerated in the flames, lost his eyesight through contact with the flames.

Died While Sitting Down.

QUEBEC, Jan. 22.—Daniel Harkin, who lived separated from his wife, was visiting a retired detective named Daniel McCarthy and was in the act of sitting down at the table when he dropped dead. Deceased was 67 years old.

Inspecting the Tunnel.

SARNIA, Jan. 22.—Senator Howlan, the Hon. Neil McLeod, premier, and the Hon. Donald Ferguson, Provincial Secretary, all of Prince Edward Island, paid our town a visit, the object of their distant pilgrimage being to see the St. Clair Tunnel. The Prince Edward Islanders have a big tunnel project of their own on hand—from the Island to the mainland, a distance of some 6½ miles. After carefully examining St. Clair Tunnel the Islanders returned to their home greatly encouraged and strengthened in their faith in the practicability of their own submarine tunnel.

MARSHALLED OUT ON PARADE.

Sergeant Major Rahilly Has Answered His Last Bugle Call.

HALIFAX, Jan. 22.—Battery Sergeant Major Rahilly of the Royal Artillery, who was stationed at the citadel, dropped dead in the square to-day while on parade. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause. He was on duty up to the minute of his death. Deceased was about 38 years of age and had not been a year here, having come last March from Bermuda. He was unmarried.

TWINS ON A TRAIN.

A Poor Abandoned French Woman in a Sad Plight.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—Some months ago a man named Joseph Trudeau left his home in Chicoutimi to seek work in Montreal, promising his young wife, whom he left behind, that she should be sent for as soon as he met with his first success in this city. Hearing nothing whatever from the husband, the abandoned wife started in search of him, but her funds giving out at Quebec Madame Trudeau's passage was paid to Montreal by the chief of police in the former city. While on the train to Montreal this morning the poor woman gave birth to a child and shortly after the mother's arrival here another little stranger came into the world. The woman and her two babies were sent to the Grey Nuns, while charitable citizens are on the lookout for the husband of the mother.

A SHOCKING CASE.

Inhumanly Dragged to Jail But to Die Next Day.

STRATFORD, Jan. 22.—The death occurred in the County Jail here of James Kelly, aged 20, who had been admitted the day previous on a charge of insanity. From what could be learned this lad had come originally from England, and under the protection of the Fegan Boys' Distributing Home of Toronto had for a time served near Palmerston, finally obtaining employment with a farmer in the Gore of Downie. About two weeks ago he fell sick, and as a final refuge the friendly portals of the jail stood open for him, as it has stood for many other unfortunates in the past, and he was consequently driven there. As usual, an inquest was held on the remains and a verdict rendered that the cause of death was inflammation of the bowels.

POISONED BY THE OLD PUMP.

Verdigris from its Brass Faucet Kills a Little Girl.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Verdigris in the brass faucet of a pump from which little 7-year-old Emma Wilson drank at the tenement, No. 31 St. Mark's-place, caused the child's poisoning and death. She had been playing tag in the tenement yard on Thursday, become thirsty, put her little mouth to the faucet and did what many of the other children had frequently done before—sucked a drink from the old pump while another child agitated its handle—only she must have sucked a little harder, for when she ran upstairs to her mother shortly afterward there was a green stain on her cheek, which the whole household remembered after little Emma had died with all the symptoms of poisoning.

Horrible Fate of a Philadelphia Workman.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—A horrible accident occurred at the Bristol Rolling Mills at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, when the body of Charles Carpenter, an employe of the mills, was pierced through by a red hot iron bar. Carpenter was stationed at the end of the series of rolls to catch the iron as it comes out and start it through the mills again. When the fatal bar appeared Carpenter reached forward with his tongs to catch it; but just then, owing to a peculiar condition of the iron, the bar suddenly bent aside and came rapidly forward. So great was its speed that Carpenter saw at once the futility of attempting to catch it, quickly turned to go away, but too late, for no sooner had he turned than the semi-molten bar struck him in the small of the back, passing entirely through the body. His companions turned from the blood-curdling sight, and the victim fell in agony to the floor. Friends went to him and succeeded in withdrawing the iron. With blood almost pouring from the wound the dying man was taken to the office of Dr. E. J. Groom, who attended to the patient, but pronounced his case fatal.

Honoring a King's Remains.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—The last honors were paid to the late King Kalakaua this afternoon. The hearse was escorted by the Golden Gate Commandery followed by the assemblage and over 100,000 spectators to the foot of Market-street. The casket was placed aboard the steamer Madrona and received by Admiral Brown. The Madrona then steamed out to the United States cruiser Charleston and the casket was transferred and placed under a canopy of American and Hawaiian flags. At 5 o'clock the Charleston passed through the Golden Gate and proceeded to sea.

Playing With Matches.

HAMILTON, Jan. 22.—About 11 o'clock this morning a fire originated in a closet underneath a stairway in the residence of Mr. Joseph Smith, No. 213 Main-street east. The fire started through some of the children playing with matches and accidentally setting a quantity of clothing in a blaze. Considerable damage was done.

Dave Ross, the driver, had his left eye and face badly cut and bruised. W. James, one of the men, had his hands badly bruised by being thrown from the hose cart en route.

His Nose Bitten Off by a Horse.

HAMILTON, Jan. 22.—Edward Knight of Dakota, brother-in-law of Mr. L. Morris, went out to harness up a horse with the intention of going out for a drive, and as he was standing at the side of the animal buckling a strap the brute suddenly turned his head and bit Mr. Knight in the face. Mr. Knight's nose was as completely bitten off as if it had been cut by a razor, and a great portion of the right cheek was torn away.

The Milton Murderer Sentenced.

MILTON, Jan. 22.—In the case of Joseph H. Thomas, formerly of this city, charged with the murder of Michael Downey on Dec. 29, at Ontonagon, Mich., the jury returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. Thomas has been sentenced to the state prison for 25 years. Thomas was, all through the trial, the coolest man in the court room, not showing the least sign of remorse or fear. His demeanor throughout marks him as a hardened criminal for his years, being but 19.

Frozen to Death.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—The 14-year old son of Albert Caron, Moose Jaw, wandered away from home eight days ago and was found near Pense to-day frozen to death.

A Lindsay Firm Assigns.

LINDSAY, Jan. 22.—R. Smythe & Sons, drygoods merchants here, have assigned. Their embarrassment, it is assumed, was caused by the McLachlan failure in Montreal. R. Smythe, the senior member of the firm, presided over the town as mayor for last year.

THE STORM'S DEATH LIST

WHOLE AFRICAN TRIBES PERISH FROM EXPOSURE.

Death of a Sister of the Late Emperor William—Particulars of the Suicide of the Duke of Bedford—Russia has her First Strike, 1000 Miners Going Out.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Shocking accounts of the misery caused by the cold and snow have been received from the southern provinces of Spain. The fearful snowstorm did intense cold found the people entirely unprepared for any such visitation and there is no doubt that many have perished who did not have time to reach shelter.

Two shepherds who were out with their flocks in the hills near Caceres and Andalusia had barely time to take refuge in a cave when the storm became threatening. They were already nearly frozen with cold when they reached the cave. Here they remained without food or other covering than their scanty attire for three days, until rescued yesterday by a searching party. One died as soon as he was brought out to the air. The other may survive although it is doubtful.

At Medina, Sidonia, a hungry wolf chased a child in the very heart of the village and was only driven away when a number of people rushed to the rescue.

Packs of wolves are roaming through the more populated districts of Andalusia and are almost as familiar as dogs, but seldom daring to attack human beings.

From Africa even more appalling stories are received and exaggerated reports are current that whole tribes have perished in Algeria. It is not believed, however, that any such wholesale disasters have occurred, although until the more remote regions of Algeria have been heard from much anxiety will be felt.

The Situation in France.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—A renewal of the frost is threatened. Fifty thousand persons are estimated to have been deprived of employment by the severe weather, and it is considered that the loss to France because of the stoppage of wages and trade and the blighting of crops will reach 50,000,000 francs.

The government has donated the dead wood in the state forests to the use of the poor. The infirmaries and hospitals of France are sorely taxed for those who need either relief or medical care.

The Figaro appeals to the churches to keep their doors open all night and do whatever else may be necessary to turn them into night shelters during the present cold weather.

American Pork in Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—In the Reichstag to-day Herr Barth of the Deutsche Freisinige party moved to repeal the prohibition of American pork and bacon imports. Dr. Von Boetticher, secretary of the Imperial Home Office, said the considerations which had determined the Government to prohibit importation of American pork and bacon turned merely on the fact that American pork was injurious to health. Despite the increased stringency of measures taken in America to suppress the trade in bad hog products there was still no guarantee that Germany would be sufficiently protected from danger of trichinosis. Seven per cent. of the American pigs were affected with the disease, while only six per cent. of German pigs were affected. Many Americans considered the existing measures for the control of hog importations inadequate. The economic importance of the prohibition was exaggerated. Only three per cent. of the pigs consumed in Germany were of American origin. The decree against the importations must be enforced until American pork is pronounced clean. The debate was adjourned.

The Lymph Goes Wrong.

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Prof. Grasset reports the case of a man whose death he asserts was due to the treatment by the Koch method. The patient, Prof. Grasset says, was suffering from a tuberculosis affection, but the disease was not in an advanced stage, and in the opinion of Prof. Grasset the man would doubtless have lived for a long time if he had not been inoculated with the Koch lymph.

Scotch Strike Collapse.

GLASGOW, Jan. 22.—Thirty strikers have returned to work on the lines of the North British Railway Company and the collapse of the strike is believed to be imminent. The Caledonian company announces that no vacancies remain on that system and that it will be impossible to re-employ the 1200 old hands now out. The Southwestern Railway Company officials claim to be working with a full force.

Jews to be Jailed as Vags.

MOSCOW, Jan. 22.—The police here have been ordered to arrest as vagabonds all Jews entering the city without permits and to expel those not possessing passports. The police attribute the order to the Czar's spite at the recent meeting at the Mansion House at London.

The Colliery Disaster.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 22.—Details of the colliery explosion yesterday near Charkow show the disaster occurred in a pit at Jugovka depot. Forty miners were killed outright, 80 were taken out unconscious and many will die.

Russia's First Strike.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 22.—Two thousand miners at Sosnovice have gone out on strike. This is the first strike that has occurred in Russia.

The workmen in the Imperial dockyard here have struck for an advance of wages.

The Queen Regent Ill.

MADRID, Jan. 22.—The Regent Queen Christina is seriously ill with catarrhal fever. For this reason the usual state council was not held to-day, and the state reception which was to have taken place to-morrow is postponed.

Milton Postoffice Robbed.

MILTON, Jan. 21.—Burglars broke into the postoffice here and the store of Mr. Isaac Cartmer, grocer. The outside and inner doors of the postoffice were forced open, but the thieves got nothing there. At Cartmer's they bored a hole through the outside of the door. Having put powder and fuse through the hole they attempted to blow the door open, but though their blast went off the door remained shut, and they took their departure, leaving behind them three chisels and a brace, which were found to belong to Mr. William McKenzie, carriage builder, whose shop had been broken into for the tools.

Death Followed the Dance.

QUEBEC, Jan. 22.—A young lady of the Island of Orleans attended a dance lately. On returning home she swooned and died in a short time. She was subject to fits of epilepsy.

$15,000 Fire.

GLENBORO, Man., Jan. 22.—Livingston's general store, Burr's Hotel and large feed stable, Burr's dwelling house and Maxwell's implement warehouse were burned this morning. Total loss about $15,000, insured $14,000. The origin of the fire so far is unknown.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free. Your Blood

SEED TESTING.

Farmers May Have the Seed Tested at the Central Experimental Farm.

DEAR SIR,—The past season has in many localities been unfavourable for the perfect maturing of grain. In some districts frost has touched it, in others it has been injured by rain during harvest, or from being stacked before fully dry thus causing it to sprout or heat, while in other localities some varieties have been shrivelled and partly blighted by hot drying winds. Under each and all of these conditions cereals are apt to lose a portion of their vitality, or to have it so weakened as to produce, when sown, a puny growth. Seed grain, to bring the best results, should have its germinating power unimpaired, so that when placed in the soil the young plants may make a prompt and vigorous start. The character of the crop is much influenced by the quality of the seed and for this reason it is important that farmers should ascertain whether the grain they are holding for seed possesses the necessary vitality. Provision has been made by the Government whereby this can be done without cost to the individual, and any farmer in the Dominion who may have any varieties which he desires to have tested, may obtain the information he seeks by forwarding to the Central Experimental Farm, at Ottawa, samples of such grain or other agricultural seeds. A special testing house has been built for this work which affords ample capacity. Samples may be sent free through the mail, an ounce or two is sufficient for the purpose, and about two weeks are required to complete a test. Since November, when the season opened for this work, the vitality of more than eleven hundred samples has been ascertained, and it is hoped that all those who desire to avail themselves of the provision offered will send in their samples early, so that there may be time to complete the work and supply the needed information before seeding begins.

A Well Known Government Official in Ontario Gives His Experience.

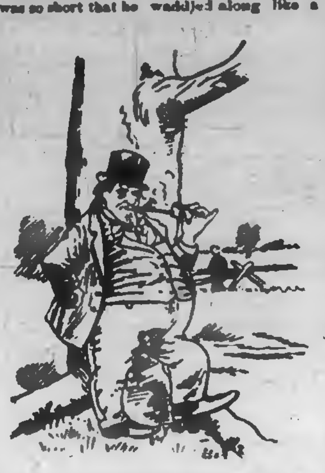
A popular and well known Government Official, whose office is by no means a sinecure, was two years ago afflicted with nervousness, which resulted in partial paralysis of the right hand and part of the arm. The hand and fingers had lost all sense of feeling, and the gentleman was unable to continue his office work, as it was impossible for him to write. The best medical aid was consulted without any good results. He was advised to consult a specialist in New York, and while this move was being considered, he was strongly recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound, which he did, instead of taking the trip to New York. After using three bottles he found a feeling of life returning to the hand which was numb before. He continued the use of the Compound, and to-day this official rejoices that he is made whole again. All feelings of nervousness are banished, and the hand and arm are restored to a perfect and natural condition. This is another convincing proof of the great value and efficacy of Paine's Celery Compound as a remedy for all nervous troubles, as well as for paralysis.

AN OBDURATE PARENT.

OPIE READ'S STORY OF A PERSISTENT SUITOR.

The Father was Obdurate, and Held Out Against the Would-be Son-in Law, But in an Original Manner All Opposition was at Last Overcome.

Col. Rithers was fat but very game. I don't know why flesh should be taken into consideration when we speak of physical courage, unless it is because we always regard a game man as a sort of hero and are quite unable, in our fancy, to clothe a hero in a superabundance of flesh. Rithers may not have been an ideal hero, but he was game. It is said that he once slapped Ben Thompson's jaws while that great hero of the shooters was trying to break up a show in Texas, and a man in whose word I have absolute faith told me that the colonel once pulled a Bowie's ears. Yet the old fellow was fat, and still worse was so short that he waddled along like a duck. He had but one pride, a lovely daughter. He looked upon her with the deep love of a devoted father and with the admiring eye of an artist. Indeed, he was something of an artist, having once painted a picture of a Tennessee river sunset, but, unfortunately, had to shoot a man who innocently asked if it did not represent a brush pile on fire.



THE JUDGE STOOD UNDER A TREE.

Whenever Lucie Rithers went into society the old man went with her. He had compelled her to promise that she would never be married, and he had faith in her avowal; still he did not like to see her thrown in the way of temptation. Once a handsome commercial traveler took brazen occasion to smile at her, but he left the community the next day, carrying with him a note which read something like this: "I should like to meet you early tomorrow morning, with a view of shooting an ordinary size hole through your head. I should have obliged myself by doing so today, but this being Sunday, and our law imposing a fine for firing a gun on the Sabbath, I refrained. Do not let any business engagement prevent our meeting, for I assure you that I will detain you but a few moments."

One bright morning, while a chipmunk was sitting on a stump, rhythmically nodding his head to the song of a cat bird, the colonel stood under a tree, communing with nature, and wondering how he was going to get the steers out of the corn field. He had just decided to waddle into the field and curse them out, when a young man rode up to the fence, dismounted gracefully and approached.

"Is this Col. Rithers?" the young man asked.

"Yes, sah. What can I do for you?"

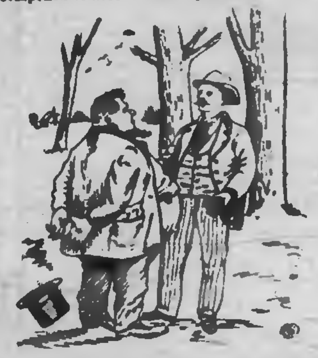
The young fellow, without replying, took out two pistols, and, as he politely extended their handles toward the colonel said;

"Take your choice."

"What for?" the colonel asked.

"I haven't the time nor the inclination to explain. Take one and step off about 30 steps."

"Young man," said the colonel, "I am not acquainted with you, but I must say that I like your methods, and therefore am compelled to accommodate you."



HE PRODUCED TWO PISTOLS—"BUT I DON'T KNOW YOU."

The colonel measured off 30 steps, and, at a signal mutually agreed upon, both men fired. The colonel caught a projectile in the fleshy part of his right shoulder.

"Good morning," said the young man.

"Good morning, sah," rejoined the colonel, as he leaned against a tree. The young man gracefully mounted his horse and rode away, and the colonel went home and lay down.

Several months passed. The cat bird was gone and the chipmunk was hidden away under the snow. The colonel stood in the country road, watching the wild geese fly over. A young man came riding along at an easy canter, and, seeing the colonel, dismounted tied his horse and approached.

"Good morning," said the young man.

"How are you, sah," the colonel responded.

"Rather a bright but chilly day."

"Yes, but I don't think this snow will last long."

"No, I think not. The wind is shifting round to the south. By the way, colonel, are you busy this morning?"

"No, not particularly. I haven't fed the pigs yet, but I can let them go for a while. Is there anything that I can do for you?"

"Yes, I think so," the young man answered, drawing two pistols and telling the colonel to take his choice.

"Look here, young fellow, as I told you some time ago, I do not know you. Of course I am thankful for the attentions which you are showing me, but it has generally been my rule not to accept courtesies from a stranger."

"Well, all right, step off the ground."

"I'll have to go you, although I haven't fed the pigs yet."

The distance was measured and again they fired at each other. This time the colonel was slightly wounded in the leg. The young man bade him a polite good-morning and rode away.

When the colonel went to the house, his daughter seeing that something was the matter with him, said: "Pap, I do wish you would take better care of yourself. It seems to me that the older you grow the more careless you become. What has hurt you this time?"

"Oh, nothing only that infernal spotted sow snapped me when I climbed over into the pen."

"Well, but you should not expose yourself so. If you should die what would become of me?"

"Oh, you'd marry, I suppose."

"But you have told me that I shall never marry."

"You shall not so long as I live."

Months passed. The plow hands were in the field and the scent of burning grass pervaded the murky atmosphere. The cat bird had come back to look for her song, and the chipmunk timidly peeped from his hole. The colonel stood under a budding alder bush; a young man climbed over the fence,

"Why, good morning, colonel. There has been a slight change in the weather since we last met."

"Yes, as I predicted, the snow is all gone."

"Are you busy this morning?"

"Not excessively."

The young man produced two pistols.

"Look here," said the fat man. "I told you some time ago that we were not acquainted, and now I positively refuse to associate with you until we have been introduced."

"Ah," the young man said, "I hope you will pardon my seeming lack of good breeding. I am John Piller."

"Well, Mr. Piller, I suppose I must accommodate you."

This time the young man was slightly wounded, but he bowed gracefully and smiled as he rode away.

The season had undergone another change. The gray squirrel ran along the top rail of the fence with a brown nut in his mouth; the cat bird was teaching her young ones to fly, and the chipmunk slyly stole through the dying grass. The colonel walked in the orchard where the red apples gleamed in the Indian summer haze. Suddenly he discovered that John Piller was standing near him.

"A beautiful and dreamy day, colonel."

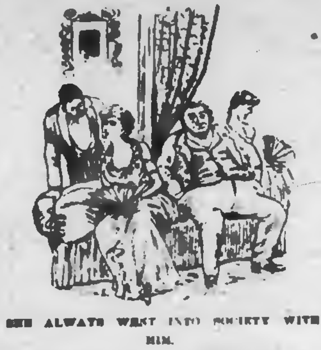
"Yes, nature seems to be humming a sleepy tune."

"And you are surely not busy at such a time?"

"No, I can't say that I am."

"And you cannot say that you are not acquainted with me?"

"Oh, no, for the last time we met you were polite enough to introduce yourself."



SHE ALWAYS WENT INTO SOCIETY WITH HIM.

"Your memory is good. Here are our friends, the pistols."

"Look here, young fellow, I am getting tired of your little flirtations. I never had a man to pester me so in my life. You are positively annoying, sah. What the deuce do you mean, anyway?"

"I mean that I want to marry your daughter Lucie."

"Well, I gad, sah, go and marry her and for the Lord's sake let me alone. I wish I may die dead if I ever had a man to worry me so. Go on and tell her that I say she must marry you, I gad, sah."

There was a happy wedding the next day, and when the few invited guests sat down to dinner, the colonel said:

"Lucie, did he threaten to shoot you unless you married him?"

"Oh, no," she sweetly answered. "We have been engaged for a long time and have been only waiting for your consent."

"Well, blast my extensive hide, he went about it in a queer way. Trying to kill a man is a funny way to gain his good will."

"Oh, I was not trying to kill you," the bridegroom answered. "The pistols were loaded with peas."

The old fellow snorted and said something about blasting his extensive hide.

Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $50,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1200 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formally it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $2.40, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5 00, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $2 60. Send in your orders.

"Next Morning."

He sat with his face between his hands,
With his elbows on the table,
And tried to bear his punishment
As well as he was able.
His wife had whispered a word or two
In the connubial bed,
And he felt that he'd nothing left on earth
Except the pain in his head.
He thought of the days of his courtship, too,
When he ardently first had wooed her,
And he wished he could change matrimonial bliss
For one glass of brandy and so'a.

Young Men's Conservative Club.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Conservative Club will be held in the club room, over Mr. Stethem's store, on Tuesday evening next, for the election of officers and the transaction of other business. All Conservative young men are cordially invited to be present.

Lacrosse in Montana.

Mr. J. M. Kennedy, formerly of Hamilton, writes to the Empire giving the history of a lacrosse club formed in Anaconda, Mont., last season. James Sullivan, formerly of the Riversides, Peterborough, was captain of the team, and Meyers (Harry?), formerly of this town, was another of the players.

The Man Who Used the Knife.

Michael Murray, the young married man who used the knife on Wm. Browne at the restaurant at the C.P.R. station on Tuesday night, appeared on remand at the Police Court this morning. He elected to be tried by a jury, and the preliminary hearing was adjourned until three o'clock this afternoon.

At the Opera House.

The presentation of "Zozo, the Magic Queen," was given at the Opera House last evening before a very fair audience. The spectacular drama was a great success when first presented, but last night many of its grand scenic effects were absent. However, the company was a very good one, and the specialties introduced were clever and amusing. The audience laughed and seemed to enjoy the play. The company went to Belleville this morning.

An Endeavor Social.

A pleasant and successful social was held last evening at the residence of Mrs. James Dixon under the auspices of the Endeavor Society of St. Paul's church. The proceeds were to go towards the purchase of a piano for the Sunday school. There was a very good attendance and an evening of social intercourse was enjoyed. During the evening a pleasing programme was rendered, to which among others Misses L. Dixon, Crane, E. Cameron, Fairweather and Paterson and Messrs. J. Crane and Nelson were contributors.

Going to British Columbia.

Mr. R. W. Kent, who has been the local manager of the Bell Telephone Co. for several years, leaves on the first of next month for Vancouver, B. C., where he will take charge of the Bell exchange in that city. Mr. Kent has a large circle of friends in Peterborough who will regret his departure, but they will all unite in wishing him success in his new field. As local manager for the Bell Company, Mr. Kent has been energetic, and in his new agency he will undoubtedly promote the interests of the Company satisfactorily.

THEIR CHERISHED AIM.

THE NEW SOUTH WARD MISSION BUILDING OPENED.

The Laborers Accomplish one of Their Cherished Aims and Provide a Long Felt Want—His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto was Present—His Congratulatory and Commendatory Address—The Financial Statement—Practically Free of Debt.

It was in the year 1882, some eight and a half years ago, that a few earnest church workers founded the South Ward mission in connection with St. John's church. The beginning was small, the laborers did not number many, but their hearts were in their work and they labored in hope and trust. Last night the monument which will stand to testify that they did not labor in vain was dedicated by His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto. The monument stands at the corner of Reid and Sherbrooke-sts. in the shape of a handsome and substantial Mission building. When the mission was begun the meetings were held in the old Union Mission school, and afterwards in the South Ward school which was generously placed at the disposal of the Christian workers by the trustees. Then a few years ago Miss Chamberlen, who always took a hearty interest in the work, on behalf of the Chamberlen estate gave the mission the use of a small house at the corner of Dalhousie and Bethune-sts. Here in humble and none too comfortable quarters the work has been carried on, ever being blessed and growing in its good influence, while in their hearts the hope that the day would be hastened when a more suitable and more commodious school could be erected. This was their aim, and while they were teaching the young and affording an opportunity to those not blessed with many privileges of hearing the gospel and attending service, they were planning and working towards the accomplishment of their cherished desire. The necessity and need of a building which would afford proper accommodation was felt by them all, and it was therefore a source of much pleasure and joy that they saw their fondest hopes realised last evening, and a very handsome and commodious building erected for and dedicated to the work. And they enter their new building with any burden of debt. This alone is something of which they may well feel proud and they are entitled to the warmest congratulations of all who are interested in the advancement of the good cause. The founders of the Mission were Mrs. Archer, Mrs. Butler, Miss Barlee, and Miss Sherwood, who acted as organist, and their numbers were soon augmented by the addition of Miss Chamberlen and Miss Rubidge. Later other workers have entered the field in the persons of Miss Watt, Miss Cairns, Miss Evans, the Misses White, Miss Campbell, Miss Clarinbold and Miss Melville, the last five being graduated pupils. The late Mr. C. H. Sheffield was the first superintendent, and he was succeeded by Mr. F. R. Yokome, who made way for Mr. A. V. R. Young, who was followed by Mr. Chas. Beck. This latter gentleman was the predecessor of the present superintendent, Mr. W. M. Loucks, the lay reader of St. John's.

THE NEW BUILDING.

The building which has been erected and of which these ladies and gentleman may justly feel proud is, as has been said, a very neat and quite imposing structure. It is 32x60 feet, with an entrance porch on Reid-st. 12x28 feet. The building is of the Romanesque style of architecture and has been very creditably finished. It is red brick with a good stone foundation and basement. The interior, which is reached by a wide, arched entrance, is very attractive. The brick walls have been neatly tuckpointed, while the barrel ceiling and wainscoting is finished in oiled pine. Mr. J. E. Belcher was the architect and Mr. A. Rutherford the contractor. The furnishings are also very creditable. A platform has been erected in front of the altar, which is at the west end of the hall. This platform is flanked on either side by the library and vestry. The finishings of the altar are very tasteful, while a curtain has been hung on a pole across the platform, to screen off the chancel when a public social or entertainment is being held. Chairs have been placed in the hall and illumination is furnished by several large hanging lamps.

THE OPENING SERVICE.

As may be easily imagined, the opening and dedication of the hall was an important event, and the building was packed with an audience which was composed of the leading members of St. John's, together with many friends of the South Ward mission. It was shortly after eight o'clock when the procession of clergy entered the church, headed by the surpliced choir, singing the well-known hymn, which begins, "The Church's One Foundation." The clergy present were His Lordship Bishop Sweatman, Rev. V. Clementi, Rev. Canon Davidson (of Colborne), Rev. Rural Dean Loucks (of Picton), Rev. J. W. McCleary, rector of St. Luke's, Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of Peterborough, and Rev. C. B. Kenrick, curate. A short evening service was held, Rev. Rural Dean Loucks and Rev. Canon Davidson reading the lessons. The service was heartily entered into by the people, and at the close His Lordship offered an earnest dedicatory prayer. Rev. Mr. Kenrick presided at the organ, and the singing was led by the choir. An offertory was taken up in aid of the building fund.

A PUBLIC MEETING.

After this service a public meeting was held which was of a happy and interesting character. Rev. Mr. Davidson opened the proceedings with a few words, in which he referred to the event, speaking of the use to which the building would be put. He expressed the debt of gratitude which they owed to the Bishop for the favor he had shown Peterborough by this and other visits, made at great personal effort. He then called upon His Lordship.

WORDS OF CONGRATULATION AND PRAISE.

The Bishop was received with applause. He referred in opening to the pleasure it gave to be there and join in the hearty service which had opened the new building and to speak a few words of congratulation. As to the favor he had shown Peterborough, he said the town, at any rate the rector, was deserving of a little favor, and to show his appreciation of the splendid work the rector was doing here and to encourage him he was glad to come here. (Applause). He congratulated them on their commodious and comely building, and expressed his surprise at the rapidity with which it had been erected. Such work, he said, had not been done without generous assistance and devoted work, and it was only proper on an occasion of that kind to remember those to whom they were indebted. That night must be one of rejoicing to his venerable friend, Rev. V. Clementi (applause), for it was largely through his liberality that the object had been accomplished so rapidly—not only liberality in giving, but for some time past this had been that gentleman's pet work and he had thrown into it hard work. Another assistance no less important was the giving of the site (applause) and for this they were indebted to another old friend who had assisted in the South Ward for years. He referred to Miss Chamberlen. (Applause). He noticed that the deed of the site had been placed upon the offertory plate, a deed conveying the land to the incorporated Synod of the diocese. He expressed his gratefulness in accepting the gift for the diocese. Then he spoke of the opening as a matter of interest and thankfulness to all Christian church people and referred to the use that would be made of the building. He strongly cautioned them not to be too impatient for a separate existence from the parent church. He made a reference to Rev. Father Huntington whom he had been led to believe by what he had seen was casting considerable slight upon the work of the church. His Lordship said the single tax advocate must have been speaking of the churches in New York and not in Peterborough. As to the panacea for the ills of man, he said this lay largely in the different agencies of the Christian church—in the pulpit, in prayer, and in house to house visitation and work. In closing he made a eulogistic reference to the labors of the rector, the curate and lay reader, saying they were enabled to give their whole attention to the work, not having any fireside attractions or domestic cares. He wished the work God speed and hoped the building would be a boon and blessing.

THE FINANCIAL TRIUMPH.

Mr. G. A. Smith, on behalf of the Treasurer, Miss Barlee, made the financial statement. The offertory for the evening was reported to have amounted to $66.78. The financial statement showed that $1,790.70 had been received to date and $1,322.15 expended. This left a balance on hand of $467.55. There were outstanding liabilities of $690, to meet which there were promised subscriptions of $205, and the balance stated above, making assets of $672.55. This left the debt on the building and furnishings $17.45. This statement was received with applause.

THE OTHER ADDRESSES.

Rev. Rural Dean Loucks, Rev. J. W. McCleary and Rev. Canon Davidson then followed in congratulatory addresses, in which they wished the congregation and workers success in their mission. To Rev. Mr. McCleary's remarks Rev. Mr. Davidson added an expression of gratitude which was felt for the subscriptions given by members of St. Luke's Church.

Rev. V. Clementi was the last speaker. He referred to the origin of the mission in general terms and dropped words of commendation to the ladies, the architect, the contractor and Mr. Thos. Sabine, who had assisted in the building. The aged gentleman's words were listened to with interest.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC FINALE.

The Rector then made a few concluding announcements. Referring to the tea and concert on Monday, he proposed that, in view of their happy and surprising financial position and the wide help and sympathy which had flowed in upon them, no admission fee should be accepted on Monday evening. They would welcome all who would then honor them with their presence Monday, and rejoice together around a common board without fee and without distinction. The National Anthem was then heartily sung, but before the assembly had begun to disperse Rev. Canon Davidson made an impromptu suggestion that the small deficiency be made up before leaving the building. A member of St. John's congregation at once came forward with the guarantee asked for, while others began handing in subscriptions for the same purpose at the door where the whole amount was received in a few minutes. The feelings of pleasure and enthusiasm, which had evidently permeated the large assemblage throughout the evening, were even more clearly manifested at this closing scene. And there was certainly good cause for congratulation, for seldom has a religious edifice been opened under happier auspices.

NOTES OF THE EVENT.

All the furnishings of the new building are the gifts of friends of the mission. These embrace altar, altar-frontal, chairs, prayer-desk, bible and prayer book, font, etc.

To-night there will be a baptism service, when it is expected a large number of children will receive the sacred rite.

The Sunday-school will be re-organized on Sunday afternoon in the new building, and, to make this possible, the usual monthly children's service will be postponed for a week.

The Bishop of Toronto and visiting clergymen left town to-day. Rev. Messrs. W. C. Allen and G. Warren were expected, but were unable to come. Rev. W. H. French, of Omemee, will be present on Monday evening and deliver an address.

Fifteen Days His Choice.

Michael Lycett, a bartender, was fined $2 and costs (6.25) or fifteen days at the police court for drunkenness. He decided the fifteen days were better than a parting with so much filthy lucre, and accordingly he went up on the hill.

Obituary.

The Stratford-Upon-Avon, Eng., Herald of December 12th, contains the following obituary notice of Mr. E. N. Courtney, father of Mr. E. Courtney, of Ashburnham:—

DEATH OF MR. E. N. COURTNEY.—Another old resident, whose familiar figure will be missed from the streets, has departed this life, Mr. E. N. Courtney, of Henley-st., died about noon on Wednesday last. He was born in Ireland, and had many features of character peculiar to the Irish race—quick wit, quiet humour, and genuine pathos. He was one of Stratford's oldest inhabitants, having lived in the town for more than half a century. As a workingman Mr. Courtney possessed exceptional ability. Shakespearean inlaid tables, containing views of Stratford and the neighborhood, attracted much notice. One of them was exhibited at the East London Industrial Exhibition in 1865, and obtained a bronze medal. In the following year a larger table, containing seven local views inlaid, was exhibited at the Metropolitan and Provincial Exhibition, and obtained a silver medal. Mr. Courtney also developed literary tastes, rare in the artisan of his day. As an indication of these it may be mentioned that he lectured successfully on Martin Luther, Archbishop Cranmer, the Spanish Armada, Oliver Cromwell, and the Revolution of 1688, his fluent speech and excellent descriptive powers, with his extensive knowledge of historical subjects, making him very popular. Mr. Courtney was also a lay preacher in connection with the Wesleyan body in this town. He laboured diligently in this capacity for forty-eight years, and of the pulpits in the neighbourhood open to laymen there was scarcely one which he had not occupied. He was not less zealous as a temperance advocate. A total abstainer of fifty-two years' standing, he took the keenest interest in the temperance movement in all its phases, and promoted it to the utmost of his power. In 1886, to the extreme regret of his many friends, he was obliged, through enfeeble health, to relinquish the various positions in the Wesleyan and other religious bodies. He was held in great esteem by all who knew him, and had, we are informed, all the kindness and geniality characteristic of his countrymen.

A Citizens' Band.

In the window of Ormond & Walsh's drug store there is a large photograph of the Sarnia 27th Batt. band, composed of 45 members in which there are a few familiar faces—Mr. Skeffington, who lived in Peterborough 21 years ago and is at present cashier of the Bank of Commerce of Sarnia, Wm. H. Crowe, a former member of the Fire Brigade Band, of Peterborough, and who has now returned to Peterborough to reside, Prof. Wm. Philp, an accomplished musician who organized the first brass band of Peterborough in the year 1860, and who is a composer of music of no low degree and at present organist in one of the largest churches in Sarnia, is conductor and musical director of the band. Mr. Philp will be remembered by some of Peterborough's old inhabitants. This band is composed of some of the best business men of Sarnia and we may give a few of the names:—Col. C. K. Ellis, of 27th batt., councillor of the town; David Barr, the leading jeweller and a Councillor; Thos. Cook, cashier of Fleming's Bank; James Laidlaw, jeweller, Mr. S. Kefington, cashier of the Bank of Commerce; Geo. Wenino, grocer; Fred Wenino, planing mills; Stewart Vint, leading barber; Dr. Coulter, councillor of the town; Dr. Clement, councillor of the town; Wm. Farr, carriage manufacturer; John Bohannan, assistant registar of county; John Barron, photographer and music dealer; Donald Simpson, wholesale liquor dealer. There are several others which we have not space to mention. This band plays the highest class of music published and have won several first prizes in competitions. The last competition they were at they competed against 13 bands in Detroit in 1889 and carried of first prize, $200. This famous band may call on Peterborough the coming summer and if they do the lovers of music will have a treat not soon to be forgotton.

The Ladies Should not be Pleased.

Single Tax and Confiscation.

To the Editor the Review.

SIR,—I have no doubt that many of those who heard the Rev. J. O. S. Huntington last night were highly pleased with him. Amongst the objections made by some very intelligent men was the one so gracefully urged by Mr. Dumble—confiscation. Are these gentlemen not aware that every exemption of personal property or of real property for that matter, from taxation is a stride along the highway of Single Tax! Yet they do not object because such exemptions promote industry by freeing it. These exemptions are now-a-days of large proportions.

OBSERVER.

Single Tax.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I listened with much interest and pleasure to the lecture of Rev. Father Huntington on single tax. The greater part of his lecture was historical, and when at the close he made application of his theory he was evidently at sea. In concluding, this champion of the new doctrine invited questions from any who wanted light, whereupon I put to him the question that is uppermost in all minds, namely: "If the system be introduced it will find people possessed of lands which you say must be taxed so that the owner will get out of his own property only an equal share with all other members in that community, and that thus there will practically be a division of the land amongst the people. Will not this be a spoliation, an injustice, a robbery?" The rev. gentleman caught on at once, for he evidently meets the same question everywhere.

He replied, "Ah, that is an old chestnut. Let me emphasize your question by putting it a little stronger. Suppose," said the lecturer, "there be a poor widow whose husband left her a small parcel of land on the rent of which she supports herself and little ones. That land under the new system would be taxed so that nearly all the income goes into the public treasury, and so she is deprived of her living. Is that strong enough? Let me answer by showing what the Northern Government did in liberating the slaves of the South. Did they not in so doing deprive thousands of their sole means of support?" And the lecturer sat down as if he had settled that chestnut forever; first, however, quieting in his own mind some rising doubts as to the sufficiency of the answer by explaining that the North liberated the slave not as a military necessity.

Now, sir, I am older than the lecturer. I lived in my manhood during that great war, and kept in touch with prevailing sentiment; and I make bold to say that the slave was liberated as a military necessity, and only when it appeared the only means of securing victory. The God of Nations brought deliverance to the slave; but the hand that freed them was a hesitating, reluctant and unwilling one. It was openly justified at the time, not on its merits, but simply on its military expediency. At the time the South was thus deprived of its slave property, Sherman and others were devastating the South, burning and destroying all kinds of property in order to cripple the South, and this as a military necessity. The owners of property were reduced to poverty and their property confiscated and destroyed, not because in time of peace such acts are right, but because in time of war between belligerents such terrible acts may be justified as a military necessity, and on no other ground.

To free the slave might perhaps at any time be justified, inasmuch as he who held his fellow man in bondage was caught in the act of sinning against God and man, and his claim to compensation might be doubtful.

England freed her slaves—in time of peace—not as a military necessity, but as a matter of conscience, but she compensated her slave owners.

Yet this reverend gentleman would rob the poor widow of the fruit of her dead husband's labor, industry, economy, virtue—would take his little savings as if he had sinned against his fellow in putting his savings in land instead of the post office savings bank—and would divide it amongst those who never worked for it or had any claim to it.

This was the answer to my chestnut. Is this the sum total of this so-called "Single Tax" business? And can this eloquent champion, after all his study, give no better answer to the ever rising question than the shallow and dishonest reference to the freeing of the American slave, an answer which may pass with a packed meeting in the northern States, but which is no answer to a just and fair-minded Canadian?

He admits the spoliation as the natural result of the introduction of his system. He would even rob the widow. Can he justify this before God or man? He failed last night to do so, yet he gave his best answer. If he cannot, who will advance a system which begins in robbery and would end in anarchy?

The Business Tax.

This matter is occupying public attention. The pros and cons of it are being discussed. Good men advocate it, and the assumption is that it is a new and reasonably fair way of apportioning the tax on personal property. In the meantime the reflection comes, no matter how the business tax may effect a fellow's pocket, that at Hawley Bros. teas can be had at old prices, at old qualities, both of the best. Fruit-Growers' Association.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I am glad to hear that a fruit-growers' association is being got up here. I have taken the "Canadian Horticulturalist" for three years, and though I have only an acre of land, I would not be without what I have learned from that paper and the annual reports for $50. Two raspberry plants I got three years ago have been worth more than a years subscription to me. I have often wondered that no one in this neighborhood appeared to take enough interest in fruit-growing to write anything to the Horticulturist.

BLAINE BOWLED OUT.

Because His Government was so Badly Snubbed by England.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Times' Washington special says: The action of the British Government in declining to endorse the efforts of the managers of the approaching grand exposition at Jamaica to secure the participation of the Government of the United States has aroused great indignation at the state department and among those senators and representatives who have been informed of the facts in the case. Secretary Blaine makes no concealment of his belief that the United States Government was purposely snubbed by Her Majesty's representatives, and an investigation of the facts shows beyond dispute that the only reason why the United States will not be officially represented at the exposition is that no invitation was extended that could be properly accepted.

Knocked the Props From Under Him.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Referring to the report that the British Government had not invited the United States to be represented at the Jamaica exposition it was explained semi-officially to-day that the British Government never sends formal invitations to any country to be represented at any exposition unless such exhibition is actually organized by the British Government.

Painfully Injured.

CAINSVILLE, Jan. 22.—Daniel Whiting, ex-reeve of Onondaga Township, and his daughter, Miss Whiting, were driving along the road shortly after dark, when two young men, each on trotting rigs, came tearing along the road at a terrific pace, dashing into his buggy, upsetting it, and throwing him and his daughter out on the road. Mr Whiting was severely injured, one of the irons of the sleigh having penetrated the sole of his foot to a depth of over two inches, making a badly lacerated wound.

Fatally Crushed by a Cave-in.

MARKHAM, Jan. 22.—A young man named Hill, living on the York side of Scarboro township, near L'Amoraux, was engaged in hauling gravel from 3d con. gravel pit and had backed his sleigh in for a load, when the overhanging bank caved in, burying him beneath it. He was taken out in a few minutes, when it was found that one side of his face was crushed out of shape, one of his eyes lying on his cheek, besides being injured internally. He has since died. The case is particularly sad from the fact that the young man was only married a few months.

Papooses Murdered by Soldiers.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S.D., Jan. 22.—A detachment of the soldiers went out to-day to the place near Wounded Knee where the bodies of a woman and three children were found yesterday. Red Hawk, who has been a member of the police force here for the past seven years, identified the corpses as those of his wife and three children. The little ones were naked and frozen stiff. The woman was dressed, but was barefooted. General Miles is satisfied that the poor creatures were killed by the soldiers the day after the battle at Wounded Knee. They had been shot in the back while trying to reach a place of safety, and were four miles from the scene of the battle. One Government cartridge shell was found near the bodies. So close had the guns been held to the unfortunates that the side of the little boy's head was powder-burned.

A Female Miser's Feet Frozen.

NEWMARKET, Jan. 22.—An old woman was brought to the Home who had been living in extreme poverty for years and had got her feet frozen. She denied having any money when she arrived, but on the matron examining her clothes a wallet was found containing $98 in bills done up separately in little wads, and $10 or $12 in silver. Some of the bills dated back as far as 1857. The bank pronounces them all collectable but one.

Killed by a Fish Bone.

QUEBEC, Jan. 22.—A woman belonging to St. Roch's Ward has died from having swallowed a fish bone. Not thinking it serious she did not at first call in the doctor. She died in great agony.

Heavy Seizure of Liquors.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—The Mounted Police at Broadview, under Sergeant Cochrane, made seizure of a full car of liquors this morning shipped from Hamilton to Edmonton, containing 945 gallons of whisky, brandy and gin in cases and kegs and have stored the same, waiting orders from the department.

Had a Penchant for Pearls.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—William G. Duncan, aged 19, a city salesman for the diamond house of Lowenstein & Co. of this city has disappeared with $30,000 worth of diamonds and pearls.

They Met by Chance.

HAMILTON, Jan. 22.—Sergeant Adams of the Brantford police force, while on a visit here to-day, accidentally discovered and arrested Angus McInnes, who escaped from Brantford jail a short time ago.

Fell to the Floor Dead.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 22.—Mr. Gilbert Ross of Tyendinaga township fell dead in his house last night whilst walking across the floor after returning from a tea meeting. Deceased was 65 years of age.

A Snow Blockade in Africa.

ALGIERS, Jan. 22.—Communication between Algiers and the town of Medah, forty miles from here, has been cut off by snow. It is impossible to continue the mail service, and the supply of provisions at Medah is very scarce. Advices from Guelma, in the department of Constantine, state that there is considerable mortality among the Arabs of the mountain tribes. They are suffering severely from cold and famine.

She Believed the Medium.

BROCKTON, Ma., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Hedwig Anderson to-day gave morphine to her three children, aged 5, 4 and 2 years, and took some herself. All four are dying. A medium told Mrs. Anderson her husband was keeping company with other women and she resolved to commit suicide.

Steinitz Retains the Championship.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The 19th game in the chess match for the World's Championship was played here to-day and was declared a draw after 41 moves. This gave the match to Steinitz who has held the title of World's Champion for 25 years. The final score is: Steinitz, 6; Gunsberg, 4; draws, 9.

C. K. Pratt, a Wall-street broker, committed suicide at Rahway, N.J., yesterday.

Standiford, Yeomans & Eldred, general merchants of Medicine Lodge, Ks., have failed. Liabilities $75,000. The First National Bank was placed in hands of a Government examiner to-day. THEY PROVE EVERYTHING.

[SCENE IN EDITOR'S SANCTUM.]

Enter Subscriber—"I suppose you are ready to substantiate any statement your paper makes?"

Editor—"Oh, yes; we have the compositors 'prove' everything that is 'set up.'"

Sub.—Well, then, can you prove that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure Catarrh in the Head—you advertise it to do so?"

Ed.—Certainly, my dear sir. Tens of thousands have proved that. Why, the proprietors offer $500 for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head, and they are responsible and able to pay if they fail."

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness, difficulty of clearing throat, expectoration of offensive matter; breath offensive, smell and taste impaired, and general debility. Only a few of these symptoms likely to be present at once. Thousands of cases result in Consumption and end in the grave.

On the move

—Liver, Stomach, and Bowels, after Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have done their work. It's a healthy movement, too—a natural one. The organs are not forced into activity one day, to sink back into a worse state the next. They're cleansed and regulated—mildly and quietly, without wrenching or griping. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet is all that's needed as a gentle laxative; three to four act as a cathartic. They're the smallest, cheapest, the easiest to take. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the Liver, Stomach and Bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

Miss Sarah Watson of New York city who for the past two years has taken high rank as professor of music at Vassar College is about to resign her place to marry the Danish composer, Joachim Anderson. Miss Watson is highly regarded by the profession as an artist of unusual merits. After a four years' course under Prof. Ritter she studied abroad, and as a pupil of Scharwenka at Berlin carried off many coveted honors. An unconquerable nervousness materially interfered with her success as a concert performer, and, abandoning all notion of the stage Miss Watson had set herself to adorn a professorship when the gallant Dane claimed her as his own.

Mutually Unsatisfactory.

"Look here," said a dude to a reporter, you tell me a couple of good jokes. I want to get them off as original, you know, at a little social gathering to-night. I'll lend you five dollars if you do."

"I don't think it will work," replied the newspaper man, pensively.

"Why not?"

"I am so blamed poor that if I am found with five dollars on my person, I'll be suspected to have stolen them; and you are so blamed stupid that if you get off a good joke, everybody will suspect right off that you stole it.—Texas Siftings.

THE BEDFORD SUICIDE.

FRIENDS OF THE DUKE ATTEMPTED TO SUPPRESS THE FACT.

A Sharp Reporter Unearths the Fact that the Duke Took His Own Life—A Coroner Who Thought it His Duty to Suppress the Facts—Full Particulars of the Affair.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The sensation of the hour is the discovery that the Duke of Bedford did not die a natural death, but that he committed suicide by putting a bullet into his head. That this fact was not discovered until one week after the Duke's death and four days after his body had been reduced to a handful of ashes by cremation is one of the most striking instances known in modern times of the power possessed by the aristocracy for hushing things up.

Coroner Troutbeck was called a few hours after his death. He knew from the moment he saw the body of the Duke that it was a case of suicide, and it was his duty to report this information to the local police station and ask for the assistance of a police officer. In this case he omitted to do so. Instead he had a direct conference with one of the commissioners of police, who connived with him in suppressing the scandal.

At the time that this announcement was given to the public at least three persons knew it was a case of suicide, which it was their absolute duty to report, no matter whether it was the body of a Duke or that of a dock hand. These persons were Coroner Troutbeck, the Commissioner of Police with whom he had conferred, and Dr. Gibbons, who had attended the case. The Coroner adhered to the law in one respect. He summoned a jury and held a legal inquest. Considering the opportunities for leakage through the jurymen, servants and the host of supernumeraries, it is wonderful the secret was kept so long.

The fact is that it was finally discovered by a [illegible] Police Court reporter, who, suspecting something wrong, went to the coroner and asked to see the depositions taken at the inquest.

"Such a course is against my rule," said the coroner. "My predecessor never gave information to the press. I do not see why I should in this case depart from this rule."

"But," urged the reporter, "there is a mystery about the Duke's death which I desire to clear up."

"I am sorry I am unable to oblige you on this occasion," replied the coroner, "but really I cannot depart from the rule. If you asked me how John Jones, carpenter, came by his death I should decline to tell you."

"The report is circulated," persisted the reporter, "that you held an inquest on the body of the late Duke. If you decline to let me see the depositions will you either confirm or contradict it?"

"Well," laughed the coroner, "if I did either I might as well show you my private notes at once."

"Then I shall take it that you did hold an inquest and that the Duke committed suicide?" remarked the reporter.

"No; you can say I decline to give any information, for if I did I should be exceeding my duty as a public officer."

Within five hours after the coroner's jury had sat upon his body it was roasting in the retort of the crematory, in accordance, it is said, with the last wishes of the Duke.

In an interview recently published, the foreman of the Woking Necropolis, where scores of bodies are committed every week, said that the principal objection to cremation is that the ordinary means of tracing murder or suicide were put beyond possibility. In the Duke of Bedford's case this remark is brought directly home.

The Duke of Bedford was probably the richest Duke in England, his fortune even exceeding that of the Duke of Westminster; yet he never was known to listen to any appeal for clemency from tradesman or tenant who was crushed by his burdensome rent. He was as tenacious as any feudal baron and exacted every farthing, no matter whether it drove the tenant to pauperism.

When he put an end to his existence why was not the fact announced at the time of his death, instead of attempting to suppress and to deceive the public by false reports?

An Ice Bridge at Niagara.

BUFFALO, Jan. 23.—An ice bridge formed at Niagara Falls last night. It is the first one of the season. It is likely to last for several days.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

THE SCOTCH STRIKE THE SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION.

Gladstone Would Have Retired Had the Hartlepool Election Gone Against the Liberals—Sad Death of the Heir to the Belgian Throne—General Foreign News.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Fergusson, political secretary of the Foreign Office, said the Behring Sea correspondence and discussion were taking the ordinary diplomatic course unaffected by the application made to the United States Supreme Court. This application had been made at the instance of Canada and upon the advice of American lawyers.

In the House of Commons to-day Alfred Webb, member for West Waterford, gave notice that Justin McCarthy would, a month hence, call attention to the administration of the Crimes Act and would move a resolution in connection with this Act.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir Michael Hicks Beach, President of the Board of Trade, stated the Board of Trade could not interfere with the railroad strike in Scotland although the troubles had resulted in partial suspension of traffic.

Francis Allston Channing, advanced Liberal, made a motion to the effect that the excessive hours of labor of railway servants was a grave injustice to the men and a constant source of danger to the public, and that the Board of Trade should be empowered to direct the limitation of the working hours.

Sir John Pope Hennessy has offended his colleagues by voting with the Government on the Scotch strike question.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach suggested a substitute motion declaring overwork on railroads a source of danger to the public. Channing's motion was rejected by 141 to 134.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach gave notice of his intention to make a motion for the appointment of a parliamentary committee to consider the condition of railway employes.

It is reported a petition to unseat Mr. Furness, the newly elected Gladstonian member for Hartlepool, is a probability. The petition will be made on the ground that Furness influenced votes by promising to employ union laborers only. In the House of Commons to-day. Henry H. Howarth, member for South Salford, gave notice of a question as to whether the election of a candidate employing non-unionists who promised in future to employ unionists only, infringed the Corrupt Practices Act. The reply was greeted with Conservative cheers.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—It became known to-day that on the result of the Hartlepool election depended whether Mr. Gladstone would continue as leader of the Liberal party. This was a fact known to John Morley, William Harcourt and a few others, but carefully kept secret, for fear of discouragement, from the rank and file of the party. This was one reason why the Liberals made the Hartlepool contest a national affair, and the leaders devoted themselves to the canvass with as much energy as if a general election was at stake, in striking contrast to the Unionists, who left their candidate to work out his own salvation, so that they might be able to claim, in the event of defeat, that they had never expected victory. The opening of Parliament was striking evidence of the change which a few hours had made in the fortunes of the Liberal party.

Particulars of the Recent Colliery Explosion in European Russia.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Further details have been received of the colliery explosion Wednesday at Jasoick Depot, Russia. The explosion caused a fire to break out in three pits. The owners and managers of the mines tried to descend into the burning pits, but the fumes of the gas were so overpowering that they were compelled to desist. Eventually a rescuing party succeeded in entering the mines and reaching the entombed men. After considerable labor and danger the rescuers brought to the surface the bodies of 28 miners who had been killed. They also rescued 91 men who were unconscious. These latter were all badly burned and bruised and 20 of them subsequently died. It is said the explosion was caused by a man lighting a cigaret.

O'Brien and Insuppressible Ireland.

DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—William O'Brien telegraphs from Boulogne-Sur-Mer, to the publishers of the Insuppressible as follows: "I have a letter pressing me to become responsible for the continued publication of The Insuppressible. My cablegram from America only authorized the continued publication of United Ireland on lines distinctly laid down in cabled instructions. Since I have become acquainted with the tone and contents of The Insuppressible I am only restrained by motives of national policy from at once dissociating myself publicly from any responsibility for its writings. I regret that I am obliged to request that my name will not be further used in connection with the paper."

Parnell and McCarthy Raise Their Hats to Each Other

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Mr. Parnell appeared early in the House of Commons. McCarthy was present, at the head of his faction, but he took no active part in the proceedings. Parnell did not speak to any of the McCarthyites, though he and McCarthy personally exchanged salutes. The relations between the divided members remain friendly, as none of the men on either side have given personal offence except Tim Healy and Dr. Tanner.

Mr. Parnell did not appear in the House of Commons to-day and it is believed he will allow his motion concerning the administration of the Crimes Act, of which he gave notice yesterday to drop.

They Each Apologized.

DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—Dr. Tanner, M.P., anti-Parnellite has abandoned his intention of bringing a libel action against Mr. Parnell for the latter's reference to him in speeches made during the recent campaign in North Kilkenny. Parnell has apologized to Tanner for what he terms "heated words," while Tanner has apologized to his former leader for similar utterances, but he still maintains political opposition to Parnell.

Must Pay the Furniture Bill.

LONDON, Jan 23.—The Court of Queen's Bench has decided that Mr. Justin McCarthy and Lord Arthur Hill, M.P., are liable to £349 damages on account of the furniture which had been supplied to the collapsed Irish exhibition in London.

At the reassembling of Parliament Mr. Justin McCarthy will ask for a day when he can introduce a motion in connection with the administration of the Crimes Act, especially with reference to the Tipperary trials.

DEATH OF BELGIUM'S PRINCE

Mysterious Demise of the Heir to the Throne at Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 23.—Prince Bandouin, nephew of King Leopold, and heir to the throne of Belgium, is dead. He died in Brussels at 3 o'clock yesterday. The cause of his death is alleged to have been an attack of bronchitis. The death of the Prince has caused a tremendous sensation, and creates consternation in all classes in Brussels. There are all sorts of rumors circulating, as the public was entirely unaware that the Prince was ill. Crowds of people are parading the streets, or gathered in knots at the street corners eagerly discussing the situation. On all sides the warmest expressions of sympathy with the royal family in this their fresh trial are heard. Prince Bandouin's popularity and brilliant talents, and the bright hopes centred by the Belgians on his future career, make them feel the Prince's loss in the keenest manner.

The news of the Prince's death was withheld from his sister, the Princess Henriette, a beautiful girl of about 20 years of age who is dangerously sick from inflammation of the lungs. The palace of the Count of Flanders, where the Princess resides, is surrounded by a strong force of police, who are doing their utmost to prevent the unusual noise in the streets from arousing the suspicions of the suffering Princess.

It is openly asserted that the death of the popular Belgian prince was a repetition of the sad circumstances surrounding the death of the Archduke Rudolph, the heir to the Austrian throne, who met his death in such a mysterious manner on Jan. 30, 1889. It was added that a beautiful German governess, who had recently been banished from the Belgium court by order of King Leopold, had been in some way connected with the death of Prince Bandouin. Rumor also had it that there had been an intrigue lasting a long time between the governess and the Prince, and the result of their liaison is said to have been the birth of a child. In any case the death of the Prince is surrounded with mystery and speculation. The court physicians in the death certificate announce that the Prince's death was caused by hemorrhage following a severe attack of bronchitis. The physicians also assert that the Prince caught a chill while watching the bedside of his sister, the Princess Henriette. But these statements are far from convincing the people that the real cause of the death of Prince Bandouin has been given to the public, and the startling rumors already referred to are popularly believed to be founded on a solid basis of fact of some description.

Telegrams and messages of condolence with the royal family of Belgium in their great sorrow are already reaching Brussels from all parts of Europe, among the despatches received being words of sympathy from Queen Victoria and the Prince and Princess of Wales.

Crape, black flags and other emblems of grief are being displayed every where through the city. It is said in official circles that Prince Bandouin had for some time been suffering from influenza, but in spite of the remonstrances of his physicians he insisted upon passing his nights recently at the bedside of his sister, Princess Henriette. On Monday last the prince insisted upon going for a drive or a ride on horseback. His foolhardiness caused him to catch a fresh cold and Wednesday he was forced to take to bed. Yesterday the prince's condition had become more serious, but it does not seem to have caused alarm, as his indisposition was not known to the public. Thursday afternoon an unfavorable change was noticed in the prince and his condition caused grave apprehensions. Towards night the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church were administered to the prince. The prince was later attacked by high fever and was in danger of lapsing into delirium. King Leopold and Queen Maria were summoned to the prince's bedside. They did their utmost to console the sufferer, though both king and queen were overcome with grief. Finally the ministers and chiefs of the royal household were sent for. They were in attendance during all the latter part of the night. At 10 o'clock the prince was subjected to the operation of cupping, but with no result. Shortly before midnight the attending physicians pronounced the prince to be dying and the worst was expected at any moment. Gradually the prince's respiration became weaker and weaker until a sudden flow of blood from the lungs suffocated the sufferer.

The latest and most probable version of the cause of Prince Bandouin's death is that it was due to a complication of smallpox, bronchitis and haematuria. The populace are enraged at what they term the blundering of unsuspecting doctors. Prince Bandouin was upon the point of being betrothed to his cousin Princess Clementine the third and youngest daughter of his uncle, King Leopold. All the theatres and public institutions are closed and will remain closed until after the funeral, which will take place from the royal palace at Laeken in South Brabant, about two miles north of Brussels. Parliament has also adjourned.

The official bulletin of the court physicians states that Prince Bandouin died of congestion of the lungs caused by a chill contracted while waiting at the bedside of his sister, the Princess Henriette. The remains of the Prince now lie in state on the bed on which he died. King Leopold visited the dying prince's bedside at midnight and the ministers were also present.

Princs Bandouin Leopold Philippe Marie Charles Antoine Joseph Louis was the son of the Count of Flanders, brother of King Leopold. Prince Bandouin was born in this city June 3, 1869. He was a captain of Belgian Carbiniers, and a captain of Prussian cavalry, being attached to the second regiment of Hanoverian dragoons. The brother of Prince Bandouin, Prince Albert Leopold Clements Marie Minrad, who was born April 8, 1875, is now heir to the throne of Belgium.

Bradlaugh Dying.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Charles Bradlaugh, M.P. for Northampton, the noted Freethinker, who was reported ill a week ago, has suffered a relapse. At midnight Mr. Bradlaugh's condition was reported as critical. Those attending him were constantly applying ice to his head.

400 Anarchists Arrested.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—During an anarchists' meeting on the Place de L'Opera to-day groups of persons cried out: "Vive anarchie; we want bread." The police attempted to disperse the crowd, but met with considerable resistance and only broke up the meeting after 400 arrests had been made. Most of the prisoners were afterwards released. Several miners who were found to be armed were kept in custody.

A Light Sentence.

ORANGEVILLE, Jan. 23.—Stephen Cole, aged 18, was arraigned before His Honor Judge McCarthy on a charge of stabbing Henry Sanderson in the Salvation Army barracks at Shelburne on Dec. 29 last. He was let off with a sentence of two months.

AN ELGIN MAN'S SUICIDE.

William Elton, a West Lorne Tailor, Suicides in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Jan. 23.—Wednesday night at 10½ o'clock a fairly well-dressed stranger called at the lodging house of Daniel J. Nagel at No. 155 Main-street, and asked for lodgings. He was assigned to a room and he went there immediately after paying his bill. Yesterday morning the chambermaid went to the room to put it in order, but the door was locked.

The door was forced open, and there on the bed, which was pushed up against the door as a barricade, lay the dead body of a stranger. On a stand near him was a half-empty bottle bearing on its side the red label and the gruesome skull and cross-bones denoting poison. It was laudanum. Near the bottle lay a small glass, a white-handled knife, and copies of two Toronto dailies.

The body has been identified as that of William Elton, a tailor, who lived at West Lorne in Elgin County, Ont. He was identified by Neal MacEachren, a druggist in Vermont-street, who knew Elton in Canada. Elton came into his place Tuesday and got a quantity of laudanum. He had been drinking heavily and told MacEachren that he was going to straighten up and go home.

FIRES IN MANY TOWNS.

Two Firemen Killed and Seven Injured, Some Fatally, in Buffalo—Fires at Listowel and Queensboro.

BUFFALO, Jan. 23.—Fire about 9 o'clock to-night at the corner of Terrace and Pearl-street destroyed the building occupied by L. Marcus & Son, Warner Bros. & Co., Singsheim & Harris and Darling & Nichols, wholesale clothing. Foreman Fisher of engine No. 4 and Jacob Snyder, pipeman same engine were instantly killed by falling walls. Fireman Murphy had leg broken; Fireman Hart had skull fractured. Six other firemen are seriously hurt and it is rumored there are two or three bodies in the ruins.

Revivalists Quench the Flames.

QUEENSBORO', Jan. 23.—Last evening fire broke out in the hay loft of Diamond's Hotel stables. A revival meeting was in progress in the Methodist Church, and the men, women and preacher responded to the alarm with all speed, and the hotel, which was only 50 feet from the burning sheds, and on which a strong wind was blowing, was saved, though not before it was considerably damaged. Mr. Diamond's loss on stables, sheds and contents is about $1500, insured for $800. Two peddlers stopping at the hotel claim to have lost from $600 to $1000 worth of goods. T. W. Jeffs, general merchant, sustained heavy loss through damage to stock. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Fire at Listowel.

LISTOWEL, Jan. 23.—About 3 o'clock this morning fire broke out in a frame building owned by Con Miller of East Toronto and occupied by L. Losbach, which was totally destroyed. Insured in Western for $500.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

OVER THE EMBANKMENT.

A Team of Colts Run Away with a Load of Wood—A Young Man Injured.

This morning Mr. R. Tedford, of Dummer, was bringing a load of wood to market and was accompanied by his son, William, a youth 21 years of age. The team which was attached to the sleigh were a fine large pair of five-year-olds and were not well broken in to the excitement of the city. Just after passing the junction of George and Water-sts., some small boys "caught onto" the sleigh and began shouting. The noise frightened the team and they began to run. They reached the slight incline on Water-st. just at the Goose Pond, when the neck yoke broke and the sleigh with the younger man and the load of wood slewed and went over the embankment to the unfinished cribwork below. Some of the wood fell upon the young man and he was picked up insensible. One of his ears had been pierced through with the sharp end of a stick and he had evidently received a severe blow on the head. The team, freed of the heavy load, dashed down Water-st., but were caught on Brock-st., without doing any further damage. The elder Tedford escaped without injury.

The injured youth was taken to Dr. Boucher's where he was attended to. How he escaped without being killed was miraculous.

The Business Tax.

This matter is occupying public attention. The pros and cons of it are being discussed. Our School System and its Managers.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I wish to make a few remarks with regard to our school management.

It is very evident from developments which are every day cropping up, that our school system is not by any means perfect. I do not know by what authority or who has given the Principal instructions to collect fees in advance for the period of three months and that in the middle of the term. Then add to this the purchase of new books which are always required for those pupils entering the institute, it comes very hard on a large number of our citizens who desire to give their children a good education. The result is that some are prevented from getting the higher education of which we boast so much.

Now, sir, there is another matter which should be looked into and remedied, that is that out of a body of fifteen trustees, only some five or six run the schools. There is what is called the committee on appointments, also an advisory committee. These two appear to be composed principally of the same men, who appear to take upon themselves much of the work which should have the full consideration of the whole Board. Take for instance the Committee on Appointments, the most important committee of all. Matters are referred to them to consider and report, but which are usually dealt with and carried out without any reference to the Board whatever. At the head of this committee stands Mr. D. W. Dumble, who may be said to run the whole institution.

Now, Sir, in conclusion, if we send fifteen men to represent us at the Board, we ask that they be permitted to have a voice in all the important work of our expensive school system.

God Bless the Dear Mother.

If there breathes an unselfish, hard-working toiler, an uncomplaining being on the face of God's earth, it is the mother who from early morn till late at night attends to the work, comforts and pleasures of the household. There is no lagging, no idleness, no complaining. Every step, every action, every effort is acuated by love; and that every love supports her under all her varied difficulties. Husband, children and housework entail a vast amount of labor to the mother who is unable to keep hired help. We are compelled to wonder at, and even admire, woman's great fortitude and strength when placed in such a position. We are forced with shame to admit that men, as a rule, do not appreciate and revere sufficiently such noble self-sacrifice.

Among the thousands of such mothers in our land, many of them by this self-sacrifice to home and family, are literally wearing life out, in many cases unconsciously, but surely. We know that many of these mothers from over-exertion, nervousness, wearied brain, sleeplessness, headaches and a feeling of goneness, are just using themselves up, and must bring on serious and fatal results unless nature is assisted in recuperation. Woman's friend and strengthener is Paine's Celery Compound, that great nerve and brain restorer. It acts like a charm when difficulties such as the above are encountered. It restores strength, vigor and health to the frail and broken down, and adds years of joy to the useful life.

Mothers delay not the use of this most efficacious remedy for your family's sake. By its use the aid of a physician is unnecessary; and besides saving a vast amount of money, your life is spared as a blessing to your husband and children.

A Successful Week.

The Lindsay Post has the following to say of the Belle Stevenson Dramatic Company, which opens a week's engagement at the Opera House here on Monday next:—"This company opened a week's engagement at the opera house on Monday night to 'staning room only,' many patrons of the opera house being turned away, unable to obtain seats. The play was Bartley Campbell's five-act drama, 'Fate,' and was put on in an artistic manner. Miss Stevenson as 'Florence Grantley, the wronged wife,' proved herself to be an emotional actress of the first rank, and received great applause. Mr. C. J. Stevenson as 'Harry Grantley' received much applause, and made himself a favorite with the audience at once. Mr. Harry C. Todd as 'M. T. Muggs' captured the house at his very first appearance on the stage. His every word and gesture brought forth laughter and applause. He is certainly one of the best comedians that has ever appeared in Lindsay. The balance of the company are excellent and their strong support helped in no small degree to make 'Fate' such a pronounced success. On Tuesday night "Queen's Evidence" was put on in splendid style, the company again acquitting themselves as thorough artists. Miss Stevenson, Mr. Stevenson, Mr. Todd, Mr. Rowland and Mr. Summers came in for the lion's share of the applause. On Wednesday the beautiful play of "Enoch Arden" was produced, with Mr. C. J. Stevenson as the noble-hearted "Enoch Arden." Mr. Stevenson has evidently made a great study of this character, and his scene on the island and his return home after many years absence to find his wife married again, and his death scene, were without doubt the finest pieces of acting in that line ever seen here. The beautiful guitar and mandoling selections by the Stevenson family, and other refined specialties, are all good. Miss Stevenson has a fine soprano voice, which she uses to good effect. The company play here the balance of the week, with an entire change of bill each evening, and we predict crowded houses for the rest of the engagement in Lindsay."

Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $50,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1200 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formally it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $2.40, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5 00, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $2 60. Send in your orders.

Dr Farrar's Engagements To-Morrow.

Rev. Dr. Farrer, of Albany, N.Y., will occupy the pulpit at the Murray-st. Baptist church to-morrow morning and will preach at St. Paul's in the evening. He will also address a mass meeting in the George-st. Methodist church in the afternoon, when his remarks will be specially addressed to the young people.

A Ripe Old Age.

Mrs. Logan, mother of Mr. Wm. Logan, one of the oldest residents of this vicinity, died at the residence of her son last evening. The deceased lady had reached the ripe old age of 92 years. She was born in Scotland and came to this country some 60 years ago, when Peterborough consisted of only one lonely house. She was an exceedingly active lady for her years and had never any sickness. For a few days past she had been ailing, and last night when her friends carried her tea into her room they found her spirit had fled—she was dead.

An Interesting Opening.

The club rooms of the newly organized Young Men's Catholic Club will be formally opened with an inaugural meeting on Monday night. The evening promises to be a most interesting one. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor will preside, and an excellent programme of music will be presented under the superintendence of Mr. Thos. Dunn. A debate of rare interest will also take place between representatives of the Lindsay and Peterborough clubs. The subject is, "Resolved, that the South was justified in seceding from the North in 1861." Peterborough will uphold the affirmative and Lindsay the negative side of the discussion.

A Close Call.

A report was current on the C. P. R. train this morning that Mr. Chas. O'Reilly, of Norwood, had been killed on the track near Logan's crossing on Friday night. Friends will be glad to learn that Mr. O'Rielly is alive and uninjured. The facts are he was crossing the track at the above point with horse and cutter, the express due at Norwood at 5.12 coming along on time. Mr. O'Reilly did not see the train, the road and track meet at a sharp angle, and did not hear the whistle until the engine was within twenty feet of the crossing. He recognized that he could not cross in time and tried to pull up. The horse turned and ran alongside the track parallel with the train for over one hundred feet. Coming to the cattle guard the horse turned and plunged into the swamp, upsetting and smashing the cutter and harness. Mr. O'Reilly fortunately escaped unhurt, the horse being recovered some time after in good condition. People on the train who saw the occurrence regarded it as a marvellous escape and a mighty close call at that.

"BOBBY" BURN'S BIRTHDAY.

The Anniversary Entertainment in the Opera House—An Appreciative Audience.

The anniversary of the birth of Scotland's poet, "Bobby" Burns, falls on Sunday (Jan. 25th) this year, but the local St. Andrew's Society did not allow the day to go by without commemorating the memory of one who won such a hold upon the heart-strings of the nation. The commemoration took the form of an entertainment, literary and musical, given in the Opera House last evening, this being the nearest available night to the date. The audience which found its way into the Opera House was not a large one, but what it lacked in point of numbers it more than balanced in appreciation, enthusiastically manifested.

The talent on the programme cannot by any means complain of any coolness of reception, for every number, with the exception of instrumental duets, was encored. The local talent on the bill was Misses Sproule and Snowden, who rendered two excellent pianoforte duets, and Miss Sophie Cameron, vocalist. The latter is a well-known favorite with the Peterborough public, and last evening she acquitted herself with a modest grace and rendered her solos in a most pleasing voice that was deserving of the appreciation evinced. With two exceptions, her selections were familiar Scottish airs, and they were received with enthusiasm and invariably encored. The foreign talent was represented by Miss Agnes Knox, the talented elocutionist, and Mr. Geo. E. Fax, of Belleville, comic vocalist. Miss Knox had delighted a Peterborough audience before and she fully sustained herself last evening as a dramatic reciter and elocutionist of talent, grace and expression. She most graciously responded to her encores, giving as such Bret Harte's "Her Letter," "Shakespeare at Dead Horse Creek," a stirring mining story, dramatically recited, "The Bobolink," and the patriotic poem, "The Union Jack," rendered with a fire and fervor that enthused the audience. But the Bellevillian, Mr. Fax, with his humorist selections, rendered in inimitable style, carried the audience with him and convulsed them with amusement. He has been here before and will always be welcomed. He sang nine songs in all, and with each his popularity apparently increased, for the third time he was recalled three times and he very good naturedly responded. His reportorie of songs seemed inexhaustible, and for versatility and imitation his powers are remarkable. He will be an established favorite hereafter in Peterborough, as was shown by the applause which greeted his every appearance. Withal the programme was a very entertaining one.

Mr. L. Seward, organist of the George-st church, was the accompanist, and needless to say performed his duties faultlessly.

The programme as rendered was as follows:—

ANOTHER SOCIETY HERE.

The Independent Order of Foresters Organized—Officers Installed.

A public meeting was held last evening in the Royal Templars' hall for the organization of a local Court of the Independent Order of Foresters. Mr. J. R. Stratton presided and introduced Mr. John A. McGillivray, Q. C., of Toronto, the Supreme Secretary of the Order, who gave a brief address. On account of the late arrival of the Toronto train, the speaker did not take the platform until nine o'clock, so that the time was very limited and he could not address his hearers at any length. However, he gave a fair outline of the objects and benefits of the institution. Its principal benefit was the life insurance, and he quoted figures to show how, as he claimed, the order surpassed other institutions in this.

The organization of a local Court of the Order was then proceeded with, some forty gentlemen going in as charter members. With this commencement the Court comes into existence with most favorable prospects. The ceremony of organization and installation was performed by the Supreme Secretary, assisted by Messrs. Z Hemphill and John McKay, D.H.C.P's. The officers of the newly organized Court which has not yet been given a name, are as follows:—

Brought Into the Fold.

The new South Ward building was again crowded to its utmost capacity last night, the occasion being the first baptismal service held within its walls. The front seats were occupied by children, who naturally showed much interest. A shortened form of evening prayer was said, after which the meaning of the sacred rite was simply and definitely explained by the rector. Thirteen children were then brought forward by their parents, and the impressive service of holy baptism was proceeded with. The whole congregation evidenced the deepest interest as the children were one after the other received into the fold by the waters of baptism. The duties of sponsors were then urged upon the parents, and the fact impressed that baptism was no empty form, but simply the being placed by God's ordinance upon the Christian pathway, the admission into the Christian family. This was but the beginning. It largely lay under God with the parents what the end would be.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

A DISTRICT CONFERENCE OF THE WORKERS IN THE SOCIETY.

Practical Papers and Addresses on the Work of the Society—A Number of Questions Answered—The Evening Meeting.

A District Conference of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was opened yesterday afternoon in the George-st. Methodist church. There was a very good attendance. Dr. Scott, President of the local Union, presided, and among those from a distance were Rev. J. McEwen, Rev. J. Johnston, Miss Macdonald, Miss Quinn, Miss Cochrane, of Lakefield; Rev. Mr. Hanna, of Uxbridge; Rev. Mr. Spence, of Omemee; Dr. Harrison, of Keene; Mr. E. A. Hardy, of Lindsay; Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, of Omemee; Mr. and Miss Hunter, of Cold-springs.

The session was opened with singing, prayer by Rev. Mr. Locke and Scripture reading.

PRAYER MEETING COMMITTEE.

Mr. R. J. COLVILLE read a paper by Mr. E. A. Hardy, B.A., of Lindsay on "Prayer Meeting Committees." Comment was made on the great privilege of prayer, which was open to everyone. Besides being a privilege, prayer was a duty and a necessity, commanded in the Scriptures, and it must be a feature in the Christian life if growth was to be made. The prayer meeting committee had a three-fold duty, namely, to provide a topic and a leader for every meeting and to develop the spiritual tone of the meetings. These three sections of work were dealt with, the selection of two leaders for each meeting, the procuring of Endeavor literature, and other practical advice being given.

OUTLOOK AND MISSIONARY WORK.

Rev. Mr. SPENCE, of Omemee, took up the work of the "Look Out and Missionary Committee." He emphasized the importance of the Look Out Committee, as on it largely depended the success and life of the Society; for upon it rested the duty of kindly enforcing attendance and the obligations, and augmenting the membership. In performing these duties personal work was the most effective, and friendliness, cheerfulness, tack and system were essential. The potential forces in the work of the committee, as in all their work, were prayer and faith. He defined the scope of the Missionary Committee, and dwelt upon the importance of missionary work and the benefit it did abroad, and also in the church or society fired with missionary zeal.

THE Y.P.S.C.E. AND S.S.

Rev. J. McEWEN, of Lakefield, gave an address on "Relation of the Y.P.S.C.E. and the Sabbath School." The first fact pointed out was that, those engaged in Sabbath school work were also largely those engaged in the Christian Endeavor work. The Sabbath school should be the church at work teaching the Scriptures to all classes of people, old and young. The definition of the Endeavor work was not so easy, but it was an organized outlet of young life for the building up of the Kingdom of God and the extension of that Kingdom. It was a characteristic of young life that if it was not given an outlet something irregular and unpleasant would happen, hence they were organized into outlook and other committees. As to the relationship of the two, the Sabbath school and Christian Endeavor departments of church life were related as cause and effect—that is, they would never have had the Endeavor work if they had not had a century of Sabbath school work behind it. A revived church begat the Sabbath school, and the Sabbath school begat the Christian Endeavor. They had got on the right line now of organizing the young life. He commented on the marvelous growth of this movement, showing that God was in it. Christ loved the service of young lives, that had not been wasted in the world. They also owed the "Literary and Scientific Circles" to the Sunday school. The power of the Church of God, he said, would never appear as it ought to until they had a higher standard of manhood and womanhood. God could only make the kind of men and women needed out of those who came to the knowledge of the truth late, and hence He was taking the young life and guiding it up in work for Him. The higher manhood and womanhood could not be reached without the strong, systematic and devout study of the Word of God. This showed the connection between the Sabbath school and the Endeavor society. The rev. gentleman concluded an earnest and thoughtful address with a prayer for the success of the Endeavor movement.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Rev. H. C. FARRER, D.D., of Albany, President of the New York State Society of Christian Endeavor, was called to answer the "Question Drawer," in his answers he said:—

That the study of the Bible was quite proper in Christian Endeavor work.

The reading of religious novels, such as "Pansy Books," was not wrong, but five or six in a year would be enough.

It would be better to leave euchre alone—he had no sympathy with cards or dancing.

The Society should always work in harmony with the pastor and the church.

He had no sympathy with shows or suppers in making money; he hoped the church had outgrown its stomach and the kitchen.

Some literary and musical work might be carried on, but spiritual work was the aim of the Society.

The Society was admirably adapted for every denomination, and Dr. Clarke must have been inspired in creating it.

The presence of older people, older in years but young in heart, was helpful in the Societies, but it would be well for them to assist while the young people managed.

Debate should not be permitted in the prayer meeting.

The pastor of the church was pastor of the Society, and it was well for him to attend the meetings.

Associate members should be given work on committees, though not the chairmanship of them.

The session was closed with singing, and prayer by Rev. Mr. Johnston, of Lakefield.

Evening Session.

The evening session of the District Conference of the Y.P.S.C.E. was held in the George-st. Methodist Church. Mr. R. J. Colville, President of the Ontario Provincial Union, presided, and the union choir from the various societies of the town led the singing. The lesson was read by Rev. Mr. Torrance, after which Rev. Mr. Johnston, of Lakefield, engaged in prayer, and the chairman introduced to the audience one of the speakers of the evening, Rev. Mr. Hanna, of Uxbridge, who spoke on the IMPORTANCE OF THE Y.P.S.C.E.

The rev. gentleman spoke very forcibly and earnestly. He dwelt on the important changes that were being wrought in this latter part of the nineteenth century, of the advancement that was being made in almost every department of spiritual life. To this century belongs great revolutions in mission work, Sabbath school work, the Evangelical Alliance and in Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor. The question is how to direct all these great influences for the advancement of the work of the Lord Jesus Christ. The Y.P.S.C.E. is pre-eminently adapted to the young. The question is asked, is this an important feature in connection with the Society, and why should it be considered of such paramount importance? Most assuredly it is an important feature. When we remember that in sacred history these men who have been the best servants and done the most important work are those who were chosen when they were young, such as Joseph, Moses, Daniel and others. We find the same thing in secular history. Alexander had conquered the world at 32 years of age, Napoleon was master of Europe at 35, Pitt, Calvin and Wesley all achieved greatness while they were yet young. Another reason, he said, why the work of the Society was important was that it solved a problem that was a matter of serious and anxious consideration with the churches of to-day. It bridged the gap that has ever existed between the Sunday school and the church. That is when scholars came to be 14 or 15 years of age they usually left the Sunday school—dropped out until they were 25 or so. The Endeavor societies cover this gap by gathering in these. Again it is important because it exalts the covenant keeping idea. And what so important as keeping God's covenants? The active membership pledge stands out paramount, and above everything else it is the strength of the society. The importance of the movement cannot be over-estimated. "It crowns Christ King, It makes the Lord Jesus Christ supreme." Another important feature of the movement is its monthly consecration service, which serves to quicken conscience. It furnishes life blood and life work. He called especial attention to the fact that it gave the young Christians work to do for Christ and the church. The Christian Endeavor movement not only furnishes the societies with work, but it has work for each individual member to do. It offers opportunities for labor in every degree, from leading a consecration meeting to carrying flowers to the sick bed. And then it is important because of the companionship it affords, and the encouragement this inspires. It helps the weak to confess the Lord Jesus Christ. Here they are linked to a powerful organization; faint-trembling and weak at first, each month they become stronger and more courageous. The rev. gentleman said the very knowledge that there were seven hundred and fifty thousand young people engaged in this work in America inspired courage and zeal among the young people of the church. Then he said it caused the pastors to take more interest in the young people, and also caused the young to take more interest in the pastor. Throughout America last year seventy thousand had been received into the churches from the ranks of the Societies. The various meetings of the church felt the influence of the organizations, the prayer meetings, the Women's Mission Circles, etc., etc. One of the most powerful influences in the world to-day for good is the lives lived by Christians, and here again the active members of the Endeavor Society have an opportunity of showing the importance of the work, in letting the light shine forth, and in his way showing many that there is really something in the gospel of the Lord to keep men from evil. The speaker spoke of the great opportunities of the future. There were many important changes just ahead of us and the Endeavorers of to-day would be the men and women who would fill these places. He exhorted the members to attack the enemy all along the line. He believed that God raised up this Christian Endeavour movement for a great purpose, it was yet scarcely ten years old. He urged the members to go forward in the work, carrying the blood-stained banner of the cross on to victory.

WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT WORKS.

After singing, led by the choir, the chairman introduced the Rev. H. C. Farrar, D.D., of Albany, N.Y., who is a thoroughly live Christian, full of earnestness and zeal. He has an eloquent and happy style of address and at once became popular with his audience, receiving frequent hearty applause. His subject was, "The Y.P.S.C.E., What it is and How it Works." This is, he said, the young people's age. He spoke of the young coming to the front in almost every path of life. He did not fear that they would drive the old men into back seats, but we are entering into an era where every man would be called into the ranks. The young people were coming to the front in church life as well as in political. He did not think such an audience as that before him, of representative young people, could have been secured in Peterborough ten years ago, and he believed it was the desire of the young men of to-day, not to push the old aside, but to say, "By the grace of God, dear fathers, we will stand with you," and he welcomed them to the front to the hard work where none but good, honest hearty workers were wanted. He reviewed the formidable war preparations of the nations, but claimed that North America did not want forts, guns, &c., but wanted school houses and churches, (applause). He reviewed the immense influx there was from country places and foreign parts to the cities of to-day and the necessity of bringing some influence to bear upon this. There must be more home mission work, and this without deducting anything from foreign. The question of to-day was not the tariff bill, not McKinley, nor any of his relations, not whether the Province of Ontario shall annex to itself the American Republic to the south, but it is the elevation of the masses about us. He showed that it was through the influence of the Young People's Society of C.E. such a change was to be wrought. What was wanted to-day, he said, was good, honest true men and they could not be found in schools where such systems as of giving marks, which was putting a premium on cheating, were encouraged. So we have to turn elsewhere to find the men and women of integrity. They turned to the church and Sabbath school, for he believed that here was the hope of the country. But it was found that 80 per cent. of the scholars of the Sunday schools dropped out between the ages of 12 and 25. But the Endeavour Societies, he believed, were raised up to bridge over this period. This 80 per cent. instead of dropping out of the Sunday schools would become members of the societies. He wanted to give the members of that society this word—work. By work all things must be done, and he urged the members to embrace the opportunities presented for work in every line of Christian labor. They were on the winning side and he would say to them, to keep close to the word of God, and they were sure to win.

The rev. gentleman was applauded frequently during his earnest address and closed with this urgent appeal to the members to not cease working.

STATISTICAL.

Mr. E. A. HARDY, B.A., Lindsay, Secretary Treasurer of the Ontario Provincial Union, gave a few figures in reference to the work in Ontario. In 1886 there were only two Societies with a membership of about one hundred. To day there were three hundred and fifty Societies and about eight thousand members, or in all there were about ten thousand young people in Ontario working for Christ. He mentioned that in the Globe of next Saturday there would be a history of the movement in Ontario and said all should read it.

A consecration service followed, led by Dr. Farrar, and a number of young people offered testimony, after which the Rev. Mr. Lock closed with the benediction.

A Wild Time at Lakefield.

The Lakefield carnival was held last evening and the event itself was very successful. However, the village was the scene of disgraceful disturbances, according to all reports. A large number of young men went out from here and drinking, led to fighting and a regular Donnybrook resulted. The Reeve says the young men will make another visit to Lakefield, as he intends to prosecute some of the bibulous pugilists.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d16e4-6mo

"I'LL CUT YOUR HEART OUT"

Michael Murray, the Man who Used the Knife, Sent up for Trial.

Michael Murray, the young man who was arrested for using a knife on Wm. Browne, an employee at the C.P.R. restaurant on Tuesday night last, came before Police Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon to receive his preliminary trial, he having elected to be tried by a jury. The witnesses whose evidence was heard were Wm. Browne, the wounded man, Dr. Pigeon who attended Browne, and Thos. Harold, an eye-witness of the affair. The prisoner's wife was in the court room during the time the evidence was being heard.

The story of the affair as told in the evidence, made it appear that Murray had been in the restaurant bar drinking early in the night and returned shortly after nine o'clock. He had a few more drinks and became noisy. When refused liquor he grew insulting and Browne, who is bar-tender, undertook to start him home. Murray went outside with him and Harold followed. The latter asked Murray to go home with him and he consented, but just as Brown was passing him to go into the restaurant he drew a knife from his over-coat pocket and made a savage stab at Browne with the words "I'll cut your heart out." Brown saw the gleam of the steel and dodged his head and the blade instead of striking him in the neck struck him just above the left eye, making quite a cut and severing a small artery. The blood flowed freely and Browne was almost stunned. He was taken into the restaurant while Murray went home.

The Magistrate after hearing the evidence committed the prisoner for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction. Bail was asked for, but the Magistrate said it was a serious case, for a man was now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for a similar blow which unfortunately struck a vital spot. He left the question of bail for the County Judge to decide. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. R. R. Hall for the defence.

This morning Murray was brought before Judge Weller and bail was fixed at $500, himself in $250 and other securities in $250. He will be tried by the County Judge, but the date has not been fixed.

THE QUESTIONS.—The beautiful month of September. A deep, wide, rapid flowing river, whose bank on the North is high, steep, and rocky. Perched upon a point of this high bank, is a city surrounded by walls, and defended by a brave army under a brave general. Fleets of war-ships have for months held the river below and vainly sought to force the surrender of the city. One dark night soldiers from the ships scramble up the steep bank, and with their General, gain the plain above. The morning light reveals to the garrison of the city, its enemy ready for attack. A fierce battle ensues. The generals of both armies die from wounds received. The city is captured. 1. Give the names of the river, city and generals. 2. What nations were represented by the two armies? 3. Which army formed the garrison of the city? 4. By what name is the fierce battle known? 5. In what year did these things happen? 6. What was the result of the capture of the city?

The answers to the above questions must be accompanied by $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE QUEEN. The Young People's Department of THE QUEEN, is devoted solely to entertaining and instructing the youth of Canada. The popularity of "Uncle Joe," who has charge of this Department is demonstrated by the fact that he receives daily from sixty to one hundred letters and puzzles for publication from young people residing in all parts of the globe.

SPECIAL DAILY PRIZE.—Each day during this Competition, either a First-class Stem Winding Nickel Watch, a good time keeper, or an Elegant Silver Desert Set, (Cream and Sugar) value $8.00, will be awarded to the person from whom the first correct answers to above questions are received at THE QUEEN office, and opened, for that day.

The history of our Country should interest every loyal Canadian. If you are a little rusty on this subject, take down your old school history, study up and join THE QUEEN'S "National History School."

The distribution of rewards will be in the hands of disinterested persons, and decisions will be based on the correctness of the answers. Competitors can use their own language in wording their answers.

Answers may be sent in any time before April 10th, but as postmarks may count in awarding the leading prizes, it is better to send as early as possible. No correction can be made after your answers are mailed.

FRANCO-RUSSIAN ALLIANCE.

The Czar's Chamberlain Makes Some Important Admissions.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The Siecle publishes an interview with Gen. Lamsdorf, the Czar's confidential court chamberlain. The chamberlain is quoted as saying that Russians and Frenchmen have so many affinities of character that the former sympathise with France and have a profound antipathy for the people of England and Germany, whose characters are different. Russia, according to the chamberlain, can only reap advantages from contact with the French and hopes to develop her commercial and industrial relations with France. The latter country, said the chamberlain, had recently shown that her wealth was greater than ever and it was gratifying to know that the two nations were most closely connected by force of circumstances and similarity of interests. Finances were most prosperous in Russia. France, he added, could bear her military burdens without fear of financial disaster, which was not the case with several others powers. Every year armed peace sees the success of Russia and France assured, and their union renders war impossible and restrains Europe. Therefore a closer union is desirable. A feeling of great tension recently existed between Germany and Russia. Emperor William wished to hold the German winter manoeuvres on the Russian frontier, and preparations to that end were being made. The Czar, however, notified the Emperor that should he hold the winter manoeuvres as proposed he (the Czar) would in such an event mobilize the Russian first army corps and order important movements of the troops to be made. Upon this representation being made to the Emperor the latter abandoned his intention of holding the winter manoeuvres on the Russian frontier. The Emperor is making a thousand advances to England, but he would do well to remember that a British alliance is to be distrusted.

SCOTT FOOLED THE CONS.

The Strike of Chicago & Erie Conductors is Settled.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Chief E. E. Clark of the Order of Railway Conductors and a committee of strikers who came up from Huntington, Ind., last night were in conference to-day with Vice-President Thomas, General Manager Tucker and other officials of the Chicago & Erie Railroad. It appears there has been misunderstanding between the officials and men from the first. Chief Clark said to-day the men understood that when Scott was suspended there was a direct promise on the part of the company that he would be reinstated. They were told all the old Chicago & Atlantic men were to be discharged and that Scott's dismissal was simply the beginning. They did not doubt the company had broken faith with them in Scott's case and that they were being tricked. No such promise was made to Scott and the company had no intention of getting rid of the old employes. The result of the conference was a proposition for a settlement of the strike by General Manager Tucker, the terms of which have not been made public, but it is evidently satisfactory to the committee, as its members at once took a train for Huntington, Ind., to-day to lay it before a meeting of the strikers.

FROM NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Colony Still Loyal to Great Britain and Her Laws.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 23.—Advices from Newfoundland state at a meeting of what is known as the "French Shore Committee" resolutions were adopted expressing gratitude to their fellow-colonists in Canada for their manifestations of sympathy for Newfoundland in the hardship of its position, and of the active and valuable support and assistance afforded by the press, the various boards of trade and other exponents of public opinion and sentiment throughout the Dominion. The committee recognize in this sympathy and co-operation a source of strength and hope to sustain and encourage the people of Newfoundland to further persistent effort in the future.

The St. John's, Newfoundland, Herald says: "It is quite true that all Newfoundland has been aroused to the most vehement resentment against Great Britain for this second outrage which she now purposes to perpetrate upon the colony, but we have no reason at all to believe that any section of our people have conspired to throw off their allegiance to the British crown. What may happen in the near future we know not, but at present no rumors have reached us here in St. John's of any conspiracy against Her Majesty's sovereignty in Newfoundland.

So long as the arrow remains on the string the people of Newfoundland will do nothing to give the Imperial Government a pretext for depriving them of their rights and franchise. When the lifted hand forbears to strike the blow we will abstain from every act of hostility against Great Britain. There has been no conspiracy or rebellion in Newfoundland, for as yet the colony is preserved in some measure at least of its independence. But what will happen when the modus vivendi is renewed and the French shore question is settled over the heads of the community of Newfoundland time only will reveal."

Killed by a Lead Pencil.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Patrick McCarthy, two years old, living with his parents at No. 439 East 121st-street, was playing with a lead pencil on last Monday, when he slipped and fell. The pencil entered his left eye and penetrated the brain. He was removed to the Harlem Hospital, where he died yesterday.

AN OPEN VERDICT.

Mrs. MacKinnon Was Murdered, but the Jury do Not Say by Whom.

GODERICH, Jan. 23.—The adjourned inquest on the body of Rachael McKinnon, who met her death by a pistol shot wound on Thursday, Jan. 15, was continued last evening in the court room. Nineteen witnesses had previously been examined. Don McKinnon, the son of the deceased, arrived here yesterday from Michigan. He was the only one further examined. He testified that they did not live happily together. This verdict was returned:

That Rachel McKinnon came to her death in the town of Goderich by means of a pistol shot wound inflicted on Thursday, Jan. 15, 1891, about the hour of noon, by some person or persons to us, the jury, unknown.

An information has been sworn out against Donald McKinnon, who is at present in jail, charging him with being the perpetrator of the crime.

Died From Hydrophobia.

Be prompt! don't delay! It is best always to be as early as possible in sending in your answers. Be sure they are right, for no corrections can be made after your answers are mailed—unless you send the correct answers and another dollar and have your subscription extended and the paper sent to some friend. From among this great list you can hardly fail to get something good, IF YOU SEND IN QUICKLY.

These competitions have been going on for the past eight years, and their fairness and reliability have never been questioned. Fully sixty thousand people have voluntarily testified to this, and to the value of the articles received. Over 175,000 persons have obtained prizes in previous competitions. Here are a few names of winners of pianos in recent competitions: Mrs. H. H. Nelles, London South, Ont.; Rosa Brighton, Berlin, Ont.; E. Worth, 36 Markham St., Toronto, Ont.; Ella Lancey, Petrolia, Ont.; Geo. Black, 41 East Ave. South, Hamilton, Ont.; Chas. R. Hoyt, Brantford, Ont.; Miss Lizzie O'Reilley, 149 James St. South, Hamilton, Ont.; Mrs. W. Metcalfe, Hawkstone; Olivia Littlehales, Sussex, Yale, N. B., as well as scores of others in all parts of Canada.

☞ Full lists of the Prize Winners will be published in TRUTH immediately at the close of the competition, (there will be no waiting) with street and number in cities where given, and post office addresses for town, village and country, so all may see just where the prizes go.

The distribution of the prizes will be in the hands of disinterested parties, and the prizes given strictly in the order the letters arrive at TRUTH office. Fifteen days after 31st January will be allowed for letters to reach us from distant points. Address, S. FRANK WILSON, Truth, 59 to 64 Adelaide Street W., Toronto, Canad .

AFTER THE ISLAND.

John Bull Looking With Longing Eyes Toward Hawaii.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—There is the very best authority for stating that, even before the death of King Kalakaua, England was preparing to secure the transfer to herself or Canada of the political and commercial preponderance heretofore held by Americans in Hawaii. The British are anxious to have control of Pearl Harbor, which will soon be one of the finest in the world and which the present treaty gives to the United States. The British Foreign Office has, it is said, received representations from Hawaii that there is a strong feeling there, especially since the passage of the McKinley bill, which deprives Hawaii of the sugar importing monopoly, in favor of transferring to Canada the existing treaty arrangements with America, and that there is a powerful faction in the islands that wishes to annul the treaty at once, on the ground that the sugar importing privileges have been virtually abrogated by the act of the American Congress. His death has aroused a feeling of satisfaction in England, and the efforts to get possession of the Pearl of the Pacific are being renewed with greater vigor than ever. The English are said to have on their side Col. C. W. Ashford, who is virtually in command of the small military force of the Kingdom, and who had expressed himself as advocating a transfer of Hawaiian interests to Canadian control and the annulment of the American treaty, which still has two years to run.

A WEIRD STORY.

Was the King's Death Foreshadowed by a Red Fish Towed Into the Harbor?

DENVER, Col., Jan. 25.—The Republican publishes a long letter from its correspondent at Honolulu, dated Jan. 9, in which he says:

His Majesty King Kalakaua has taken his last look on the throne, his palace, his people, his own pretty little Honolulu. He left on November 25 on the flagship Charleston by special request from Admiral Brown to accept his hospitality to San Francisco, after which he intended making an extended tour of the States and possibly Europe, accompanied only by his Chamberlain. Now comes the sad part of the story. An old Hawaiian legend, from time immemorial, is that when a red fish enters the harbor the crowned head must shortly die.

A red fish on Nov. 10 made its fiery appearance, and was seen by the credulous natives, and although some incredulous Yankees claimed that the Chamberlain and the Princess knew how the red fish came there, still the King, with his fabulous wealth of mental and physical training, in the full vigor of life, only 54 years old, has gradually faded, grown ashen in hue, wrinkled and old since the news of the red fish reached his ears. The wrangle for supremacy between the whites and his people has made the legislative work hard on him this term. The public belief is the Chamberlain will see that he is returned to his native land in a metallic box to be interred with other royalty.

The writer says the opinion is general that the Chamberlain and the Princess, who will take the throne, know how the fish was towed into the harbor. She is a married woman and is reported to be hand in glove with the Chamberlain, Colonel McFarlane, who hopes that a republic may overthrow the throne, of which he will be president.

NEW YORK'S STORM.

The Severest Weather Since the Blizzard of March, 1888.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—A storm which set in late last night and continued until noon to-day was the severest experienced here in the way of cutting off communication with the outside world since the great blizzard of March, 1888. Telegraph, telephone, electric light and fire alarm wires are down in all directions. Advices from New Jersey and Long Island report a similar state of affairs. About six inches of snow fell.

Wrecks of trees and telegraph poles were to be found on every street, while irregular festoons of wire were strung on every sidewalk. While the snow did not offer a bar to railroad traffic, the prostrate poles and fallen wires prevented the running of cars on many streets, and even the elevated railroad trains were often brought to a stop by the wires that had fallen across the tracks.

Chatham's Defaulter Captured.

DETROIT, Jan. 25.—It is said that James N. Henry of Chatham, Ont., who defrauded the Bank of Montreal out of $34,000 and who has been a fugitive from justice for the last two months, was arrested a few days since in Mexico and is now in the United States in charge of a detective, who will bring him north at an early date.

No More Church Lotteries.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 25.—Archbishop Ireland last night issued a letter to the clergy of the archdiocese of St. Paul, in which he peremptorily forbids every practice that in any way resembles a lottery at Catholic fairs, prohibiting all selling of chances, raffles, fish ponds, postoffices and other devices generally in practice at such entertainments, and upon which church people largely rely for their receipts.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR.

FIFTY-TWO COLLIERS KILLED IN GERMANY.

Workmen Killed by an Avalanche in Paris—Beheaded Their Master out of Revenge—Railway Strikers at Greenock Attack the Police and a Serious Conflict Follows.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The railway strikers at Greenock became riotous last night and between midnight and 2 o'clock this morning several conflicts occurred between the strikers and the police. Several officers were injured. There were slighter disorders at Perth, where several arrests were made. The North British Railway Company has lodged an arrestment of the funds of the Scotch Railway Servants' Society, claiming £90,000 damages from the society for causing the present strike.

Immense Damage Occasioned in Various Cities by the Floods.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 25.—A thaw has set in here and floods have resulted. The River Seine, which flows through this city, is much swollen. It has overflowed its banks for miles and low lying suburbs of Brussels are flooded to a depth of five feet. Food is being conveyed to inhabitants of the flooded quarters of the city by boats. A portion of the village of Ankerghem was suddenly submerged to-day and the people were forced to flee from their homes to escape drowning. Many cattle perished. Inundations are reported at Charleroi, Thuin, Marcinnes and Dinant, all attended with immense damage to property.

Gossip About Hartington and the Duchess of Manchester.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—There is a good deal of fresh gossip about the Marquis of Hartington and the Duchess of Manchester. The pair have been guests of Baron Hirsch at Wretham Hall, Norfolk, the Prince of Wales and Lady Randolph Churchill also being of the company. The Princess of Wales was not there. It was one of the jolliest parties of the season and game was slaughtered by the cartload. The Marquis and Duchess showed each other marked attention, taking but little apparent interest in the pheasant shooting.

Bedford's Suicide in the Commons.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—In the House of Commons to-day the Right Hon. Henry Matthews, Home Secretary, in reply to a question, denied that there was any difference in practice between the inquest held on the body of the late Duke of Bedford and that which is held on the body of an ordinary person. The examination in regard to the death of the Duke of Bedford, he declared, was held with open doors. If the press did not know of this it was not the fault of the Coroner. No attempt had been made to suppress a public inquiry.

The Deadly Avalanche.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—While a number of men were releasing snow-blocked trains at Nantria an avalanche fell on them, burying several of the workmen and injuring three fatally. Engineers have been attempting to clear the scene of the huge blocks of ice with which it is packed with dynamite. To-day a dynamite cartridge exploded, killing one of the engineers.

Salisbury Will Submit Proposals.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The Marquis of Salisbury is about to send to Sir Julian Pauncefote a series of proposals for settling the Behring Sea difficulty. He is for allowing the controverted questions to lapse, and suggests certain plans, the chief element of which deals more with the industrial than the political aspect of the case.

A Russian Decision Against Hebrews.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 25.—The Novoe Vremya announces that the Senate has decided that Hebrews are not entitled to acquire or hold real estate beyond five versts from the district or provincial courts, or within the boundary of a town wherein they were registered before August, 1858.

A Family Suicide.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—Burgomaster Fischer, of the Saxony Weavers' Guild at Radegoorst, in Anhalt, killed himself to-day at the Leibig Hotel. His wife and father followed his example on hearing the news. All three had conspired to rob the City Treasury of 800 marks and feared that their guilt would be discovered.

Fifty-two Colliers Killed.

BERLIN, Jan 24.—A terrible disaster has occurred at the Hibernia colliery at Gelsenkirchen. Fifty-two were killed and 20 were severely injured by an explosion which took place in one of the pits.

Flames in a Crown Prince's Palace.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 24.—A fire occurred here to-day in the Crown Prince's palace. Many valuable pictures and a quantity of rich furniture were destroyed by the flames.

Cable Flashes.

Count Wolkenstein of Austria, while dancing at a ball in his palace at Lemberg, dropped dead from apoplexy.

Queen Victoria has presented a richly caparisoned Indian elephant to the Emperor of Morocco.

The Russian Government has abandoned its plans for the construction of barracks and forts on the Austrian frontier.

The subscriptions to the Balfour-Zetland fund for the relief of distressed people in Ireland have reached £56,000.

The City Fathers of Cologne have engaged 13,145 starving and homeless people to work on public works until spring at 130 pfennigs a day.

The Court of Appeals at Paris has decided that Victor Hugo's daughter Adele is entitled to all the profits that may accrue from his literary works.

The engagement is announced at St. Petersburg of the Grand Duchess Xenia, the Czar's eldest daughter, to her cousin, Grand Duke Alexander Mikhailovitch.

The Queen of England will leave Windsor Castle on March 24 for a trip to Italy. She will be accompanied by Prince and Princess Henry of Battenburg.

In the British House of Commons yesterday the Right Hon. George Osborne Morgan, Liberal M.P. for East Denbigh, gave notice of a motion to disestablish the Church of Wales.

A committee consisting of Lord Salisbury, Mr. Gladstone, Lord Granville and Mr. Smith is going to offer to the British Museum a bust of Sir Henry Layard, the famous statesman and antiquarian.

It is proposed in Paris to do away, as far as possible, with lunatic asylums and to place insane persons who are not prone to violence in the homes of country people, who will be suitably remunerated by the State.

An Ottawa Constable's Death

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—Constable Tabman of the city police died last night from the effects of the bursting of a blood vessel, caused by overexertion while making an arrest some days ago.

WILL THE DEAL GO ON.

It is Said She Will Trade for East African Possessions.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The negotiations which have been carried on between France and England concerning Newfoundland have within the last few days assumed a remarkable development by France making a proposal, which if accepted would end the difficulty for all time.

The tenor of the proposal is that France shall enter into arrangements for buying Portugal's claim in East Africa. If she succeeds she shall receive from England a recognition of her sovereign rights over the territory so acquired. In return France shall surrender all claims in Newfoundland which have produced inconvenience to the colonists.

The Chilian Revolt Spreads.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 25.—News has been received here from Valparaiso that a conference between President Balmaceda and the Chilian Deputies has taken place. Many people believed that the President would take advantage of this meeting to tender his resignation. He did not do so, however, and the conference had no result. Meanwhile the insurgents continue to gain strength and confidence. The workmen employed in the factories in and about Valparaiso are joining the insurgent forces in large numbers. The tide of sympathy seems to be with the rebels. Regular railroad traffic is at a standstill, and in many places the insurgents have temporarily stopped the running of trains by tearing the rails up. In some places they have also destroyed the railroad embankment. Business is in a state of paralysis. The Government has declared the large towns to be in a state of siege.

Grim Winter's Icy Clutch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 25.—Terrific snowstorms have prevailed recently throughout the southeastern portion of Russia. Deep drifts have been formed in many localities, and whole villages and numbers of isolated houses have been almost buried in snow. The railroad tracks are entirely useless from the piles of snow resting upon them. The inhabitants are suffering from the bitterly cold weather. Numbers of people have been frozen to death and it is feared that as the snow disappears further loss of life will be revealed. The city of Charkow, the capital of the Government of Kharkow, is completely isolated by snow, and the only way of communicating with it is by telegraph. Charkow has 200,000 inhabitants. It is feared that if its isolation continues there will be terrible suffering, owing to scarcity of provisions among its poorer inhabitants.

Great Britain and Canada.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The Chronicle says that a high authority declares that the Government has exercised no pressure on Canada in regard to pending negotiations. While it would rejoice to see Canada and the United States again commercial friends, thus inducing a different spirit from that engendered by thorny fishery disputes, it does not desire to depart from the policy of allowing the colonies a free hand in commercial matters; nor is it right to imply any intention on the part of Canada to make a reciprocal agreement. The basis of the settlement of such questions as those involved in the Behring Sea must be decided on their merits.

Buried His Head in the Sand.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 24.—The headless body of a major in the Roumanian army was found yesterday in the bath room in the Carroll Hotel, Custendji. Two orderlies who are detailed as the major's body servants were arrested to-day on suspicion of having murdered the officer. One of the orderlies confessed, and said they had buried the dead man's head in the sand not far from the hotel. Revenge for ill-treatment received by the orderlies at the major's hands is supposed to be the cause of the murder.

The McKinley Tariff in England.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Howard Vincent, member for Sheffield Central Division, gave notice in the House of Commons yesterday of his intention to question the Government Monday respecting the reported intention of various Bradford and Sheffield firms, including the Listers and the Sir Titus Salt Company, to remove their works to America. Mr. Vincent says he understood such removals would be made in consequence of the United States tariff. He will ask whether the Government intends taking measures to protect British trade.

Both Fled to Toronto.

DANSVILLE, N.Y., Jan. 25.—James Faulkner wrecked the Dansville Bank in 1887 and fled with the money to Canada. He struck Toronto during the fair, and the police thinking he was an ordinary crook arrested him for vagrancy and he was ordered to leave town. The next year or so he passed in Europe, and then got homesick and returned to the United States. He has just been sentenced at Albany to five years.

BUFFALO, Jan. 25.—About a year ago Stephen F. Sherman, grain dealer, fled to Toronto, after defrauding his creditors. He recently returned and has been sentenced to five years here for grand larceny at hard labor.

Death's Work Certified.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 25.—Dr. Charles F. Heuser was found dead in his bed yesterday. He left a will containing the remarkable request that 12 hours after death his heart be cut out in the presence of witnesses and his body cremated. His wishes have been carried out.

This afternoon the body was cremated at Loudon Park. In accordance with another provision the ashes were placed in tiny vials and distributed to the doctor's friends. Dr. Heuser had a horror of being buried alive. When Dr. Heuser's wife died a few years ago he pierced the heart with a knife. His daughter is an inmate of an insane asylum.

Capiased From Toronto.

HAMILTON, Jan. 23.—Rich and Robinson the Pittsburg boot and shoe dealers arrested as defaulters, are making a strong fight against their creditors. Yesterday a motion was made in the court house before Judge Muir for their discharge under the second capias. Judge Muir ruled in favor of the defendants, dismissing the capias.

The prisoners were immediately arrested on another capias issued at Toronto by Judge Armour at the instance of the Myer Rubber Company of New Brunswick, N.J., whose claim is over $12,000. Rich and Robinson have been taken from the jail and are confined in a private house under the charge of Bailiffs Stewart and Hunter.

Drowned Himself in a Well.

PARIS, Jan. 24.—A farmer named Robert C. Wilson, 30 years of age, living near this town, was found drowned in a cistern adjoining his own dwelling. It appears he made his will yesterday and was in perfect health. Suicide was the cause of his death. No reason is attributed for this rash act.

Booth-Tucker's Scheme.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Booth-Tucker writes to the Indian Press proposing the adoption in India of a rescue scheme similar to that set forth in Gen. Booth's book, "In Darkest England."

THE IRISH SITUATION.

PARNELL NOT LIKELY TO CONFER WITH THE PARTY AGAIN.

Justin McCarthy Looks For an Early Settlement of All Difficulties—Hartington, However, Says it is Improbable That the Unity of the Irish Party Will be Restored

LONDON, Jan. 25.—G. W. Smalley cables The New York Tribune: It seems doubtful whether Mr. Parnell will again visit Boulogne. At Tralee the other day he declared that he would hold the post of leader until assured that the Irish people would get the sort of Home Rule they desired, as set forth in his charter. His language in Ireland this week and his conduct in Parliament do not give token of any intention to retire to obscurity. Much attention has been drawn to his recent utterances in Ireland about complete independence. They are as much like the celebrated "Last Link" speech and so strongly confirm what the Unionists have maintained, that, notwithstanding Mr. Parnell's assumed moderation since Mr. Gladstone took up Home Rule, and despite Mr. Gladstone's assurance about a finality, the Gladstonians no longer attempt to disguise the opinion that Mr. Parnell has all through been maintaining a constant, unswerving policy looking to separation.

WATERFORD, Jan. 24.—Mr. Parnell to-day addressed in this city the largest meeting that has assembled to hear him during his present campaign. Mr. Parnell said that Hartlepool had declared entirely for him in the recent election and that it depended upon Irishmen themselves what kind of Home Rule they obtained. He admitted that he was at fault in being too amiable with Gladstone at Hawarden, but he promised that he would not repeat that mistake. He had never known anything to be got out of negotiations with Gladstone and he was glad they had been broken off. After the meeting Parnell was presented with addresses by the town corporation, the Board of Poor Law guardians, trade societies and other bodies.

A body of McCarthyites held a counter demonstration at Mullinavat, where Messrs. Chance and Sheehy, members of parliament, delivered addresses. There was considerable cheering for Parnell.

Speaking at the Town Hall in acknowledgment of an address presented him there, Mr. Parnell declared that but for the seceders in the Irish Parliamentary party the Government would have been defeated by a large majority on Friday in the House of Commons on Mr. Channing's motion for the relief of overworked railway employes.

Addressing a crowd this evening from a balcony of his hotel Mr. Parnell said he had forced Justin McCarthy "to open his war chest" and devote £4000 to the relief of evicted tenants. During the evening a twilight procession paraded the city in honor of Mr. Parnell.

There is a growing feeling among Liberals that the bill for Irish Home Rule which they would be expected to support should be outlined before the next general election. Mr. Asquith, Gladstonian M.P. for East Fifeshire, Scotland, says that the control and appointment of the police should be vested in the Irish Government by any Home Rule measure, and also the power to deal with the land question.

Archbishop Croke accompanies his subscription to a fund for the family of a Protestant rector with a scathing letter, in which he reproaches Mr. Parnell for doubting Catholics' treatment of Protestants after himself receiving a testimonial of £40,000 from them.

Collapse of The Insuppressible.

DUBLIN, Jan. 25.—The Insuppressible, the newspaper started in this city as a rival to United Ireland, and upon the supposition that William O'Brien would assume editorial control of its columns, has stopped publication. It is believed that Mr. O'Brien's despatch yesterday from Boulogne-sur-Mer to the publishers of The Insuppressible, requesting that his name be no longer used in connection with that newspaper, was the last reason which brought about the collapse of the enterprise referred to.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Justin McCarthy and Thomas Sexton, who went to Boulogne-sur-Mer to confer with Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon, returned to this city to-day. Mr. McCarthy said the conference passed off smoothly and he had great hopes of a speedy and amicable settlement of the existing troubles in the Irish party.

The Insuppressible in its last issue announces that a report is current that arrangements were made at the recent conference in Boulogne-sur-Mer for Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien to go to America for the purpose of collecting funds for the relief of the people who have been evicted from their homes, Mr. Dillon during the absence of Messrs. Parnell and O'Brien to act as leader of the Irish party. The paper adds, however, that it doubts the truth of this report.

Archbishop Walsh has written a letter to The Freeman's Journal in reply to certain statements made by that paper. The Archbishop says it is not a question whether English opinion or Irish opinion is to decide the leadership, but the question is whether Mr. Parnell is morally fit to lead the Catholics. The Journal retorts that Mr. Parnell's business with Ireland is only political.

Hartington to-day in an address to his constituents at Rossendale, Lancashire, speaking of the question as to whether Home Rule was dead or living, said: "Its only chance is gone forever of becoming a practical policy. It is improbable that the unity of the Irish party will be restored, as the confidence of the Gladstonians in the political honesty of the Parnellites is permanently sapped. It is more necessary than ever that any measure for Home Rule should be strictly guarded and limited by provisions securing the unity of the kingdom. The Government is prepared to pass any remedial measures which could be of practical utility to Ireland."

The Paris Siecle announces that William O'Brien has received from Arnold Morley, the Liberal whip, Home Rule guarantees on the part of Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues. These guarantees, according to The Siecle, are sufficient to meet Mr. Parnell's conditions, upon which he consents to retire.

Parnell Coming to America.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Mr. Parnell will be in this city before St. Patrick's Day. He will arrive in the early days of March, probably not later than the 10th or the 12th of the month. Hugh A. Curtin and Michael Breslin have private information that Mr. Parnell will visit New York in the first fortnight of March.

Almost a Centenarian.

BRIGHT, Jan. 24.—There died near Bright on Friday, William Marshall, aged 97 years, a contemporary of the poet Burns. He was born on the Tam O'Shanter Farm, Ayrshire, Scotland.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. Your There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, Blood thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES.

REPORTS are in circulation, and appear to be authentic, that the United States Government has made overtures to the Canadian Government regarding the enlargment of trade relations. The precise nature of the proposals, if they have taken the definite form of proposals, are not known, but it is certain that any approaches from the Republic will receive careful consideration by the Dominion Government, which will be ready to treat on a fair basis. Since the abrogation, by the United States, of the old reciprocity treaty overtures have been made by both Canadian parties to negotiate a new arrangement, but they have been rejected as often as made. The passage of the McKinley Bill looked very much like an unfriendly act intended to force the Dominion into an arrangement that would be inimical to its interests, but instead of being prostrated by that measure Canada at once set about looking for new markets and preparing to off-set any evil effects that act would have on its trade. This manly and independent way of meeting hostile legislation must have been recognized by the United States, and these overtures from that country are probably the first outcome of that recognition of the independent spirit of the Canadians.

There is no doubt that if any arrangement should be made it must be one of mutual concessions. It cannot be all take and no give on either side. Canada is in a position to hold her own and is under no necessity to yield more than she secures, but is quite willing, as she has been all along, to make an equitable arrangement for freer trade relations, and if the United States is now in the same frame of mind good results will follow. It all depends on whether the Republic is willing to treat fairly and to make a commercial arrangement that will be just to the Dominion, for, as Mr. Mackenzie stated in 1878, "when the Government of the United States makes any such proposition, we will of course give it due consideration."

The Population of Peterborough

is about 10,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1. Sold by all druggists.

Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $50,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1200 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formally it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $2.40, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5.60, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $3.60. Send in your orders.

HOW ACTRESSES ACT.

LEADING LADIES OF THE STAGE IN GRANTING INTERVIEWS.

Some Footlight Favorites Ungracious in Seeing Reporters—Others Who Never Refuse to Talk for Awhile With a Member of the Press.

THERE are few people who are interviewed as frequently as actresses. As a rule they are willing to submit to newspaper inquisition, but there are exceptions. When an actress has reached the highest pinnacle in public favor she is very apt to decline to see the newspaper representative.

Mrs Langtry used to be gracious to the interviewer. She would allow him to write an interview and read it to her, and then she would give her assent to its publication. But of late years the Lily has avoided the reporters. She is still gracious and pleasant, however, when she does receive them.

Miss Rosina Vokes is a charming subject. She never says no to a request for an interview, and she makes the time pass so pleasantly that the reporter's "few moments," have lengthened out into as many half-hours. Rose Coghlan avoids the person who seeks her armed with interrogation points, although if by chance she can not avoid an interview she submits with the best grace possible. Fanny Davenport is also a variable subject. Sometimes she will submit to questioning and sometimes she won't. She shows that she is anxious to have the interview finished quickly, yet she is courteous, although a little stiff if you are a stranger.

As Patti is the greatest songstress in the world it necessarily follows that on a tour she is very inaccessible. You may send up your card, but unless you are personally known to her, or unless her personal agent has arranged the affair in advance, you will never see her. But it is worth perseverance, and after you have reached the presence of "la diva" you are rewarded. Patti is exceedingly gracious and affable. She welcomes you with a bright smile and chats so pleasantly that the interviewer is soon at his ease. No one can be more winning in her ways. Vivacious in manner, chatty, and pleasant, she manages to say many bright things which read well in print.

Christine Nilsson is less vivacious than Patti. She will laugh and jest, but she can not lead the conversation. She waits to be questioned. When Gerster first came to this country she was very cordial to the newspaper people, but in the interviewing stage she was shy and reserved. Like Nilsson she rarely suggested a topic, but waited until the question was put to her. Then her replies were brief.

Bernhardt is a good subject. She likes the interviewer, and she is always ready to give him something to write about. In her remarks she is witty and incisive. She will receive clad in a house dress, with her hair disheveled. She is thoroughly bohemian.

Georgia Cayvan, who spends her leisure in practicing gymnastics, will tell you that "the reporter is a bore," but she will make this remark with an air which says quite plainly that she only half believes what she says. As to Mme. Cottrelly, that busiest of all busy women in the theatrical profession, let the reporter catch her if he can—possibly he may get a few moments' conversation between the acts, but he must not expect more. To her duties as soubrette, stage costumer, and director she adds another—that of reading the librettos submitted to the McCaull company. Naturally the time she can devote to her interviewer is limited.

Marion Manola will take the reporter into her confidence and assure him that she had originally a higher ambition than that of appearing in comic opera. "I wish very much to sing in Italian opera, but the day of Italian opera seems to be over for the present. I am just as fond of acting as of singing, and I feel sure that I should make no success at all in a concert where I should be obliged to keep still. I am very superstitious, and I think the members of our profession generally are. I have worn a four-leaf clover incased in a glass around my neck for the last two years, and I wouldn't take it off for anything."

Minnie Maddern will chat pleasantly with the reporter and give a good many interesting points. One story of hers in regard to the "discriminating public" is worth repeating: "I remember once, several years ago, when I was playing some very bad plays, (and very likely playing them very badly), a certain celebrated band honored me with a serenade after a performance. A tremendous crowd assembled in the streets beneath my window and there was cheering and shouting. I was very young and consequently wild with delight over my triumph, and I remember that I threw some flowers to the musicians. A lady occupied the rooms next to mine—a great singer and great artist. Nobody paid any attention to her and on the following evening my audience was far greater than the one which greeted her. In glancing over the account books later I discovered that my manager had paid a pretty sum for that serenade."

Justly Indignant.

Every right-minded woman resents any reflections on her bonnet. Here is an illustration in a story from open-car time: A director of a horse railroad line was riding on a car when a woman near him was robbed of her bonnet by a gust of wind. Off jumped the woman after her bonnet without waiting for the car to stop, while the director sat helpless and angry with visions of a suit for injuries from the relatives of the bareheaded woman dancing through his own head. But back she came unhurt with the rescued bonnet on her head, and got upon the car, which had now stopped for her. "That's right," said the director. "That's right; risk your life for a two-dollar bonnet!" The woman's eyes flashed fire, and she retorted sharply, "'Tain't a two-dollar bonnet; it's a seven-dollar bonnet!"

What Kind of Light.

"I understand," said the private secretary to a stockholder in the gas company, "that Sir Edwin Arnold got $25,000 for his 'Light of Asia.'"

"You don't tell me!" was the reply. "What was it; gas or electricity?"

Keeping His Credit Good.

Littleshort—"Let me have $10 this morning, will you Wally?"

Wally (hands over an X)—"Yes, but——"

Littleshort (hands it back)—"There, that pays up for the one I had last year. I try and make it a point not to let these things run too long."

And Then There Was Music.

Fond mother—"John, do you know Gertie has arranged a little piece for the piano?"

Fond father—"Good! Peace for the piano means peace for all of us."

Vegetable Diet.

Jones—That's all nonsense about eating meat being injurious to health. My ancestors for hundreds of years ate meat.

Vegetarian—Yes, and where are they now? Dead, ain't they?—Texas Siftings.

Not Selfish.

"You should marry Henrietta Robinson, Porper. She has $10,000 a year.

"Yes, I know; but I need that much for myself. What the deuce would she live on?"—Harper's Bazar.

A Child's Request.

Ava was trying to break apart a cracker one morning, and she worked at it very patiently for a long time before she carried it to her grandma with, "Oh gramma, if you please, won't you unbutton my cracker?"

ASPIRE.

Never cease aspiring—

Greater good desiring,
Fill your heart ne'er tiring,

Cast off every fetter—
  Keep each hope alive!
Make success your debtor!
Failure e'en is better

Seen on the Street Yesterday.

The following item of information appeared in one of our city papers a few days ago:—

"We are pleased to state that Mr. ——, the well known barrister, was seen on the street yesterday. Mr. ——, our readers will remember, was seriously ill for a time, and his life despaired of."

The well known barrister referred to is to-day a living evidence and proof of the great efficacy of Paine's Celery Compound. Close confinement to office work and irregular meal hours brought on a severe attack of dyspepsia, a fulness in the head and a ringing sensation in the ears, which, combined with headache and nervousness, almost shattered his constitution. He had to give up his practice for a time and remain at home, when fortunately he was induced to try Paine's Celery Compound, instead of securing the long service of a physician.

Paine's Celery Compound, assisted by proper dieting and gentle exercise, restored to health this lawyer whose condition was at one time considered critical. Reader, this great remedy will do the same for you or your friends if you are out-of-sorts, weary, nervous, depressed in spirits or dyspeptic; try it at once.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

A Shoulder Severely Injured.

On Saturday morning at the time of the Tedford runaway on Water-st. Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald, of Smith, was thrown from his cutter and his shoulder was severely bruised. Mr. Fitzgerald was turning out to avoid the approaching runaway when his cutter struck a telegraph pole and he was thrown out. His injuries were not serious.

Mayoralty Contest Recount.

As a result of the Ottawa Citizen Mayoralty Contest Recount Mr. Bannell Sawyer, Principal Ottawa Business College, has been returned. The number of votes announced to his credit was 14,086. According-ly a few evenings since the Citizen Company presented Mr. Sawyer with a statuette of Sir John A. Macdonald by Hebert. It stands 2½ feet in height and is an excellent likeness. While we congratulate Prof. Sawyer on his success, we would venture the remark that if he continues to increase in popularity his college will soon make him a handsome fortune.

It Will Cost Them Money.

The fighting and rowdyism which was indulged in by some young men in Lakefield on Friday night last is not to go unpunished. Nine local youths who are supposed to have been into the "thick of the fray," have received summonses to attend Police Court at Lakefield to-morrow morning. A young man by the name of Wylie, of Bridgenorth, was arrested at Lakefield that night and locked up. On Saturday morning it cost him $9.75 to regain his liberty. He claims he was not one of the pugilists and threatens an action for false arrest. However, his fate will serve to give the local sports some idea of what their fate will be.

An Exciting Runaway.

One of the most exciting runaways for the eye-witnesses that has been seen here for some time occurred on Saturday evening about five o'clock. A team of horses, owned by Mr. Robt. Stewart, of Fraserville, which were attached to a heavy bob-sleigh in which were several quarters of beef, took fright at a passing train at the crossing on Simcoe-st. At a terrific rate the horses dashed along Simcoe-st. and fortunately passed crowded George-st. without a collision. However, such a catastrophe was not long delayed. Mr. Stephen Payne's horse and sleigh were standing in front of the Metropolitan Grocery and upon this the runaway team dashed. For a moment the air was filled with the wreck of the two sleighs and their contents, while Mr. Payne's horse turned a complete somersault. One of the team also fell and this stopped further progress. A horse belonging to Mr. Robinson and attached to a cutter took fright and dashed away up Water-st. but was caught before doing damage. Mr. Payne's horse was injured on one leg and his sleigh was pretty badly smashed, but fortunately no one was injured, although a couple of young ladies on the sidewalk had a narrow escape.

Surer foundation cannot be laid than the real merit which is the solid base for the monumental success of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE MARKET FEES.

A Committee Appointed to Wait on the County Council—The Sugar Beet.

The directors of West Peterborough Farmers Institute held a meeting at the Morgan House on Saturday afternoon. The President, Mr. Dawson Kennedy, was in the chair.

The question of market fees, which was discussed at the recent meeting of the Institute, was considered by the directors and a committee, composed of Mr. Dawson Kennedy, the President, and Mr. J. A. Davidson, the Secretary, was appointed to wait upon the County Council to urge upon that body the advisability of appointing a committee to act in conjunction with a committee of the Institute in bringing the matter before the Legislature.

The proposed establishment of the sugar beet manufactory, which was also brought before the East Riding Institute, was discussed. It is proposed to establish the manufactory at Harwood and a convention to consider and take action in the matter is to be held at Cobourg on the 28th inst. Messrs. Dawson Kennedy and Wm. Collins were appointed a committee to attend this convention and glean information as to the cost of raising the beets, etc. This committee will report to the Institute.

The fixing the dates of the next meetings of the Institute was left for the next meeting, but it is probable that the West Riding Institute will hold a meeting at Lakefield and the East at Warsaw.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

The Baptist Congregation Extend a Call—The Pulpits Yesterday.

After the morning service yesterday the congregation of the Murray-st. Baptist Church held a meeting to consider and decide upon the extension of a call to a pastor. The meeting was harmonious and a decision was reached authorizing the church to extend a call to the Rev. John E. Trotter, of Clairmont. This rev. gentleman is a young man and has the reputation of being an able preacher and energetic pastor.

Rev. Dr. Farrar, of Albany, N. Y., who was here to attend the District Y.P.S.C.E. Conference, preached in two of the town pulpits yesterday and delivered an address to a large mass meeting in the afternoon. In the morning he was at the Baptist Church and preached to a large congregation. In the afternoon the George-st. Methodist Church was crowded when he spoke to the young people. In the evening St. Paul's Church was filled, every available seat being occupied. The rev. gentleman is truly American in his style, but he gives some good, plain facts in an interesting and lucid style, now and then causing a smile by his manner of putting truths. His evening discourse was one based upon the twelve apostles, he pointing out that of half of the twelve we had no record, they had been allowed to go into obscurity, with apparent neglect. Upon this he based a discourse in which he impressed upon his audience that it was character, not reputation, that went into eternity, that God did not judge man by the greatness of his service, but by the motive. They should be faithful in little things or they would never accomplish great things, and always remember that the apparently forgotten services were remembered and the unrecorded always recorded.

Rev. John Burton, of the Northern Congregational Church, Toronto, preached at both services at St. Andrew's church yesterday and delivered two able discourses to good congregations, holding the interest of his hearers from beginning to the end. Next Sunday Rev. And. E. Tully, of Mitchell, will occupy the pulpit at St. Andrew's.

Mr. R. J. Colville, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church last evening.

Rev. S. J. Shorey and Rev. J. H. Locke exchanged pulpits yesterday morning, the former preaching in the George-st. church and the latter in the Charlotte-st. church.

The annual meeting of the St. Paul's church congregation is to be held on Wednesday next.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

Mr. Frank Pook gave a very earnest address at the young men's meeting on Saturday night. The attendance and interest was all that could be desired. The orchestra led the singing.

Mr. Wm. Freeborn led the consecration meeting on Sabbath morning. It was a blessing to all present.

The afternoon service in the rooms was withdrawn to enable all to hear Rev. Dr. Farrar in the George-st. Methodist church.

The General Secretary led the gospel and song service last evening. The attendance was very large. We praise God for blessings received.

A Past-time that Became Useful.

The following is an extract from a letter recently received from an old Peterborough boy who has been in the Northwest for some time and is at present engaged building a house five miles from Port Arthur:—"I have made a trip to Port Arthur every day this week on the ice. The whole of Thunder Bay is frozen over—just one sheet of glare ice. You can skate for miles and miles on it. I left the house I am working on here yesterday at three o'clock and was in J. Emmerson's store at half past three, just about five miles by water; so you can imagine how I skipped over the ice. I never dreamed when I was skating around home that I would use my skates to earn my bread. I have brought loads of lumber and other stuff down here on a long hand sleigh that would make a fair load for a horse if he was pulling it on the road, but the sleigh glides over the ice quite easy and it is no trouble to skate off with it. It is snowing to-day and that will spoil the skating unless the wind blows it off the ice. We have not had good sleighing here this winter. It has been a regular down east one—no cold to speak of this winter. I wish it would get a little colder, I am getting tired of this weather; but perhaps we will get it cold enough before spring yet."

A Coming Event.

The W.C.T.U. have invited Mr. O. C. Rowse, lately returned from Europe, to give an address on his travels. Mr. Rowse being of an observant nature made notes of incidents, scenery, customs, &c., and on his return prepared an interesting and amusing talk which he has given with great success in Oshawa, Beagrave and Hastings. He has kindly consented to address a Peterborough audience on the subject and particulars as to time and place will be given later.

ACTIVITY AT CHEMONG.

A Grand New Hotel now Being Completed—Other Additions.

It is probable that next season will be a lively one at Peterborough's nearest summer resort—Chemong Park. This beautiful spot on the shore of Chemong lake has already been described in the REVIEW and there are few of our citizens who are no now aware of its many natural beauties by personal observation. But next season accommodation will have been provided for the comfort and convenience of a greatly increased number of summer residents. Mr. Louis Fobert, proprietor of the hotel at Bridgenorth, is erecting a fine, commodious and handsome hotel in the Park, and this building is now being rapidly pushed to completion, Mr. T. Rutherford being the contractor and Mr. J. E. Belcher the architect. This new hotel will have accommodation for over fifty guests and will be provided with all the latest improvements and conveniences. It is a three storey structure, 38x51 feet and contains twenty-six rooms, besides the dining room, kitchen and bar. Bath rooms will be fitted up and the house supplied throughout with spring water for drinking and lake water for washing purposes, a large windmill supplying both. The rooms will all be heated with hot air and withal the hotel will be equal in point of comfort and convenience to any city hostlery. Adjacent to the hotel Mr. Fobert intends to erect a dancing pavillion 30x24 feet, for the use of picnic parties and guests of the house. Bathing houses will also be erected on the shore of the lake. Several additional cottages will also be built near the hotel and be rented at a low rate, the occupants boarding at the hotel. Mr. Alex. Elliott also has had plans prepared for another large pavilion 124x60 feet, which will accommodate about 700 and be a grand place for an assembly or amusements.

With these accommodations combined with its natural beauties Chemong Park will be made a most delightful summer resort and is certain to become more popular than it was last season. With the branch line of the Grand Trunk running into the Park, which it is hoped will be an accomplished fact before the season opens, as it is needed, Peterborough will be put in close and rapid connection with this beautiful resort and there would be not difficulty in business men spending their nights in the cool shades and fresh air of the Park and being to business early in the morning.

Single Tax and Confiscation.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—With your permission I should like to say a few words in reply to Mr. Dumble. First of all, I may say, I have sent the paper containing his letter to the Rev. Father Huntington that he may reply for himself.

Mr. Dumble objects to any theory concerning land that does not include compensation. I agree with him. Moreover, on the ground that a contract not immoral per se cannot be made so by legislation, it is necessary that the compensation be a present one in contrast to promised future benefits. The single tax theory has been expounded by Mr. George, who says that he does not believe in compensation. This theory, is in itself, simply in reference to the unearned increment and has nothing to do with compensation or confiscation. Now if compensation can be made, the theory at issue is not vulnerable on that point. That compensation can be made on the 21-year futurity plan has been demonstrated time and again. Mr. Dumble would believe in single tax, I think, if it were not for this confiscation. But Henry George, though he has urged confiscation, is only one of the apostles of this great movement and the theory does not stand or fall with him. Further, whilst some go so far as to demand a present compensation, others go in for the system of compensation by means of the laws of trade alone. The laws of trade, considered quite moral, allow the gradual shifting of burdens from one shoulder to another in the commonwealth. Incomes up to $700.00 are not taxed. Part of their shares falls upon land. Machinery of new and old manufactories is frequently exempted. The share of these falls in part upon land, and whilst the tendency of the times is to abolish exemptions these are of a different sort. The present crusade against exemptions is for the purpose of equalizing the present burden, not for the purpose of increasing it. It means, I think, that where one man pays taxes another similarly circumstanced must do the same. Exemptions under the single tax are, however, for the purpose of lightening taxation all round, not in spots. This theory is an old one that began before Henry George was born and is simply a legitimate development of the original scheme. It is an improvement upon the fiscal plan now used which is grotesque in the extreme. Nor is single tax to be understood without an understanding of the recognized laws of political economy on which it is founded. These laws govern necessities. Articles of fashion, etc., are not really within the scope. A gentleman very shrewdly urged, the other day, the case of the diamond which has a value given it simply by the demand. This was considered parallel to the case of land which rises on demand and that therefore the diamond had an unearned increment. Now, diamonds are not bought when would-be buyers want bread. They then become valueless in the market. Such is never the case with land. The people can no further go. Land must be had or people must starve, so that the mysterious increment given to land is really not from demand, but from necessity. The increment given to the diamond is not from necessity, but from demand. The supply of water can be treated in precisely the same way as land and is a more cogent example. If necessaries are substituted for the diamond still they rank second to land, for land is the prime necessity and all other necessaries must be got out of it.

Herein lies the only strength of the George theory of confiscation that I can see. It is somewhat in this way. Those gone before us have, under the sanction of the law and not immorally, held all available land (I make it all for the sake of plainness). Those coming after who do not hold land must, nevertheless, live on and out of land, therefore they must pay the price of existence to the land-owner or starve. They unwillingly and reluctantly pay to land-owners the high price of their existence, which is also the price of freedom. Where they cannot pay it they are just as much slaves as the blacks before the war and starving ones at that. But we are told the law allows it. The law has no power to make men slaves. When a black set his foot on English soil he became free. When a man sets his foot on the Almighty's soil shall he be less free?

I am sorry for the widow and her two children who get their sole income out of land. She should be compensated.

The poor must be cared for and we scorn the man who has not a heart full of pity for them. Mr. Dumble has a tender heart. But justice must prevail and truth must be upheld and these, the Georgist says, demand that the widow shall help to free the slave and civilization demands that we shall take care of the widow. This I understand to be the claim of the non-compensationist. The Monetary Times calls upon the universities to enlighten the people upon this "the greatest economic question of our time." Exemptions of income and of certain personal property which are being more largely practiced every day are not considered confiscation, though they are just as much so as a gradual introduction of the land-tax. In fact this is the gradual introduction of it. Many who are opposed to Single Tax have not ready anything of the science of Political Economy. Thanking you.

Yours,
J. HAMPDEN BURNHAM.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d16w4-6mo

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

The First Carnival a Complete Success—A Young Man Fined.

Correspondence of the Review.

ENLARGING THE CRUISER.—Captain Reynolds has cut the Cruiser in two and intends making her twenty feet longer, so as to accommodate the increasing passenger traffic on Clear and Stony Lake.

THE NORTH SHORE ACCIDENT.—The body of Mr. Thomas Simpson, jr., who was killed on the North Shore, was brought home by his brother William and arrived here on Wednesday night by train and was interred in the Hillside Cemetery, Rev. G. Warren officiating. The whole community sympathize with the family in their sad affliction.

THE CARNIVAL.—The first carnival of the season, which took place Friday night, was a grand success, the manager sparing no pains to have the rink in first-class shape for both skater and spectator. Owing to the weather the ice was a little soft, but that did not prevent the skaters and their friends from coming out, over four hundred people being present. The rink was nicely illuminated with Chinese lanterns and decorated with evergreens, while on entering a large banner bearing the word "Welcome" was very conspicuous.

The following is the list of skaters who appeared in costume:—

The ice was reserved until 9 o'clock for those in costume. It was almost bewildering to look at the skaters in their varied costumes moving along to the fine music of the Lakefield Fire Brigade Band, assisted by Mr. Finch Miller and Mr. Ernest McCabe, of Peterborough. Just before 9 o'clock the ice was cleared for the mile and a half race, in which entered Messrs. Geo. Balsdon, Thos. Redpath, Geo. Baptie, J. E. Kelly, R. Griffin and Frank Irwin. Frank Irwin won first and Roland Griffin second.

The prizes awarded for costumes were as follows:—

Best character costume, gents.—Mr. E. B. Uin, "Indian Chief." Best comic costume, gents.—Mr. H. J. Lefevre, "Pickwick." Best character costume, boys.—Master Percy McLean, "Uncle Sam." Best ladies' character costume.—Miss Barlee, "Fatuna." Best girl's character costume, Miss Winno Kemp, "Turkish Girl."

A number of the Peterborough young men, after the carnival, had a grand carousal, one of whom, John Wylie, passed the night in the lockup and was fined $5.00 and cost. We understand warrants are to be issued for a number of others. In the future we would advise the Peterborough young men when they come to Lakefield to behave themselves, as the authorities are determined to stamp out all such carrying on.

Reg. ex rel. Reynolds v. Plant.—Stone (Peterborough) for the relator, obtained fiat for leave to serve notices of motion calling upon the respondent to show why he should not be unseated from the office of councillor of the village of Norwood. The Business Tax.

This matter is occupying public attention. The pros and cons of it are being discussed. Good men advocate it, and the assumption is that it is a new and reasonably fair way of apportioning the tax on personal property. In the meantime the reflection comes, no matter how the business tax may affect a fellow's pocket, that at Hawley Bros. teas can be had at old prices, at old qualities, both of the best. Go to Hawley Bros. for your teas. c&w

In Opera House

Highly Appreciated.

The following despatch is from the Toronto Mail:—

"ORILLIA, Jan. 13.—This very popular company (Stevenson Dramatic Company) closed a week of big business in Orillia on Saturday, on which occasion the citizens presented Miss Belle Stevenson with a beautiful dressing case of oxydized silver. The presentation was made by Mr. Tudhope at the end of the last act of 'Fate.' The young lady was taken completely by surprise. Her father, Mr. C. J. Stevenson, expressed his sincere thanks. The opera house was packed to the door, and the applause which greeted her was inadequate to express the approbation with which the audience regarded her talents. The company is under the management of Chas. C. Lindsay, and is playing east to big houses."

This Company commences a week's engagement in the Opera House to-night.

OVER THE FALLS TO DEATH

STARTLING SUICIDE AT NIAGARA FALLS SUNDAY NIGHT.

Killed on the Michigan Central—A Farmer Blows His Head Off—A Drink in the Dark Results in Death—A Man Throws Himself in Front of a Railway Train and is Frightfully Injured.

STEVENSVILLE, Jan. 23.—To-day at 3½ p.m. Irvin Teal and Ezra Moore of Ridgeway, while driving across the M.C.R. track southward, were run into by a special westbound train. The engine demolished the buggy and Moore was thrown a distance of 40 feet and died at 9 p.m. Teal was badly bruised but not fatally. Teal claims that the engineer did not ring the bell or use the whistle until the engine struck his rig.

SUICIDE AT NIAGARA.

Deliberate Suicide at Niagara Falls Sunday Night.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan 25.—A man who registered at the Spencer House as C. E. Stanley, Cleveland, Ohio, suicided by jumping off Goat Island bridge into the Niagara rapids and was instantly swept over the American Falls. Reservation Park Policeman Henry Highland saw the man climbing over the locked bridge gates. When he reached the man he was half way up the island hill. He saw Stanley was intoxicated and took him by the arm to lead him back to the mainland. They had not proceeded far when Stanley broke away. Just about the middle of the bridge Stanley mounted the railing, jumped over on the anchor ice below and lay apparently stunned. Highland summoned help, when Jack McCloy fastened a rope about his waist and made his way towards Stanley, who had risen to a sitting position and sat shivering and shaking. Another second and he would have been secured, when Stanley rolled over into the rapids and was shot with lightning rapidity among the floating ice into the rapids and dashed over the falls. His body will likely lodge among the huge masses of ice at the foot of the falls.

DEATH CAME IN THE DARK.

A Captain Drinks From a Cup in Which Paris Green Had Been Mixed.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Jan. 23.—An old resident of this village, Thomas Jones, accidentally poisoned himself Friday night by taking Paris green. He got up about 11 o'clock to get a drink of water and, there being none in the house, he took a pail and went to the cistern and drew some in the dark. He got hold of a cup which had been used for mixing paris green and dipping it into the pail he took a drink. He then returned to bed and as soon as the effects of the poison became manifest a doctor was sent for, but it was too late, as he gradually became weaker until death ensued this morning. The deceased was well known all over the lakes, having been a sailor for about 40 years. He leaves a widow and seven children, all grown up.

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

A One-Armed Man Killed While Fixing an Old Gun.

JORDAN, Jan. 25.—Burton Snure, a farmer living near here, about 9 o'clock yesterday morning told his wife he had an old stockless gun he wanted to fix up. He at once went to the wood shed where his carpenter's tools and appliances were kept. In about ten minutes an explosion was heard. Mrs. Snure rushed to the shed and found her husband stretched on the ground a corpse. Snure having but one arm and not suspecting that the useless old gun was loaded had placed it in a vise for the purpose of repairing it. When his face was directly over the muzzle the gun had exploded, the charge entering just above the right ear and blowing the top of the head completely off, causing instant death.

SOUGHT DEATH ON THE RAIL.

Determined Attempt at Suicide Near Winnipeg—The Man Badly Mutilated.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 25.—At Monmouth, east of here, Friday night a man attempted suicide by throwing himself in front of a moving freight locomotive. As the train drew up to the depot the man jumped on the track right in front of the engine. He was knocked down and the wheel passed over one of his arms and one of his feet and inflicted injuries to his skull. He was brought into the city and taken to the hospital, where his crushed arm was amputated this morning. The toes of one foot are crushed off and the limb is otherwise injured. The injury to the skull is serious, but not necessarily fatal, and there is a prospect of his surviving. The man's name is John Dark, but nothing further is known of him. He is a stranger here.

WOLVES FED ON THE CORPSE.

The Body Washed Ashore at Dog's Head Was That of a Montreal Man.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 25.—The body of young Rene De Beaujeau, one of the victims of the Keewatin yacht disaster on Lake Winnipeg last September, arrived here yesterday and was shipped last night to Montreal. When first discovered by Indians on the shore of the lake at Dog's Head last November the body was supposed to be that of Oliver Morphy of Toronto, who met his death at the same time, but from descriptions of watch and locket found on it De Beaujeau's friends came to the conclusion that it was his body, and McMonongahela De Beaujeau, Montreal, arrived to recover his brother's remains and take them home for interment. The body was badly mutilated by water and, after it drifted ashore, by wolves and Indian dogs.

Died in Her Husband's Arms.

THOROLD, Jan. 25.—Friday evening, Mrs. J. B. Henderson, wife of Mr. Henderson, proprietor of the Thorold knitting factory, left her house in Queenston street in apparent good health, coming down town to get some medicine for an attack of asthma, with which she was occasionally troubled. When opposite Ling's restaurant she became suddenly ill, and entered the house, suggesting that a cab be called to take her home. She was immediately assisted to one passing at the time, and on arriving in front of her residence was lifted out in the arms of her husband, and expired in a few moments.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets, by Grocers, labelled thus:

A RAINY RIVER MYSTERY

NOW BEING INVESTIGATED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Many Suspicious Circumstances in Connection With the Death of a St. Mary's Man—Was the Message Left Behind a Forgery—His Wife Was Unfaithful.

RAT PORTAGE, Jan. 26.—Although the coroner's jury, by a vote of 7 to 5, decided that T. B. Carruthers, formerly of St. Mary's, who was recently found dead with a bullet in his brain in the Rainy River district, had committed suicide, grave suspicions are entertained that he was deliberately murdered, and a Government detective is here investigating the case.

Last June Carruthers took his family up the river. Mrs. Carruthers, it transpires, was discovered by her husband as being too intimate with a certain young man who is very well known around here, and Carruthers thrashed the intruder in his wife's affections and warned him if he ever set foot in that region again that he (Carruthers) would shoot him on sight. Since that time the young man has found it healthy to live in Rat Portage.

It was Mrs. Carruthers who discovered the dead body of her husband. She states that she went out about 9 a.m. to feed the cow and get some water, and while out she heard a shot and went to the scene. On entering she saw her husband lying on the floor, with a revolver by his side. One ball had entered the back of the head running level and come out in the forehead, the second shot entered at the left side of the nose and passed downward towards the throat. Two revolvers were kept in the house on a shelf on the sideboard.

Mrs. Carruthers then hunted round to see if her husband had written anything before doing the rash act, and wonderful to relate found a letter in the pocket of a pair of pants hanging up stairs. It was in a white handkerchief tied by corners, and the scrawl purporting to have been written by him was a half sheet of dirty notepaper, written without punctuation, as follows:

MY DEAR FRIEND,—I have taken trouble to my heart. For the last two weeks or more I have got worse. I have got to hate my wife and family. I often feel like blowing their brains out but I am bound to put an end to myself. I am going to riddle my head with balls from the back to the front. I want you to accuse nobody of this bad deed but myself. Tell Ellen to go home to her father and mother where she will be well looked after. Whoever finds this I want them to publish it in every paper to let people know what loss of property can do. This is my last words on earth.

T. B. CARRUTHERS.

A Girl That Cries Glass.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Jan. 26.—The physicians and oculists of this city are greatly puzzled over the case of Jennie Sutton. From the right eye of the girl 54 pieces of broken glass were taken by Dr. T. C. Fritch. These pieces of glass have been coming from the eye of this girl for the last month, and only day before yesterday Dr. Fritch removed every evidence of glass in the eye and announced that all were taken out. Yesterday she came back and had 54 more pieces removed. The girl is a domestic in the family of ex-County Surveyor Stringfellow. It is estimated that over 180 pieces of glass have been taken from the eye since the case first attracted attention.

No Change in the Coinage.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—In the debate in the Reichstag to-day upon the budget estimates Herr Kardorff proposed the German Government open negotiations with the American Government with reference to remonetization of silver. Dr. Bamberger opposing the proposal expressed the conviction that the Federal Government of Germany did not contemplate a change in the currency. Herr Von Maltzahn, secretary of state for the treasury, said the Prussian Government saw no necessity for altering the monetary standard, Dr. Koch, president of the Reichsbank, also held there was no ground for interfering with the present standard.

Notorious Burglar Captured.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 26.—Jim Butler, a notorious house-breaker, was arrested here Saturday night on a charge of escaping from Jackson, Mich., jail. Butler is a negro and 15 years ago escaped twice from Kingston Penitentiary. He is a powerful, active man and is a desperate character. Sheriff Boyle of Jackson arrived to-night to take him back.

A One-Handed Baby.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 26.—Mrs. Lewis Bailiff, who lives in the northwest part of the county, gave birth yesterday to a child with but one hand. Where the other hand should be there appears a perfect mole's head and one forepaw. Barring this freak the child is well form ed and in healthy condition.

Fell Dead in the Pulpit.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 26.—A. Harris, a Jewish rabbi, fell dead in his pulpit to-day just after delivering a sermon.

An Interesting Test Case.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—The Court of Appeals was called on to-day to decide an interesting case. Some time ago two young men, Ford and Graham of Toronto, were convicted of obtaining money under false pretences. The money in question was a check, and the Chief Justice decided that this was not a valid security. The case will go to the Supreme Court.

CREMATED IN A CARRIAGE

SHOCKING RAILWAY DISASTER REPORTED IN RUSSIA.

Artillerymen and Civilians Fight at Weymouth—The Soldiers Draw Their Sword-Bayonets and Slash and Prod Citizens—Labor Troubles in Holland and Elsewhere.

WEYMOUTH, Jan. 26.—Last evening a number of artillerymen belonging to No. 2 Battery, Garrison Artillery, became involved in a fight with civilians. The disturbance attracted a crowd of citizens, and also brought reinforcements to the soldiers. Finally the fight became general, and the soldiers to the number of 70 or 80 drew their sword bayonets and charged through the crowd and down the street, slashing or prodding anybody in their way. The civilians, panic-stricken, fled in all directions, leaving a number of wounded upon the ground. When the news of the disturbance reached the officers in charge of the artillery barracks they ordered the buglers to call the men to quarters. Though the riotous artillerymen heard the commands they refused to obey and for hours spread terror through Weymouth. Eventually the soldiers sobered down and straggled back to their quarters, where they were arrested. All the rioters are to be court-martialled and may also have to answer to the civil authorities.

SAILORS ALSO HAVE A SET-TO.

Serious Scrimmage Between French and German Sailors.

BORDEAUX, Jan. 26.—A scrimmage took place here to-day between a number of French and German sailors. Knives were drawn and two Germans were seriously wounded and taken to the hospital. Several Germans and Frenchmen were slightly wounded. One Frenchman was arrested. It is expected one of the Germans will die.

STARVING WORKINGMEN.

Four Thousand Workmen in Hamburg Ask Aid From the Government.

HAMBURG, Jan. 26.—Four thousand unemployed workmen of this city held a meeting to-day to consider measures looking to an amelioration of their condition. It was resolved to send a petition to the Senate asking that landlords be prohibited on next quarter day from evicting tenants unable to pay their rents; also asking that loans of fifty marks be advanced to destitute workmen from the State funds, and that poor children in the public schools be supplied with a hot meal daily.

A committee formed to help relieve the distress of the unemployed distributes 10,460 free meals daily.

Spanish Port Laborers Quit Work.

MALAGA, Jan 26.—The port laborers of this city have all gone on strike.

DIDN'T STICK TO THE LAST.

Jean Simon, the Son of a Cobbler, Became a Millionaire.

PESTH, Jan. 26.—Cardinal Jean Simon, Archbishop of Gran and Primate of Hungary, died at Gran to-day at the age of 78 years. His father was a cobbler at Stuhlweissenbourg, Hungary, and it was with such a lowly start in life that Jean set out to be what he actually became, one of the most powerful of all the Princes of the church. He rose to the Archbishopric while still in the prime of life, with a diocese richer than any in the church. His estates were broad and his palaces and parks of ducal splendor. From his hands in 1867 Francis Joseph received the crown of St. Stephen.

Travelers from Vienna to Pesth pass in view of his palace at Gran and of his magnificent cathedral, built by the Cardinal, which is almost an exact copy of St. Peter's at Rome. It is the finest cathedral in Hungary, and the Cardinal lavished money upon it without stint, spending in one year alone, it is said, more than $1,000,000 for furniture and decorations. His real estate alone is worth over $2,000,000, and covers an area of 120,000 acres.

AND HE SO YOUNG.

Sentenced to 30 Years of Penal Servitude at the Age of 19.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—Peter Vladimiroff, age 19, a rich Russian, has been convicted of the murder of his paramour, Mme. Carmine Freycinet, at Ville d'Avray, in October last. Owing to extenuating circumstances attending the crime Vladimiroff has been sentenced to 30 years' penal servitude, with the additional penalty that he will not be allowed to reside in France for 10 years after the expiration of his sentence without special permission from the authorities. The murdered woman was a handsome widow, the mother of two children.

A Dynamite Scare.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—There is another dynamite scare among the authorities, who have received information from their agents in America that the dynamite section is actively preparing to resume operations. The headquarters are said to be in Philadelphia and Kansas City. The authorities are increasing their vigilance and detectives swarm at Queenstown, Liverpool, Southampton and other ports. The police guards have been increased around the public buildings and the authorities are considering the advisability of issuing orders for a closer examination of the baggage of passengers arriving from the United States, which was stopped a few months ago.

Wolseley Could Not Visit Canada.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Army and Navy Gazette, an authority on military affairs, gives leaded prominence to-day to an indorsement of a mischievous report circulated in London this week that Lord Wolseley had been temporarily taken from his command of the Irish forces and was to be sent to Canada. In the present state of public opinion, this report created some stir. The facts are as follows: Lord Wolseley received an invitation from Sir George Stephen to go to Canada for some salmon fishing. He applied for leave, but was informed that it would not be convenient to allow him to go at present in view of the coming redistribution of the military forces in Ireland. This leaked out at the Horse Guards and gave rise to the false report.

A Variety Artist Confused.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Chiriqua, the "White-Eyed Kaffir," an American variety singer, has created a sensation at Brighton by singing some topical verses about the Parnell-O'Shea case, on an occasion when Mrs. O'Shea and some friends occupied a box at the hall where he is performing. The whole audience knew of the presence of the lady, but the singer did not, and he is in a state of confusion over the incident.

FIRE AT SIMCOE.

The Loss Will Reach $8000—Barely Escaped With Their Lives

SIMCOE, Jan. 26.—A disastrous fire occurred this morning at 4 o'clock in Arthur's block, which was entirely consumed. Some of the occupants barely escaped with their lives, as they were all asleep at the time. The principal losses are: C. A. Arthur, building $4000, complete loss, insured in Queen's for $3300; J. W. Armstrong, photograph gallery, loss $1000, insured in Royal Canadian for $400; Rasad's grocery $800, total loss; insured for $400 in Mercantile; F. Stevenson, tailor, $2500, also total loss, insured in Mercantile for $1100 and in Fire Assurance Association for $500; Marshall's pork store and the Battersby Hotel were slightly injured. Cause of fire, defective chimney.

WILL PARLIAMENT DISSOLVE?

What R. S. White, M.P., Has to Say of the Prospects.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—The Gazette this morning deals with the question of the dissolution of the Canadian Commons in an editorial written by R. S. White, member of Parliament for Cardwell. It neither affirms nor denies that such an action is contemplated, but says whether an appeal to the electors will be made before another session is, we believe, a matter which the Government has not considered, but in respect of which decision must necessarily be shortly made known. There are ample precedents, both in England and Canada, for a dissolution of the Commons before the natural expiration of the Parliamentary term. The popular idea has been that the present Parliament would run until after the taking of the census in April, in order that a redistribution of seats might be made before another election occurs, but we may explain that, contrary to a widespread belief, there is no need of a second election after the census, should one be determined on now. It is not difficult to imagine circumstances which would make delay in giving increased representation to the provinces entitled to it a grave injustice; but unless such a one should arise there is nothing to prevent a parliament elected a few months hence running out its term before the redistribution of seats occurs. Meanwhile we repeat that no decision as to an immediate dissolution has been arrived at.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Stabbing Affray in Central Prison—Returned from Germany.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—The Central Prison, on Saturday, was the scene of a stabbing affray. Raphaelo Dimascio, an Italian, serving 23 months for stabbing, and employed in the broom factory, attacked a fellow convict named James Mulholland, 22 years of age, sent down from Hamilton. Dimascio drove one of the long knives used in cutting the straw into Mulholand's back between the shoulders. Another convict knocked the assailant down while he was in the act of withdrawing the knife. He told the warden that Mullholand had provoked him by teasing him.

The Osgoode Legal and Literary Society held their at home last night. It was held under the auspices of the treasurer and benchers of the Law Society, and was an unqualified success.

Dr. W. B. Nesbitt to-day returned from Berlin with a supply of lymph direct from Dr. Koch's laboratory sufficient for 4000 inoculations. The liquid is of a medium wine color and of such strength when undiluted that the whole quantity would only fill a bottle about ½ inch wide and three inches high. The lymph is certainly cheap enough, as the quantity procured by Dr. Nesbitt cost only $13.

Workmen Buried Under a Car of Lumber

DESERONTO, Jan. 26.—An accident in the Rathbun Company's sash shop yard here this morning resulted in the death of one man and injuring four others. It was caused by a car of lumber falling which was being loaded for the dry kiln.

WESLEY MARKS, shoulder dislocated and otherwise badly shaken up.

ROBERT MILLIGAN, cut about face.

WILLIAM FRANT, badly cut about face and otherwise injured.

Different Route to the Devil.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 26.—Yesterday morning the Rev. John Kay, pastor of the Wellington-street Methodist Church, used plain talk to his congregation before preaching the sermon. He said for several days past he had been defending members of his congregation who were said to have been at the dance. He had not believed it simply because their names were in the paper. It was possible their names could be published without their consent, and he would not believe it until he had positive proof of it. If any had indulged in this dance he would read that portion of the church rules touching on it, which he did. He then said he wished that any who were breaking the rules of the church should withdraw their names from the membership, as he would rather they should go to the devil outside the church than as professed members.

Will Probably Die.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 26.—Last evening between 8 and 9 o'clock, as Miss Smith of Pelham and two young men were driving down St. Paul-street hill, on turning the corner near Miss Foley's the seat of the carriage gave way, throwing the occupants to the ground. Miss Smith was seriously injured, her shoulder dislocated, collar bone and three ribs broken. A young lad named Wright had his skull fractured and was otherwise injured. He was taken to the hospital.

Dark is Dead.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—The man Dark, who attempted suicide by throwing himself in front of a moving locomotive at Monmouth, Friday, died at the hospital here to-day from the effects of his injuries. He was unknown in the city, and nothing can be learned of his antecedents. Derangement of mind was the cause of the fatal act.

Will Try to Oust the Gentiles.

OGDEN, Utah, Jan. 26.—There is no little excitement here over the coming biennial election. The present gentile administration has made many enemies and there is a strong anti-ring feeling in the Liberal party, and a citizens party has been formed, who ignore the old party lines.

Should Have Cooked Them Sooner.

HALIFAX, Jan. 26.—The family of J. H. Munnis, who resides in Brunswick-street, had broiled partridges for breakfast yesterday morning. Immediately afterwards three members of the family were taken severely ill from poisoning and a doctor was hastily summoned. They will recover.

Another Quebec Murder.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—Last week a man named Louis was found dead on the streets of Maisonneuve, and after a formal inquest he was buried. Suspicions have arisen since that he was murdered and the body was ordered to be exhumed.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

THE ACTION OF THE PRIESTS AT KILKENNY ELECTION.

The Attorney-General For Ireland Says That the Government Will Take No Action in the Premises—Parnell and O'Brien to Visit America Shortly.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—In the House of Commons to-day the Attorney-General for Ireland, replying to a question by T. W. Russell, member for South Tyrone, in regard to priests acting as agents at polling booths, especially in the North Kilkenny election, said that, without pronouncing an opinion upon the facts or upon the expediency of altering the law, he was indisposed to add so controversial a measure to the Government program as the introduction of a bill on the subject would entail.

PARNELL A CHANGED MAN.

No Longer a Languid but a Fighting Parnell.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The belief grows that the Boulogne settlement is merely a status quo. Mr. McCarthy, in an interview since his return, expressed hopes of a speedy settlement, and it is known that William O'Brien threatened, in the event of the negotiations failing, to issue a manifesto to the Irish people throwing the entire responsibility of the continued rupture on McCarthy and his friends. Then he will surrender himself to the police and go to prison to serve out his term. The last visit of Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Sexton was undertaken with the view of arriving at a compromise and to obviate a further split in the party. Mr. Parnell had made such sacrifice as suggested by Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Dillon.

It is again reported to-day that Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien will go to America. Under this plan Mr. Dillon would go to jail and assume the leadership when released. In further support of this rumor it is well-known that Mr. Parnell is fitting up his house at Avondale, near Wicklow, in anticipation of his marriage with Mrs. O'Shea, and his friends openly discuss his intention of making a brief trip on the Continent and then going to America before occupying Avondale.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Mr. Parnell strikes everyone as being a physical wonder. The excitement seems to have benefited him to a remarkable degree, and he appears to have entirely recovered his health. He now walks with a firm, erect stride, and looks his brother-members of the Commons in the face with a determined, confident expression. He is no longer the languid dilettante who strolls into the lobby, receives his letters from the post-office and disappears into the library. He is no longer the pallid, emaciated being, swathed in woolen underclothes and bundled up in a thick cardigan jacket. That used to be a picture of the "uncrowned king," but now it is all changed. The chrysalis is broken, and Parnell redivivus has emerged. The new birth has produced a fighting Parnell, full of defiance and scorn, holding his head aloft, and some one has already dubbed him "Ajax Secundus." He is very gracious to Justin McCarthy and a few of the other members of that party, but with Mr. Sexton and Mr. Healy he can scarcely be said to be on the terms which are supposed to distinguish the brothers of a house.

A Lucky Descendant of Stephenson.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—An old sailor named Stephenson has had an unexpected stroke of luck. He is an inmate of the Royal Albert Institution for Old and Disabled Sailors of the Merchant Marine at Belvedere, in Kent. The old tar has been declared heir to an estate valued at £37,000, as the lineal descendant of George Stephenson, the great engineer and inventor of the English type of locomotive engine.

Reciprocity With Spain.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Spain has accepted the proposal of the United States for the negotiation at Washington of a reciprocity treaty relative to American trade with Cuba. In political circles it is said the only serious difficulty in the way of formulating and adopting such a treaty appears to be the Americans' inflexibility on the tobacco question.

Coming on the Teutonic.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 26.—Among the passengers who will sail on the Teutonic Wednesday are Sir Charles Tupper and wife, Sir Donald Smith, James Brown Potter, William Astor and Bruce Ismay.

The Lero Aground.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The steamer Lero, from Baltimore Jan. 7 for Rotterdam, is aground near the latter place and is expected to become a total wreck. Part of her cargo may be saved. The crew landed safely.

Cremated in a Carriage.

KIEFF, Jan. 26.—A railway carriage took fire between Niemnuk and Kruta to-day and was completely destroyed. One person was killed and four others were terribly injured.

Foul Play Suspected.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Jan. 26.—By direction of Coroner Coudline an inquest was held today on the body of Thomas Jones of this village, who died suddenly at his residence on Saturday morning last, and whose death is alleged to have been caused by taking a drink of water out of a cup containing paris green. Dr. McMahon of St. Catharines made a post mortem examination, and in order to enable him to make an analysis of the contents of the stomach the inquest was adjourned until 1 o'clock to-morrow.

It is stated that about two weeks ago deceased got his life insured for $1000.

Henry Surrenders $2000.

CHATHAM, Jan. 26.—Further particulars are to hand of the arrest of the defaulting commission agent, James W. Henry. The Bank of Montreal on Dec. 18 last offered a reward of $1000 for his arrest and detention. Ever since this reward was offered Matt Pinkerton's men have been working up the case, and on Saturday last arrested Henry in the City of Mexico, whither he had fled with his booty. Upon being arrested he weakened and returned $2000 of the stolen money, and offered to give security for the balance. Not having authority to make any such compromise the officer left the City of Mexico on Thursday night with his prisoner, and will arrive in Chatham to-morrow.

Caught in the Belting.

SIMCOE, Jan. 26.—A man named Galbraith was caught in the belting to-day at Stoddart's woolen mills and narrowly escaped instant death. A portion of his scalp was torn from the face, while the body and one arm were badly bruised. It is thought he will recover.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

DUMMER DOINGS.

The Annual Convention of the Township Sunday School Association.

Correspondence of the Review.

Jan. 19th was a very interesting day in the village of Warsaw, not interesting because of horse racing or an election campaign, but something infinitely better than former and better than latter has been recently. The Sabbath Scool convention was being held. The weather was very favorable during the entire day and had, no doubt, effect on the attendance, which was all that could be desired.

FORENOON SESSION.

The morning session was held in the Baptist Church and it was well filled to the door. This session was held for the children, more particularly, and quite a number of our young friends were present, occupying the front seats.

Dr. Harrison, of Keene, undertook the first lesson, which was an object lesson, illustrated by a camera and some of its effects. He showed by this lesson the desired effect of the Sabbath school lesson on the pupil, representing the teacher by the operator, the lesson by the camera and the pupil by the plate, going into the different processes of the art in detail, and fitting them very appropriately to the points he wished to fetch out. This lesson was very amusing to all present, we should judge, and was nicely performed by the doctor.

Mr. Alfred Day also gave an object lesson by a chemical process, showing the effect of sin on the character and also the effect of forgiveness on the same character. This lesson was handled in a masterly way by our friend Mr. Day and the illustration fitted so well that no one could miss to understand. Mr. Day commended the children present very highly for their clever answers, saying this was the banner township in Sabbath School work, also that he had found no better answering from Montreal to Windsor.

Rev. Mr. McFarlane, of Keene, also addressed and questioned the children on the lessons of the last three Sabbaths.

The report of the Secretary Treasurer was read by Mr. Watts and showed a clear sheet in the financial department.

A nominating committee was appointed, and they nominated Mr. A. R. Kidd to the Presidency, and Mr. A. R. Kidd was elected President and Mr. Alex. Watts Secretary Treasurer for the present year.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session was held in the Methodist church, which was filled. This session was a lesson on the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ, conducted by Mr. Day, and he naturally chose for his subject, "Sunset to Sunrise," which always makes a day. That which Mr. Day's subject was a figure of was a day whose sun has never set. Although rising in such a dark period of the world's history it was not comprehended, as St. John records. The setting and rising spoken of was in one sense a setting and rising, but was it not all a rising—a rising above the last evening which was death, and is death, proving the infinite power in that One who is our pattern. The evening session was held in the Presbyterian church, which was filled to the door. This session was full of interest. Subjects were well handled by Dr. Harrison, Rev. Mr. Shorey and Mr. Day. The speakers were delighted by the attendance of the day and the interest shown by the people in the questions, and commended the retiring President, Mr. S. Edwards, for the way in which he had his work. The collections of the day amounted $17.18, and the expenses to $11.50. I think the Sabbath school workers are persuaded they should continue during the winter months from that evening session, and we hope to see all of our schools working next winter, remembering that Satan still finds something for idle hands to do. We were somewhat disappointed at the absence of Rev. John McEwan, of Lakefield, who is said to be the father of Sabbath school work in this locality. Mr. McEwan will see that his children are becoming self-supporting, but still look up to his fatherly mind for good advice.

MAIL.

Peterborough, Jan. 26th, 1891.

Incorrect and Injustices.

To the Editor of the Review

SIR,—If the interest taken in the affairs of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society is to be gauged by the very insignificant attendance of half-a-dozen members at their annual meeting held last week, it is not likely that more than one out of every hundred of your readers have read the report of the directors which was submitted at that meeting. Perhaps it may be worth while, however, for the benefit of even that very small percentage of your readers to correct the unfair animadversions in that report reflecting on the committee of the St. Andrew's Society, who conducted the Caledonian Games which took place on the show grounds in connection with the Agricultural exhibition held last fall. The following is the ill-natured paragraph, which appears in the directors' report referred to:—

"It is hardly necessary to speak of the Caledonian games conducted by the St. Andrew's Society, and for which we paid them on the understanding that they (the St. Andrew's Society) were to bring a large excursion of the Scottish societies from Toronto, which latter did not materialize. However, we paid them."

Now, Mr. Editor, all that is necessary to disprove these statements is the production of the following document, which is a true copy of all the "understanding" between our society and the directors of the Agricultural Society. This document, bear in mind, was drawn up at a meeting of the executive committee of the directors, and in the presence of at least a dozen of these gentlemen, with only four members from the St. Andrew's Society present, and was duly signed by the representative secretaries on their behalf. Here it is:—

Peterborough, Aug. 2, 1890.

It is hereby agreed between the Agricultural Society of the West Riding of the County of Peterborough, and the St. Andrew's Society of the town and county of Peterborough, as evidenced by the signatures hereto of the secretaries of the two societies respectively, that the Agricultural Society pay to the St. Andrew's Society, the sum of $200 in cash at the close of the second day of the annual fall show of this year, in consideration of which sum the St. Andrew's Society undertake to conduct a programme of games and give prizes therefor as set out in the draft programme hereto attached. The Agricultural Society to pay all advertising and the St. Andrew's Society to guarantee its best efforts to make the Scotch day a success. This day to be the second day of the fair. The Agricultural Society to erect the platform for dancing, etc., and the St. Andrew's Society to provide all other apparatus for the games.

Wm. Collins,
Secretary,
Agricultural Soc.

W. Menzies,
Secretary,
St. Andrew's Society.

If anyone can find any reference or "understanding" about an excursion from Toronto in this agreement, there might be some justification for the paragraph. But, as everyone can see, there is not the remotest reference to any such thing.

The closing words of the ill-natured paragraph reads as if the directors had acted very magnanimously with us. "However, we paid them." Yes, they paid us like little men—but not until they were compelled to pay! For six weeks they "kicked" and refused to settle, scheming all the while to cajole our society into accepting fifty cents on the dollar. At the end of that time they found themselves confronted, individually, with a law suit, whereupon they magnanimously paid our claim—every farthing of it—rather than face the (Scotch) music.

In conclusion, let it be stated, that if in future these same gentlemen should discover that in negotiating for attractions for their show, the public have learned to insist upon all contracts with them being flanked by a written agreement they will know the reason why. The only thing that "saved our bacon" was the above agreement "in black and white."

Signed on behalf of St. Andrew's Society,
GEO. H. NOBLE,
President.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Young Men's Conservative Club.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Conservative Club will be held in the club room, over Mr. Stethem's store, on this (Tuesday) evening, for the election of officers and the transaction of other business. All Conservative young men are cordially invited to be present.

The Springville Suicide.

Wm. Bethray, the young Englishman who caused the suicide scare at Springville, was brought down from gaol this morning after serving a week on remand. The lad was much improved in appearance, he evidently having received a bath and, as he remarked himself, he is trying to keep himself "a bit tidy." The Magistrate gave him two months in gaol as a vagrant.

A Prosperous Society.

Peterborough Lodge S.O.E., held its annual meeting last night. There was a large attendance of members and good feeling prevailed. The financial sheet showed a balance of about $340 over all liabilities, a very satisfactory state of affairs. Two new members were initiated. The society enters on the present year with excellent prospects and the officers and members are working together to further the interests of the lodge.

At the Opera House.

The Belle Stevenson Dramatic Company opened a week's engagement at the Opera House last evening when they presented the melo-drama, "Queen's Evidence." The house was crowded. The company possesses some talent among its members and the audience apparently enjoyed the presentation, judging from the appreciation manifested. Some specialties were introduced, "Jimmy" Walbrook, a Peterborough boy, giving some capital clog dancing, which won the applause of his old comrades here. The programme concluded with a farce. To-night the Company presents the drama, entitled "Fate."

"The Cruiser" a New Cruiser.

Although the snow may be flying and the mercury in the thermometer dropping away down below zero, preparations are being made for next summer's pleasant times and jaunts over the lake waters of the north. Some of our citizens go a holidaying up there in canoes, some by vehicle, some on foot, but the large majority prefer the comfortable and speedy steamer. Capt. S. Reynolds, of Lakefield, of the Cruiser, knows this and he is setting his house in order, so to speak. The Cruiser, under his ownership and management, did good service and gave satisfaction last summer, but Capt Reynolds is bound to excel himself. The steamer has been hauled up on shore and workmen have been busy cutting her in two and adding twenty feet to the length. The beam has also been increased to correspond. The machinery is being overhauled and improved in many respects. The boat throughout will be repainted and many little improvements made that will add to the comfort of patrons. The inspector has looked the work over and expressed himself as highly pleased. Capt. Reynolds will be on deck during the season and engages to make a pleasant time for all who patronize the Cruiser.

OPENED FOR YOUNG MEN

THE CATHOLIC YOUNG MEN FORMALLY OPEN THEIR CLUB ROOMS.

A Short Description of the Rooms—The Officers of the Association—The Inaugural Address—A Choice Musical Programme—A Wordy Combat Between Peterborough and Lindsay—The Visitors Victorious.

The young men of Peterborough may well feel that their lot is cast in pleasant places, for few cities or towns can boast of better provision for the entertainment and amusement of their young men in their leisure time than can our flourishing town, and last evening the doors and handsome rooms of another Association for young men were formally thrown open, and that under the most enjoyable and promising auspices. This was the opening of the Catholic Young Men's club rooms. This association or club was brought into existence several weeks ago, when a meeting of the gentlemen of the congregation of St. Peter's cathedral was held and a joint stock company formed for the establishment and furnishing of rooms of an association which would have for its members the men of that church and for its object the providing of some attractive place where the young men, surrounded by good, wholesome associations, might spend their few hours of leisure. The necessary stock was readily subscribed and the work of fitting up and furnishing the rooms has been pushed to completion with rapidity and last evening a successful entertainment marked the opening of the rooms.

The rooms are situated in the Cox block above the Canadian Express Company's offices and are well-adapted to the purpose, being commodious, well-lighted and well-ventilated. There are four rooms and a large hall comprised in the suite. On the second floor are the library and reading room. The latter overlooks George-st. and has been furnished with reading desks and tables, upon which are to be found all the leading newspapers, periodicals and magazines. In the rear of the reading room is the library, the shelves of which have already been well stocked with readable books of a good character, the library of the Separate school having been donated to the club. These volumes are to be added to at once. These two rooms will afford a pleasant and elevating resort for the young men who have any taste for reading. On the third flat is a large hall, seated for about 300 people, with a platform at the east end. This hall has been tastefully ornamented and will be a grand place for entertainments. Besides this there are two other rooms, a billiard and pool room, where the members of the club can spend their leisure time at a quiet game under no distasteful or contaminating influences. With these elegant apartments the club begins with a most encouraging outlook. The officers are:—

PRESIDENT.—C. J. Leonard.
FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT.—Dr. Brennan.
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT.—T. Dorris.
SECRETARY.—J. Corkery.
TREASURER.—R. Sheehy.
DIRECTORS.—J. J. Sheehy, A. Gough, Wm. Horkins, Wm. Rudkins, T. Dunn and L. Letellier.

THE FORMAL OPENING.

There was a large attendance at the formal opening and general admiration was heard of the rooms and their appurtenances. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor was present, with Rev. Father Rudkins and Rev. Father Dupe. The hall was filled when the President welcomed the audience and introduced Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald who had consented to preside for the evening. The chairman upon taking his seat made a few congratulatory remarks in introducing Bishop O'Connor who was to make the inaugural address.

His Lordship was pleased to see such a large attendance and said it argued well for the future success of the Association. In speaking of the object of the Association he said he was well aware, as they were, that many belonged to the two other Catholic Associations in town, but they did not meet more than once in two weeks, and the question had arisen where shall we find pleasure and amusement for our young men during the evenings? They wanted a place that would benefit them spiritually, mentally and physically. It was organized with this object in view, and it was for this purpose that he had given the Association every encouragement. He then referred to the rooms where the intellect might be cultivated and benefitted or innocent amusement found, and closed by expressing the hope that all would join and make the organization a success.

After His Lordship had concluded a short musical programme of exceptional merit was rendered. Miss Annie Dunn gave a vocal solo in a charming voice, Miss Hurly rendered a well-executed violin solo and Mrs. J. E. McIntyre and Mr. Thos. Dunn, two favorite and talented vocalists, sang a duet, which it is unnecessary to say was delightful to listen to.

Following the music came a combat of oratory, in the shape of a debate between representatives of the Lindsay Catholic Association and the local club. A motto, "Peterborough Welcomes Lindsay" welcomed the visitors from the wall above the platform. The subject of argument was, "Resolved, that the Southern States were justified in seceding from the Union in 1861." Messrs. Kenny and O'Brien and Dr. Lynch were the Lindsay representatives, and in able and decidedly well thought out speeches upheld the negative side of the question. Dr. Brennan and Messrs. J. J. Sheehy and C. J. Leonard were the Peterborough orators and eloquently and logically spoke on the affirmative side of the argument. After listening to the speeches and weighing the arguments brought forward, the chairman decided the debate in favor of the negative, the visiting speakers being victorious.

A vote of thanks was then tendered the chairman and the meeting dispersed.

Recent Publications.

The Presbyterian Year Book for 1891, a very useful manual, has just been received from the office of the Canada Presbyterian. There are a number of able special articles by the editor, and by Rev. A. M. McClelland, M.A., D.C.L., Rev. R. H. Warden, D.D., Rev. F. R. Burns, D.D., Rev. W. D. Armstrong, M.A., Ph.D. and others. The general information furnished—such as calendar for the year, officers of the General assembly, standing committees, deaths in the ministry, dates for stated collections, Rolls of Synods and Presbyteries, with Post Office address of every minister and an alphabetical list of ministers—is unusually complete. Altogether the Presbyterian Year Book will be found specially useful to church members as well as to business men generally.

John Lovel & Son, of Montreal, have issued two new works of fiction, "Name and Fame," by Adeline Sergeant, one of the most entertaining writers of the day, and "Wormwood," by Marie Corelli, another of "Romance of Two Worlds" and other popular works.

The South Ward Entertainment.

The free tea and entertainment which was given by the lady workers of the St. John's South Ward Mission in their new building last evening was attended by an immense number of persons, all denominations being represented. The event was to emphasize the opening celebration and was made free in a rejoicing over a freedom from debt. The tea was also the annual one of the children of the mission and the little ones had a happy time. The tables were laid in the basement and an abundance of provisions had been provided. The basement had been fitted up temporarily for the occasion and was tastefully decorated with flags and curtains. One table was reserved for the adults and the other two were kept full with fresh relays of boys and girls. After these juveniles had partaken of the good things they adjourned to the hall where recitations and singing furnished entertainment until eight o'clock, when the little folks retired to make room for their elders. The amateur orchestra was present and gave several delightful selections during the evening. Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., gave a song, Miss Hatt, a talented pianist, rendered an instrumental solo, Rev. Mr. French, rector of Omemee, made a short address, Mr. Varnes gave a patriotic song, Mrs. G. A. Smith contributed a piano solo and Miss Davidson a song in pleasing voice. Rev. Mr. Davidson at the close thanked those present for their attendance and encouragement and the meeting closed with the hymn "Sun of My Soul," led by the orchestra. The whole evening's entertainment was the result of the united liberality and kindly co-operation of a large number of persons, among others the orchestra and Messrs. Jackson & Co., who kindly loaned the beautiful Evans piano for the evening.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

MR. F. ELMHIRST, REEVE OF BURLEIGH, ELECTED WARDEN.

The Warden's Acknowledgment on Taking the Chair—The Standing Committees—Auditors and Sessional Clerk Appointed.

The members of the County Council of 1891 assembled in the Council Chamber this afternoon for their first session. The members present were:

ASHBURNHAM.—John Burnham, Q. C., Reeve.

ASPHODEL.—James Moore, Reeve; John Fitzpatrick, Deputy-Reeve.

BELMONT AND METHUEN.—Alex. McAuley, Reeve.

BURLEIGH, ETC.—F. Elmhirst, Reeve.

DOURO.—John Moloney, Reeve; Wm. Garbutt, Deputy-Reeve.

DUMMER.—A. R. Kidd, Reeve; Ed. Hawthorne, Deputy-Reeve.

ENNISMORE.—Wm. Crough, Reeve.

GALWAY AND CAVENDISH.—Chas. Coben, Reeve.

HARVEY.—Robert Shaw, Reeve.

LAKEFIELD.—W. H. Casement, Reeve.

NORWOOD.—John Finlay, Reeve.

NORTH MONAGHAN.—Jos. Forster, Reeve.

OTONABEE.—Geo. Stewart, Reeve; Wm. Anderson, Deputy-Reeve.

SMITH.—M. Sanderson, Reeve; James Middleton, Deputy-Reeve.

THE WARDEN ELECTED.

Mr. Edg. Pearce, the Clerk, called the Council to order, and asked them to elect a warden.

Mr. SANDERSON moved, seconded by Mr. CASEMENT,—That Mr. F. Elmhirst, Reeve of Burleigh, be Warden for the ensuing year.

The motion was carried unanimously, and after taking the declaration and donning the robes of office Mr. Elmhirst was escorted to the presiding officer's chair by his nominator and seconder.

The WARDEN, on taking the chair, thanked the Council for the honor they had conferred on him. When he came to the Council first in 1883 he had little thought that he would ever be elevated to that chair. At that time his municipality had a debt of $3,000, but with the assistance of this Council it had been reduced to a mere trifle. He knew there were members more competent to fill the position, but with their assistance he would do the best he could. He again thanked them for the honor.

TO STRIKE THE COMMITTEES.

Mr. KIDD moved, seconded by Mr. FINLAY,—That Messrs. Sanderson, Moloney, Burnham, Moore, Stewart, Forster and the mover and seconder be a committee to strike the standing committees.—Carried.

THE AUDITORS.

On motion of Mr. MOLONEY, Mr. J. J. Hall was appointed auditor, and the Warden appointed Mr. F. J. Bell the second auditor.

SESSIONAL CLERK.

Mr. SANDERSON moved, seconded by Mr. FORSTER,—That Mr. W. A. Stratton be appointed Sessional Clerk to 1891.—Carried.

The Council adjourned until 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

Single Tax.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I have read with much satisfaction the letter of Mr. J. Hampden Burnham. Remembering that Mr. Burnham for some time studied in my office, I at least expected that on all questions of morality Mr. Burnham would be sound. When then I found that he boldly repudiated Henry George and the Rev. Mr. Huntington et al on the vital question of compensation, I had no longer any misgivings, and felt that retaining this view of the question Mr. Burnham must of necessity soon come back to the fold. You will remember, sir, that the Henry George school admits that the introduction of the single tax system implies confiscation of all land property to the community. This is a terrible result, and repulsive. All owners of land would be left with the bare possession, the beneficiary ownership would be given to the people and the original owners would be converted into bare trustees. So terrible a hindrance to the acceptance of a system does this result present that no sane man would urge its reception if any practicable mode of compensation could be devised, and it is because compensation is a sine qua non that such able men as Father Huntington and Henry George are driven to the dishonest course of attempting to justify confiscation by holding up the act of the federal government liberating the slaves of the rebellious South without compensation as a parallel. If they could give a better justification they would. This unnatural and inevitable result is to their proposition the argumentum absurdum.

For a moment consider this doctrine, with compensation. The state takes all land from the owners, the owners want compensation—full measure—anything less is not compensation. With what will they be compensated? Where are the means? The only and the readiest answer is, give them their own lands—in short, let the land owners alone—and so the absurdity of compensation appears. All this was thought out to exhaustion; before Henry George was forced to admit the impracticability of compensation, before he dare shock a decent world with his mad scheme.

And now, sir, as Mr. Burnham's honest soul repudiates this doctrine of confiscation without compensation, and as Single Tax with compensation is a myth, I will here drop the subject.

Mr. Burnham and Mr. Huntington may settle their little differences. Until then we will leave the unearned increment and all that to work its own way.

Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $80,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1200 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formally it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $3.00, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5.00, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $3.00. Send in your orders.

The Business Tax.

This matter is occupying public attention. The pros and cons of it are being discussed. Good men advocate it, and the assumption is that it is a new and reasonably fair way of apportioning the tax on personal property. In the meantime the reflection comes, no matter how the business tax may effect a fellow's pocket, that at Hawley Bros. teas can be had at old prices, at old qualities, both of the best. Go to Hawley Bros. for your teas. r&w

Fisk Jubilee Singers

The Brantford Expositor says:—"Last evening the Fisk Tennessee Jubilee singers gave an excellent concert in the Opera House to a fair-sized audience. The programme consisted of seventeen numbers, all of which were excellently rendered, and these with several encores made it lengthy. The entertainment opened with a full chorus by the company of "Steal Away." Miss Gatewood was warmly encored in her solo, which she sang beautifully. Messrs. Thomas and Chambers gave a duet, which was encored. The singing of the male quartette, Messrs. Thomas, Jenkins, Chambers, and Mitchell, was excellent. The chorus singing by the company was good and they were very liberal in responding to encores. The company will sing again to-night at the Opera House, and are well worth hearing." KILLED BY TWO BURGLARS

A TOWNSHIP TREASURER SHOT AND INSTANTLY KILLED.

The Old Man Fought Bravely for his Life, but was Cruelly Shot—His Daughter Aroused and Held by the Thieves.

ANCASTER, Ont., Jan. 27th.—John Heaslip, treasurer of Ancaster township, was shot dead about two o'clock this morning by burglars who afterwards ransacked the house.

A BRAVE OLD MAN.

It appears that the burglars, of whom there were two, were making a search for money and valuables when the old gentleman heard them. He got up and found the men ascending the back stairs. He asked who was there and they said "Go back to bed." Mr. Heaslip, who was aged seventy-five, then picked up a chair and advanced to meet them. He must have used it pretty freely, as it was found this morning broken to pieces. One of the robbers drew a revolver and fired. The bullet took effect in Mr. Heaslip's heart, killing him almost instantly.

THE OLD MAN'S DAUGHTER, who was the only other occupant of the house, was aroused by the firing of the shot and attempted to pass the murderers to reach her father, but was prevented by them from doing so. One of the men kept watch over her while the other ransacked the house. After they had secured all they could they made off and Miss Heaslip gave the alarm.

The Hamilton police have been notified of the affair, but as yet no clue to the murderers has been found.

PAID THE PENALTY OF HER SIN.

A Canadian Fatally Wounds His Wife in a Chicago Bagnio.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—One of the results of the procuring of women in Canada for immoral purposes in this country was the fatal shooting of Clara LaPlant by her husband, Joseph LaPlant, in a disreputable house in Fourth-avenue last night. The woman was taken to the County Hospital mortally wounded and the husband, who was rendered almost insane by his crime, was locked up. A year ago Mr. and Mrs. LaPlant were living happily together in Canada. Yielding to the tempting voice of a Chicago procuress and her description of an easy life of indolence and pleasure, the woman deserted her husband and came to Chicago.

La Plant, who was ignorant of her whereabouts, came to this city shortly afterward in search of work. He was horrified upon learning that his wife was living a life of shame. He importuned her to come back and live with him, but his pleadings were repulsed with scorn. Then he threatened to kill her.

Last night about 7 o'clock he saw her walking in Fourth-avenue, and again begged her to return to him. She again refused and sought refuge in the house at No. 131 Fourth-avenue. LaPlant found his wife in the parlor. Without a word the husband drew a revolver and fired two shots at her, one of the bullets lodging in her left breast producing an ugly wound from which the blood poured. The woman fell to the floor unconscious, while the husband sought to escape and fired one shot at a policeman and then tried to kill himself. The woman will die.

LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

In Trouble Because His Girl Said Yes When She Meant No.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 26.—Henry Davidson of West Zorra was fined $5 and costs to-day for trespass. It was a peculiar case. The complainant was John Warring of North Oxford and the particulars are as follows: Davidson called on Warring's niece one evening and asked her to go with him to a party. The young lady did not want to go with him, but such were his persuasions that she finally said yes when she meant no. He called for her about 9 o'clock at night and found all the folks in bed. He was so persistent in his efforts to get in that Mr. Warring finally opened the door. He remained in the house for about two hours after having forced his way into the young lady's bedroom, that he might talk with her and endeavor to persuade her to fulfil her promise. His fruitless efforts were unavailing and to-day he pleaded guilty to the charge of trespass and paid his fine.

Died While Waltzing.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—John Miller and Miss Bertha Feith were married on Saturday night. After the ceremony the guests, numbering more than one hundred, went to Muller's Hall to continue the wedding festivities. Among the most lively of the guests were John Brunner and Miss Lizzie Pigott, a good-looking brunet. After the wedding supper, which was eaten just before midnight, the festivities were resumed. During the dancing Brunner noticed that his partner's face turned deathly pale. He had hardly time to suggest a slower waltz when Miss Pigott fell to the floor a corpse. Physicians were sent for and said that the girl was dead. Heart trouble, they said, was probably the cause.

One More Warning.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—A boy named Karpitz jumped on a G.T.R. freight train Saturday evening, and after riding a distance went to jump off, but got caught in some manner and was dragged a short distance. Doctors found it necessary to amputate the right arm. After the amputation had been performed and the doctors were about to complete their work he gave a gasp and died.

Drowned in United States Waters.

WINDSOR, Jan. 26.—Detective McKee of Windsor, who has been at Walpole Island investigating the recent death of the Indian, doctor, Barfoot, has found that the doctor was drowned in United States waters. McKee will report to the United States authorities so that they can investigate. It is thought that Barfoot was drowned by a man who was in a boat with him.

Kisses, $500 Each.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 26.—Louis Haase, a jeweler, accosted pretty Miss Helen L. Patrick as she was hastening homeward after nightfall, and insisted upon kissing her, and the terrified girl was compelled to submit to the embrace. To-day he was fined $500 and all costs of trial. Haase has been posing as a masher for some time, though he is a man of family.

Burglars at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 26.—On Saturday evening two burglaries were committed in Moira-street. Casey's bakeshop was entered by taking out a window and two bags of flour and six loaves of bread taken. John Frost's factory was entered and three iron planes stolen. They were, however, found yesterday afternoon by a boy named Clement lying under the sidewalk.

A Junction Cut Victim Secures $7000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—In Judge Grinnell's court to-day a jury awarded Stephen S. Young $7009 on his claim for $15,000 damages against the Grand Trunk Railway. The suit is one of a number growing out of the railway accident at Junction Cut, Hamilton, Ont. A number of people were killed and many others were injured.

The Niagara Falls Suicide.

BUFFALO, Jan. 26.—The Niagara Falls suicide turns out to be Carl Stevens of this city, who lived with his parents at 85 Whitney-place. Carl was only 20 years of age. He lately complained of a severe pain in his head, which was probably a forerunner of some brain disorder which suddenly developed yesterday and led him to destroy himself.

A Brakeman in Luck.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—A C. P. R. brakeman named Andrew Bernard has fallen heir to £10,000 by the death of a relative in the Old Country.

At Market Saturday; Dead Yesterday.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Cox, wife of a teamster, went to market Saturday. On Sunday she complained of not feeling well, and expired at 8 o'clock this morning.

TALK OF THE DAY.

The second sober thought usually comes after the banquet.

As a means of reducing the boy of the , to a , toss condition, the cigarette has no —.

The Fitzsimmons-Dempsey prize fight was not much of a success, after all. Neither of the combatants was killed.

The man who will complain that a twenty-minute sermon is too long will sit half a day watching a couple of chess players making two moves.

When a man tells you that he is perfectly contented, he means, in nine cases out of ten, that after thinking the matter all over, he does not see how he can get anything more.

Mrs. Boodix—"Yes, my husband is a somnambulist." Mrs. Krawler—"How dreadful!" "Not at all. You see when he gets up in the night and walks the floor I put the baby into his arms and he never knows it."

Wickwire—"Did Mudge have any remark to make when he found he had been swindled in the foot race?" Yabsley—"Well, if they could be printed a 100-yard dash would be about the proper thing."

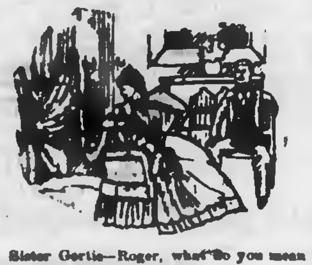
"Are they heirs-at-law?" inquired an attorney of one of his clients interested in an inheritance. "At law!" was the explosive response. "Well, I should say they were. They've busted the old man's will all to thunder."

A Cincinnati school girl, coming home to report having won two prizes, remarked that one of them was for having the best memory. Being asked what the other was for she replied: "For the life of me, I can't just now think what that was for."

City directory man (to boarding-house mistress)—"How many men boarders have you, madam, that are steady boarders?" Boarding Mistress—"Well, I've ten men that board with me right along, but there's only one of them that I call steady."

Mrs. Saseo—"I trust that we shall see a great deal of your friend when he comes to the city. My daughter will be back from Europe by the time he comes. She is a wonderful pianist, you know." Mr. Rodd—"Oh, my friend won't mind that. He is as deaf as a post."—Harper's Bazar.

Merely Wanted Information.



Sister Gertie—Roger, what do you mean by coming in here like that?

Little Roger (who has appeared all too suddenly)—I heard ma say you'd been fishing for Mr. Waverly a long time, and I just wanted to ask if that was a fishing smack I heard.

SHARP POINTS.

Stealing a march is not larceny any more than firing a peddler is arson.

Even in the dizzy waltz it is love that makes the whirled go round.

A small boy is not necessarily impecunious because he is strapped.

It is easy for a man to believe in the wisdom of God when everything comes his way.

It is queer about society: The minute a man gets asked into it he expects to get asked out.

A gallant beau calls a Washington girl's shoe "Wit," because brevity is the sole of it.

Old habits are hard to get rid of—as you will find when you take them to the second-hand clothing stores.

Parlor maid: "Give me a pound of tea." Shopman: "Black or green?" Maid: Doesn't matter which; missus is blind."

Kind lady: "If you need clothing I can supply you with an old suit of my husband's but they'll be about four sizes too big for you." Tramp: "Never mind, mum; I'll wear 'em. I'd rather be mistook for an Anglomaniac than freeze."

"You say you truly love me," began the young girl; "how much, sir?" But Alfred T. Cassimer was too happy for rational conversation. "A dollar eighty-four, please. Shall I wrap it up?" he murmured mechanically.

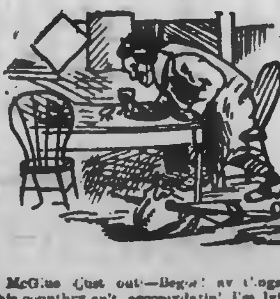
First partner: "We'll have to do something to cut down expenses. We haven't made a cent during the current year." Second partner: "Well, let's give the bookkeeper a half-interest in the firm, without salary."

Mrs. Simeral: "Mr. Jaysmith walks very crooked." Simeral: "Yes; he's been taking too many whisky straights."

"If your son is such a natural-born liar why don't you make a lawyer of him?" "He lies too well for that. He should be an explorer."

Holmden farm, at Pithole, Pa., which was sold during the oil excitement to Chicago people for $1,300,000, has since been sold at tax sale for $100.

The Passe Egg.



McGlue (just out)—Begor! av things is this counthry an't accomydatin', I'm lyin'. Even th' grub comes widout rachin' for it.

Impracticable Theories.

Impracticable theories grow out of thought without knowledge or lack of conscience. The man who wishes to help the world must bear a part in the world's interests and occupations. Thought without knowledge and lack of conscience accounts in a large measure for the numerous patent nostrums which the public are requested to buy. The makers of these vile compounds do not for a moment think of the terrible after results of their hurtful remedies. The great discovery of Prof. Phelps, known as Paine's Celery Compound, was given to the sick and suffering only after years of profound thought, experiment and research. It was first used among the brave and suffering soldiers who fought for the abolition of negro slavery. Many hundreds of these brave men, from exposure, overwork, nervous debility and great physical and mental strain, were almost helpless in hospital or on tented field. Paine's Celery Compound to them was life, strength, energy and new vigor. This grand preparation was afterwards given to the world generally, and has been the means of saving thousands of valuable lives. It is a true nerve and brain food for the weak, sleepless, overworked, brain-tired and dyspeptic victim. It brings new life, rest, peace, joy and contentment to all.

MINERS IN A PIT OF DEATH

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER IN PENNSYLVANIA.

One Hundred and Sixty Miners Believed to Have Perished—59 Bodies Recovered—Many Soldiers Returning From Pine Ridge Killed in a Railroad Collision in Texas.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 27.—A terrible mine explosion occurred at the mammoth works of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, Mammoth, at 9 o'clock this morning. The mines are half way between Tallobe and Mount Pleasant.

A Scottdale special places the number of lives lost at 80 and says: The explosion, it is supposed, was due to the ignition of a miner's oil lamp. The afterdamp which followed the firedamp explosion suffocated every workman. The persons not killed are in such a critical condition that their deaths are momentarily expected. Thus far 59 bodies have been recovered, all without sign of life. The fire, which broke out after the explosion, was soon extinguished by the immense fans. General Manager Lynch of the Frick Coke Company is helping in the work of recovering the bodies. The Mammoth plant embraces 509 ovens, one of the largest plants in the coke region, but it is hard of access. It is situated near the united works, where an explosion recently destroyed the entire shaft. The appalling loss of life in the Dunbar disaster is more than overshadowed by that in this mammoth calamity.

Coffins have already been ordered for 80 persons. The only man who escaped from the mine was Mine Boss Eaton.

It is estimated there are 60 widows and families left wholly dependent on charity for sustenance by this disaster. They are almost penniless, as the plant has not been running full for some time and work has been scarce.

MAMMOTH, Pa., Jan. 28.—One hundred and ten men were killed in the explosion. Sixty bodies have been taken out so far. The mine is on fire and it is feared the bodies of the others will be cremated.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 27.—A collision between a passenger train and the special bearing the troops from Pine Ridge occurred last evening on the Union Pacific Railroad at Florence, Kan. The special was carrying about 400 soldiers, part of the 7th Cavalry and Battery E, light artillery, bound for Fort Riley. The train consisted of seven passenger and 24 freight cars loaded with horses and several pieces of artillery and ammunition, hauled by two large engines. The three engines and several cars are a complete wreck. Many soldiers were seriously and at least two fatally injured.

The Dead.

SERGT. SCHORTBAT, Battery E Artillery, cut all to pieces.

PTE. NEIL, Troop (17th Cavalry, left leg cut off and head mashed.

The baggageman and conductor were slightly injured, and two passengers on the military train were hurt. On the passenger train one of the train hands was hurt. None of the passengers were injured. The conductor of the military train is held responsible for the accident, as he was running on the express train's time. He has disappeared. A large number of cavalry horses were killed.

Burglar Captured.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 27.—On Sunday morning about 2 o'clock Isaac Lundy's house at Wilsonville was broken into and $60 in cash stolen. William Lawrence, a traveling pedlar, was arrested to-day and $33.50 was found in his possession. The money has been traced all but about $13.

No More Sunday Meetings.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Mr. Parnell has intimated to Justin McCarthy his acceptance of an agreement that neither section of Irish party shall hold Sunday meetings in Ireland for the present. This step is due to the advice of William O'Brien.

Crushed by the Cars.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—While coupling cars at Moosomin to-day K. H. Skinner slipped and fell and was crushed between the cars. His injuries will probably prove fatal.

Arrested for Arson.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 27.—Mr. F. Gray of Eden has been arrested on the charge of burning the Eden Hotel, the charge on which Boughner, Ball and Stilwell were tried at the recent assizes.

THE ANCASTER MURDER.

FURTHER PATICULARS OF THE TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

The Old Man Makes a Desperate Fight With the Robbers and is Shot Down in Sight of His Wife and Daughter—Full Details

HAMILTON, Jan. 27.—John Heslop, clerk and treasurer of the township of Ancaster, was shot through the heart by masked burglars at his home on the Sulphur Springs Road between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning. About the hour mentioned three men drove up to the residence of John Heslop. The house is a beautiful stone structure of Gothic architecture, standing back from the road about a hundred yards and approached by a winding driveway through shrubbery and evergreen trees. The men drove their rig half way up the drive and then backed it into a sidepath so as to have the horse's head towards the road ready to make swift departure. A heavy platform used in pruning trees stands by the path, and possibly the horse was tied to that. But there is evidence of a man being left to watch it, for there are tracks of a man having stepped down from the pathway and taken shelter under a spreading evergreen, where he tramped about as if to keep his feet warm while waiting. The other two men walked up the path to the house and went to the front door, which they examined, but did not consider a good place to effect an entrance. There is an outer porch door, nearly all glass, which would be difficult to get through without cutting themselves or clothing. Then they walked around the house examining the windows, as shown by the tracks in the snow, and finally reached the back door. There is a pile of green, cordwood near the door. As there seemed no likelihood of an entrance being gained without alarming the inmates they took a heavy cordwood stick, and, using it as a battering-ram, smashed the lock off the door and entered the kitchen. The door from the kitchen to the rest of the house was also locked and they smashed that open, too. The cordwood stick was left lying by the kitchen stove. Then the two burglars went upstairs.

The Fight on the Landing

Meanwhile the inmates had been aroused by their entrance. Mr. and Mrs. Heslop occupied a room together near the head of the back stairs leading from the sitting-room. Miss Heslop slept alone in a front bedroom. Mrs. Heslop was awakened first, and she aroused her husband and called to Annie Heslop to ask if she heard men in the house. Mr. Heslop lighted a candle and went to the head of the back stairs and opened the door leading down, the muffled tread of two men on the uncarpeted stair being audible. The two frightened women crouched behind in the hall while the brave old man demanded of the burglars what they wanted. They made no reply, but blew out the candle he held. He went back to his wife's room, and laying down the candle, told her to relight it, and picking up a chair went out to meet the intruders. While Mrs. Heslop was getting a match and relighting the [illegible] band parleying with them.

"Who are you and what do you want?" he asked.

"Go back to your bed. It's all right," answered one of the men.

There was the noise of a rush of feet as if they had made a dash to disarm Mr. Heslop. Then the noise of blows and muttered curses and the splintering of a chair, followed by a pistol shot, a groan and a heavy fall.

The Murderers.

Then for the first time the women saw the assailants. There is a crook in the stair, or rather it comes up, turns at right angles at a landing in the middle and then there are five steps to the top. The fight took place on the stair out of sight of the women, and Mr. Heslop's body fell on the landing. Then the murderers came up into the hall and ordered the women into Mrs. Heslop's room, and one stood with the revolver in his hand guarding them. The candle had been relighted and the terror-stricken and agonized mother and daughter had a good view of both the men.

"Let me go to my husband," cried Mrs. Heslop, "you have murdered him!"

"We haven't hurt him," said one of the men soothingly. "He's all right. Stay here and we won't hurt you."

The men were dressed in dark overcoats and trousers, wore overshoes and had what looked like a woman's "cloud," or scarf wound around their faces and head, covering hats and all. Where their eyes were they had only bound the cloud around single ply, so that they could easily see through the open meshes. One man stood guard and the other went through the house. They evidently knew it well, for one of them went at once to the room where Mr. Heslop kept all the township books and papers and ransacked it most thoroughly, scattering the papers about. Then he went through Miss Heslop's room and other places, and in a desk in the front hall downstairs routed out a lot more papers. He evidently did not find what he was after, for he returned to the bedroom where his comrade was and questioned the women as recorded above, but got no information from them. Then he went down to where an old-fashioned safe stood in the hall. It is not known whether this safe was open or not, but Miss Heslop says it was always locked at night. If such was the case the burglar had a skeleton key, for he opened it without trouble and ransacked it, but fortunately missed which were stowed in a pigeon hole, wrapped in a piece of newspaper. All the plunder they got was a set of garnet jewelry belonging to Miss Heslop, one stone of which was missing, and a diamond ring and five other rings. The only township money in the house was $40 in a bureau drawer, and that they missed also.

The Murderers' Object.

Several times during the searching of the house the now almost crazed mother and daughter strove to force a passage past their guard to get to Mr. Heslop, but the man pushed them back and told them to keep quiet and they would not be injured. At last the burglar who had been making the search returned and with him departed hurriedly. Mrs. and Miss Heslop did not think of looking which direction they went, but naturally ran at once to where the brave old man lay. He had made a gallant fight. The splintered pieces of the chair lay upon the steps of the stair, and on the landing were dints where the corner of it had struck as he smashed right and left. On the landing, half-way down the stairway, the body lay huddled in the corner, face upwards. The poor women thought he was merely stunned, for no blood was apparent. Mrs. Heslop despatched Annie for help while she endeavored to revive him, but, on opening the front of his woolen night shirt, she saw the jagged hole in his breast that told her life was sped.

The Scene After the Murder.

Meantime a neighbor, John [illegible], and Constables Cram and Phillips had been summoned. The house presented a spectacle when they arrived. The body lay where it had fallen in the corner of the landing, and beside it was the chair with which the deceased had defended himself. It was one of those heavy kitchen chairs with thick wooden bottom, painted black. He had evidently wielded it with desperate force and energy. The four legs are splintered off and a heavy dint at the top of the stairs shows where he missed one intruder and the corner of the chair bottom struck the floor. Judging from the appearance of the chair the old man must have left some before he died. The papers in the safe and in the writing desk in the hall were scattered about the floor; mortgages, deeds, receipts and other engrossed documents bearing evidence of preparation at the hands of the law clerks were strewn about in confusion. The search had evidently been made in tremendous haste, as if the intruder was alarmed lest the shot should bring help, but the manner in which every spot where the money or valuables was likely to be had been visited seemed to denote an intimate knowledge of the surroundings. It is therefore suspected that the murder was committed by residents of the township or by persons who knew Mr. Heslop, although one report says they are supposed to have headed for Toronto.

When the fatal shot was fired, and all through the struggle, Mr. Heslop had on only the clothes he wore in bed, a flannel night shirt and a cotton undershirt, so that it was easy to see the wound. The ball, judging from the mark it made, would be about a 38 calibre. It entered the deceased almost in the centre of the breast, a little to the left, and passed inwards, slightly towards the right. It is thought that the bullet did not enter the heart and that death was not instantaneous. It was fired at very close quarters. The murdered man was driving the burglars backward with such vigor that he was right upon them, for the revolver was held close to his breast—so close that the outer shirt was singed and the inner shirt set fire to. The fire communicated to the right side and burned a hole in the shirt. At first it was thought this marked a second shot wound, but on second examination it was concluded that it could not have done so.

The Victim.

Than Mr. John Heslop there was no man in the County of Wentworth more esteemed by his friends and neighbors. He held many positions of trust in connection with the county during his lifetime. He was warden of Wentworth when it was united with Halton from 1853 to 1855 and subsequently when separation took place filled the chair in Wentworth until 1858. When Mr. W. A. Cooley died in 1872 Mr. Heslop was appointed treasurer of the township of Ancaster.

He was born in Cumberland, England, in July, 1812, and was therefore in his 79th year. At the age of four years he was brought to this country and first lived in New Brunswick. From there the family moved to Virginia, but early in the 30's he settled in Niagara district. In 1837 he was a warm and active supporter of Mackenzie, for whom he carried messages. He also escorted the leader through Ancaster region in the hot times of that year, and prized highly some messages, which he kept until the time of his death. In 1843 he settled in Ancaster township, and on May 21, 1844, was married in the farmhouse next to the one in which he was killed. He had but one daughter, Miss Sarah A. Heslop, who has always lived with the old folks.

Mr. Heslop was a wealthy man. He leaves a farm worth $20,000 and bonds and securities that will amount to as much again. He never kept money in the house.

What the Burglars Got.

The burglars got little for their crime and trouble. Their plunder consisted of a set of jewelry set with garnets, six rings, including two chased, two pearl and garnet set, one hair and one diamond ring. A few other small articles were carried off, the whole being worth $100.

Although the murder occurred at 2 o'clock, it was not until 5.35 that the Hamilton police got word of the terrible tragedy. Instead of telephoning here immediately on his arrival at Ancaster, the county constable drove to the city. It was then rather late for the detectives to hope to intercept the murderers, as they had a start of several hours, and could have been many miles away. Had the detectives been telephoned to, constables could have been sent to head off the burglars on their entrance to the city, as it is said that they were tracked this way.

It is thought that perhaps the wound was not made by a revolver, but a pistol. One valuable trace was preserved and may have a strong bearing on the case. Under the trees where the buggy was tied the footprints were numerous, and there, in a conspicuous place, is a large footprint of a foot wearing an overshoe and in the heel are the marks of two nails, one larger than the other, as if they had worn through the rubber heel of the shoe or pressed on it so hard as to make an impression on the snow. This step will probably be measured and photographed.

Held to be Constitutional.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Judge Lacombe in the U.S. Circuit Court to-day listened to the argument on the constitutionality of the McKinley bill. The question has been raised by H. H. Sternback & Co. in protesting against the levying of a duty of 45 per cent. ad valorem on colored cotton goods. Judge Lacombe announced that he would affirm the decision of the appraisers, and upon the entry of the order to this effect would grant an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

North Bruce Election.

TARA, Jan. 27.—At a convention of Reformers held here to-day David Porter of Amabel was chosen as the candidate in the Reform interest to contest the riding for a seat in the legislature, made vacant by the unseating of John George, the Conservative candidate.

Seals as Plentiful as Ever.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—In the House of Commons yesterday Under-Foreign Secretary Ferguson said the latest report on the condition of the seal fishery stated the weather was unfavorable for fishing, but the seals were as plentiful as ever.

Laurier at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—The ninth annual banquet of the Club National was held to night at Windsor Hotel and was attended by 600 guests. In reply to the toast, "Canada," Hon. Mr. Laurier discussed the probability of a dissolution of Parliament and an appeal to the people, and said if this wrong against the constitution were committed they were ready for the worst. The issue before the people was plain. The policy of the Liberal party was Unrestricted Reciprocity with the United States. Hon. Mr. Longley of Nova Scotia and Premier Mercier also spoke.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—The cable announcement that Sir Charles Tupper sails from England to-morrow for Canada created no little surprise here.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

THE BRADLAUGH RESOLUTION EXPUNGED FROM THE RECORDS.

Fierce Rioting By Scotch Strikers—Riots in Algiers and in Paris—One of Sardou's Plays Suppressed in Consequence—General Cable News.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir William Guyer Hunter moved that the resolution of the House of June, 1880, forbidding Charles Bradlaugh to take the oath or to affirm be expunged from the records as subversive of the rights of electors.

Solicitor-General Clarke opposed the motion, saying it was not in accordance with the traditions of the House. The record, he said, was historical and could not be effaced in this manner.

Mr. Gladstone supported the motion to expunge the resolution, claiming it was an excess of jurisdiction in an assembly like the House, holding almost unmeasurable power without appeal. Excess of jurisdiction, said Mr. Gladstone, was the greatest fault such an assembly could commit, leaving on record an error which might be turned to evil account in evil times. To see that the House did not trespass over the limits of its functions was one of the highest and most sacred duties. [Cheers.] Mr. Gladstone suggested that the motion would be acceptable to everybody by omitting the words "subversive of the rights of electors."

Sir Stafford Northcote advocated acceptance of the suggestion made by Mr. Gladstone.

William Henry Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, expressed the general sorrow which was felt at the illness of Mr. Bradlaugh and the motion as amended was passed. The result was greeted with hearty cheers.

SOAPSUDS ON THE RAILS.

Striking Scotch Railwaymen Occasion Much Damage.

GLASGOW, Jan. 27.—Serious rioting on the part of the railroad strikers occurred yesterday. A band of masked strikers, armed with sticks and stones, attacked and severely maltreated a number of men who were at work in and about the locomotive shed of the Caledonian railroad at Strathaven. After breaking a number of windows and driving the workingmen away the rioters ran one of the locomotives into a turn table pit and derailed another engine in such a manner that it will require considerable labor to again place the locomotive shed in working condition. In spite of the police the strikers have gathered on the railroad bridges at Wemyss Bay near Wemyss Castle on the Firth of Forth and stoned the firemen and engineers of passing trains. Several firemen and engineers have been disabled. The railroad tracks below Greenock were found covered with soft soap making it impossible for a train to pass until the rails had been cleaned.

REVOLUTIONISTS ANGERED.

Sardou's Thermidor Precipitates a Riot in Paris

PARIS, Jan. 27.—After the second performance of Sardou's "Thermidor" here last night there was a riot in the streets near the theatre, caused by the disorderly conduct of the extreme partisans of revolution who were ejected from the theatre. They hissed the audience as it left the theatre and shouted "Down with Sardou," "Long live the Republic." In the streets a free fight followed between the extremists and the police and it was with difficulty the latter managed to keep a passage through the enraged crowd for the However, after some desperate tussels with the rioters, during which a number of arrests were made, the audience was enabled to leave the theatre surrounded by a howling mob. The latter surrounded Larroumet the director of fine arts just as he had entered his carriage, and he would have been roughly handled had he not been recognized and rescued by the police in a charge made through the mob. During the disturbance 15 arrests were made amongst the most violent of the rioters, but only two extremely wild agitators were held in custody after the crowds had been dispersed. More violent scenes are expected to-night should there be another performance of "Thermidor."

Minister Constans at first decided to protect "Thermidor," but after the Ministers had consulted with the prefect of police it was decided to prohibit the performance. Much indignation was expressed at the Government for giving way to a group of socialistic fanatics.

The theatre in which "Thermidor" was produced was besieged by an enormous crowd this evening and in spite of the change in the program the mob packed the house. The rising of the curtain was the signal for violent rivalries of "Vive Thermidor," "A bas Thermidor," etc. The tumult increased until the younger Coquelin stepped before the curtain and said the performance would proceed no further and the ticket money would be returned at the doors. The audience departed greatly excited, but no serious disorder ensued. The theatre loses 500,000 francs in advance bookings.

"Thermidor" possesses strong dramatic interest, centering on the refusal of Fabienne to take the advice of her lover Martial and declare herself enceinte in order to escape being guillotined, whereupon Martial commits suicide by shooting himself. Mm. Barter, Coquelin and Marais take the leading parts. M. Pichon will ask the Chamber of Deputies to-day to suppress "Thermidor" on the ground that it is liable to lead to rioting. M. Reinach will oppose the motion on the ground that the suppression of the play would be an attack upon art.

A Riot in Algiers

ALGIERS, Jan. 27.—A despatch from Bona, province of Constantine, states that a serious riot has occurred there. M. Omessa, a native of Corsica and editor of an Algerian newspaper, recently shot and killed his wife and a man whom he suspected of being her paramour. For some days Omessa has been on trial at Bona, and yesterday he was acquitted on the ground that the relations existing between Mme. Omessa and the dead man were such as to justify the killing. During the trial crowds of friends of the prisoner and of the man who was killed were in court, and when the verdict was rendered there was a wild tumult. A free fight followed between the factions, during which both sides were joined by reinforcements of rioters, who rushed into the court-room and joined in the fight. The few gendarmes on duty were powerless until a strong detachment of police and a detachment of troops arrived and dispersed the [illegible].

Suffered a Relapse.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Charles Bradlaugh, who was reported to be improving, has suffered a relapse.

Mr. Bradlaugh has been unconscious several hours and it has been impossible to impart to him the result of the division in the House of Commons last night.

WARDEN ELMHIRST.

MR. F. ELMHIRST and the municipality he represents are to be congratulated upon his elevation to the highest municipal position in the county. Mr. Elmhirst has sat in the County Council for eight years and has been a careful and attentive member, and the years he has served in the Council as well as the interest he has taken in municipal affairs entitles him to the honor.

Mr. Elmhirst is a native of the county, he having been born at Keene in 1840. He resided at his paternal home until 1862, when he was married to Miss Agnes Weir, daughter of Mr. Robert Weir, of Otonabee, and began life on a farm in Asphodel. Four years later, upon the death of his father, the late Richard Elmhirst, he returned to the homestead, where he resided until his brothers were of age, at which time he sold out and removed to the township of Anstruther, in 1871, and has since resided there. In addition to his business of farming, which he still carries on, Mr. Elmhirst entered the flour and saw milling business four years ago, and has since successfully managed these enterprises. In 1878 Mr. Elmhirst was elected to the Township Council and served four years, when he retired. In 1883 he was elected to the position of Reeve and has been re-elected every year since, being returned six times by acclamation.

A PRETTY DOCUMENT.

COURT proceedings have brought to light a very interesting document in connection with protest entered against the election of Mr. Stinson in Hamilton. Col. Collier, an American, was one of the witnesses in the case for the Liberals and it was expected by them that his evidence would at least unseat Mr. Stinson. The colonel did his best to accomplish that, and the reason he did so is now shown by the document referred to. It is signed by an official under the Mowat Government and is as follows:—

> "TORONTO, 16th September, 1890.
> "(We) I, the undersigned, hereby agree to pay to Col. Collier the sum of $500 on his delivery to us of a book containing the names of parties in Hamilton to be used in Stinson's contested election case, and (we) I also agree to have the charters revived of the Port Rowan and Port Burwell and Port Royal and Detroit River Railway at the next session of Parliament, and (we) I further agree to protect the said Col. Collier from any criminal proceedings that may be taken against him.
> "(Signed), P. J. BROWN."
> "Expenses to be paid by us."

As first drawn up it was obviously to have been signed by more than one, and the other party is said to have been another Mowat Government official. A most disgraceful piece of trickery is revealed by this agreement. Not only is a considerable sum of money to be paid over to a witness in a case in court, but the agreement is made to have railway charters revived, which could only be done with the aid of the Government.

It is satisfactory to know that this piece of shameless trickery availed the Liberals nothing, for although Mr. Stinson has been unseated, it is not on account of any corrupt act on the part of himself or his agents, and the tool of the petitioners, Col. Collier, was not able to serve them after the agreement had been made. None the less the document shows that a shameless bargain had been made, of which more may be heard.

REVIEWS.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for February excels in the variety and value of its illustrated articles. The frontispiece is a portrait of Edwin Booth, engraved from Sargent's painting at the Players' Club, New York City. A novel and entertaining feature of the number is the collection of twelve original drawings (now published for the first time) by W. M. Thackeray, illustrating the Heroic Adventures of M. Boudin, with comment by Anne Thackeray Ritchie. Two important papers appear on Finland, accompanied by twenty-four illustrations from photographs and from sketches by Albert Edelfelt and F. E. Lummis. Charles Dudley Warner contributes an article entitled The Heart of the Desert, which contains twelve illustrations of scenery in the valley of Yosemite, the great desert of new Mexico, and the Grand Canon of the Colorado. A voyage in southern latitudes through Smyth's Channel and the Strait of Magellan, is the subject of an entertaining paper by Theodore Child, accompanied by fifteen illustrations. The Rev. John F. Hurst contributes a paper on English Writers in India, with four illustrations from old prints and drawings by Charles Graham and C. Monte. L. E. Chittenden writes an interesting chapter of reminiscences entitled The Faith of President Lincoln. Ellen Mackay Hutchinson contributes a paper on Personal Intelligence Fifty Years Ago. The fiction includes the second part of Charles Egbert Craddock's In the Stranger People's Country, and short stories by Edward Everett Hale and Geraldine Bonner. Poems are contributed by William Dean Howells, Christopher P. Cranch, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, and Louise Imogen Guiney. The editorial departments, conducted by George William Curtis, William Dean Howells, and Charles Dudley Warner, maintain their usual standard of variety and literary excellence.

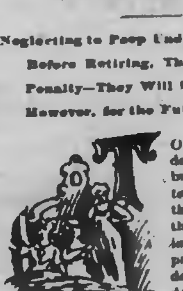
A MAN UNDER THE BED.

PRETTY GIRLS KEPT PRISONERS FOR FOUR LONG HOURS.

Neglecting to Peep Under the Furniture Before Retiring, They Pay a Heavy Penalty—They Will be More Careful, However, for the Future.



TO be frightened to death not instantly, but by long hours of terrible suspense—the blood freezing, the brain maddening, the heart stopping—can man or demon devise a death more horrible!

Lou and Nora Mix, aged 16 and 18, respectively, in their home on Michigan avenue, at 11 o'clock Friday evening, hastily undressed without a light and went to bed. For five minutes they talked merrily. But suddenly conversation was hushed. They lay shuddering in each other's arms, their heads buried in the blankets, their hearts fluttering, their teeth chattering. Protruding from under the bed had appeared a man's boot.

By and by they could whisper faintly

"See if the window is open," panted Nora.

"I can't!" gasped Lou.

Nora peered out just enough to see that the window was partly raised. This only confirmed their fears. The man under the bed was a burglar, waiting for them to sleep. They dared not scream, lest he murder them. Their parents, sleeping down stairs, if aroused might be killed. The girls' only hope was to let the burglar know they were awake, yet not inform him they suspected his presence.

"Revolver under your pillow?" asked Nora.

"Yes."

"So is mine."

This, said aloud, was for the burglar. They had no firearms. At sight of a pistol the girls would have fainted.

"Chloroform!" whispered Lou. Both thought they detected the odor of that drug. Was he thus to make them insensible, murder them? They had read of such deaths. The fatal influence was coming over them, a trembling, a numbness, with noises like drum beats in the air.

The clock struck 12. The man under the bed moved.

Then Lou in a husky whisper said:

"Quick! Let him know we are awake."

Uncovering her head, Nora in trembling tones hummed a song learned in childhood. The burglar became silent. The odor of chloroform seemed abating.

The girls again whispered, but the more they talked the more frightened they became. They recalled the story of the kissing burglar, who, finding a young woman alone in bed, had deliberately kissed her. They remembered Mrs. Malone, who was so frightened by a burglar that in the one hour of terror her hair turned white. Madly now rushed such thoughts as come to the dying. Worthless, odious seemed their gay life. All of a sudden Nora stealthily reached to the dresser at the head of the bed, put a book under her pillow, and tore a card into fragments. The book was the bible; the card an invitation to a fashionable ball. Then came half an hour of silence dreadful, appalling.

The clock struck 1. The man under the bed moved.

It was Lou's turn to silence him. Throwing the blankets from her head, she with great difficulty quoted a verse of scripture. She fancied her heart throbs shook the bed.

The whispering was resumed. Nora unwisely mentioned an old murder of which she had read. The crime, or rather series of crimes, had been committed in the far west. In a tavern a bed had been so constructed that in it one could lie comfortably only on one's left side. Concealed under the bed was the murderer. The unfortunate traveler asleep, there was thrust up through the bed and into his heart a long, slender needle. A groan and all was over. The small wound escaped notice. Not until many had become victims was murder suspected. The weird, blood-curdling story nearly made the girls frantic. They imagined such needles piercing their bed. Not for the world would they lie on the left side. Their arms tightened around each other's necks.

The clock struck 2. The man under the bed moved.

At this instant they were startled by a noise in a room above. It was their father descending the stairs. He would be killed. They recalled the Snell murder. If they warned him they might all be killed. Fortunately the father had no light. He approached the sitting-room stove, opened the door, put in some coal, then, looking toward the girls' room, said:

"Asleep?"

The sisters had been holding their breath, expecting every instant a bullet from under the bed would begin the butchery by killing the father. Lou's hands were pressed to her ears to deaden the report of the pistol. But Nora, her tongue parched, stammered in reply one word:

"Almost."

He slowly returned to bed, they daring to give him no hint of the danger. Then came again the oppressive silence.

All of a sudden slow, measured footsteps a block away were heard. It was a patrolman approaching. He saw the open window, came up, rapped lightly.

"What is it?" asked Nora.

"Window up. Anything wrong?"

The man under the bed moved. Even then the girls were afraid to betray the intruder lest he shoot them before he could be overpowered.

"No," replied Nora, "we want fresh air."

The officer walked away. All hope seemed gone. They again whispered. Suddenly Nora said:

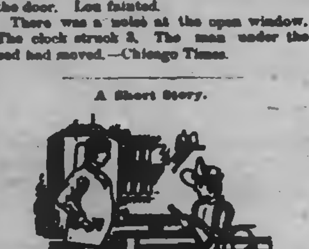
"I can not sleep without luncheon."

"Nor I," said Lou.

They stood on the bed. Desperate, frenzied, they would risk it. Through the partly opened window came a ray of moonlight resting for an instant on their mother's portrait on the wall. Then all was darkness. Under the bed a revolver clicked. Dreadful was the suspense, wondering where the little piece of lead would strike, stinging, cutting, tearing through vein and nerve, tissue and bone. Too late, however, to change their plans. Holding the draperies close to their trembling forms, they bounded from bed, out of the room, closing the door. Lou fainted.

There was a noise at the open window. The clock struck 3. The man under the bed had moved.—Chicago Times.

A Short Story.



She—Please make me up a dose of castor oil.

Smart Clerk (after a pause of five minutes) —Have a glass of soda, won't you?

She drinks the soda and waits for the oil.

Smart Clerk—Anything else miss?

She—The castor oil, please.

Smart Clerk—Why, I gave you the oil in the soda!

She—Well, I didn't want it for myself. It was for my brother.

CULTIVATE THE WILLOW.

A Profitable Crop That Requires Little Care and Useless Space.

There are many special crops which might be profitably grown in this country, and which have been entirely neglected, or at least to that extent which nearly amounts to neglect. For many years we have depended upon foreign countries for our supply of basket willow, and some idea of the extent of the demand for this simple article or variety of wood can be gleaned from the fact that nearly $6,000,000 worth is annually imported into the United States from Great Britain, Belgium, Holland and France. From Holland, however, comes the largest supply and, as a rule, the best and most acceptable quality, the climate and the numerous dykes, on the borders of which it flourishes finely, being especially adapted to its successful growth, while experience has taught the Hollanders how to prepare it so as to best meet the wishes of manufacturers here.

There is no just reason why we cannot readily produce all that can possibly be called for in this country, and do so profitably to the grower, for that there is considerable profit in its growth for market is undoubtedly true. One of the greatest items in its favor is that it grows best on such spots or lands as cannot profitably be utilized for other crops, on account of the excessive and constant moisture, but meadows and the banks of slow and shallow streams being best adapted for its rapid and healthy growth. It is also, in such localities, an admirable windbreak, while it serves to beautify or hide what would otherwise be unsightly spots on the farm. It grows over a wide range of latitude and temperature, and is found in variety in nearly every State in our Union, especially the black willow, which is grown as an ornamental tree, and as a shelter and wind break. This variety, however, is not the sort used in basket making and in kindred work, the true osier willow being the only kind which can thus be used, on account of its light color, its strength and elasticity, and its tendency to sucor, thus producing wood of the size and form most desired. In severely cold climates the rapid growth of the black willow is used, as before stated, as a protection to stock from the bleak and cutting blasts which prevail in some localities nearly the entire winter, its rapid and dense growth soon affording the necessary protection.

While all varieties of the willow delight in a cool, moist, or wet soil and on lands bordering on streams, it will readily root and grow in almost any locality, even on upland, and is not at all particular as to the quality or richness of the soil, although where it is planted—the osier—for profit such localities as are best suited to its successful growth should be selected, so as to produce a quick, strong growth and an abundance of such shoots as find greater favor with purchasers. Aside from its value as an ornamental tree, as a wind break and for basket-making and like uses, its value by no means ceases there, for its lightness, toughness and elasticity fit it for numerous other uses, to which it would be put more largely if the supply from domestic sources could be depended on. In making ox yokes it is especially prized, as it is less than half the weight of the hard woods so frequently used, and this with no decrease of strength or durability, while it is more extensively used by furniture manufacturers than many persons imagine, it being a wood which will partake of a magnificent finish on account of its closeness and evenness of grain, and so tough as to stand rough usage almost indefinitely. The manufacturers of gunpowder use the charcoal in large quantities made from this wood, while tanners call for its bark for their uses, the bark containing large quantities of tannic acid, and the sprouts are utilized by the basket-makers, so all is made good and profitable use of, unless it be, perhaps, the leaves.

In growing the willow principally for the basket-makers' uses, it should be the object to encourage the production of large numbers of shoots. The willow is readily propagated by cuttings, which are either set out and then transplanted when they are intended to grow, or else a couple of shoots about a foot or so in length set out right where they are intended to remain, as the root quickly and seldom fails to grow. If both of the shoots grow one can be removed to another place, as one is enough to remain. Let it grow all it will the first season, and in the late fall cut it back; and the following year you will get a good growth, when the cutting back can be repeated. The third season you can, if the plantation has been probably handled harvest your first crop, and thereafter for many years, as the willow is long-lived and will produce increasing crops every year. It will be found to bring in a very acceptable crop of money each year, and from land which would otherwise be worse than useless. The expense of starting and maintaining a plantation of the osier or basket willow is trifling, and is not at all felt. It requires no cultivation and but little to keep the trees, so-called, in proper trim, the greatest amount of time being expended in harvesting and preparing the shoots for market. In doing this the bark is quickly and thoroughly stripped from the shoots by means of an improvised hatchel attached to a bench. This hatchel is made in several different shapes, the one most readily used being a series of dull V shaped teeth in a double frame, the upper one being loose and movable, to give with the varying size of the piece and pieces, and so as not to injure the appearance of the wood. The shoots are then assorted, care being taken not to injure the white color so much desired, when they are assorted into sizes and put into bundles and bales and shipped to dealers in such goods in our different large cities.

Officers of the Cemetery Company.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company met in the committee room of the Town Council Chamber yesterday afternoon for the election of officers. Mr. Henry Denne was chosen President, Mr. E. A. Peck was re-appointed Secretary-Treasurer and Mr. W. H. Foord continued as Superintendent. It was decided to meet, except during the winter months, on the second Monday in each month. After some other business the Board adjourned.

"The General" in Trouble.

"General" Tighe was locked up last night on a warrant charging him with assault. At the Police Court this morning the story was unravelled. The complainant was Thos. Fredenburgh, a lad nine or ten years of age. It appears that Tighe's "favorite girl" had remained over night at Fredenburgh's and a comb had been removed from her valise. Fredenburgh was at Tighe's house when that man accused the lad of removing the comb from the young lady's valise. The lad denied it and called the girl with being economical of the truth if she said he did. Tighe would not have his girl's truthfulness questioned and shook the lad and threw him down. The Magistrate fined Tighe two dollars and costs or ten days, in all $6.35. The man went up.

Critics are Invited.

There was a rather slim house at the Opera House last evening to witness the presentation of the drama "Fate" as put on the boards by the Belle Stevenson dramatic company. The play was very acceptably presented, and was followed by specialties and a laughable farce. Miss Stevenson and Mr. Geo. Summers each gave a recitation in fine style, and Mr. Stevenson and Miss Stevenson sang a couple of duets with guitar accompaniment which were vociferously encored. "Jimmy" Wallbrook again amused the audience with his several jigs. The bill was a lengthy one and the audience were given their money's worth. This evening the company will present the dramatization of Tennyson's "Enoch Arden" in which Mr. Stevenson in the title role is said to excel. He asks all critics to be present and criticize from start to finish.

AMONG THE INDIANS.

Address by a Lady who has Visited the Mission Stations of the Northwest.

It was not a large audience that assembled in the St. John's church Sabbath school house last evening to listen to the address of Miss Paterson, Dorcas Secretary of the Women's Auxiliary, who has just recently returned from a visit to the different mission stations in the Northwest. The audience was composed entirely of ladies, with the exception of half a dozen gentlemen, but it was the ladies whom the lady speaker desired more particularly to interest and she evidently succeeded, as her address was most attentively listened to. Rev. C. B. Kenrick presided.

Miss Paterson in company with another lady made her visit of investigation officially and she was therefore observant in her journeyings and had evidently made careful notes by the way. These notes she had arranged in an interesting address and portrayed to her hearers the life, condition and some of the habits of the different Indian tribes, the missions upon whose reserves she visited. She told of the schools that were doing a good work, of the labor among the Blackfeet, Blood, Sarcee and Pegan Indians and related several interesting incidents in her personal experience. She travelled as far west as Vancouver and also visited San Francisco, where she attended a meeting of the American branch of the Women's Auxiliary and gleaned some information in regard to the working of the Society there. In Vancouver she said there was a mission field to be worked among the Chinese, some two thousand of whom were to be found there. The Bishop at that place was anxious to begin mission work among them, as no effort was being made to enlighten them except by the Methodists. The Mission Board she said had granted $500 for the work this year and more would be needed. In the Temiscaming mission which she visited on the return journey she said they were in need of money to finish a church that had been begun. Other assistance was required at different places. In closing she said no doubt it seemed like giving, giving all the time, but she thought they should be especially willing to aid the Indians whom they had practically robbed of their means of existence, by driving them from the land and destroying the buffalo.

The Chairman expressed the thanks of the audience for the interesting and instructive lecture and the meeting closed with a hymn.

Young Men's Conservative Club.

The regular annual meeting of the Young Men's Conservative Club was held last night in the club rooms. This meeting was not held on account of any rumors regarding an approaching elections, as has been surmised, but was the regular yearly meeting of the club—a meeting that has been held each year since its organization. There was a fair attendance and Mr. J. Hampden, Burnham, the President, presided. After several matters relating to the club's affairs had been considered, the following officers were elected:—

HON. PRESIDENT.—Jas. Stevenson, M.P.
PRESIDENT.—R. Max. Dennistoun.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT.—S. R. Armstrong.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT.—A. Stevenson.
SECRETARY-TREASURER.—Andrew McNeil.
WARD CHAIRMEN.—Ward One, T. B. McGrath; Ward Two, Geo. Stevenson; Ward Three, W. B. Robinson; Ward Four, T. Rutherford.

Trained Horses, Ponies and Donkeys.

The Toronto World of Tuesday in speaking of Prof. Bristol's equine show which will appear in the Opera House here on Wednesday and Thursday, February 4th and 5th, says:—"The Grand Opera House was well filled last night when Prof. Bristol's troupe of trained horses, ponies and Denver the Donkey gave their unique exhibition. One would wonder how a number of horses could entertain a crowd of spectators for upwards of three hours, but the Prof. makes his animals perform such a variety of tricks and evolutions that the time quickly flies. Denver's mathematical exercises were really marvelous. With human sagacity the noble animal pawed the floor a certain number of times, answering examples with an accuracy that mystified the big houseful. Denver, the clown mule, made lots of fun. Tony does a wonderful leap act from a flying swing. The horses perform a military drill, which is so near human intelligence that it seems hard to dispossess yourself of the fact that horses are not reasoning beings, the discipline is so perfect. They fall in, march off in double and single file, counter march, come into line, right or left wheel, right or left oblique, guide right or go through many intricate evolutions, and conduct themselves as soldiers."

THE CHAIRMANSHIPS.

Mr. BURNHAM moved, seconded by Mr. KIDD,—That hereafter all committees appointed choose their own chairman.—Carried.

RETURNS OF FINES.

Mr. CASEMENT moved, seconded by Mr. BURNHAM,—That the Clerk prepare for the information of the Council a return of all fines paid to him during the year 1890 by the County Police Magistrate and a return of all Scott Act fines paid to him since the last return.—Carried.

A HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. BURNHAM said he wished to bring before the Council the question of the establishment of a House of Refuge. Mr. Pearce had, at his suggestion, written to a number of places and received information. A number of counties had established them and the information would be valuable. Another point was that the share of the gaol expenses paid by the Government was in proportion to the number of misdemeanants confined there as compared with those committed for felonies, and the larger number of vagrants there were in the gaol the greater proportion was thrown upon the county. Counties were authorized by the law to establish such houses of refuge, and they might be able to make an arrangement with the town to establish it jointly or by some other arrangement by which it would be used by both. It was not right to send persons to gaol who had committed no crime, but simply because they were poor, to end their days in gaol and in prison uniform. By a new provision of the law the Government would provide one quarter of the expense of establishing a refuge, up to $4,000, provided the county purchased 15 acres of land for it. Most of the counties having refuges had from 45 to 80 acres of land.

Mr. BURNHAM then moved, seconded by Mr. CASEMENT,—That the Clerk lay upon the table of this Council the presentment of the Grand Jury at the last assizes, all reports, papers and communications in regard to Houses of Refuge, and all reports heretofore made by committees of this Council upon the same subject. And that a committee be appointed to consider the question of establishing a House of Refuge in this county, and that all such papers be laid before such committee, who shall report at this session of the Council, the committee to consist of Messrs. Sanderson, Moloney, Kidd, Stewart, Casement, Moore, Burnham, Finlay and McAuley.

The motion was carried.

THE COUNTY SCHOOLS.

Mr. J. COYLE BROWN, Inspector of Public Schools, read a lengthy, interesting and valuable report on the schools of the county, which was received and referred to the Committee on Schools.

The Council then adjourned to take up committee work.

Two Ways of Gaining Money.

Picking up a pocket book is inferred to be an easy and expeditious way of acquiring money. No doubt it is, but if honest, the finder will return it. Pocket books are not to be picked up every day, but the money can be gained by being saved by buying your Teas at Hawley Bros'. of George st. They deal in Teas almost exclusively and every customer is a satisfied buyer. Try Hawley's Teas. d29

The Business Tax.

This matter is occupying public attention. The pros and cons of it are being discussed. Good men advocate it, and the assumption is that it is a new and reasonably fair way of apportioning the tax on personal property. In the meantime the reflection comes, no matter how the business tax may effect a fellow's pocket, that at Hawley Bros. teas can be had at old prices, at old quality, both of the best. Go to Hawley Bros. for your teas. d&w

To-night.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

"One Contemporary Must Hustle or Get Left."

The following items are extracted from the last issue of THE ARIZONA KICKER:

POOR FLY!—Our contemporary down the street has still another cause to wish he could attend our funeral. Wednesday morning we received the first and only paper cutter ever seen in this locality, and all day long the office was crowded with interested sightseers, each one of whom had a word in praise of our enterprise.

We don't want to appear vain or boastful, but we feel that we may be excused for observing that every step we have thus far taken has exhibited a spirit of enterprise totally unknown in this region before our advent. We have several more in view, and hope to continue to merit the praise so liberally lavished upon our efforts.

THEY SKIP.—Three months ago Col. A. E. Davison and wife arrived in town and rented the yaller-faced adobe on Pine Place as a residence. The colonel gave out that he was here as the agent of an English syndicate, and the way he did lord it around was awful to see. In order to show his dislike for us because we refused to puff him except at advertising rates, he gave a "blow-off" and invited everybody else in town who could raise a pair of boots to stuff his pants into. We were dead out—left out in the cold—knocked out.

We have no desire to injure any one, and we have never been charged with meanness. The colonel took this way to lay us out, and so, simply to discover how great he was, and how we must bow before him, we picked up his record. Saturday evening the couple skipped out. Had they not done so they would have been arrested Monday, as he is an escaped jail-bird and she a swindler. We don't want to give the impression that if we are not invited to all the high teas, low coffees, rum punches, etc., given in town that we will communicate with Pinkerton at once, but still it is just as well not to snub us too sharply. We own a white shirt and have learned to eat with a fork, and our presence won't mar the harmony of any occasion.

JIM'S WAY.—The verdict of the jury in Jim Stevens' case was, as might have been expected, in favor of the defendant. Mr. Kelso, the Ohio man who was plaintiff in the case, has made no friends here by his hasty and inconsiderate action, and in time will regret it. He appeared on the street wearing a plug hat although he must have known what the result would be. This left on his part shows him to be a person of poor judgment. Several shots were fired at his hat, but it was a bullet from Jim Way's revolver which knocked it into the street.

THE KICKER does not approve of rowdyism on the street, and is the champion of courtesy towards strangers, but each western town has its custom and we have ours, and the tenderfoot who comes here will do well to fit himself to circumstances.

SOLD AGAIN.—We had business over at the Elbow the other day, and our esteemed contemporary saw in the fact a long-sought opportunity. He sent a messenger around by the river road to get there ahead of us and offer the boys $20 to draw our body up to a limb. The boys were ready enough, but when they came to look for the body it wasn't there. We suspected what was brewing and lit out.

Do we blame our esteemed contemporary? Not a bit. Every man out this way has his peculiarities, and every other man respects them. We came here and found the field occupied by a wretched apology for a weekly paper, conducted by a wretched apology for a human hyena. In three months we had driven him into a hole, and in six he was the sickest man in all Arizona. He wouldn't be human not to feel hurt in his mind—such a mind as he has. He has shot at us, tried to poison us, set our office on fire, bribed our employes, hired assassins to slay us and the plot the other day was his latest move.

Go in, old boy! Hang an under dog who won't bite even when he knows he's licked!—Detroit Free Press

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

CHEAP HOUSES AND LOTS.

Speculators are buying to re-sell at a profit and many others who ought to buy a house are allowing this golden opportunity to pass because they are having good accommodation now at low rents, but they forget that the landlord may notify them of an advance at any time and they will then be compelled to buy at high prices.

The Doctors Were Not Successful.

Happily, for the benefit of wives and mothers, we are allowed at times to give the names of victims of suffering who have secured life and strength from the use of Paine's Celery Compound. The case of Mrs. N. J. Bouchard, of L'Ange Gardien, P. Q., is one which should give hope to every woman who may suffer as she once did. Mrs. Bouchard had suffered for two years from Dyspepsia and Nervous Debility. The doctors had treated her without success. Her sufferings were not alleviated until she commenced to use that great remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. She writes:—"I used three bottles of Paine's Celery Compound with great results, and I am now perfectly cured."

This is truly remarkable, but can be vouched for by her neighbors and friends.

What more convincing proofs do the women of Canada require? Every week we hear of similar testimony from the ladies. Truly our people have found a blessing—a God-given gift in Paine's Celery Compound.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Death of a Well-Known Newspaper Man—Sir John's Visit.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Mr. James H. MacLean, one of the best known and most popular newspaper men in the city, died suddenly yesterday at his mother's residence, 20 Surrey-place. He was the city editor of The World and brother of the proprietor, Mr. W. F. Maclean, and as a pushing, enterprising gatherer of news had few equals. He has been under the care of Dr. J. E. Elliott for the past three or four days, but was not considered in a dangerous condition until the previous night. He was 34 years of age, and leaves a wife but no family.

Sir John A. Macdonald, accompanied by Lady Macdonald, Mrs. Dewdney, wife of the Minister of the Interior, and Mr. Joseph Pope, Sir John's private secretary, left Ottawa by the Canadian Pacific Railway Monday night and reached Toronto yesterday morning. They were driven to the Queen's Hotel, where they were given the suite of rooms of which the celebrated Red Parlor is the chief. Callers were numerous, amongst them being the prominent Conservatives of the city and a number from Western Ontario.

Sir John lunched at the Albany Club, and in the afternoon attended the annual meeting of the Empire Newspaper Company.

WILL GLADSTONE RETIRE?

A Report Which Is Believed to Be Authentic Says He Will.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Chester Courant claims it has authority to state Mr. Gladstone is about to resign the leadership of his party. While dining with Sir William Harcourt this evening with other Liberal colleagues Mr. Gladstone was shown The Courant's statement and declined to confirm or deny it.

The Courant says Mr. Gladstone will retire from the Liberal leadership, unless public events take a turn not at present anticipated, and that communications of the past fortnight between Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues have revealed dissensions which nothing but his withdrawal can possibly heal.

McCarthy is Confident.

MANCHESTER, Jan 27.—The Parnellite Leadership Committee to-day presented to Mr. McCarthy an address in which, while expressing admiration for him personally, they strongly protested against his assuming the leadership, and thus dividing the Irish party. Mr. McCarthy reminded the committee that the majority of the party urged him to accept the leadership. Nobody more than himself deplored the dissension in the party. He believed his hearers were actuated by patriotism alone and he had no doubt the difficulties would vanish and the party would again become united. He was confident the controversy would eventuate satisfactorily.

Still Another Version.

DUBLIN, Jan. 27.—The Express says the conferences at Boulogne-sur-Mer are simply an attempt to discover a pathway for a decent retreat of the followers of Justin McCarthy from a position too hastily assumed. The Express adds that the dissension in the Irish party is not of a permanent nature, the leaders of both sections having too much to lose to keep open the quarrel until the general election.

The Irish Times states that the few Irish members of parliament who are at present in the House of Commons are followers of Mr. McCarthy and they are sitting behind Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Arnold Morley and Henry Labouchere while the Parnellites are stumping Ireland and treating the Boulogne conference as a farce.

At a National League meeting to-day, J. J. Clancy, M.P. for North Dublin, said: "We are within view of a satisfactory settlement of the crisis."

A MANITOBA STORY.

A Camp in the Northwest Said to Have Been Attacked and Many Indians Killed and Eaten.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—The following letter was received to-day from Settee, Indian missionary at Dynevor: "James Sinclair, Indian councillor of Jackhead, Lake Winnipeg, brings in a report that camps of Indians hunting on the east side of Lake Winnipeg, not very far from Bloodvein River, near Doghead, was visited by a band of wolves, about 100 in number, who attacked the camps and killed many Indians and devoured them. One Indian cudgeled and killed 30 wolves. Another Indian climbed up a tree with his gun and shot down 20 wolves. One Indian mounted a stage which was not very high and the wolves got him down and devoured him. There is therefore a great panic among the Indians in that quarter. Indians say there are no deer, consequently the wolves are mad with hunger."

Still Another Victim.

KINGSTON, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Whelan of Inverary, while driving across the Kingston & Pembroke Railway outside of the city, was struck by an express train, and sustained injuries which it is feared will prove fatal.

FROM THE SOUDAN

In a Skirmish with Rebel Dervishes a Number Are Killed.

SUAKIM, Jan. 27.—Egyptian infantry and cavalry to-day captured Handoub from the rebels. The Governor of Suakim, who commanded the Egyptians, then returned here with most of his troops, leaving behind one battalion as a garrison. The captured rebels will be subjected to severe treatment. If Egypt holds Handoub and also takes Tokar the interior trade will be revived. A band of dervishes and their followers in a raid captured some cattle near Suakim to-day, but Egyptian cavalry pursued them and recaptured the cattle after some skirmishing. They also captured 40 rebels. Two Egyptians were killed. The rebels' loss in killed is unknown.

Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $50,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1200 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formerly it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $2.40, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5 00, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $3 00. Send in your order.

NEWS FROM EVERY LAND.

McCARTHY'S PECULIAR ADDRESS AT MANCHESTER.

Mrs. O'Shea Reported to Be Seriously Ill—Riot at a Meeting of the Nationalists at Belfast—The Awful Crime of Two Gendarmes.

MANCHESTER, Jan. 28.—Justin McCarthy in a speech to-day said he did not desire to underrate the magnitude of the troubles that had befallen Ireland, but it need not concern the English people. It would pass away, and though there might still be recriminations amongst Irish members he did not believe in the lasting of any quarrel that had not roots in some real and genuine principle. Mr. McCarthy said they must be patient and hopeful and work as if nothing had happened and support the National League to the utmost of their power. He still had hopes of a speedy reunion. If they failed to reach an agreement the Irish people had better seek another Parliamentary party, but Home Rule was safe with Gladstone and the English democracy.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Goschen in an address before the Chamber of Commerce at Leeds to-day said the change in foreign tariffs ought not to disconcert enterprise. There should be no scolding or complaining at foreign countries. In view of the danger of foreign tariffs, employers and workingmen ought to avoid quarrels. They could maintain British commercial supremacy throughout the world. The speaker expected the next budget would disclose continued prosperity in the affairs of the nation. There would not, however, he said, be much reason for congratulation if he was again obliged to chronicle an increase in the consumption of alcohol.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Sir John Pope Hennessy's singular conduct in the House last week in voting with the Conservatives against the McCarthyites, whose candidate he was, has excited the ire of Michael Davitt, who claims the credit of seating the new member for North Kilkenny and now calls on him to retire.

Sir John's present attempt to assert his independence has turned the tables on Davitt, as it is now well-known that the Kilkenny contest was decided by the successful capturing of the miners of Castlecomer. He now bitterly repents this piece of strategy.

Mrs. O'Shea is very ill, in consequence of which the order of the court, giving the custody of the children to Capt. O'Shea, has not yet been carried out.

Parnell spent part of Monday examining the mines on his Wicklow property.

Mr. Schnadhorst, speaking at Walsall, England, yesterday, said that the Liberal party had made and intended to make no change whatever as to its purpose to give Ireland Home Rule. If the new National party which Chamberlain proposed should be formed it would simply be a Tory party.

DUBLIN, Jan. 28.—Mr. Parnell will speak at Ennis Sunday next.

A meeting of Mr. Sexton's supporters was held in Belfast to-day. The proceedings were characterized by extreme disorder. Mr. Sexton was not present. Many Healyite members of Parliament were in attendance. Parnellite opponents of the Sexton crowd were forcibly driven from the platform, some of them falling down over a dozen steps. The speakers were continually interrupted with hisses and shouts of dissent. A vote of confidence in Mr. Sexton was adopted by a large majority.

Reporters are excluded from the meeting. A mob outside the hall was frequently charged by the police.

The Daily News declares the rumors of the retirement of Gladstone are without foundation.

Each section of the Irish parliamentary party will move a separate amendment to the Irish land bill.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Parnell's Waterford speech has provoked great indignation among the Liberals, who consider that it was personally insulting to Mr. Gladstone. McCarthy and Sexton were both in Parliament yesterday, but they declined to communicate anything with regard to the result of the Boulogne conference. Mr. Morley is expected to bring on his motion to-day, and it is believed that a day will be fixed for its discussion early next week. The Radicals already have five pages of amendments to the Government Land bill down on the paper and will make a hot debate.

AND STILL NO CLUE

TO THE MURDERERS OF TREASURER HESLOP.

Many Reports, but No Authentic Information—Believed to Have Been Residents of the Locality—A Government Detective is Investigating the Matter.

HAMILTON, Jan. 28.—Up to the hour of writing there is positively not the slightest clue to the identity of the masked burglars who killed Treasurer Heslop of Ancaster early yesterday morning, and the prospects of bringing the murderers to justice seem to be slim. The clues left behind do not amount to much and give the officers very little data to work upon; the way the case was handled in its early stages by the country authorities did much to spoil the chances of an early apprehension of the men.

There is a strong doubt arising that the murderers did not come to Hamilton, but remained in the vicinity of the village. The keeper of the King-street tollgate is positive that no rig went through there between 3 and 6 in the morning, as she would have heard it, and moreover there was no mark of wheels on the new-fallen snow when she got up. As it was a market day the farmers were moving early, and as it was after daylight before the county constables followed the tracks into the city the chances are that it was a market wagon they trailed. The keeper of the York-street tollgate, through which the men would have gone if they desired to go to Toronto, did not hear anyone going through at an early hour. James Parkyn, the keeper of the other gate near Bayview, heard two men in a rig go through at 3 a.m., and he fixed the time by the fact that the noise they made awakened him and he got up to wind the clock.

Belonged to the Neighborhood.

Chief McKinnon yesterday got the names of every person who had taken a horse from any livery in this city and knew exactly where those horses had gone, at what time they went and when they returned. Another important fact also shows that the horse was not from a Hamilton livery stable. It had a large foot—much larger than that of any livery horse, and was a heavy animal, probably a farm horse. The prints of the animal's feet in the snow show a large shoe, about a No. 5, and one that does not correspond with the prints, which were tracked for a considerable distance and which were thought to be those of the horse which the murderers drove.

There is a general theory in the neighborhood that the deed was committed by some one familiar to Mr. Heslop and who was well acquainted with the house. The belief is that when Mr. Heslop went out with the chair and commenced fighting he in some way discovered the identity of his assailants, and that the talking heard by Mrs. Heslop just before the shot was her husband accusing the masked men. Knowing that their identity was discovered the man, to save himself and his companion and to close the mouth of the only witness against him, fired the fatal shot.

Is This a Clue?

A story has come to the ears of the coroner which may give a clue on which to work. It was to the effect that a man named George Griffin, who had formerly worked around the Asylum for the Insane, a man of about 30 years, son of an Ancaster horse doctor, had said that a couple of weeks ago two men struck the village and said they were sent to hunt for an illicit still supposed to be in operation in the vicinity of the Heslop farm, though not on it. Griffin's story is that the men, one of whom was a tall man and wore dark clothes, and the other, a comparatively short fellow, after making a visit to the Heslop farm and surroundings on what purported to be a search for the still, proposed to Griffin that they should "go through" Heslop. Griffin, it is said, drew the conclusion that the two men had concocted the illicit still yarn as an excuse to acquaint themselves with the locality. This story did not get afloat until late last night, and it was then too late to give it to the police, but it was communicated to-day.

A Remarkable Dream.

Among the visitors at the Heslop house yesterday was Rev. W. R. Clarke, Anglican clergyman in Ancaster, of whose church the late Mr. Heslop was an esteemed member for many years. Rev. Mr. Clarke is not a dreamer of dreams as a rule, in fact he is noted as a remarkably energetic and practical gentleman. On the night of the murder, however, he had a remarkable dream. He had been at a meeting in Hamilton with Mr. Kenrick of Ancaster, and they returned at midnight feeling very tired. He went to bed and fell into a sound sleep, but dreamed that he was engaged in a struggle with a burglar, and after a terrible fight he overcame the man and tied him up. He discovered then that the burglar was a young man in the village who bears a bad character, and just as he was about to hand him over to justice the clergyman awoke. The dream made such an impression on him that he got up to see that the doors were secured, and found he had left the front door open. On looking at the clock it was exactly 3 a.m.—the hour of the murder.

An Old Crime Revived.

The murder of Mr. Heslop revives an old crime, which was committed in Ancaster about eighteen months ago. The residence of Mrs. Travis, an old lady who lived alone near Alberton, was broken into by masked burglars. They bound the old lady, maltreated her and tortured her cruelly in trying to force her to tell where the money was hidden. The plucky old woman refused to tell, and the burglars clubbed her, and left her unconscious in the house, where she remained for many hours before she was found by neighbors. The perpetrators of this crime were never captured. A month after she died from the effects of the injuries she received at the hands of the burglars.

The Inquest.

The Crown Attorney ordered an inquest yesterday afternoon. Dr. Anderson of Hamilton and Dr. Richardson of Ancaster conducted the post mortem.

Dr. James Anderson said that the bullet entered about three inches to the right of the left nipple and in a line with it. The bullet traversed the interior of the body in a slanting direction and lodged two inches to the right of the spinal column. In its course it cut the ascending aorta, or large artery, from the heart to the brain, so that death was likely instantaneous. He was not able to find the bullet. There was a burned mark on the right breast three inches from the wound, caused by the shirt burning. The shot must have been fired by some person standing a little to the left and lower down than where the deceased was standing when shot.

The inquest was then adjourned until Tuesday.

An Atrocious Crime.

VIENNA, Jan. 28.—A despatch from Bosnia [illegible] reports that two gendarmes outraged, killed and cut up the body of a young Servian girl in the woods near there. The murderers were nearly lynched by an infuriated mob.

THE CUBAN REVOLUTION.

Successes of the Rebels and Desperate Straits of President Balmaceda

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Despatches received in this city from Chili via Buenos Ayres bring further particulars concerning the revolution in Chili. The rebel Chilian war vessel occupied the roadstead at Porte Coquimbo on a day not specified. The war vessels also fired shots into the town, probably at the troops defending the coal depots. Troops from Valparaiso are occupying La Serena in force. Coquimbo, or Porto Coquimbo, it may be stated, is some distance by rail from La Serena or Coquimbo City. The Balmaceda troops were quartered in the hospital and schools of La Serena and are supposed to have been driven out of Porto Coquimbo.

The insurgents have blockaded Tongoy on Tongoy Bay, about 30 miles from Coquimbo. Tongoy is connected by rail with Tamaya and Ovalle, the latter town being, in turn, connected by railroad with Coquimbo. Torbarallis is also announced to be blockaded by the rebel forces. Three thousand government troops have been sent to reinforce the garrison at Tongoy. Later advices state that it is reported that a battle has been fought at Tongoy. The rebels have occupied Limache Alto, a town only 25 miles from Valparaiso. At Limache Alto the rebel forces took possession of the national factories and expelled the director and adherents of President Balmaceda from the town. The rebels have also occupied Quillota, in the province of Valparaiso, 30 miles from Santiago, on the Aconcagua, 20 miles from the Pacific.

The property of foreign residents is suffering considerably from the rebellion in spite of the efforts of the representatives of foreign powers to protect the interests of the various countries they represent. The action of the diplomatic representatives has been so discouraging to those officials that they have formally informed the Chilian Government that they will embark on board the vessels of the fleets of the foreign powers if the conflict continues. President Balmaceda, in reply, has asked the Ministers and Consuls to delay taking any action for a few days, as he hopes to be able to suppress the rebellion within that time.

Wiman Interviewed.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 28.—Erastus Wiman, who is here attending the sessions of the Western Salt Association, said to-day: "The threatened sudden dissolution of the Canadian Parliament would greatly help the passage in Congress of an invitation to reciprocity. The idea of Sir Charles Tupper negotiating a treaty is absurd, for the question is not one of diplomacy, but one of legislation completely out of the hands of Mr. Blaine. Hence the recommendation of the House Committee of Foreign Affairs in the Hitt resolution was the first essential step toward better relations. It was certain to become law, for there was a great desire to ascertain the real sentiment of the people of Canada toward the United States. Therefore the Tory party were likely to go into the contest with the 'Foster tariff and McKinley bill as its logical outcome as the basis of their claim to return to power, while on the other hand the Liberal party would have in their hands the offer of an unrestricted trade with the best market under the sun in which to sell and in which to buy. The outcome of an electoral contest to decide a question so momentous would be watched with interest by the world, and by no people so narrowly as by the English Nation, who, if her votes would decide the question, would quickly avail themselves of the American market."

The Belgian Dynasty's Fatal Month.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Queen of the Belgians inherited in no small degree the superstitious feelings of her Hapsburg ancestors, who believed so implicitly in the "White Lady of Hapsburg." She regards January as the unlucky month of her husband's dynasty, and always passes through it with fear and trembling. It was in January that she lost her only son; in January the husband of her second daughter was murdered; in January, 1890, all her personal souvenirs were buried in the fire at Laeken, and now, in January, 1891, she loses her nephew Baudouin. In January, also, she saved her sister-in-law, ex-Empress Charlotte, from the conflagration that consumed Tervueren Palace.

A Fire Attributed to the Strikers.

GLASGOW, Jan. 28.—The station of the Caledonian Railroad at Calderbank has been destroyed by fire. The police and the railroad officials say they have no doubt that the fire was the work of an incendiary. Strikers are suspected of having instigated the crime and a number of arrests are contemplated.

The police and scores of private detectives are busily at work hunting for the rascals who attempted to blow up the gasworks here about 10 days ago. The detectives are stimulated in their efforts by a reward of $5000 which has been offered for the detection of the offenders.

The strikers are yielding everywhere and the lines are now working well.

Mysterious Suicide in France.

TOULON, Jan. 28.—Draguignan, the capital of the Var, where the trial of the persons concerned in the Toulon scandal took place the other day, has just had a new sensation in the form of a mysterious suicide of a well-known notary and accountant, who disappeared about a fortnight ago, and has been vainly searched for in every direction by his anxious relatives. His body was discovered to-day in a house in the country, not far from Draguignan. He had been dead for 13 days and had left a note explaining that he asphyxiated himself on account of pecuniary difficulties.

Brought Leprosy to America.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—A despatch from Odessa says that considerable alarm exists over the growing prevalence of leprosy among the poorer classes of Russians and Russian Jews. The authorities, instead of moving to stamp out the disease, have done all they could to stifle information on the subject. Now, however, they have themselves taken alarm and steps are proposed to isolate those afflicted.

It is believed that some of the emigrants to America have carried leprosy with them, as most of the emigrants belong to the poor and uncleanly class, among whom the disease finds its victims.

A Millionaire Pugilist.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—There was a sensational scene in the Nevada Bank yesterday afternoon. Millionaire John W. Mackey stalked into President Hellman's room, and knocked down C. W. Bonvinge, his confidential agent. The men were separated before either could draw a revolver. Bonvinge came from England several years ago, and has been Mackey's chief business man here ever since. Hellman recently took charge of the Nevada Bank, and it is reported Bonvinge played Mackey false in a recent deal.

Asking Extended Powers.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The colonies of Australia have asked the Home Government to accord them the privilege possessed by Canada of negotiating commercial treaties with foreign countries under the sanction of the Foreign Office.

110 BODIES RECOVERED.

BUT ONE MAN LEFT TO TELL THE TALE

A Shocking Scene of Wreck and Ruin—76 of the Bodies Now Identified, the Others Being Mangled Beyond Recognition—The Unfortunate Miners Caught Like Rats in a Trap.

YOUNGWOOD, Pa., Jan. 28.—When the volunteers entered the exploded mine yesterday, a sight impossible to picture met them. Bank cars, mules and more terrible than all, men were piled in a compact mass against the ribs or wall of coal, and not a living thing was in the wreckage. It was almost as solid as the coal itself, so terrific was the explosion. This obstruction was removed with difficulty, and they then entered a chamber of horrors. The first object they discovered after leaving the main entrance was the leg of a man. Further on they found a human head, but nowhere in sight was the trunk that had borne it but a few minutes before. After walking a distance surrounded by dangers unseen, but more terrible than can be imagined, they found the trunk. The ragged neck with the blood oozing from it told the story of the appalling disaster. Working their way in, the band found the bodies strewn along the gangway. One unfortunate met death while on his knees in prayer with his hands clasped and his eyes upturned. His body was found in this position. The services of physicians were not needed, for every man in the headings where the explosion occurred was killed. Dead bodies were brought up every few minutes and the crowd at the shaft mouth simply fell back to allow the men carrying the stretchers room to pass. Every corpse was covered and no one even ventured to enquire whose body it was, for they knew every one in that part of the mine was dead.

Every five minutes a corpse would be brought to the surface, and it would pass through the line of watchers without comment save the expression "another one." A noticeable feature of the crowd at the shaft was the absence of women. They had returned to their little whitewashed homes, for they knew all hope was gone.

Superintendent Keighby said: "No man living knows the cause of the accident, and it will never be known for a certainty. No safety lamps were used. I do not know whether or not the fire boss did his duty, but let us be charitable enough to hope he did."

Superintendent Lynch said the Mammoth mine was long thought to be the safest mine of the 30 operated by the Frick Company. Mr. Lynch thought it possible that in drawing the ribs or pillars some miner had tapped gas. All lights were open and the gas was an unexpected thing.

One hundred and ten men were employed in that part of the mine in which the explosion occurred and not one was left to tell the story of the disaster. While some of the bodies are horribly torn, burned and mutilated, others were found with their teeth clinched on the iron rail of the pit road. Others were found with faces plunged into the water, and not a few found upon their knees, as if engaged in prayer.

Fire Boss Snaith was identified by his gum boots. His body was scattered about in a dozen places. His head was torn from his shoulders. Both legs were torn off and that part of his body recovered was roasted and blackened. His left hand, clutching his lamp, was found over 100 feet from the trunk of his body.

One of his gum boots was found 50 yards away. One of his feet, with part of a leg attached, was found also. When the parts of his body were collected and sent in a sheet to the pit mouth they were identified by an engineer recognizing the boots.

There is little information regarding the horror. Everybody in the pit was killed. The position of their bodies told the story of their end. The force of the explosion was felt for miles around and caused a panic among the pupils in the township school house nearly a mile away. The men employed in Mammoth shaft No. 2, separated by 160 acres of coal, felt the shock and were the first to sound the alarm.

One hundred and ten bodies have been recovered, and of these 76 have been identified.

Twenty years ago Henry Clay Frick, owner of the mine and "King of the Connellsville Coke Regions," was the youthful bookkeeper of a Bradford, Pa., flouring mill and distillery. He began by taking a small interest in some valuable coal property near the town, and in company with others built 50 ovens. Soon the capacity of the modest plant was doubled, and when the panic of 1873 came the partners had 200 ovens. His partners got into difficulties and he bought them out, and from that time he kept on buying, building and leasing ovens, despite the wiseacres who wagged their heads over his rashness. When the boom in coke came the yearly profits of his leased works were more than the value of the works themselves.

In 1878 he sold an interest to E. M. Ferguson of New York City, and the firm of H. C. Frick & Co. was formed. Mr. Frick is able to absolutely control the coke market of America. His concern owns 8000 of the 13,000 ovens in the territory. Mr. Frick is said to be worth between ten and twelve million dollars.

Purity The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. Your There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. Blood It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

CONSIDERABLE has been written lately on the subject of this proposed and partially constructed waterway, and much has been said to the point by correspondents. But the time has come when action should be taken.

The people, as Mr. Strickland pointed out, have the matter largely in their own hands, and what is needed is united action on the part of the people of the district interested.

The commissioners who have been enquiring into the subject have made their report. What that report is we do not know. It having been a Royal Commission, there may be some technical objection to making it public until it is laid before Parliament, yet it should be given to the public as soon as possible. However, knowing the benefits that would follow the completion of the canal, and believing in the ability of the commission, we do not think there can be any doubt that the report is not unfavorable to further work, and as Parliament will soon be in session again a united effort should be made to have the work proceeded with. The people of this district have given evidence heretofore that they are in earnest in this matter, and if any lingering doubts remain as to their earnestness they should be shattered and the importance of the question pressed upon the Government and through the Government upon Parliament.

Barrie has taken the initiative in appointing a deputation to wait upon the Government. Peterborough should be ready to fall in line, and the Town Council and the County Council should take the matter up. This county and town have a deep interest in the completion of the canal, and nothing should be left undone that might advance the work. It would be too bad if any inaction in this section should in any way retard the work, and action promptly taken is doubly valuable.

Ask Your Friends

Who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor. One has been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia, another finds it indispensible for sick headaches, others report remarkable cures of scrofula, salt rheum, etc. Truly, the best advertising which Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends

Advantages of Wearing Hair Goods.

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness? But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth; the majority require artificial additions. Prof. Dorenwend is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking, but large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorenwend visits the important cities and towns of Ontario, and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Bangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees, etc. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 6th and 7th. Go and see him. Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $50,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1200 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formally it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $2 40, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5 00, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $3 00. HOW TO MINGLE COLORS.

THE FIRST LESSON AN ARTIST WHO PAINTS IN OILS HAS TO LEARN.

About Tints, Hues and Shades—Red, Blue and Yellow in Their Combinations Will Form Every Color, Including Black—First Principles in Light.

I propose to submit a very simple method by which any person may obtain a practical knowledge of the principles which govern the art of mixing colors. It is not my intention to treat of the philosophy of color—that is to say, why red is red, blue is blue and yellow is yellow—but to illustrate in the plainest manner what results may be obtained from these colors by observing certain rules.

The modes of painting most popular are tempera and oil painting. Tempera, whose origin, perhaps, antedates even the ancient Egyptians, is done with colors ground in water, into which is put sufficient dissolved glue—or matter of a like nature—to fix them to the surface applied. Oil painting which is said to have first come into use in the fourteenth century, is done, as its name implies, with colors ground in oil, into which is put turpentine or oil, or both, as the case may require. I propose to take up the mixing of oil color first, because it is most common; and, also, because it is much more simple than the other. The tints produced from colors ground in oil retain the same aspect after being applied to a prepared surface, while tints made from colors ground in water invariably change their aspect after being applied and dried, in some cases to such a degree as to make them almost unrecognizable.

SLAB AND MIXING-KNIFE.

A slab must be procured upon which to place colors and a knife is needed to mix them. A piece of ground glass, about eighteen inches long and twelve inches wide, rough side up, will do very well for the former, and a common, medium-size palette knife will do for the latter. Having secured, besides these two indispensable things, a cup of turpentine with which to thin down the colors, if necessary, or to clean the slab, and a common waste pot, you are ready to proceed. Use tube colors; only five are necessary, namely: carmine, Chinese blue, light chrome yellow, black and flake white. At the right hand upper corner of the slab put some carmine, some blue and some yellow, in a row, placing each color about two inches distant from the other, and the black and white as far away from them as possible.

The red, blue and yellow are called primaries, because they are the foundation of all colors. They cannot be made from other colors; but from them can be made all the tints, hues and shades necessary for any painting, including even black.

Secondary colors are so called because they are made from the primaries, or first colors. Take some red and the same quantity of blue and mix them well together and they make a deep purple; mix equal quantities of red and yellow and a deep orange results. Equal quantities of blue and yellow mixed make a deep green. The result will be a row of colors, running parallel with the upper edge of the slab, in the following order—carmine, blue and yellow—primaries; and purple, orange and green—secondaries—which may be called base colors.

HOW TO MIX TINTS AND HUES.

In order to mix tints employ white. Take a little red and add white to it, and a lighter red or dark pink is produced. Take in turn some of this pink and add a little white to that and make a still lighter pink. Continue thus until five pink tints are produced, one lighter than the other. Repeat this operation with the other base colors and the slab will contain five tints of pink, one under the other in a straight column, the lightest at the lower part of it, and five tints of each of the other colors in the same order. It will be observed that in making these tints the color from which they were derived has not been destroyed; that is to say the base colors have only been modified; in other words the red is plainly to be seen in all its tints, as the other colors are still seen in theirs. Such are tints; and in order to be perfect they must show at once the color from which they are derived.

If just enough yellow to make it seen is added to a pink tint, a yellow pink, that is, a pink inclining to yellow or a hue of pink is the result. If this operation is reversed and a like quantity of pink is put into a yellow tint a pink yellow, that is, a yellow inclining to pink, or a hue of yellow is produced. A hue therefore is that slight modification of a tint, which, while it does not destroy the color, makes it partake of another color. In a like manner the same result from the primary and secondary colors may be obtained. If a little yellow is put into the red a red yellow results; if into the yellow a little red is put we have a reddish yellow; if into the purple we put red we have a red purple; if we put blue into it we have a blue purple; if into the blue we put green we have a green blue; if into the green we put blue we have a blue green. These and all their like are hues.

SOMETHING ABOUT SHADES.

Shades are the opposite in their meaning to tints. Tints are made by adding white to the base colors; by adding black to base colors shades are produced. The term shade, however, must not be confounded with the term shadow, because shade and shadow are two different things. To make shadows or cast shades, which are thrown on surfaces by objects in relief requires more than black. One thing which is well to bear in mind is that not all blacks are pure. Some contain blue, some contain red and some green. If this fact is not looked into the risk will be run of destroying base colors instead of making them deeper in shade. For example: If black is looked at attentively it may be seen to be only a hue of black—that is, a blue-black. If we put some of it into the yellow with the intention of making a shade of that color the result will not be a pure darker yellow, but a darker green yellow. If we put this same black into red we will get, not a darker red, but a purple red; if we put it into the blue, however, it will give the desired result because of its bluish nature."

But clean off all these shades from the slab including the black as they are useless. Now take all the colors on the slab excepting the red, blue and yellow and remove them to the centre of it. Having done so, mix them altogether to see what the conglomeration will produce before consigning it to the waste-pot. Having at last mixed them all thoroughly together the result is a reddish-gray color.

THE SECRET OF BLACK.

To many persons the result means nothing, or at most it means nothing but an ugly color produced at the expense of several beautiful tints and hues, but it may mean a great deal. Let us see. If we were going to reproduce this grey, the first step would be to procure some black, some white, some red and some yellow with which to accomplish that end. What does that prove? It proves that if black is required to make gray, the color just produced must contain black. Black and white are the two principal parts of gray; if the white could be taken out, black would remain. Red, blue and yellow mixed together in proper quantities make black. To prove it, take some red and yellow and some blue, that is, about an equal quantity of each color, and proceed to mix them together. Pay strict attention to the changes they will undergo in the operation. Where the red comes in contact with the yellow it turns to orange, where the blue comes in contact with the red it turns to purple, and where the yellow comes in contact with the blue it turns to green. Now, as green and orange and purple run one into the other they form a mass which, as we continue to mix it, grows grayer and grayer, now inclining to red, now to blue and now to yellow or green, as each of these colors chances to predominate under the knife, growing darker and darker all the time until, the colors being thoroughly mixed together, an apparently deep black is produced. But as the result is examined it will be seen to have a green cast, so a little red is added, which takes away the green at once; but, having put in a little too much red, the black now looks purplish. Put in then the least bit of yellow, and at last a good deep black is secured.

ANY SORT WILL DO.

It may not be taken for granted, however, that this result can be produced only by using carmine, Chinese blue and chrome yellow. Any red, blue and yellow will produce the same result. But it must be borne in mind that if the primary colors are impure, so will be the results obtained.

If a prism of flint glass is held in a horizontal position between a piece of white paper and a sun's ray, reflected on the former will be the colors of the rainbow—that is to say, red and its hues, then orange and its hues; then yellow and its hues; then green and its hues; then blue and its hues; and then purple and its hues. The colors which will appear most prominent to the eye will be the primaries, red, blue and yellow; the next will be the secondaries, orange, green and purple, and the next the different hues. All these colors and hues are produced by the red, blue and yellow, mingling one with the other. If the prism is removed nothing but white will be seen on the paper. This very simple experiment shows that solar light is composed of red, blue and yellow, and that a prism has the properties of separating its colors and reflecting them to the eye.

THE SECRET OF COLOR.

Now, everything is made up of matter or matters which have in themselves the properties of absorbing and reflecting light—that is, color, in different degrees. For instance, red is red because the matter of which it is composed has the properties in itself of absorbing two of the three component parts of the light falling upon it and of reflecting the third part only; that is to say, of absorbing the blue and the yellow of it and of reflecting the red. It is the same with blue bodies. They are composed of matters which absorb the red and the yellow of the light falling upon them and of reflecting blue only. And it is the same with yellow bodies; they absorb the blue and the red, and reflect only the yellow. Again, some bodies have the properties of absorbing a part of the red and a part of the blue and all of the yellow and of reflecting red and blue in a blended state—that is, purple; some of absorbing a part of the yellow and a part of the blue and all of the red, and of reflecting blue and yellow in a blended state—that is, green; and some of absorbing a part of the red and a part of the yellow and all of the blue and of reflecting red and yellow in a blended state—that is, orange. There are bodies, also, which do not absorb any part of the light falling on them, but reflect it all entire to the eye; they are said to be white bodies. Again, there are bodies which absorb the light and reflect no part of it: they are said to be black bodies. And lastly there are bodies which are made up of many different matters and which reflect a corresponding number of tints, hues, shades, whites and grays. It will be well to note, in conclusion, that the properties which enter into the pigments with which these experiments have been made, and which give them color, enter also into the whole creation, and that therefore it is not unreasonable to suppose that, could a part of everything belonging to the globe be ground and mixed together, a hue of gray would be the result.

Children and Fresh Air.

Dr. Felix Oswald says that a large proportion of the deaths of children is caused by lack of fresh air. "'The first idea of an average city nurse,' says the doctor, "in taking charge of a sickly infant, is the impulse of shutting off every faintest draught of out-door air. The consequent decline of the poor little martyr is ascribed, not to its true cause, but to 'that crack in the window frame,' 'that wretched big keyhole.' If a child, by dint of marvelous constitution, survives the misery of its position, the result encourages a continuance of the time-honored custom; if the vital principle succumbs after a desperate struggle, that 'draught through the door' has to bear all the blame, and the key-hole is plugged up all the tighter. In the Black Hole of Calcutta the death of the victims would be ascribed to the loophole in the wall that admitted a faint draught of night-air."

What Science Is.

The term science is often used as synonymous with knowledge, but practically there is a wide difference between the meanings attached to the words science and knowledge. A man is often spoken of as one of wide knowledge, who yet knows no science, whilst a scientific man is frequently pitied or blamed for his lack of knowledge. Yet science is knowledge, though, perhaps, one could hardly be justified in saying that knowledge is science. Why that hesitation? Probably because when we speak of a man having a wide knowledge, we mean that he has a memory stored with facts; and when we speak of a man of science, we mean that he has not only a memory stored with facts but also with principles; that he has the power of arranging his facts in groups, and of deducting the principles or laws which govern or concern those facts; that he has, in short, the power of deduction and co-ordination largely developed.

How Two Fawns Took Their Rations.

Amos Patterson, of East Valley, Wash., has two fine young deer that he has raised on his place. He was out hunting one day and killed a doe with two young fawns. The creatures were very small and ran away in terror at the death of their mother. In a few days Mr. Patterson caught them and brought them home. They steadily refused to imbibe the lacteal fluid through a regulation nipple attached to a nursing bottle, and other artifices tried were in vain. What was to be done? If they were much longer without food they would perish. A bright idea struck Mr. Patterson. Taking the hide of the mother that had been butchered previously he inserted the nipples through the skin. When the fawns felt the warm coat of the supposed mother, they commenced to draw at once, and for a good while after no trouble was experienced in giving them their regular rations.—Forest and Stream.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1891.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Personal.

Miss Ada Cowie left this morning for Toronto where she will visit friends.

Mayor Stevenson, M.P., is in Toronto today attending the meeting of the Board of Trade of that city.

To Consider a Winter Meeting.

A meeting of all horsemen and those interested in races is called for eight o'clock this evening at Dr. Grevier's office on Simcoe-st. The meeting is to consider the question of holding a winter meeting on the Little Lake.

A Broken Window.

A young lad was charged this morning with breaking a window in the new South Ward Mission building. The evidence went to show that it was another boy who had smashed the glass with his fist, and the Magistrate ordered the police to advise the lad's father to pay costs and avoid trouble. He warned the boys that the next one charged similarly would be severely dealt with.

The Charlotte-st. Church Pastorate.

A meeting the Official Board of the Charlotte-st. Methodist church was held last evening to consider and decide upon the extension of a call to a pastor to succeed Rev. S. J. Shorey, whom the itenerancy removes from town. A motion was made and carried that the invitation of the congregation be extended to Rev. Geo. Edwards, of Orono. This divine is a brilliant and rising light in the Methodist ministry as a preacher and is a young man full of energy and will undoubtedly be a popular minister in Peterborough.

So many have been cured of rheumatism by Hood's Sarsaparilla that we urge all who suffer from the disease to try this medicine

The Temperance Drama.

The Belle Stevenson Dramatic Company put "Enoch Arden" on the Boards last evening before another rather small audience. The presentation was very creditable, Mr. Stevenson portraying the title role with talent and effect. The specialties were also very good and a laughable farce closed the performance. To-night the temperance drama, "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" will be presented, and "Dan" Simons, who has joined the company and will leave here with them, is announced to appear in double specialties with his old partner "Jimmy" Wallbrook.

A Baker and a Grocer.

At the Police Court this morning Mr. Andrew Allison, a grocer near Auburn, was charged with assaulting Mr. Morris J. Bowen, a baker of Auburn. It appears that Bowen had formerly sold bread to Allison for his grocery, but recently the latter has purchased elsewhere. Yesterday morning Bowen had some words with Mrs. Allison over the matter and in the afternoon Mr. Allison went to Bowen's house and met that gentleman at the gate. Words led to blows and Bowen alleged that his assailant had struck him on the head. Allison did not deny this, but claimed justification. The Magistrate, however, fined him $2 and costs.

ST. PAULS' CONGREGATION.

The Annual Meeting—A Satisfactory Year Closed—The Reports Presented.

The annual meeting of the St. Paul's church congregation was held last evening in the Sunday school room. There was a large attendance of members and considerable interesting discussion arose during the evening. Altogether the meeting was an interesting one, marking the close of a successful year in the history of the congregation. The ladies of the congregation had made ample provision for the regalement of all members who attended the meeting, and refreshments, tempting and toothsome, were served before the business was undertaken. Thus a spirit of pleasant social harmony was aroused and prevailed in unbroken supremacy until the close of proceedings.

The meeting was opened by the pastor, Rev. E. F. Torrance, with devotional exercises, after which the business was proceeded with, Mr. G. M. Rogers being chosen to preside.

The financial statement of the church had been printed and placed in the hands of the congregation. This statement showed a very satisfactory state of affairs for the year. The receipts had been $4,472.74

THE CHURCH REPORTS.

Rev. E. F. Torrance, Moderator of the Church Session presented the first report, that of the Sessions. This showed that 63 new members had been added to the membership role, while 50 removals had taken place, leaving a net gain of 13. The number of families in the congregation was 340, and the communicants number 706.

The annual report of the Board of Managers was next presented by Mr. J. W. Bennett, the Secretary. This showed among other things of strictly congregational interest that $1,000 had been paid on the church debt this year.

After this report had been adopted the election of managers to fill the places of those retiring from the Board was proceeded with. This resulted in Messrs. Peter Hamilton, T. Tucker, Robert Innis and J. L. Davidson being elected.

SOCIETY REPORTS.

Mr. J. D. Collins presented the report of the church Missionary Association, which showed that the receipts had been $995.54, which it was proposed to distribute as follows:—Home Mission $360. Foreign Missions $232.77, French Evangelization $232.77, Augmentation Fund $140.

A discussion arose as to whether this distribution should not be altered, increasing the amount for Foreign Missions and relatively decreasing the sum for Home Missions.

The report was finally adopted as read.

Mr W. W. Johnston read the report of the Secretary, Miss Flora Davidson, of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, and also the report of the Treasurer, Mrs. Innis. The Secretary's report showing the work of the year has already been published. The Treasurer's statement showed that $232.90 had been collected and that the total expenses for the year had only totalled $3.38, a remarkably small amount.

The annual report of the Sunday School was presented by Sheriff Hall, Superintendent, and showed the number of scholars to be 446, with an average attendance for the year of 279. The amount collected for missions was $337.36. The report referred to the loss sustained by the removal to Lindsay of Mr. Lowe, who had been the efficient secretary of the school. The Superintendent also referred with expressions of regret to the retirement from the school of Mrs. Jas. Dixon, who had charge of the primary department.

The Ladies' Aid Society's secretary, Mrs. R. H. Fortye, also reported, the report being read by Mr. J. H. Roper. The treasurer's statement was also read, showing the collections of the year had been $552.60, and that there was a balance on hand of $55.54.

The Christian Endeavor Society also reported through its secretary, Mr. W. R. Johnston. This Society was prospering favorably and doing a good work benefitting the young people.

The Faithful Workers' Mission Band was the last to report, Miss Annie Hall being the Secretary and Mr. Jas. A. Fife reading the report. The membership was reported at 31 and the receipts for the year at $151 34, which had been handed over to the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society to be expended.

These reports were all adopted. The unusually interesting meeting then closed.

The Lights Shone on, Etc.

The bachelors of Port Hope gave an assembly last evening in the Opera House in that town and those who attended report that the arrangements were most complete and the affair a grand success. Those who attended from Peterborough were:—Mr. and Mrs. Macklin, Miss Vair, Miss Wallace, Miss Sherwood, Miss Davidson, Miss Calcutt and Messrs. A. J. Belcher, R. Max Dennistoun, E. Pearce, H. M. Allen, W. C. Ponsette, L. Dunsford, and, Alex. Strickland

A Creditable Piece of Work

In the window of Mr. R. J. Kidd's boot and shoe store on George-st. is to be seen a large group photograph of the Y.M.C.A. band. The picture is 14x17 inches and is the work of Mr. Geo. J. Early, photographer. Every one of the members of the band, without exception, have been faithfully caught and the picture has been finished in a most creditable manner, reflecting very highly upon Mr. Early's skill as a photographer.

A Farewell Hunt.

Mr. H. Kent, the local manager for the Bell Telephone Company, who is about to leave for Vancouver, B.C., has always been an enthusiastic member of the Peterborough Gun and Hunt Club. The members are regretting that they are about to lose one of the most active of their members and an enthusiastic sportsman, and to-day they are giving him a farewell in the shape of a rabbit hunt in Smith. It will be the farewell hunt, but the sportsmen intend making it a grand finale.

SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY

AN EXTENSIVE MANUFACTORY PROPOSED TO BE STARTED.

A Representative Meeting at Cobourg—The Sugar Beet Said to be a Paying Crop for the Farmer—Some Information Regarding the Industry—Its Location not Decided—Resolutions Passed—Another Meeting to be Held.

The convention which was held yesterday at Cobourg to discuss the sugar beet industry with a view to the establishment of a manufactory in this district was a successful one and of interest to the agricultural community of the surrounding counties, and in fact to the farmers generally throughout the country. To the farmers the manufactory as outlined by the gentleman who has been investigating the matter would be the means of giving increased returns from their land by the raising of the sugar beets. To the municipality where the factory will be located it will be a valuable addition and a business invigorating concern, as it will give employment to a large number of men, entail the expenditure of a great amount of money and bring the farming community to it to dispose of their crop. Cobourg is anxious to secure the industry for that town, but the question of location has not been discussed yet. It might be well to urge upon the farmers of this immediate neighborhood to attend the next meeting which is to be held at Harwood and then they will be able to have a voice in the selection of a location.

The meeting yesterday was held in the Court House at Cobourg and was attended by some fifty or sixty representative men from the different townships of Northumberland and Durham and the town of Cobourg. The Northumberland and Durham County Council was also well represented, no session being held in the afternoon. Messrs. Dawson Kennedy and Wm. Collins were present as delegates from the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute. Mr. James Russell, President of the West Northumberland Institute presided.

SOME INFORMATION.

Mr. R. H. LAUDER, of Toronto, a gentleman who has been gathering information relative to the industry in the interests of the promoters of the company, was the first speaker introduced. In a lengthy address he gave figures to show what the industry was in other counties and what it might be here. He said it would keep forty such factories as they proposed to build running to supply the sugar that would be required in the Dominion of Canada. As to the location, he said the factory should be on a railway and close to water, as it would require a million gallons of water daily to supply the factory from October to March. The farmers would receive seed and fertilizers free from the company and an instructor would also be sent out by the company to instruct the farmers as to the best methods of growing and cultivating the roots. The beets brought to the factory would be tested by a man appointed by the company and farmers and the latter would be paid in accordance with the quantity of sugar that was contained their beets. The price would average about $4 per ton, with a variation of twenty-five cents for superior or inferior quality. He could promise them a yield of fifteen tons to the acre, but this was small, as others placed the yield at twenty tons to the acre, which with 12 per cent. of sugar would be valued at $4 per ton. Some placed the average at 16 per cent. of sugar, which would be worth more to the farmer. The factory they proposed to erect would have an output of 800,000 pounds of sugar, would require 15 acres of land and the building and machinery would cost about $300,000. It would require eight heavy boilers. The places at present proposed as favorable for the location of the factory were Cobourg, Port Perry, and Waterloo County at Galt.

SOME EXPERIENCE.

Mr. RUSSELL said he had raised beets that went 17 tons and brought him $70 to the acre.

Mr. T. B. CARLOW, Reeve of Percy, said he had raised 26.7 tons per acre, netting him $105. This would make the average 20 tons per acre, or $80 in money. Allowing $30 for wages and labor, and $20 for freight, left $30 profit per acre.

Some other discussion followed.

WILL CHEERFULLY ASSIST.

Finally it was moved by Mr. W. J. WESTINGTON, Plainville, seconded by Mr. JOHN BUCKHAM, Reeve of South Monaghan,—That the establishment of large markets in various sections of the province for the sale of sugar beets at the price proposed, about $4 25 per ton, would prove a great advantage to the farmers of Ontario by making an opening for the extensive cultivation of a good paying crop and the farmers of this section will cheerfully assist in promoting the successful operation if one should be located in this neighborhood.

This motion was supported by a speech by Lieut.-Col. Boulton and carried unanimously.

TO THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT.

Mr. DAWSON KENNEDY, of Otonabee, in moving the next resolution, pointed out and dwelt upon the advantage it would be to have the proposed factory located some place on Rice Lake, say at Harwood. He held that the crops of the farmers up the river and around could be handled with greater facility by water than otherwise. He moved, seconded by Mr. J. C. Rosevear, Reeve of Hamilton,—That in view of the numerous and important advantages which would be derived from the successful operation of beet sugar factories in Canada, this meeting would strongly recommend that the Dominion Government and Parliament should assist in promoting the erection of a first-class factory of large capacity, by admitting the machinery required free of duty and by such further aid as may be necessary to secure its early operation.

This resolution was spoken to by Mr. Geo. Guillet, M.P., and unanimously carried.

THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT.

Moved by Mr. T. B. CARLOW, Reeve of Percy, seconded by Mr. BOWMAN, Reeve of Hamilton,—That this meeting cordially approve of the steps taken by the Department of Agriculture of the Province to test the adaptation of the soil and climate for the cultivation of sugar beets, and as the experiments which have been made on the Ontario farm at Guelph and in different parts of the Province have proved highly satisfactory as to the yield and quality of the beets, would urgently recommend that the Ontario Government and Parliament should liberally assist in securing the early completion of a first-class beet sugar factory at some suitable point in this Province.

Mr. FIELD, M.P., supported this resolution and it was carried.

A JOINT STOCK COMPANY.

Col. BOLTON moved a resolution returning the thanks of the meeting to the West Northumberland Farmers' Institute for bringing the sugar beet industry before the farmers of the county, and proposing that the farmers form a joint stock company for the erection of a factory in the county.

This resolution was also carried

Mr. A. FERGUSON, Warden of Northumberland and Durham, then addressed the meeting, touching on the matter in a general way and endorsing the proposed establishment of the industry.

A vote of thanks was also extended to Mr. Lauder for his address and the information contained therein.

THE NEXT MEETING.

A motion was then carried deciding that a meeting be held at Harwood on February 13th at one o'clock for the further discussion of the matter, and that Mr. Lauder and Mr. Wilfred Skaife, of Montreal, who is now operating a factory at Berthier, Que.

On motion the members of the County Council of the counties of Northumberland and Durham and Messrs. Dawson Kennedy, John A. Davidson, Wm. Collins and F. Birdsall were appointed a committee to make inquiries to ascertain the probable number of acres that could be given to beet raising in their different localities and report to the West Northumberland Institute before the 1st of March.

The meeting then adjourned.

Brevities.

—The funeral of the late Katie Leary took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended by friends of the deceased young lady.

—No arrests were made last night.

—"Dan" Simons makes his debut at the Opera House this evening as a professional showman. "Danny" will undoubtedly make a clever man in his clog and tumbling specialties.

—Three rinks of curlers went to Lakefield to play a match with the village stane-burlers to-day.

An Open Letter.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of the Weekly of the 23rd inst. there appeared among the Young's Point items a very bold criticism on the work performed last fall by me as an agent under the Ontario Government. I therefore beg leave to submit the following:

First, your correspondent gives the statements not as own, but on the authority of Robert Freeborn, and further vests that gentleman with the power of presenting recommendations to the township council. Really Mr. Freeborn should feel exalted, and if he were not a man of the good common sense I gladly acknowledge he owns, such affected praise might unsettle him. Second, as to the road, it speaks for itself, and as it passed the inspection of competent men who were appointed, I am fully satisfied with their decision. These men considered not the immediate benefit to be derived, but rather accepted the work performed because of the efforts used to make it a durable affair. I kindly ask your correspondent to do me justice by passing an impartial comment on the road next summer, or even in the spring. Again, he hints about "a nice little sum" and "plums." I here request him to make out a report of work done for the money expended, present it to you for publication and then call on the public for a fair judgment. If he makes out a good report we will have to give him a bite of the plum next time. As to this switch business it would be a small matter for the Dominion Government to at least place a fingerboard at the foot of the hill for the purpose of pointing out to persons not quick at discovering that the old road is being travelled at present on account of the icy state of the roads.

Trusting to hear further from your worthy correspondent of Young's Point and thanking you for the the space you kindly afforded me, I remain, sir,

Yours respectfully,
STEPHEN NICHOLLS.

A CLEVER TRICK.

By Means of Which a Smuggler Saved Fifty Dollars

BUFFALO, Jan. 29.—Mary Whitson, a pretty Canadian girl aged 19, arrived here yesterday from Toronto. She had an experience en route which is likely to be long remembered, as it led to her arrest on her arrival in this city. While crossing Suspension Bridge she was taken with a fainting fit. One of the male passengers rushed up to her and placed an elegant sealskin sack around her shoulders. The customs authorities, when they went through the train, noticed the sealskin, but thinking it was the personal property of Miss Whitson, paid no attention to it. At Niagara Falls the real owner of the article told the girl that he was going to Buffalo on another road and took the cape. By the clever smuggling act he saved $50 which rightly belonged to the Government. When Miss Whitson explained her side of the case Commissioner Hirschbeck promptly acquitted her.

BURIED IN THE RUINS.

An Old Convent Collapses and Seven Persons are Killed.

ROME, Jan. 28.—The Eternal City is filled with horror to-day by the fall of an old convent building. Three neighboring houses were crushed and seven people were buried in the ruins. Among these was a whole family, three children and parents. The carbineers were able to extricate one of the children, but the other two, with their parents and three other people, were killed.

TWO NOTED BURGLARS.

The Men Who Have Been Operating in Canada Jailed in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Two dangerous crooks have been arrested here with costly kits of burglar tools in their possession. They are Billy Maher alias George Houghton and David Cummings alias Cronin, known as "Little Dave." Dave was discharged at the Old Bailey, London, England, Oct 30 last on a ticket of leave after serving five years for bank burglary. He has a big record as a Mississippi River thief of 20 years ago. He has served time in various states. In New Orleans Cummings and his pal robbed a jewelry store of $100,000 worth of property. They afterwards did a $65,000 job in New Orleans and a $25,000 diamond robbery in St. Louis. From a notorious house in Chicago they stole $7000 worth of diamonds. In Quincy, Ills., they robbed the First National Bank of $100,000 in bonds, $80,000 in cash and $350,000 in railroad securities. The gang got away with $40,000 of property from the Falls City Bank at Louisville, and stole $6000 worth of diamonds from a Philadelphia jeweler, and $15,000 from a salesman for the New York house of Eno, Richardson & Co. in Baltimore. Maher was sent to prison in Trenton, N.J. in 1871, for an attempt to rob the Jamesburg Bank. He escaped from jail, but was re-arrested. Since then he has been "working" in Canada, and is believed to have committed the Cobourg, Milton and other recent robberies.

STRUCK DOWN AT HIS FORGE.

Strange and Fatal Illness of a Sarnia Blacksmith.

SARNIA, Jan. 28.—Joshua Mathews, while engaged at his work in William Farr's blacksmith shop, was observed by his fellow workmen to burst into a fit of causeless laughter, and then to stagger as if from weakness. He was assisted to his home in George-street, before reaching which he had sunk into a state of almost stupor. Medical aid was summoned when it was found that the seizure was apoplexy and the cause the bursting of a blood vessel in the brain. He only lived a few hours.

Important Decision Under the Inter-State Commerce Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day decided the case of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation v. the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and 28 other railroad companies, involving questions of discriminations made and preference given to foreign merchandise shipped upon through bills of lading from foreign ports to points of destination in the United States, through ports of entry in a foreign country adjacent to the United States, over other and similar merchandise carried from such ports of entry to such points of destination in the United States. The complaint was sustained by the commission against the Texas & Pacific, the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern, the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas, the Illinois Central, the Union Pacific, the Northern Pacific, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Lehigh Valley, the Canadian Pacific, and the Grand Trunk Railway Companies. Each of these companies was ordered by the commission to desist from carrying any article of imported traffic shipped from any foreign port through any port of entry of the United States or any port of entry in a foreign country adjacent to the United States upon through bills of lading destined to any place within the United States at any other than upon the inland tariff governing other freight at such port of entry to such place of destination, or any other than the same rates established in such inland tariff for the carriage of other like kind of tariff in the elements of bulk weight value and expense of carriage of such order to take effect March 10. The complaint as to the other railroads is dismissed.

For Libeling the Kaiser.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—From Berlin comes the news that another German-American is in toils for failing to pay due respect to His Imperial Majesty the Kaiser. The man's name is Hangarter, and he was arrested for language used in a hotel at Waldshut, a town on the Upper Rhine, near Baden.

Defaulters Kill Themselves.

PESTH, Jan. 28.—At Czaba yesterday the cashier and the clerk of the People's Bank committed suicide, owing to the discovery of extensive embezzlements committed by them. Their defalcations have resulted in the ruin of many of the townspeople.

Fell from the Maintop.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 28.—A despatch from India announces Grand Duke George, commander of the Russian [illegible] escorting the Czarowitch on his tour, fell from the maintop to the deck to-day and injured his spine. Unless he recovers speedily he will return home.

Italy in Bad Shape

ROME, Jan. 28.—Signor Grimaldi presented the annual financial statement to the Chamber of Deputies to-day. It shows a deficit for 1891 of 60,000,000 francs. Deficits of 40,000,000 francs yearly are expected for the next three years. Increased duties are proposed on oil seeds and mineral oils, as well as various economics, chiefly in the military and public works budgets.

Struck By a Falling Derrick.

GUELPH, Jan. 28.—Joseph Shaw was struck on the head by a falling derrick at Harris' ice house this afternoon and badly injured.

Shaved By Electricity

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan 28.—As Howard Hall started his electric motor this morning a bright blaze shot out from the dynamo and burned his mustache off.

The Strikers Beaten.

CORK, Jan. 28.—After a weary struggle lasting 14 weeks the Cork steam packet strike has been settled by the complete submission of the strikers.

A Terrible Avalanche.

ROME, Jan. 28.—An avalanche at Floresta to-day destroyed 11 houses and killed 19 persons.

Ordered to Chili.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—The French squadron cruising in the waters of New Zealand has been ordered to Chili.

The Dead Prince in His Coffin.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 28.—The body of the late Prince Baudouin was laid in the coffin this evening. The Countess of Flanders remained bathed in tears before the body until the last moment. The Countess placed a lace handkerchief upon the face of her dead son. The Princess Henriette is now out of danger. At 10 o'clock this morning the sad news of the death of her brother was broken to her.

The Present Belongs to Man.

A great writer says: "The moment past is no longer; the future may never be; the present is all of which man is the master."

The man or woman who is mentally and physically afflicted with any of the brain and nerve troubles now so very prevalent, can gain no advantage or relief by brooding over past sufferings; nor can the future safely be counted on as to what results it will bring. The present is their's alone, and demands immediate work and action. If you look for the future you must prepare yourself for it. That nervous feeling, and fearful trembling sensation must be banished; that feeling of extreme irritableness, that sleeplessness and state of exhaustion must be got rid of; your indigestion and dyspepsia must banish before you grasp at the future and what is dimly seen in the distance.

Act at once; be decisive, be noble to yourself. Despair never enters a brave heart; your condition is not hopeless while Paine's Celery Compound can be procured. It is the only remedy that can give permanent relief; its results are sure and unfailing in all cases. The weak and nervous are made steady and strong; the sleepless obtain sweet repose; the irritable are made happy and joyous, and years added to existence on earth.

DIED AT A BANQUET.

SECRETARY OF THE U.S. TREASURY WINDOM EXPIRES.

After Concluding a Speech at the New York Board of Trade at Delmonico's—Death Due to Heart Disease—The Banquet Suddenly Terminates.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Over 250 guests attended the 18th annual banquet of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation at Delmonico's to-night. Many prominent gentlemen were present, including Secretaries Windom and Tracy, ex-Secretary Bayard, Murat Halstead, Collector Erhardt, General Woodford, Erastus Wiman, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier of Canada, Hon. J. W. Longley, Attorney - General of Nova Scotia, and J. W. Vrooman. After the sumptuous feast had been partaken of, Capt. Ambrose Snow, president of the Board, introduced Secretary Windom, who responded to the toast, "Our country's prosperity dependent upon its instruments of commerce." The secretary made an excellent address and was heartily applauded. Judge Arnoux then got up and was introducing ex-Secretary Bayard, when someone cried: "Look at Secretary Windom!". The speech was broken short and every eye was turned in the direction of the Secretary. He had collapsed and was falling to the floor. His face was ghastly and a cry of horror arose among the guests. There was an immediate rush on the part of all hands towards Mr. Windom, but several doctors who were present got there first and drove the others back. Dr. Robinson examined the prostrate form and discovered the heart was still beating. By his orders the secretary was carried into the dish room adjoining the banquet hall and placed on a table. Messengers were hastily despatched for electric batteries and as many as four were applied to his body, which was rapidly growing cold. This was at 10.06 p.m. For six minutes the electric shocks were applied incessantly, but without success. At 11.11 p.m. Judge Arnoux came out of the dish room and announced that Secretary Windom had breathed his last. "He is dead."

This was the fearful announcement that was said in a voice midway between a sob and a whisper through that gaily-bedecked banquet hall. Every man looked at his neighbor with blanched cheeks and silence fell upon the men who only a few moments before were clamoring for news of Mr. Windom's condition. The secretary had succumbed to an attack of heart disease, and only last Monday had an attack which, however, passed away without causing him much inconvenience. When it was officially announced that the secretary was dead, Secretary Tracy went to the nearest telegraph office, and sent a message to President Harrison, informing him of the untimely event and requesting him to communicate with Mrs. Windham.

Mr. Windoms death put an abrupt end to the banquet. Addresses were to have been made by Secretary Tracy, ex-Secretary Bayard, Wilfrid Laurier, J. W. Longley and Murat Halstead. After the secretary had been pronounced dead Dr. Robinson said "I would say the cause of his death was apoplexy if it was not for the history of heart disease, with that in view I am compelled to think heart disease killed him."

Secretary Windom's remains will be sent to Washington on a special train in the morning.

The President Hears the News.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The death of Secretary Windom in New York to-night gave a great shock to his official friends and associates. When the despatch announcing the sad event was read to President Harrison he was greatly distressed. He immediately took a carriage to the house of the Postmaster-General, where a cabinet dinner had been in progress. Mrs. Windom and her two daughters and Mrs. Colgate of New York, who is visiting them, were amongst those present. The President had a hurried conversation with Blaine and Proctor and the Postmaster-General. They then privately informed Mrs. Colgate of Mr. Windom's death, and she, without exciting suspicions, got the bereaved ladies to their carriage and home. The President, Secretary Proctor and Postmaster-General Wanamaker followed directly after. When Mrs. Windom and daughters reached the house Mrs. Colgate gently broke to them the dreadful news. Mrs. Windom was completely overcome and had to be assisted to her chamber.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

THE CONSPIRACY LAW TO REMAIN IN FORCE.

The British Government Will Not Reward Dr. Koch—Glasgow Strikers Fighting the Newspaper Reporters — Military Riot in Jamaica.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—In the Commons to-day Mr. Edmund Robertson (Gladstonian), M.P. for Dundee, moved to amend the Conspiracy law by enacting that no combination shall be considered criminal unless formed for a criminal object. Mr. Robertson's motion also proposed to limit the offence of intimidation to acts constituting a breach of the peace.

The Solicitor-General, Sir Edward Clarke, in reply said that the Government could not accept Mr. Robertson's proposals, as they would give free scope to strikes, encourage boycotting and otherwise imperil individual rights.

Mr. Robertson's motion was rejected by a vote of 179 to 143.

In reply to Mr. Picton (Liberal), member for Leicester, Mr. Fergusson said that he did not believe that Portugal had yet signed the charter of the Mozambique Company and he intimated that the British Government could not be expected to respect certain provisions of the proposed charter evidently hostile to British interests. Mr. Fergusson said that he hoped the British high commissioner for the Western Pacific would shortly be able to issue the necessary regulations enforcing so far as the British are concerned, the final act of agreement regarding Samoa.

Mr. Nolan asked the government to confer with other states in regard to the justice and propriety of taking joint action to bestow a pecuniary reward on Prof. Koch for his great discovery.

The Hon. W. H. Smith replied that, while not deprecating the value of Prof. Koch's discovery, the Government must decline to add new functions to its already heavy responsibilities.

OUTRAGES BY STRIKERS.

Attempt to Derail a Train—Stone Throwing—Trouble with Reporters.

GLASGOW, Jan. 29.—The strikers seem to have resolved to continue their policy of railroad outrages. At Greenock yesterday a passenger train happily crossed safely over a chain which had been twisted around the rails. The train and passengers were entirely uninjured.

Stone throwing continues in spite of the police protection afforded to the companies, and an additional number of engineers and firemen have been injured by this bombardment upon the part of the strikers. The railroad companies have offered rewards for the apprehension and conviction of any person found throwing stones at the trains, but there have been but few arrests made in consequence.

The strikers' orators recently, apparently discontented with the views the newspapers take of the strike, have been villifying the reporters of the Glasgow newspapers. The result is that the newspapers of this city have agreed not to report any future meetings which the strikers may hold.

The great railroad strike has collapsed and the leaders of the strikers are treating with the officials of the companies.

A RIOT IN JAMAICA.

Soldiers Attack the Constabulary Station and Policemen and Are Badly Beaten

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 29.—A few days ago a determined attack was made by some 60 or 80 soldiers of the West India Regiment, encamped near Kingston, Jamaica, on the constabulary station in Fletcher's Land. The station is guarded by only four men, this number being thought sufficient for the ordinary duties of the place. It appears that the row began first on the race course, consequent on the soldiers attacking a constable and mauling him so badly that he had to be taken to the hospital in almost a dying condition. After rescuing their comrade the police retreated to the station in Fletcher's Land, which the soldiers began to bombard with brickbats and large stones. Matters got so serious and the besieged constables were getting so badly hurt that at last it was deemed advisable to sound the fire alarm and so bring out the reserve of constabulary in the Sutton-street station.

The arrival of the extra policemen was greeted by a very heavy shower of stones, one of which felled Inspector Wadderburn, while another which struck him on the head when rising nearly knocked him senseless. Only the timely arrival of a strong picket from camp under the command of several officers put an end to hostilities and undoubtedly saved the lives of the policemen. The large force of soldiers prevented the capture of any of their number save one, who was run down to Sutton-street station with the handcuffs on. Fully two dozen constables were so badly injured that they had to be sent to the hospital, and a civilian who went to the assistance of the constabulary had one side of his nose torn away by a brick which was thrown at him.

All the privates of the West India regiment have now been confined to barracks and will continue so for some time. The soldiers who took part in the riot will be tried by a court martial at the camp toward the end of next week. The injured are all doing well.

The Prince Buried.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 29.—The funeral of Prince Baudouin, heir to the throne, took place today with imposing ceremonies. The city was draped in mourning. The services took place at the Cathedral of Sainte Gudule. The Ministers acted as pall-bearers and immediately preceded King Leopold, who was so overcome with emotion that he walked with a halting step and with his head bowed in sorrow. The Count of Flanders, the father of the dead prince, weeping bitterly, walked behind King Leopold, having his son, Prince Albert, on his right and Prince Henry of Prussia on his left. The spectacle presented by this mournful group affected many of the onlookers to tears. The funeral car covered with beautiful wreaths of flowers was drawn by six black horses harnessed with black trappings, and led by footmen in mourning liveries. The Prince's body will be conveyed upon this car to the Royal crypt in the chapel of the Castle of Laeken, a mile outside the city, where the interment is to take place.

DAVITT SERIOUSLY ILL.

Confined to His House—Chamberlain Declares That Home Rule is Dead.

DUBLIN, Jan. 29.—Michael Davitt is very ill at his residence, at Ballybrack, near this city.

In a Unionist meeting last night at Birmingham, Joseph Chamberlain said Home Rule was as dead as Queen Anne; that Gladstone must either abandon altogether or accept all of Parnell's demands. Home Secretary Matthews dwelt on the necessity of maintaining the Unionist alliance, as the Irish party would patch up their quarrel some way.

The latest developments tend to prove that the reports of a temporary cessation of hostilities has been agreed upon by the Irish leaders are correct.

The conciliatory spirit of McCarthy's reply to the Manchester deputation has surprised everyone.

As the anti-Parnellite leaders have resolved to follow their opponents' example, hostilities may therefore be said to have been temporarily suspended. In agreeing to this O'Brien's advice has been all-powerful with both sections of the party. Among the anti-Parnellite rank and file, however, very little hope is entertained of the possibility of reaching a final agreement. The present truce has been arranged to enable the party to go to the country in the coming elections with some show of success.

Mr. Parnell has started for London. Yesterday Mr. Parnell visited Arklow, county Wicklow, about 30 miles from this city. He stayed at the residence of Father Dempsey and was accorded an enthusiastic reception. During the course of a speech upon this occasion Mr. Parnell said that he hoped to shortly see Ireland attain legislative independence, without which all exertions to improve the conditions of the masses and promote Irish industry and prosperity were unavailing.

THE ANCASTER MURDER.

No Trace of the Heslop Murderers—The Reward Increased to $700

HAMILTON, Jan. 29.—Not the slightest clue has been obtained towards unraveling the mystery attending the murder of Treasurer Heslop of Ancaster.

The detectives insisted that the bullet in the body of the deceased would have to be found, as it would be an important link in the chain of evidence. Yesterday afternoon Dr. Richardson made another examination of the body, and after considerable trouble located the bullet under the right shoulder blade. It is a 32-calibre bullet such as would come from a revolver. It has been handed over to the coroner. Nearly 1 o'clock on the morning of the murder two men driving a dark horse called at the residence of a well-to-do farmer named Surerus, near Greensville. He had a talk with them through the window. One was tall and the other shorter, and both wore dark overcoats. They said they were slightly out of their latitude and wanted to find the shortest road to Ancaster, which is four miles from Greensville. He told them the shortest way would be round by Weir's-lane, but the best way to go was by the stone road. "I don't want to go through a toll-gate," said one of the men. They said they had driven from Harriston, a very improbable story, and that they owned a farm past Ancaster, and wanted to get to it by the Sulphur Springs-road. They drove off in the direction of the Sulphur Springs.

Enquiries made in the village yesterday elicited the fact that Adam Kelly, Mr. Wilson and several other residents heard a buggy drive through the village street at 11¾, and heard it return a couple of hours afterwards driving rapidly. It is known to be the same rig because the horse "forged," and the clicking of the shoes attracted attention and remark at the time. Some parties looked out and saw a dark horse attached to a light buggy and driven by two men.

This morning the family added $200 to the $500 reward put up by the municipalities.

HE IS AN ALIEN.

The Kingston Divine Cannot Minister to His Detroit Charge.

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—Jefferson-avenue Presbyterian Church some time ago extended a call to Rev. W. W. Carson, pastor of the Methodist Church, Kingston, Ont. Mr. Carson accepted the call and agreed to withdraw from the Methodist Church, and arrangements were made to have him examined by the local presbytery for admission to that body. Last Sunday Mr. Carson preached what was supposed to be an inaugural sermon. Last night at the annual meeting of the church a committee reported that Mr. Carson's call was apparently in opposition to alien contract labor law. The committee recommended that the call be cancelled and the report unanimously adopted. There was much speculation this morning as to the cause of this remarkable move. A prominent member of the church says: "We did not know of the law when we extended the call to Mr. Carson, and when we found out about it we thought it best not to get into any trouble, so the call was cancelled." Mr. Carson has returned to Kingston. The congregation are hopeful he will yet become a citizen of the United States, in which event he will be once more asked to accept the call to the church.

GREY'S COUNTY JUDGE.

The Ex-M.P. for North Grey Dead at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 29.—Samuel J. Lane, senior judge of Grey, died yesterday at Owen Sound, aged 68. Deceased was warden of the county from 1866 to 1872, and represented North Grey in the Conservative interest from 1873 until the general election in 1882. In 1885 he was gazetted junior judge and in 1889 senior judge of the county. A widow and five children survive.

Found Dead in His Office.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Mr. James B. Boyle, Public School Inspector of this city, was found dead in his office in the Central School buildings about 12 o'clock last night. The deceased was well known throughout the province and was one of the most prominent citizens of London, and has been connected with the educational institutions of the city since 1855. Mr. Boyle was also Dominion Government Civil Service examiner for this district. He was upwards of 60 years of age and was a man of remarkable vigor, both of body and mind.

Missionary Schooner Wrecked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—Advices from Tahiti, Society Islands, reports that wreckage has been discovered supposed to be from the missionary schooner Phebe Chapman, which left Honolulu a year ago in charge of Elder J. R. Cadesy of Nebraska, a Second Advent missionary. The Chapman was bound for Pitcairn Island. She carried a crew of six men. All hands are now given up for lost.

Mr. Stinson Accepts.

HAMILTON, Jan. 29.—At a meeting of the Conservative Association last night it was unanimously decided that Mr. Stinson should again contest the seat for Hamilton. He accepted the nomination.

FUNERAL OF THE VICTIMS.

A WIFE'S WAIL "FROM THE DEPTHS I CRY TO YOU!"

Sad Scenes Attending the Identification of the Coal Mine Victims in Pennsylvania—Burried in a Common Trench—Many Persons Blown to Atoms.

YOUNGWOOD, Pa., Jan. 29.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon a long train of baggage cars and a few coaches were pushed on the siding near the ill-fated shaft of the Mammoth Mine and the hour of final parting between the living and their dead had come. Sixty-three coffins, containing the bodies of those who had been identified, were placed in the baggage cars and the coaches were filled with the near relations of the dead men. Slowly the train was drawn to Scottdale, 1½ miles distant. In the Catholic cemetery two great trenches had been dug, and in them the coffins were placed side by side. When the last had been lowered the scene was most impressive. Rev. Father Lambing, his gray locks lifted by the breeze, stood at the head of the trenches and ranged along the side were fully 800 persons, attracted either by sympathy or curiosity. When, at the signal from the priests, the first earth was thrown on the coffins the women seemed to feel they were widows, and the sound of the priest's prayer was drowned by their moans. Many were so overcome by their emotions that they had to be carried back to their homes.

Many Smothered to Death

Those who were early taken from the mine were close to the cage on what is termed the level and were all smothered, while those taken out later and from what is termed the dip were horribly burned and maimed. With the bodies in this condition the scenes attending the efforts to identify were necessarily distressing. On one board lay the body of a boy scarcely 16 years of age, while alongside lay a full grown man horribly burned about the body, head and face. Some bodies had the tops of their heads blown off. One man was identified from the fact that a portion of his foot was shot off while serving in the army. A young man, apparently not over 18 years old, had a hole driven through from the top of his head to his chin, the doctors thinking some missile had been driven straight through. Some had all the bones on one side of their body broken, which showed that they were hurled by the force of the explosion against the side of the mine. One had his leg drawn up and it was impossible to straighten it, and in fact the bodies were found in all sorts of horrible positions and conditions.

A young Hungarian woman came and looked intently at each body as they lay on the porch. She finally stopped with a heart-rending wail and began shaking the body of a fine looking young man who was her husband. She patted the face and smoothed the hair, and all the time talked rapidly in her own language.

A Hungarian woman, about 60 years old, came to the Morgue to ascertain if her boy had been found. At the time she arrived there was no one there who could understand her, and the gestures she made trying to make them understand were very painful. Never before was agony more plainly written on a woman's face.

At last good Father Symigiel, the Polish priest, who had been to the place all day, came past and the woman appealed to him. She said she could not find her son, but she knew he was there. She said if any one would pull back the lips of some of the younger looking corpses she could identify her boy by his teeth, but she was afraid to touch them herself.

Found Her Boy at Last.

The priest informed one of the undertakers of her desire, and one of the assistants at last succeeded in finding the youth. The old woman clasped the body in her arms, but had neither words nor tears.

The wives of the victims went from body to body, and as soon as they discovered the one they were looking for, burst into tears. The mothers would lift their children and point to the corpse and tell the little ones it was their father. The majority of those lost were Hungarians, and the lamentations of the poor creatures who were bereft of a protector were heartrending. The bodies were laid out on boards, and the wife, sometimes with a child in her arms, would lay her head against the face of the dead, and in her own language pour out her distress.

As soon as a body was identified it was removed to the yard of the dead house and early in the afternoon this was filled with row after row of coffins.

The last body to be taken from the shaft was that of Peter Shryaka. His wife was watching at the pit mouth when the cage bearing his mangled body came to the surface. She had been there for more than 24 hours, and when the word was passed along the line that another body was being brought out she seemed to have a premonition that it was her husband. She pushed through the crowd and was the first to uncover the blackened form on the stretcher. A low moan forced itself through her lips, and she threw herself on the body. For fully five minutes she remained there and then in low sweet tones she began to chant, "From the depths I cry to You." The Rev. Father Lambing then led her away. An hour later she appeared at the morgue, neatly dressed and outwardly calm. She walked along the line of coffins until she came to that in which her husband laid. Recognizing the disfigured face, she stooped and gently kissed it and then left the undertakers to do their work.

Taps from the Telegraph.

The death list of the Mammoth Pine, Pa., disaster now reaches 139.

At Athamara, Greece, yesterday, 25 persons were killed and many injured by an earthquake.

Three persons were shot and killed at Gallegos, Spain, yesterday in an election riot.

At Belfountain, Cornwall County, yesterday, Thomas Rippley and Liththolder Steinthorpe were instantly killed by the rig they were driving going over an embankment.

Trouble on a Race Track.

MELBOURNE, Aust., Jan. 29.—When Carbine won the Melbourne Cup three bookmakers who couldn't see how he could shoulder 145 pounds and carry it to the front at the end of two miles, suddenly left the track because they didn't want to see a number of men who had deposited Carbine bets with them. With the bookies it was a case of time is money and money is time. Jockey Mike O'Brien, who piloted the famous Carbine and also won the Melbourne Cup in 1888 with Mentor, is very ill. O'Brien's condition is considered so dangerous that grave doubts of his recovery are entertained by his friends.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—An explosion of ammonia gas in the ice room caused fire in the Western Refrigeratory Company's warehouse early this morning, which partially destroyed a six-story brick building and entailed a loss of $250,000. Fireman Casey was fatally injured and several employes slightly.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 89 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

Inspectorship of the East Riding

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I observe by the Daily Examiner of January 28th, that T. Blezard has been informed that Wm. Moher, of Douro, was an unsuccessful applicant for the Inspectorship of East Peterborough and, as far as he knows, and says he thinks he would be sure to know, he was not an applicant. No doubt, Mr. Editor, he does know, as he is in daily consultation with J. B. McWilliams, and it is plain on the face of it that neither Mr. Moher, nor any other man, was an applicant, or such a man as J. J. Crowe, of Dummer, would never have got the office.

Yours truly,
D. UMON.

A Judgment Given by One Qualified to Speak.

A well known and highly respected physician of great experience, and a member of an examining board for one of the largest medical colleges in Ontario, recently said: "My opinion of Paine's Celery Compound is, that for the troubles and ailments resulted from a nervous system, it is certainly a valuable remedy, and has no equal known to medical science. I am not surprised at its immense sale and popularity in Canada."

This opinion bears much weight, as it comes from a disinterested source, and from a gentleman of high attainments in his profession. There are scores of other physicians in the Dominion who could add similar testimony, as many have used Paine's Celery Compound in their practice. This scientific remedy is the great restorer and toner of the nervous system, it feeds the brain, giving it renewed power; it builds up the body in flesh; it gives tone and vigor to the digestive organs and the bloom of health to the pale face.

Our Clubbing Offer.

The American magazines have come to be recognized the world over as the best illustrated and most ably conducted; in fact, it is said that larger editions are sold in England of at least two of our leading magazines than of any of the English monthlies. This condition has resulted from the fact that the American magazines hesitate at no expense, either for the purchase of manuscript or illustration. $50,000 has been paid by one magazine for a single series. Their beautiful engravings serve as instructors even to those unable or too busy to read. In proportion to bound volumes, the magazine gives as four to one. Take for instance the Cosmopolitan, which contains annually 1536 pages by the leading writers of the world, and more than 1200 illustrations by clever artists. That would make four volumes of nearly 400 pages each, yet it is furnished to the subscriber at only $2.40 a year. Formally it was considered impossible to place such a magazine before the public for less than $4.00 per annum, and the predictions were numerous, when the price of the Cosmopolitan was fixed at $2.40, that it would be impossible for it to survive at such a figure. It has survived and with a view to the introduction of the Cosmopolitan to the readers of this journal, we propose to do even better than the very low price of the magazine. To those who have never been subscribers to the Cosmopolitan, we will furnish the DAILY REVIEW and the Magazine for one year for $5 60, or the WEEKLY REVIEW and Magazine for 1 year for $2 60. Send in your orders.

The Population of Peterborough

is about 10,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1. Sold by all druggists.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—Rochester's old mill near the C.P.R. yards in this city was destroyed by fire to-night, origin unknown. A young man named Fraser, who was standing near the building, had his leg broken by the explosion of a coal oil barrel. The loss is estimated at $4000, partially insured.

THE AMERICAN INDIAN

REV. DR. TALMAGE THINKS HE IS CREATING A STIR.

The Tabernacle Preacher's Opinions on the Indian Question—He Does Not Think the Indian Should Hold Land That He Does Not Cultivate.

The type of man that is now making the most stir in America is easily distinguished from all styles recognized in Ethnology,—head, square; hair, black and straight; face, broad; color, cinnamon; hands and feet, small; eyes, deeply set, sleepy and half closed, a character haughty, reticent, revengeful, treacherous, ofttimes brave, sometimes eloquent. It is the American Indian.

Our national controversy for many years concerning the African threatened to split this nation from East to West, and let the North fall off on one side of the fracture, and the South fall off on the other side. Then the controversy concerning the Chinese filled the land with strife. And now we have the Indian under violent discussion, and he will continue to be the cause of agitation until justice dominates on the principle that nothing is settled until it is settled aright. If bullets could have done the work of adjusting the long quarrel between the Indian and the white man, this subject would now have been a page of ancient history, instead of a present horror. In one year the military and civil service among our Aborigines cost our government seventy-eight million of dollars. The Oregon war with the Indians cost ten millions of dollars. The Cheyenne war cost thirty-six millions of dollars. The Sioux war cost thirty-nine millions of dollars. The Seminole war cost fifty millions of dollars; and over seven hundred millions of dollars have been expended in Indian wars, and one of the fiercest of these wars is now raging. There is no way for the United States Government now to do except by force of arms to put down the Indian rebellion, and it will be done, for, though there may be vacillations between victory and defeat, barbarism can never stand before civilization. But as soon as this outbreak is quelled we ought all to go to studying two propositions: one is that idleness cannot be kept in good morals; and the other is that hunger cannot be kept quiet. We have been supporting—I say "we" for every person who pays a tax has been levied on—we have been supporting in idleness a great multitude of Indians. Now those able-bodied savages, like able-bodied white men, ought to work if they can find work, or take the consequence, starvation. There ought to be some way of putting on one roll the aged, the invalid, the imbecile, the crippled of the Indian tribes, and having them supported at the expense of the United States Government, on good and healthful and fresh food, and under comfortable shelter, and seasonably clothed. All the rest ought to be put to work. If there can be found nothing else for them to do, then let them, with shovel and wheelbarrow, move a mountain from one place to another, and after that, move it back again. The great lazy Indian hulks, that gather around the railroad stations between Omaha and San Francisco or Minnesota and Oregon, begging for whisky and doing nothing for a livelihood, while beneath their feet is land that would yield luxuriant harvests if called upon by plow and hoe, are nuisances that ought to be abated. Ninety-nine out of every hundred of the Indians have muscle enough, and brain enough to earn a livelihood. An idle population is always a besotted population. Any plan that proposes to support an Indian merely because he is an Indian is a wrong to him, and an outrage to all the other races of men. I do not see why the Indians should have a right to occupy land that they will not cultivate, and land which is doing now no more by way of production than was being done a hundred years ago. The trouble is that the United States Government neither does one thing or the other. It professes to support the Indian tribes, while through its swindling agencies its failure to do so is conspicuous.

Let the tribes be broken up and sent through all parts of the United States, and then they will learn to pick up a living like the rest of us. You might as well put all the colored population of this country in a reservation, and take care of them yourselves, or all the Chinese in another reservation and take care of them yourselves. Let the Indians be distributed in all the towns, cities and neighborhoods of the country, and those who cannot work be put in alms houses, and those who are able to work made to look out for themselves. As it is now, the Indians have been taught to expect the United States Government to take care of them; and when the supply has failed to come through officials who have put into their own pockets that which was supposed to go to the Indians, these barbarians have enacted massacre. And why be surprised?

We have, as a nation, gone on the wrong principle. We have supposed that this Indian question would settle itself on the theory that this race would die out—what with wars and starvation and exposure to hard winters, and whisky in full swing. This hope, built on the graves of a race of men who have as much right to live as any other race, is a cruel, unreasonable and unchristian hope. That they may be civilized and gospelized and saved, both for this world and the next, we have had demonstrated in cases innumerable. Bring them out from their seclusion and isolation. Put them among the other races. Treat them as you treat all. Wash them clean from the filth of centuries. Cut off their tangled and uncanny locks. Have them throw away their moccasins and put on a decent pair of shoes, their old blanket and wear a coat that fits, and scalping knife, and take a shoe last or a yard stick or a chisel or a pen. Give them the right of suffrage. Make the Governatorial Chair and the Congressional Hall and the White House, possible. Let the spelling book and the Constitution of the United States and the Bible do their work, and you will have saved a race. May the United States troops gain speedy and complete victory in this Indian war; and then, may our government, backed up by the sentiments of the best people, put the barbarians who survive, under the best industrial, educational and moral influences.

As I turn the leaf of this week's events, at the top of the page I find the startling announcement of the departure from this life of a Queen of Song, our American Jenny Lind, good and gracious and illustrious Emma Abbott. She had in her nature the material out of which Queen Elizabeth and Mary Queen of Scots and Marie Antoinette were made, but without any of their takings-off of character. From a penniless girl she rose by force of will and the blessing of God until wrapt assemblies, in this country and Europe, were entranced with her cadences. The first time I heard her sing was mid-Atlantic, crossing in a Cunarder, the occasion the Fourth of July, and an audience on shipboard celebrating the birth of our national independence. How sweetly and mild her voice that night rang throughout the ship and rang out over the sea. She told me that, when studying in Paris or Berlin, her instructor informed her that she would be a good singer, but there were certain notes she could never reach. Then she said, I gave five years to hard, grinding and perpetual study until I had accomplished that which my instructor said was to me an impossibility. When she told her physician last Sunday, "My next song, I shall sing in Heaven," I believe she was only making a prophecy of what has already come to pass. She was a lovely and glorious spirit.

Alas for her presentiment that she must soon die. She told me that, during the last two years, she had had that presentiment constantly with her, and I think because of it had less strength to resist disease. All physicians agree in saying that an expectation of getting well is a great help toward recovery. Fling to the winds your presentiments. They are most unhealthy and dangerous. I never had but one presentiment, and that turned out so false that I am resolved, if possible, never to have another. When, a year ago last October, I started for my journey through the Holy Land, all across the seas and across Palestine, I had a presentiment that I would never reach home again; and that impression did not leave me until I had returned and got inside my house at No. 1 South Oxford Street. Presentiments have no practical use, and have in ten thousand cases wrought discomfiture and death. Away with them. Let the time of our going out of this world remain as God intended it to be, an unknown point, the year unknown, even the decade unknown. Let us, by the grace of God, be always ready; and then have no anxiety about either the time or the place.

But the immortal songster has flown. Life to her had been a great struggle as well as a great victory, and who will begrudge her rest—everlasting rest? She took her final and fatal cold from riding out in a raging storm to sing for a consumptive musician. It was just like her to do so. She had a heart big as the world: and the flying rail train, this moment speeding with her body from the far West toward her sepulchre in Massachusetts, carries all that remains on earth of one of the noblest natures I ever knew. She goes soon after the Swedish songster, to whom I have already compared her, and I know no better way to close this lecture than by quoting the words that Jenny Lind wrote in an album that was handed to her while in New York, during that tour of song that will be famous while the world lasts. After Europe and America had put their richest garlands upon her brow, the Swedish girl wrote those beautiful lines:

"In vain I seek for rest
In all created good,
It leaves me still unblest,
And makes me cry for God,
And sure at rest I cannot be—
Until my heart finds rest in Thee."

The buildings consist of a modern and well built solid brick two story house (nearly) with two story kitchen attached. The house contains nine rooms besides bathroom, linen closets, pantries, etc., and is heated by a wood hot air furnace with registers in every room. There are also coal grates and mantles in each room. There is a cellar under the whole house and a separate one under the kitchen.

There is also a summer kitchen and wood shed leading into a brick driving shed and stable, with room for two horses, harness room, etc. A cow house, hen house, barn and small green house.

The house is well supplied with soft water from two large cisterns and by splendid spring water from a never failing spring which is carried into the house, and also to the grounds for watering purposes.

Ten acres of the land are under cultivation and well stocked with apple and pear trees, grapes, small fruits, rhubarb and asparagus, etc., etc. There is an orchard of 265 apple and pear trees and 1½ acres of grapes in full bearing and best varieties. The remaining six acres are in lawn and park about the house.

The house is built on high ground and commands a fine view. The land itself slopes to the east and south and can be advantageously sub-divided into building lots, and as it lies just west of the property on which the Edison Co. are building, will at once come into the market.

A Pointer for Some Councillor.

The new lights which have been placed in the arcade in the Opera House block are a great convenience. Last evening those attending the concert in the market hall were in danger of falling down the winding stairs, so dark were the stairways and the approaches through the arcade. A lamp of some kind should be placed in the arcade for use on such occasions.

At the Opera House.

The Belle Stevenson dramatic company played to another rather slim house last evening when they presented the temperance drama "Ten Nights in a Barroom." The play was very creditably put on, Mr. Stevenson as "Joe Morgan" portraying his character with faithfulness and expression. The support was very fair, Mr. W. Suddaby who appeared as Romaine acquitting himself well on only an hour's notice. The specialties followed as usual, and "Danny" Simons made his first appearance with "Jimmy" Wallbrook in their double specialties. They danced well and the "gods" grew hoarse while yelling their appreciation of the efforts of the two Peterborough boys. "Dan" will make a "hit" elsewhere as well as here for he is clever with his feet. To-night the company will present "Mountain Pink."

MARKET FEE QUESTION

DISCUSSED BY A DEPUTATION IN THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

Members of the Council Give Their Views—The Sugar Beet or Beet Sugar Industry—A Delegation to Attend the Harwood Meeting—A Police Matter—A Deputation from the Town Council.

The County Council dropped committee work yesterday afternoon for a time and went into session to receive a deputation.

MARKET TOLLS.

A deputation from the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute waited upon the Council yesterday in reference to market tolls. The deputation consisted of Messrs. D. Kennedy, J. A. Davidson and Jos. Barnard, and they were introduced by Mr. Stewart, Reeve of Otonabee.

Mr. KENNEDY explained the action of the Institute in endorsing the petition asking for the abolition of market tolls, and the appointment of the committee to wait on the Council to ask for its co-operation. He read the petition which had been endorsed by the Institutes. It set out that it was wrong for one municipality to levy a tax on the inhabitants of another municipality; that it was wrong to tax land and also to tax the produce of the land; that a farmer's income was not taxed by his own municipality and that it was wrong to allow another to do it; that the interests of both the buyer and seller would be best served by allowing the free sale of meat and other articles, and that they were willing to pay for services rendered, as for weighing, and for shelter, and asked that the law be amended so as to carry out these views. He believed that, as in Peterborough, where no services were rendered and no shelter was provided, it was contrary to the spirit of the Act to permit fees to be collected. Here, when they simply backed their waggon up to the sidewalk, they were taxed. According to the law meat in the quarter, hay and other produce was exempt, yet in Peterborough they had to pay on these things. They wished the Council to co-operate with the Institutes throughout the Province in asking the Legislature to pass an act making it clear that such fees were illegal.

Messrs. Davidson and Barnard endorsed what Mr. Kennedy had said.

Mr. KIDD said they should look carefully into the law to see what was required before they took any action.

Mr. MOLONEY said he believed it necessary to have someone to look after the market and control it, and fees sufficient to make it self-sustaining should be collected, but no more.

Mr. MOORE said he was pleased to see the deputation present, as he believed the Institutes were going to be a power. He thought market fees were wrong. Peterborough compelled the women to carry their baskets upstairs and then charged them two cents whether it contained fifty cents worth or not. Free markets were what the country wanted, with a fair charge for weighing.

Mr. KIDD said that a well-regulated market was a desirable thing. A disorderly market or none at all would be disagreeable. He believed that if there was a reasonable market fee, one that would not be considered burdensome, it would be best. They ought to come to a definite understanding so as to know what to ask for.

Mr. KENNEDY said the petition did not contemplate doing away with well-regulated markets. In places, such as London, where the market was free, they had well-regulated markets. If the law really was what they believed it was, then they asked the Legislature to pass a declaratory act; and if it did not make markets free, then they asked that it be done.

Mr. J. R. STRATTON said the act did not give free markets.

Mr. KENNEDY said that members had came to the farmers telling them they had given them free markets. He did not object to paying for the use of the inside market, and would not object to the schedule of fees in the act if outside accommodation were provided. He contended that the market was an accommodation for townspeople as well as farmers, but the farmers alone paid for it.

Mr. MOLONEY moved, seconded by Mr. CASEMENT,—That the matter be referred to the Committee on Petitions.

THE SUGAR BEET.

Mr. KENNEDY then introduced the question of the raising of sugar beets, and explained the action of the meeting at Cobourg on Wednesday. He asked the Council to send a deputation to the meeting at Harwood on Feb. 13th and to be prepared to report as to the quantity of beets that would be supplied. There was nothing, to his mind, more important at this time than this industry.

Mr. CASEMENT moved, seconded by Mr. CROUCH,—That the Warden and Messrs Moloney, Forster, Moore, H. C. Garbutt, Steward, Kidd and Sanderson be appointed a deputation to attend the meeting at Harwood.—Carried.

The deputation then thanked the Council and withdrew.

A POLICE MATTER.

Mr. THOS. JOHNSTON, of Otonabee, was, on motion, introduced to the Council. He said that he had occasion to call upon the Chief of Police of the town for assistance, and it had been very kindly given, the Chief taking considerable trouble. He had known of other cases where the Chief had rendered valuable services and given time, and the fact of his name being used was often a benefit, yet he received no remuneration for such services. He asked that the Council remunerate the Chief for such work by making him an allowance for it.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

A Town Deputation.

A deputation from the Town Council, consisting of Councillors Cahill, Davidson Hall, Langford and Dennistoun, members of the Joint Committee, waited upon the County Council this morning.

FIRE PROTECTION.

The first question brought up was the protection of the court house buildings from fire. Messrs. Cahill and Davidson explained that the town had placed a hydrant at the north and wished the County to place one at the south.

The County Property Committee went into session, with Mr. Sanderson in the chair and recommended that $40 per annum be paid to the town for the additional hydrant.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. Burnham, Chairman of the special committee on a House of Refuge, then took the chair and that question was considered.

Mr. BURNHAM said the county wished to obtain an idea as to the feeling of the town in regard to establishing such an institution.

Mr. CAHILL said that the Town Council had not had the matter before them and this deputation had not considered it.

Mr. BURNHAM said that the law provided for the establishment of a house of refuge jointly by the town and county.

Mr. HALL asked if there would be any danger of vagrants coming in from other places.

Mr. BURNHAM said that had not been found to be the case in other places where they had such homes. In several counties there was an arrangement with the town to receive poor at a rate per head.

Mr. CAHILL said that they had the two hospitals, and in connection with St. Joseph's a House of Providence on a small scale, and also the Protestant Home. These institutions would have to be maintained even if the house of refuge was established.

Mr. NESBITT, gaoler, in answer to a question, said there were at present eleven vagrants in the gaol, of whom seven were from the town and county.

Mr. BURNHAM said that the capital expenditure in the counties that had houses of refuge had been as follows:—

	Years established.	Acres.	Cost.
Waterloo	21	125	[illegible]
Elgin	15	50	[illegible]
Middlesex	10	45	[illegible]
Welland	8	60	[illegible]
York	7	51	[illegible]
Lincoln	4	50	[illegible]
Norfolk	23	[illegible]	7,000
Wellington	13	[illegible]	10,000

In Norfolk the per capita cost of maintenance, including interest on capital, was $61.20 and in Elgin $60.16.

Mr. DENNISTOUN said that in town a great many persons needed occasional relief. They would like to look over the information that had been gathered and see how it would effect the town.

Mr. BURNHAM suggested that the town should consider the matter, and that the county continue its committee and consider it with the town and report in June. They thought it would be an advantage to both parties to do the work jointly.

Mr. CAHILL said they were grateful to the county for considering them.

Mr. HALL said the committees for both Councils could meet and consider the matter.

With this understanding, after further discussion the conference ended, Mr. Burnham thanking the town representatives for attending.

A Pleasant Evening in the New Market.

The commodious new market building was the happy scene of a pleasant entertainment last evening when the concert under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. was held. The hall, which was brilliantly illuminated with electric light, was seated with chairs, while a platform had been erected against the western wall and tasteful hands had decorated the walls with flags and bunting. Around the platform choice exotics from the conservatories of Mr. F. Mason added beauty and fragrance to the scene. There was a very good attendance when the disagreeable night was considered. Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., presided as chairman and made a few opening remarks, after which the programme was proceeded with. Miss Wrighton and Mr. Clarke opened with an excellent pianoforte duet, followed by a beautiful vocal selection by Mr. and Mrs. W. Daly. A class of young ladies from the Institute gave a very clever exhibition of calisthenics, and were followed by a song by Mr. W. R. Greatrex, a vocal quartette by Miss Crane, Miss Sophy Cameron, and Messrs. J. Crane and Nelson, a violin selection by Miss Maud Edmison and an instrumental duet by Miss Gilmour and Mr. Hoover. These numbers were meritorious and all were well rendered. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served by the young ladies, small tables being supplied for the use of those who partook. While the refreshments were being served the band rendered several selections. By request Sergt.-Major Rundle's class gave a second exhibition and the pleasant evening closed.

Brevities.

—Many a pedestrian had an ignominious fall last evening. It was slippery as many can testify.

—A special meeting of Otonabee Lodge I. O. O. F., is to be held this evening for the conferring of degrees. Let there be a good attendance.

—There was an absence of business for he Magistrate at the police court this morning.

—The meeting of horsemen to consider the question of holding a winter meeting here was not held last evening. Norwood's success should give the local horsemen confidence and cause them to arrange a meeting. There is no reason why the season should pass without one.

THE SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY.

The Annual Report of the County Public School Inspector.

The annual report submitted to the County Council by Mr. J. Coyle Brown, Inspector of Public Schools, was as follows:—

To the Warden and Members of the Council of the County of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—I have the honor to lay before you the following report for 1890:—

SCHOOLS.—In the County of Peterborough there are ninety rural schools and three village schools, employing one hundred and six public school teachers.

VISITS.—During the year I made two hundred and forty-nine visits. All the sections were visited once, most twice, and a good many more than twice. In most instances notice of one visit was previously sent to the teacher, with a request to invite the trustees, parents and friends of education generally to attend and witness the inspection. The results were to me most satisfactory, particularly in the back country. An opportunity was thus afforded for asking questions and interchange of opinion that could scarcely be otherwise obtained.

BUILDINGS.—In school section No. 7, Asphodel, a new brick school house was erected in place of one that had to be pulled down in consequence of a defective foundation. I may here remark that a false economy is sometimes practiced in constructing the foundations of school buildings. A hundred dollars, say, are saved in the beginning, but several hundred are lost in the end.

The school house in No. 12, Asphodel, was burnt towards the close of the year. It was a very unsuitable structure. Steps are being taken to rebuild.

In Belmont, school section 15, embracing the village of Havelock, put up a large two story frame school house, and it was occupied after the midsummer holidays. The attendance of children was very large, particularly in the junior classes.

In Douro, No. 5 built a very fair frame school house not long ago. No. 6 is about to build, and No. 4 ought to build. The other sections of the township are very well supplied.

In Chandos a new section was formed between arms of Loon Lake. A house is to be built therein during the coming summer.

In Otonabee, No. 17, just east of the town, has a very shabby and unsuitable building. I am happy to be able to say that steps are now being taken to erect a new one more in consonance with the neighborhood and its surroundings.

I may add that in most instances the school buildings throughout the county are fairly well adapted to their purpose. The greatest defect, perhaps, is in the matter of blackboards. The art of making blackboards seems not well understood by builders.

TEACHERS.—The great majority of the teachers were of the third class. Most, therefore, had comparatively little experience. As a whole they did their work as well as the circumstances would warrant. The salaries paid teachers are not sufficient to hold good, energetic men in the ranks, and the young women get married and drop out. How to get and retain good, experienced teachers is one of the problems of the future.

ATTENDANCE.—The attendance at rural schools is very irregular. This is perhaps their weakest point. At certain seasons the services of the elder children are needed on the farm and in the house, and during these seasons mental education ceases or advances very little. It would be a great advantage if country schools were opened from April until October at eight o'clock for the larger pupils, and at two for the smaller, with a three hours session for each. I am thoroughly convinced that the smaller children would learn much faster than they do now, and that the larger, in addition to going on with their studies, would be able to do as much manual labor after 12 o'clock as ought to be exacted from them during an important period in their physical growth.

MODEL SCHOOL.—At the last term of the Model School at Norwood there were twenty-five teachers in training, a larger number than during any previous term. Two others were examined who had previously attended Model School. Most obtained certificates and are now teaching. The school has sustained no inconsiderable loss in the retirement of Mr. A. Hutchinson from the headmastership. He was an excellent disciplinarian, and was very highly thought of by his pupils in the public school and by the teachers in training. The High school, Model school, and Public school are altogether too large to be accommodated in the existing building. It is to be hoped that a new High school building will be erected, thus leaving the the present one for public and Model school purposes only.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.—At the last entrance examination in the county there were sixty-two candidates, of whom thirty-eight succeeded in obtaining certificates. Some of the literature papers were the best I ever examined, and of these several were written by candidates from the back country. Up to the present there have been two entrance examinations to the High schools annually, one in July and the other in December. Henceforth there will be only one, and that in July. This change will in my opinion prove a decided advantage to both public and high schools. The preparation in the one will be done more leisurely and thoroughly, and the classes of the other will not be broken up in the middle of the high school year as they have been hitherto.

AGRICULTURE.—A text book on this subject has been prepared and can now be purchased at any of the bookstores. From the cursory perusal made of it I am sure its introduction into country schools will do great good. Its tendency will be to make the sons and daughters of farmers think more highly of the farmer's occupation, and work more intelligently and successfully at it. It treats of the plant, soil, tillage, rotation of crops, weeds, insects, diseases of crops, principles of feeding, management of stock, dairying, the silo and ensilage, and the cultivation of forest trees for shade, ornament and protection. Should the division of time suggested in a former part of this report be adopted, pupils in country schools could attend at such an age as to be able to reap to the full all the advantages of a thorough acquaintance with this book and much beyond in the same direction. History and Political Economy may be taken up, and the intellectual status of the members of the farming community raised, so as to enable them to exercise that influence over public affairs to which their numbers and the importance of their calling entitle them.

DICTIONARY AND CYCLOPEDIA.—In every school there should be a good dictionary of the English language and a good cyclopedia. The regulations of the Education Department make it a part of the duties of Trustees to provide a standard dictionary and a gazetteer. The dictionary is all right, but the gazetteer is only a part of what is needed. Geographical terms need explanation; so also do biographical, scientific and other terms. A cyclopedia is what is wanted. Further, a very important part of the education of young people is to make them familiar with the use of books of reference. This has been and is much neglected. Comparatively few can consult such books with any considerable degree of profit. I think I am within bounds when I say that of those that have passed through the public schools of Ontario during the last ten years not one in one hundred is sufficiently acquainted with the alphabet to determine from a dictionary the pronunciation of a word with certainty. This monstrous defect in our educational results, all connected with education should endeavor to correct. To procure the works spoken of for every public school in the county is the problem I am now trying to solve. Any assistance that the Council or its members in their individual capacity may give will be thankfully received. In the near future I purpose holding conferences with the teachers on Saturdays at several central points to discuss defects and suggest remedies.

In most schools the greater part of the teacher's time is taken up with the more advanced classes. This is a great mistake. The children in the first book need more teaching than those in all the other books put together, and ought to receive it. When promoted they should be able to go on themselves. The teacher's duty to them should be to assign lessons, give directions as to how the lessons should be prepared, and see that they are prepared. The less teaching (so called) in the advanced classes the better. In graded schools the children in these classes are generally taught to death.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
J. COYLE BROWN,
P. S. Inspector.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Costly Arbitration—Funeral of a Newspaper Man.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—Yesterday morning David Bradt, a plasterer residing in Euclid-avenue, and a patient in the hospital suffering from delirium, escaped from that institution in his nightdress. To effect this he jumped from a window of the ward in which he was confined, a distance of 25 feet, to the ground, and despite the severe fall which he sustained succeeded in clambering over the fence and getting clear away. A general alarm was sent out among the police, but the man was not recaptured until 8½ last evening, when a policeman effected his arrest on the corner of Bathurst and Bloor-streets. When caught he sported a pair of pants and a coat, which he told the police had been given him by men at work on a building in North Toronto.

The city closed its case in the street railway arbitration yesterday morning. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy called Francis Pratt to give evidence in rebuttal of some of the statements of witnesses for the city. The remainder of the company's witnesses will be examined to-morrow and a date fixed for the commencement of the argument.

Up to date the arbitration has cost about $75,000. The company opened its case Sept. 22, and the arbitrators have sat 67 days, 114 witnesses have been examined, and 177 exhibits put in. The subjoined table is interesting:

The remains of James Hector Maclean, late city editor of The World, were interred yesterday afternoon in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The funeral was private, but there were many old friends and newspaper men present. Wreaths and floral tributes were numerous. They were sent by the editorial and reporting staffs of the city and Montreal papers, The World compositors and by private friends. A great many letters and messages of sympathy were received from all parts of the country by the family. The bearers were W. F. Maclean, Wallace Maclean, Alexander Findley, H. E. Smallpeice, Louis P. Kribs, J. S. Maclean. Rev. Dr. McTavish of Central Presbyterian Church conducted a short service at the house, Surrey-place, and at the cemetery

FIENDISH CRIME IN BOSNIA.

Gendarmes Discovered to Have Committed Outrage and Murder Nearly Lynched

VIENNA, Jan. 29.—A despatch from Bosna Serai, the capital of Bosnia, gives the details of a strange and horrible murder. Two gendarmes, it appears, outraged, killed and afterwards cut up the body of a young Servian girl whom they met while patroling a road passing through a thick wood. After murdering the woman the gendarmes concealed her remains in the forest and were upon the point of leaving the scene of their crime when they caught sight of an Italian woodcutter, who seemed to have been watching the whole proceeding. Upon being questioned the man admitted that he had seen the gendarmes commit the crime. Upon his promise not to say anything about it they simply arrested him as a vagrant, instead of killing him, as at first proposed.

The police officers took their prisoner to their headquarters at the gendarmerie, but upon arriving there the Italian woodcutter denounced the gendarmes and told the police officials where they could find the body of the murdered woman. The two murderers were then arrested. News of the crime soon caused a large crowd to collect in front of the police station, and when the officers who had been sent to investigate the woodman's charges returned, bearing the body of the murdered woman upon a stretcher made of branches of trees, the fury of the crowd assembled about the gendarmerie knew no bounds. They made a rush for the doors of the gendarmerie, broke into that building in spite of the efforts of the officers to stop them, and had nearly lynched the two murderous gendarmes when the latter were rescued by a number of policemen and a detachment of soldiers who had been called to quell the disturbance.

HER SIN HER DEATH.

Will Lose Her Life in Trying to Conceal Her Shame.

WINDSOR, Jan. 29.—About two weeks ago a young woman named Mary McFarlane was engaged as assistant at Hotel Dieu Hospital. She was to begin work Monday, Jan. 19, but did not appear. A few days later another girl giving her name as Maggie McFarlane called at the hospital and said her sister was sick and she had come to take her place. Maggie was put to work. Yesterday afternoon she was missed and after searching through the hospital she was finally found in a closet with the door locked. Finally the door was broken in and Maggie was found in great agony, a full grown infant with life extinct was also found. The girl was placed in bed and properly cared for. Coroner Casgrain decided to hold an inquest on the body of the infant. This morning Maggie was in a precarious condition and her recovery is considered doubtful.

The Chief Census Officers.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—The order in council appointing the census chief officers has not yet been passed, but it is understood the following gentlemen have been recommended for the positions:

Ontario—Rufus Stephenson, Chatham; Philip Mellon, Brechin, North Ontario; Andrew Broder, Dundas county, and one yet to be named.

Quebec—Everest Leblanc, Montreal; W. E. Jones, Richmond; J. N. Desilets, Three Rivers; J. Charlebois, Quebec.

New Brunswick—Edward Seer, Sussex.

Nova Scotia—J. Parsons, Halifax.

Prince Edward Island—R. Hunt, Summerside.

Manitoba—J. J. Donaldson, Winnipeg.

Northwest Territories—E. P. Richardson, Grenfell.

British Columbia—A. G. Sargeson, Victoria.

The chief officers will assemble at Ottawa on Wednesday, Feb. 4, to receive their instructions.

Escaped in their Nightclothes.

AULTSVILLE, Jan. 29.—The storehouse, shop and dwelling overhead of A. F. Nash, tinsmith, was destroyed by fire this morning. The inmates barely escaped in their nightclothes, losing all their personal effects, the accumulation of a lifetime being completely destroyed in two short hours. A subscription list was immediately started and at this time about $200 have been subscribed.

A Family Wiped Out.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—Mayor Rudiguss of Anhalt was recently convicted of embezzling municipal funds and fled to Leipsic to escape punishment. His wife and father-in-law, unable to bear the disgrace, both committed suicide. The Mayor, on hearing of their death, also killed himself.

Not the Man.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 29.—The young man giving his name as Johnstone who was arrested on suspicion of being George Goodwin, [illegible] Carp murderer, was released to-day, Detective Montgomery of Ottawa, who has [illegible] down to investigate, declaring that [illegible] the man wanted.

COPYRIGHT 1890

When Charlemagne and his "Knights of the Round Table" were making war on the Saracens, in Africa, it frequently happened that Knights on either side would fight in single combat for the honor of their respective armies. The Saracens had been, for many years, the scourge — the dreaded invaders — of Europe, and all waged war against this common enemy.

But in these days the worst scourge that threatens us, is that dread invader, Consumption.

Dr. Biggs, demonstrator of anatomy in the Bellevue Medical College, who has great opportunity for post-mortem observation, says: "It is a startling fact that of all deaths nearly one out of every seven is caused by consumption."

Consumption fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. But it must be taken before the disease is too far advanced in order to be effective. If taken in time and given a fair trial, it will cure, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an unequaled remedy.

For all diseases that arise from a torpid liver and impure blood, nothing can take the place of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Nothing will, after you have seen what it does. It prevents and cures by removing the cause. It invigorates the liver, purifies the blood, sharpens the appetite, improves digestion, and builds up both strength and flesh, when reduced below the standard of health.

For Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Scrofula, or any blood-taint, the "Discovery" is a positive remedy. It acts as no other medicine does. For that reason, it's sold as no other blood medicine is—on trial. It's the cheapest blood-purifier sold, because you only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

THE MARKET REPORTS.

The local grain market is quiet, very little offering. The principal part of what is coming in is wheat and oats, and these are selling at quotations. There are no changes in the figures from last week's, prices remaining the same. Wood and hay are offering in large quantities, the former selling all the way from $3 to $4 per load.

REACHED AN ACUTE STAGE

IRISH MEMBERS ARE GREATLY EXCITED.

Mysterious Departure of Sexton for Ennis—Prof. Tyndall Critically Ill—Particulars of the Wreck of the Shanghai—300 Burned to Death or Drowned.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—There was much excitement among the Irish members in the lobbies in the House of Commons to-night on rumors that the party dissension had reached an acute stage. Mr. Sexton had a conference with Mr. Morley and Mr. Parnell, and went to the House of Commons early with the intention of speaking on the Shaw-Lefevre motion, but to the surprise of everyone he departed at 7½, ostensibly to catch the Irish mail en route to Ennis. His departure gave rise to many conflicting reports. Some said he had decided to retire from the struggle. Others said he regarded the prospect of settlement as ended and had decided to fight to the bitter end.

The Standard says it is understood the McCarthyites are urging Mr. Gladstone to give more specific assurances regarding Home Rule than have yet been obtained.

DEATH BROKE UP THE MEETING.

A Subscriber to the Fund Drops Dead at the Opening Meeting.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—In St. James' Hall to-night Gen. Booth inaugurated the carrying into effect of the scheme of social regeneration set forth in his book "In Darkest England and the Way Out." In connection with the exercises he affixed his signature to the deed of trust drawn up in interest of the subscribers to the fund for carrying on the work. He also commissioned the first band of Salvationist officers set apart for the work.

Gen. Booth retains large powers under the deed of trust. Either himself or his successor will be supreme director of the scheme and of the moneys. Any change made must be assented to by two-thirds of the Consultative Committee. On this committee Gen. Booth will nominate six members and the Archbishop of Canterbury, the president of the Wesleyan Society, the chairman of the Congregational Union, the chairman of the Baptist Union, the Attorney-General and the chairman of the County Council will each nominate two members, one of whom may be the nominator.

George Fleming, who had donated £1000 for the furtherance of Gen. Booth's scheme, was suddenly taken ill while addressing the meeting, and died almost immediately.

French Troops Occupy Tripoli.

ROME, Jan. 30.—Telegrams from Tripoli state that several small detachments of French soldiers have occupied the Turkish villages of Nesen, Nelout, Haur and Houameh, on the ground that they lie within the frontier of Tunis. Hitherto these villages have been acknowledged to be within the Vilayet of Tripoli.

A Belgium Duel.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 30.—A duel is probable between the War Minister and Gen. Brochetoeur. In a printed interview the latter condemned the Minister's scheme for fortifying Baymur. The Minister has already sent his seconds to Brochetoeur.

Tyndall Critically Ill.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Prof. John Tyndall, whose illness was announced some days ago, is suffering from inflammation of the veins. His condition is now becoming serious.

Cable Briefs.

The Stanley cotton mill at Oldham has been destroyed by fire. Loss £65,000.

Mr. Sexton intimated in conversation last evening that a satisfactory settlement would be achieved at Boulogne-sur-Mer Monday, or at latest by Thursday.

The Irish Times says a man arrested in Tipperary, charged with illegally carrying arms, was found, on being searched, to have concealed on his person a fuse a foot long filled with gunpowder.

The steamer City of Rio de Janeiro from China brings further particulars of the burning of the steamer Shanghai Dec. 28. She had on board 400 Chinese passengers and one European and carried a cargo of cotton. The cotton caught fire and the Chinese plunged overboard and were drowned or were burned to death to the number of 300 or 325. Piracy has increased at Heihow. Twenty-six pirates have been beheaded since Dec. 30.

The Secretary's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary Windom's funeral will probably take place here on Monday from the Church of the Covenant. The interment will be made at Rock Cemetery, near the Soldiers' Home. The Treasury Department is draped in mourning. The President is very deeply grieved over the loss of his friend and this morning gave instructions to inform callers that he would see no one on business to-day.

The President and Cabinet met the train conveying the corpse at the Baltimore & Ohio Station at 4½ and it was taken to the secretary's late residence.

CARTWRIGHT AT BOSTON.

"WE DO NOT COME TO YOU AS BEGGARS."

He Makes a Strong Appeal in Favor of Reciprocity at the Annual Banquet of the Merchants' Association—A Senator from the State of Ontario.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—At the annual banquet of Boston Merchants' Association to-night Sir Richard Cartwright made an address on "Reciprocal trade relations between Canada and the United States." His arguments for reciprocity were loudly applauded. He declared free trade between the United States and Canada must benefit both countries and said: "The trade of the United States is certainly worth more to us collectively than ours is to them. But free trade with Canada will benefit quite as many of the people of the United States as of the people of Canada, and to quite as large an extent. Man for man you will gain quite as much as we will. Canada offers and Canada desires only a fair exchange and no robbery." He thought a firm and cordial alliance might well be created between these several nations which speak the English tongue, which should make it impossible they should ever again come into hostile conflict, and he hoped the peculiar position of Canada might enable her to play some part in bringing about this consummation. Sir Richard concluded by saying: "Every true Canadian does and must sincerely desire the prosperity of the United States. We recognize that to a very great extent our prosperity is bound up with yours—that we are powerfully affected by your example for good or ill, and that in spite of all mischievous legislation can do to interfere with it the progress of science and the mere fact of our geographical position are daily and hourly forcing us into even closer communication in spite of ourselves."

A Senator From the State of Ontario.

President R. B. Bullock of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce then made an address, in which he said: The ready road to reciprocity with our neighbors is to accept Sir Richard Cartwright as a Senator from the State of Ontario. Until the lines of division existing between nations are obliterated and the whole world becomes as one, each nation must guard the best interests of its people.

J. W. Longley, Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, advocated reciprocity. He said the Canadian Liberal party has adopted unrestricted reciprocity with the United States as the chief plank in its platform. That means an end to the fishery problem.

M'KINLEY AS SECRETARY.

The Ex-Member from Ohio to Succeed Senator Windom.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Star says: "There is a very general impression that Mr. McKinley will succeed Mr. Windom as Secretary of the Treasury.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Annual Meeting of the Imperial Federation League.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C., M.P., presided at the annual meeting of the Imperial Federation League of Canada held yesterday afternoon in Shaftesbury Hall. The members from a distance were: Principal Grant, Kingston; Sandford Fleming, Ottawa; John White, Woodstock; Thomas Macfarlane, Ottawa.

W. H. Lyman of Montreal sent his report as treasurer. There was a small balance on the right side. His resignation, which was tendered on account of the increasing work of the office, was accepted and the appointment of a successor left to the Executive.

A resolution was proposed by W. Hamilton Merritt and seconded by Thomas Macfarlane commending to other branches of the league in England and elsewhere the Hofmeyer scheme as a step towards closer union by the imposition of an Imperial tariff.

An amendment moved by Castell Hopkins and Principal Grant was carried by 15 to 6, as follows:

That in the opinion of the League in Canada it would promote the objects of the League if a council, to be composed of representatives of the self-governing colonies as well as the Mother Country, be convened by the British Government for the purpose of considering the practicability of improved trade relations between Great Britain and the different colonies and dependencies of the empire.

These officers were elected: President, Sir Leonard Tilley; vice-presidents Ontario—A. McNeill, M. P., D'Alton McCarthy, Q. C., M. P.; New Brunswick—Prof. R. C. Weldon, M. P., Senator Boyd; Nova Scotia—Sir Adams Archibald, Archbishop O'Brien, Lieut.-Governor Daly; Manitoba—Lieut.-Governor Shults; British Columbia—Lieut.-Governor Nelson; P. E. I.—Lieut.-Governor Carvell. The following were elected members of the Council to replace members removed by death: Larratt Smith, D.C.L., W. R. Brock, Archbishop Walsh, John I. Davidson, George Gooderham, W. F. Cowan, Oshawa. Also these are representatives on the English Council: R. R. Dobell, Sandford Fleming, Sir A. T. Galt, George R. Parkin, Sir Charles Tupper.

Smuggling Chinamen.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Jan. 30.—An agent of the United States treasury department has been here for several days investigating the reported smuggling into the United States from Port Arthur, Ont., of a large number of Chinamen. Since the beginning of winter a number of enterprising individuals have gone into the business quite extensively. The celestials are brought from Canadian ports to Port Arthur. There they are provided with transportation into the United States in sleighs and wagons. Arrests will probably be made within a day or two.

Traced a Trail of Blood.

ST. MARY'S, Jan. 30.—John Bryans, a farmer in the London-road, about three miles from St. Mary's found four of his best sheep missing and a trail of blood leading to St. Mary's. He followed the tracks to a house in the West Ward, occupied by one Michael Handerhan, and from thence through town to the residence of George Crandon. The police were notified and the houses searched. Two partially dressed carcases were found in each house, and Crandon was arrested in bed. Handerhan has not been captured.

Attempted Suicide.

OSHAWA, Jan. 30.—A woman named Carrie Gibson attempted to commit suicide by taking a dose of poison. Through exertions of doctors it is thought she will recover.

A Diamond Thief Caught.

WINDSOR, Jan. 30.—Officer Nash to-day arrested a young man named John Ladoucier, who is charged with being connected with the robbery of $7000 worth of diamonds from the Fifth-avenue Hotel in New York on Nov. 29. When searched a magnificent diamond bracelet and pin, valued at $1000, was found on his person.

An Interesting Calculation.

Some Canadian, Professor Leone Levi, has made the calculation that a man is 34 times as likely to be killed or injured by accident as to have his house burnt down. Take the hint, insure now in a safe, sound and progressive accident company—the Manufacturers' of Toronto.

A Woman Assaulted.

ORILLIA, Jan. 30.—Officers are looking for a well-dressed man, who brutally assaulted and [illegible] Miss Kate Jup, [illegible] town last night

DEATHS OUT OF THE ORDINARY.

Many Peculiar and Sudden Deaths in Ontario.

KINGSTON, Jan. 30.—This morning David Williams, nearly 80 years of age, died at the residence of his son, Manley Williams, Ontario-street. Yesterday he complained of lightness in the head. This morning dizziness returned. After taking his breakfast he walked down stairs into the back yard, when he dropped to the ground. He was carried into the house and died immediately.

Died from Excitement.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—An old man named Joseph Thompson, residing at 379 Cadieux-street, got into a row with a friend over a trivial matter, and his passionate feelings so overpowered him that he became sick and died. An inquest was held and the verdict was that he had died from syncope, asthma and excitement.

Lifeless in a Hay Mow.

LUCAN, Jan. 30.—Charles Ready of West Nissouri, aged 69, went out to the barn to do some work, and a few hours afterwards he was found lying dead in the mow. The cause of death was stagnation of the blood, and it is supposed that he died instantly.

Fell Dead on the Highway.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 30.—Mr. Richard Green, Chatsworth, feeling unusually well, set out for a short drive with his daughter. While on the way Mr. Green got out to arrange something about the harness and fell dead on the road.

Dropped Dead in the Yard.

BOND HEAD, Jan. 30.—James McGeary left his house Wednesday to do some chores in the stable. An hour later his wife found his dead body in the yard. Heart disease was the cause of death.

The Sliver Pierced His Breast.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—James Bonio of Kossuth was felling a tree yesterday on the farm of Abram Gehl near Freeport, when a sliver from it flew back, hitting him on the breast and killing him instantly.

An Assessor Drops Dead.

MARKDALE, Jan. 30.—John Whitby was chatting with his family at 11½ yesterday when he suddenly fell dead to the floor. He had been assessor of Artemesia for 13 years.

Blown to Atoms.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—Pierre Lemoine, a workman in the Hamilton Powder Company's works at Beloeil, was blown to atoms by an explosion of nitro-glycerine. Another man was severely wounded.

DOES NOT AFFECT CANADA.

The Inter-State Commission Order Only an Extension of an Old Rule.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—The Washington despatch yesterday relating to the case of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation v the Pennsylvania and other railroads, including the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways, before the Inter-State Commerce Committee, did not create much of a stir in railroad circles, the discussion being nothing more than a repetition of a former decision of this committee on exports, while this one relates only to imports.

If it goes into effect the only difference will be that the railroads reaching the seaboard will have to make their through rates the same as local ones.

Robbed His Father.

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 30.—Alfred Gunn, the 16-year-old son of Mr. H. J. Gunn, broke into his father's drawer and stole $400. He skipped out and went to Chicago, where he was traced and found. He said he had met Robert Martin, one of his chums, and had given him $150 of the stolen money. On receiving this information Constable McMicking arrested the boy, who admitted that he had hid $120 in the barn, where it was found. This is the second time young Gunn has stolen money from his father and run off to Chicago with it.

Stole a Q.C.'s Lawbook.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 30.—In searching the house the other day of a man who has since pleaded guilty to house-breaking, Chief Vaughan found in the thief's possession a copy of the criminal law, Ontario, 1887, with the name of John Crerar, public prosecutor at Hamilton, on it, and which was stolen from that gentleman. The house-breaker evidently thought there was nothing like being well posted in the law.

Trade Continues Stationary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's point out only a few instances where general trade has expanded noticeably during the past week. In the Dominion of Canada the distribution of staples appears to be relatively most active in Ontario, where wholesalers report large sales of spring goods. In the Province of Quebec trade is quite dull, though money is easy and prospects are for improvement. Collections generally are somewhat disappointing. Shoe manufacturers at Montreal and Quebec City are busy on spring orders. The Dominion of Canada had 50 failures this week against 56 last week and 50 this week last year. The total number, Jan. 1 to date, is 283 against 210 last year.

The Murderers Still at Large.

HAMILTON, Jan. 30.—There is very little new in connection with the Heslop murder case. The detectives are working away on the case and saying nothing.

The funeral of the murdered man took place this afternoon and was very largely attended. The body was taken to the Anglican Church in the village, where Rev. W. R. Clarke held a service. The County Council held no afternoon session and the members attended the funeral in a body.

Chief Aitchison makes some characteristic remarks on the tragedy: "No, I haven't got any theories. I'm not in the theory business. But I'll tell you what I'd have done if I had been one of those that arrived there after the first alarm was given. I'd have set fire to a straw stack, or even a shed, and you'd have had a crowd of people around in no time, enough to pursue them all over the country.'

Bleecher Bailed.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 30.—Fred Bleecher appeared before the magistrate this morning to answer to a charge of having disposed of his goods with intent to defraud his creditors, and William H. Lingham in particular, to the extent of $400.

The prosecution not being ready to proceed, asked for a remand for a week. The defence opposed the application, declaring their readiness to go on, but the magistrate granted the request. Prisoner was admitted to bail, himself in $1000 and one good surety of $500 or two in $250 each.

It is understood that prisoner's intention was to go into business in Toronto.

Failures of a Week.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Dun-Wiman & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number for the United States 278 and for Canada 41, or a total of 319, as compared with a total of 330 last week and 411 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 291, representing 244 failures in the United States and 47 in the Dominion of Canada.

THE PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

DISCUSSED IN THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

A Suggestion by the Irish Party That the Government use its Influence in Favor of the Settlement by Arbitration of the Disputes Calls Forth a Bitter Speech From Balfour.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Mr. Shaw-Lefevre (Liberal) moved in the House of Commons to-day that the Government use its influence in favor of the settlement by arbitration of the remaining disputes between tenants and landlords in Ireland arising from the plan of campaign. He said there were now only 20 estates upon which differences existed. Three thousand tenants had been evicted from these estates and now lived in huts, supported by contributions from Irishmen in all parts of the world in the hope that the time was coming when they would be reinstated in their houses. Farmers had become derelict and in many cases land had become a waste, covered with nettles breast high. No new tenants, he said, would ever be found for these farms and the best course to bring about a settlement was by arbitration.

T. W. Russell (Irish Unionist) said he would not oppose the principle of arbitration, but he must resist arbitration as a sort of curative lymph likely to effect a complete cure of the plan of campaign. The folly of the plan of campaign was the greatest the Parnellites had ever committed and he could understand their anxiety to get rid of the costly business through the intervention of anybody, even through the Government, whom they were accustomed to revile. The plan of campaign was not brought into operation to benefit tenantry. Its basis and aim was a social revolution and the destruction of landlordism. It was invented and used as a political machine. It was easy to talk about arbitration but quite another affair to get awards carried out. In the case of Gweedore arbitration rents had been fixed through Father McFadden, but tenants had not even paid the terms decided upon by their own friends. What was the land court but a court of arbitration? What was the use of piling arbitration upon arbitration?

Mr. Madden (Attorney-General for Ireland) held that no new reference to arbitration was wanted regarding rents. Regarding arrears the Government acted upon the principle that it should not legislate for one class of tenants.

Balfour's Scathing Arraignment.

Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, asked which of the numerous sections of the Opposition Shaw-Lefevre expected to please by a resolution which meant that the aid of Government was required to accomplish the aims of plan of campaign, and which implied a never feebler or less efficacious attempt to settle the great question than that made by Mr. Gladstone in 1881. Certainly, he said, Mr. Shaw-Lefevre could not have consulted Mr. Parnell or Mr. Gladstone. Nothing could be worse for the cause in which they were engaged than a resolution displaying to English public the seamy side of one of the most contemptible political agitations ever adopted and showing to Irish tenantry how illusory were promises of support which the agitators made four years ago. Mr. Shaw-Lefevre should leave such work to men who were adepts at the game and who were prepared to go to prison when occasion required. [Cheers.] Why were the persons engaged in the plan of campaign more entitled to this relief than English tenants? made The plan of campaign was a move in the game of revolution since 1879, and was not the spontaneous outcome of the rejection of Mr. Parnell's bill as had been asserted. Mr. Balfour attacked the plan of campaign at great length, and expressed indignation at the language which Shaw-Lefevre had used in reference to the Irish landlords. He granted that the Marquis of Clanricarde had faults, but these he contended were not sufficient to justify the plan of campaign. The tenants had a remedy in the land court for excessive rents but had not availed themselves of it. If he were an Irish landlord he would beg his bread rather than submit to the plan of campaign.

Dr. Tanner's Ire.

Dr. Charles Tanner (Nationalist) here jumped to his feet and, pointing at Mr. Balfour, exclaimed: "You are a canting snob!" but immediately afterward withdrew the expression.

The Speaker warned Dr. Tanner against a repetition of the offence.

Mr. Balfour, in concluding his speech, said if the government was insane enough to propose such an absurd bolstering of the tottering plan of campaign, the House would not be insane enough to adopt it.

Sir George Trevelyan (Liberal) said Mr. Balfour had attacked Mr. Shaw-Lefevre with great severity, but his remarks would not persuade the people of Ireland that Mr. Shaw-Lefevre was not a true and disinterested friend of Ireland according to his light—[laughter]—which were brighter light. The question ought to have received more serious and courteous treatment at the hands of Mr. Balfour. He declared that, without raising the question of the rectitude of the plan of campaign, it was sought to find means to settle the dispute in question, and it was most important for the peace of the country that they should be settled. If Irish landlords believed the plan of campaign was not defeated they were unwise to reject a proposal promising to clear away the subject of the quarrel if they thought the plan was already defeated, it would be injudicious and ill-advised to reject Mr. Shaw-Lefevre's resolution. The motion was rejected by 268 to 192.

On Trial for Murder.

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 30.—The trial of Lawrence Phelan for the murder of David F. Fee on Christmas eve resumed to-day before the Chief Justice. The charge against Joseph Silk of being accessory was withdrawn and Silk released from custody. Evidence in the case is about the same as given in the preliminary trial. Phelan maintains his composure and was to-day apparently the most unconcerned person in court. At 6 o'clock the evidence from the crown was all in and the Chief Justice decided to adjourn the case till to-morrow.

An Arkona Fiend.

ARKONA, Jan. 30.—Alma Muma, who resided alone in this village, has been for some time suspected of bringing young girls to his house, and last night sufficient evidence was obtained to prove his guilt, his victim being 15-year-old Laura Britton. He was arrested and officers had difficulty in protecting him from lynching and conveying him to Sarnia jail. The crowd afterwards proceeded to Muma's shanty, which was set on fire and burned to the ground, together with all the contents, which included a sum of money and Muma's best clothes, etc.

For Using Stamps the Second Time.

WINGHAM, Jan. 30.—Thomas Woodcock was fined $13 and costs yesterday for using postage stamps which had been previously used for the prepayment of postage. It appears this practice of using stamps a second time is becoming too prevalent and the post-office department is determined that examples shall be made of cases coming to the notice of the officials.

Married on Her Death Bed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Miss Pauline Gallier, a pretty girl of Spring-street, West Hoboken, made an engagement of marriage with Guillem Mothe, a young silk weaver, two years ago, when she was 16 years old. Recently her health failed and she is in the last stages of consumption. When Miss Gallier's physician the other day announced that she had not long to live she asked her father, Claude Gallier, to let the marriage take place. Last Tuesday evening Justice Ryerson, of Hoboken, in the presence of a few friends married the couple. The bride lay in bed and responded in a weak whisper. The bridegroom held her hand and wept. The bride smiled.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

Correspondence of the Review.

STOCK NOTES.—Mr. Jas. A. Dickson, of lot 14, con. 2, Otonabee, has just added to his stock a fine young bull, bred by Mr. F. Birdsall. "King Cole" is the name of the new purchase and Mr. Dickson will keep the animal for service at his farm. The more good stock our farmers get the better the prospects for success in the future.

REVIVAL SERVICES.—The revival services in the Bethel church here conducted by our pastor, Rev. A. C. Wilson, is being very successful. Some 40 persons have made a start for the better world, and still the glorious work goes on.

A Wonderful Man.

The London Advertiser of Jan. 21st, says:—"In order to train 30 horses to perform such marvelous manoeuvers as those given at the Grand Opera House last night Prof. Bristol must be a man possessed of wonderful powers. The horses will give performances every night this week and on Friday and Saturday afternoons. The entire troupe appears on the stage at one time and performs many peculiar feats. This entertainment is worthy the attention of every one, and lovers of horses should not miss the opportunity, as it will be their last, Prof. Bristol being now on his farewell tour. He sails for Europe in June next to be absent about three years. To train horses to do some of the simple tricks is not, perhaps, astounding, but when fancy drill by the entire company, swinging, rocking, bell-ringing, rope-walking and others are introduced, the exhibition is truly nothing short of marvelous. To see 30 animals without bridles or harness of any kind prancing around at the quiet work of command from one man is a sight which cannot but impress the onlooker with the greatness of the power bestowed on human beings over the lower animals. But such a performance would lose much of its attractiveness were it not for the funny incidents which are introduced from time to time giving the young people amusement as well as instruction. After the afternoon performances the horses hold a reception on the stage and children are given free rides." Opera House, Peterborough, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 4 and 5. Prices, 15, 25 and 50cts. 1026

ROMANCE OF A CABBAGE.

One Englishman Took a Farm and the Other a Pretty Wife.

Romance and the cabbage went hand in hand and the dainty violet and the modest lily have often opened the portals of love but it has been left to California to produce the only cabbage that has ever led to a real romance that wound up in a wedding.

Eighteen months ago, according to the unquestionable statement of Granville W. Alexander, a grain-merchant of San Francisco, as reported by the San Francisco Examiner, there stood in front of the door of one of San Francisco's real estate dealers a cabbage from San Bernardino County weighing ninety-two pounds, and said to be the largest ever raised. While this production of California's greatness was on exhibition the Oregon express landed from England two Britons, so fresh from their native soil that they walked along the dry and dusty streets with surtouts down to their ankles and their trousers rolled up to meet their coats. They were both bound for Australia. Passing along they espied the wonderful cabbage. Both men stopped short. Up went two sing'e eye-glasses.

"By Jove, old boy, but that's a doocedly large cabbage, doncherknow."

"Doocedly large," replied the second surprised son of Albion, and then they both went in and inquired of the real estate man where it was grown.

Both men were wealthy. Both men were cousins, and while unknown to them the busy hand of fate was now at work, it only seemed to the curiosity-seekers that in deciding that life would be insupportable unless they saw the land upon which this cabbage grew that they were obeying the whims of idle gentlemen in going to San Bernardino to do so. And so they went.

Englishmen as a rule are not garrulous and these two friends were no exception. Once in San Bernardino they were directed to the farm where the cabbage grew. They remained two weeks. At the end of that time one of them said to the rancher:

"I want so much of your land in a certain section. How much is it worth?"

"Four hundred thousand dollars."

It was paid for. The other friend said to the rancher:

"Your daughter is very beautiful and I love her. I want to make her my wife."

Two months ago there was a wedding at the ranch. There were a number of people present, friends of the family, and the groom threw aside his taciturnity long enough at the supper table to tell how the big cabbage had led to his happiness.

The Rights of Childhood.

Every child has a right to as cheerful a childhood as it is in the power of those standing near her to give; and every child has a right to something as valuable and necessary as food for her bodily growth, and that is food for her spiritual growth. None of the demands of fashionable or of political or of any other sort of life should be allowed to interfere with her receipt of it. This food she cannot receive if left to lower companionship than that to which she is entitled—to solitary life with one teacher, however refined that teacher may be; to exile from the daily life and thoughts of her father and mother; or if her mother sees her only in the hours of fatigue from pleasure, and never for any length of time when her faculties are brightest and at their best, and her own higher nature ready to impart its strength to her child.—Harper's Bazar.

OLLA PODRIDA.

The name of Baroness Burdette-Coutts heads the list of beautiful old women. She is described as being magnificently caparisoned and having a "strange, sweet, weak face."

Many persons believe that the hog cholera is largely due to the manner in which some feed corn. It has been repeatedly shown that hogs do better on mixed food, the corn part largely dominating when fattening.

Young calves raised by hand will be less liable to scours if the milk is heated to 180 degrees and then allowed to cool down to 100 degrees before giving to the calf. The milk should not come to a boil, but should be heated sufficiently to kill any germs of disease that may be present, as milk is often impure when it has been exposed for a while, and especially in the cellar.

Cows are milked too close to the period of calving. They are thus deprived of the privilege of supplying the embryo calf with that which is required for full and perfect development. As milk also undergoes a partial change as the period for calving arrives it is doubtless if that drawn so late and close to the time is of a quality to fit it for use. No substance varies in its composition more than milk.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger does most of her literary work on her farm, and to this retreat, which is at Bayville, Long Island, N. Y., and is called "Taleese Farm," she hies for quiet work. Two romances are about to come from Mrs. Cruger's pen, and others will doubtless follow. Stimulated by the success of "A Diplomat's Diary," and "A Successful Man." Mrs. Cruger has fixed her determination to sign her nom de plume of "Julien Gordon" to all her literary work.

An open account with the grocer, butcher and dry-goods firm is not the best privilege of a housewife. The temptation to run in debt is dangerous. Debt ruins as many households and destroys as many fine characters as rum; it is the devil's mortgage on the soul, and he is always ready to foreclose. Pay all your bills. Look every man in the face, conscious that you owe the world no more than it owes you. Be indebted for nothing but love, and, even that be sure you pay in kind, and that your payments are frequent.

Heine, the German wit and post-cynic, thus satirises the fair and gentler sex: "Oh, the women! We must forgive them much, for they love much—and many. Their hate is probably only love turned inside out. Sometimes they attribute some delinquency to us, because they think they can in this way gratify another man. When they write they have always one eye on the paper and the other on a man; and this is true of all authoresses, except the Countess Haha Haha, who has only one eye."

The refreshments served at afternoon teas were never more simple or appropriate. Nobody need hesitate about giving a reception because of table expenses, for the most exclusive and distinguished guests may be bidden to a collation of Russian tea and bread and butter. This season the refreshments at afternoons is limited to small cakes and sandwiches, relieved by different kinds of punch. There is such a variety of sandwiches on the buffet that they are frequently labelled. Pate de foi gras, cavare, cheese and savory pastes are always served when gentlemen are expected. The latest concoction is made of buttered brown bread spread with highly seasoned watercresses, pulled leaf from stem.

Let the flock-master, says the Sheep Breeder, always bear in mind that the best medicine is hay and oats, and the greatest medicine chest ever invented is a good sheep-house and a master who has gumption and force and a tireless vigilance. Years ago in our own practice we practically discarded all medicines except a little copperas in the salt (for paperskin), blue vitriol (for foul) and tar (for maggots). The man whose eyes are like the eagle's, who notes every time he goes by a sheep the color of its nose, the glint of its eyes and the suppleness of its walk, can throw physic at the dogs. The man who takes care of his flock as he ought will have very little time to bother with a sick sheep and, what is better, he will have very few to bother with.

Head of Firm—Oh, by the way, Mr. Travers, I shall have to ask you to stay in the office all day next Wednesday; I am going out of town. Travers (aside)—Hang the luck! That is the very day I had arranged to have my grand-mother die

Robinson Crusoe's Island.

The Island of Juan Fernandez, once inhabited by Robinson Crusoe, is now tenanted by a former Austrian officer, Baron von Rodth, who, after being forced by the terrible wounds which he received at the battle of Sadowa in 1866 to leave the army, grew tired of the monotony of existence in civilized Europe, and determined to devote his fortune to a life of adventure. For fifteen years past he has been living on the island of Juan Fernandez with a small colony of natives and of European deserters from civilization, and only communicating with the world once a year, when he sends his fine sailing yacht to Valparaiso for provisions and supplies.—Harper's Weekly.

Princesses in the Kitchen.

It is not generally known, says a correspondent of the Leeds Mercury, that our Queen's daughters, in addition to being excellent needlewomen, are also good cooks. When they were children they had a little kitchen of their own at Osborne, where they concocted all kinds of dishes, sweets being naturally the favorites. Here they converted into jam the fruit out of their own gardens, and turned out many a savory dish for the delectation of their brothers, all of whom had as excellent appetites as generally appertains to boys. At least, one of the princesses still continues to cook an occasional little plat, and has been heard to say that she would have made an excellent chef.

A Queer Biblical Matter

A singular experiment recently took place in Palestine to test the accuracy of Dr. Colenso's statement that the people of Israel assembled in the valley between Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim could not hear the curses and blessings delivered from the heights above them.

A party, it appears, was traveling in the neighborhood of these mountains, and two Scotchmen ascended Mount Ebal and two Welshmen Mount Gerizim, while the rest of the party remained in the valley. One of the Scotchmen read the curses, and from the opposite mountain a Welshman read the blessings. Both were easily heard below, where the party added the amens. Both readers were perched upon natural platforms near the summits.

Convicts in France.

It is stated that while foreigners in France number three per cent. of the population they are eleven per cent. of the convict class. In 1887, 1247, and in 1888 1279 foreigners were convicted, the number of English being fifty-one and fifty-three respectively. Italians head the list in 1888 with four hundred and eighty-five, then come two hundred and forty-eight Belgians, one hundred and ninety-two Germans, eighty-six Spaniards, eighty-six Swiss, and after the fifty-one English come forty-three Austrians.

The Strangers.

He entered; but the mask he wore
Concealed his face from me.
Still something I had seen before
He brought to memory.

Who art thou? What thy rank, thy name?
I questioned, with surprise,
"Thyself," the laughing answer came.
"As seen of other eyes."

Fisk Jubilee Singers.

Berlin Daily News says:—"The entertainment given by these Tennesseean warblers was fully up to the popular expectation. The company is composed of good material and several of the company had exceptionally fine voices. Miss Gatewood has one of the richest soprano voices we have yet heard and her singing of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was about the best piece of the evening. Her encore "Polly, the Cows are in the Corn," was also exceedingly good. Mr. Jenkins, the basso, took well in the laughing song. Most of the choruses were good, particularly "Roll, Jordan Roll." The organist Mr. Chaverts who has a reputation as a basso profundo, did not put in his oar except at rare intervals, but will be the attraction this evening in their second entertainment at the town hall. The company deserved the very full house which greeted them." 1426

Eat, Drink and be Merry.

The man and woman who can eat and drink with comfort, profit and pleasure, and not only appear merry to outsiders, but have that mirth in the heart every day, possess a blessing that wealth cannot purchase. We know of the wealthy and those revelling in the lap of luxury who merely live and breathe; they are dyspeptic, emaciated and colorless, and do not possess the necessary vitality for proper digestion. They have a repugnance—a hatred for food, and the most tempting delicacies cannot influence or whet the appetite. We often find the condition of these dyspeptics aggravated with some form of nervousness, headache and mental depression. These are serious and alarming symptoms and require immediate attention. For all such sufferers, whether wealthy or struggling for daily bread, Paine's Celery Compound comes in as the great reorganizer of the system, and the great appetite producer. It tones up and strengthens the digestive organs, renews the nerve and brain power and produces a healthy vim, snap and energy never before possessed. Scores of testimonials attest the value of this great Compound in all the above mentioned troubles, and give proof that those who were once unable to enjoy life now eat, drink and are full of true pleasure and mirth.

An Italian and an Arabian.

Trouble has again occurred in the Italian colony on Aylmer-st. This time the quarrel which caused the police to carry fear among the natives of the land of the blue sky was between an Arabian, whose unpronounceable name is simplified by being charged to John Simone, and an Italian by the name of Deeve Heim. The two were playing a game of checkers when the Italian thought he saw the native of the land of deserts was cheating. The Italian knocked the checker board into the air and the Arabian struck him. The Magistrate dismissed the case, after getting the evidence with much difficulty, and gave the men a warning.

Local Legal.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Thursday in the High Court of Justice judgment was given in the case of Coughlin vs. Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation of Peterborough. The case is reported as follows:—"Coughlin v. Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation of Peterborough.—Judgment on appeal by the defendant from an order of the Master in Chambers striking out the third paragraph of the statement of defence. The action was brought to recover $1,000 money lent. The paragraph in question set up that the plaintiff was the widow of one Martin Coughlin, deceased, who by his will bequeathed to the defendant $800, and that the sum lent by the plaintiff to the defendant was part of the estate of Martin Coughlin, and at home in the hands of the defendant, etc. Appeal dismissed and order of Master affirmed, with costs to the plaintiff in any event. No order made upon application of defendant to consolidate this with a cross-action, but the defendant to be at liberty to apply again for that purpose. Masten for the defendant. Stone (Peterborough) for the plaintiff."

DR. KOCH'S LYMPH IS HERE.

A Supply Received for the Nicholls Hospital—Patients Will be Treated After Monday Next.

Dr. Koch's celebrated lymph has reached Peterborough, a supply of this precious liquid having been obtained for the Nicholls hospital. This supply will be replenished from time to time as demand may require, such arrangements having been made. The fact that the Nicholls hospital is one of the first public institutions outside of the cities to receive a supply of the lymph speaks well for the energetic efforts of the Hospital Board and the medical staff, who are ever anxious to relieve or alleviate the sufferings of the afflicted in the community by obtaining and giving patients the benefit of all the best and latest remedies and instruments that science is always bringing to the assistance of the medical faculty.

Some time ago it was announced that Dr. McCallum, of Toronto, had been placed in charge of a quantity of the Koch lymph by the Government for distribution among public institutions of the country when application was made for it. Seeing this Dr. Boucher made application on behalf of the Nicholls Hospital and received a reply that when the necessary instruments for the proper use of the liquid had been procured a supply of the lymph would be forwarded. The Hospital Board immediately sent to New York, and last evening the necessary instruments for making the inocculation of the lymph arrived here. A telegram to this effect was sent to Toronto, and word was received that the liquid would be forwarded at once, and it was duly received to-day.

Therefore, after Monday next the Nicholls Hospital will be prepared to receive for inocculation cases which the lymph is intended to benefit. Those who are suffering from consumption or are afflicted with tubercular diseases of the bone or skin are most likely to be benefitted by the new treatment.

The experiments with the lymph in other cities has made every newspaper reader familiar with its nature and the mode of its inocculation. In the General Hospital in Toronto some fifteen or more cases are now under treatment with the German doctor's new remedy, and the cases are being watched closely. It is probable that now when the means for making the inocculation have been procured that there will be many applicants for treatment.

An Escape and a Complaint.

Mrs. (Squire) Breckenridge, of Westwood, was struck by the mail sleigh at the G.T.R. station this morning and narrowly escaped being run over. Mrs. Breckenridge complained to the police that the young man driving the sleigh was going dangerously fast and totally regardless of the crowd.

At the Opera House.

The Belle Stevenson Dramatic Company put "Mountain Pink" on the boards at the Opera House last evening before a very good audience. The presentation was very creditable and the audience was appreciative. After the play the specialties were given and a laughable after piece closed the evening's entertainment. To-night will be the farewell performance.

In the Finance Committee.

At the session of the Finance Committee of the County Council yesterday afternoon a couple of letters or petitions were read from Richard Crowe, making charges in respect to the expenditure on the ninth line of Dummer in 1884 under the Reeve, Mr. Kidd, and also in regard to the payment of the physician for examining Mr. Kidd's son when committed as a lunatic, and asking for an investigation. Mr. Kidd started to make a statement in regard to the physician's account, but members said they had heard the matter before and did not wish to take up time with it again, and it was dropped. In regard to the $180 expended on the ninth line Mr. Kidd read a statement which showed that, including expenses, $112 had been expended. He had, he said, receipts and vouchers for the expenditure, and he courted the fullest enquiry. On motion, Mr. Kidd was requested to file the statement and vouchers with the Clerk.

Mr. Burnham presented a petition from the Sisters of St. Joseph's asking the Council to make a grant to St. Joseph's Hospital in Ashburnham, as it took care of sick and indigent persons of all creeds. Mr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Moloney, that a grant of $200 be made, but the motion was lost.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d16w4 6mo

Notes From St. John's.

Miss Patterson on her return from Lakefield on Monday addressed a meeting of the Children's Missionary Guild at Mrs. Butler's.

A baptismal service will be held in the South Ward Mission next Thursday evening, Feb. 5th, at 7.30 p.m.

This week's meeting of the Men's Church Extension Union was well attended and enthusiastic. After the Bible reading a long and interesting discussion took place on "The Brotherhood of men in the church and its practical realization." The general opinion expressed was that the great obstacle to this was not pride, but diffidence about making advances. It was resolved to make great efforts in this direction.

The Sunday school teachers met at the Rector's on Thursday for their monthly conference.

The St. Andrew's Brotherhood will on Tuesday meet to elect delegates to the Canadian convention in Toronto on Feb. 7th, 8th and 9th. It is probable that there will be at least five representatives from Peterborough.

The monthly children's service will be held to-morrow at 3.30 instead of last Sunday.

The Lenten course of Wednesday evening lectures for 1891 has now been fully arranged. Several new names will be found in the list of speakers, which, as in former years, includes some of the most eloquent clergymen in the Church in this Province. This will be the third series of these Wednesday lectures, which were begun in 1889. The list of speakers and subjects will be published on the 8th inst.

The Rev. S. Daw, Rector of Christ Church, Belleville, will preach to-morrow in St. John's morning and evening. Under Mr. Daw's ministry Christ church has enjoyed remarkable prosperity. Mr. Daw comes to Peterborough on the pressing and long-standing invitation of the Rector. In the morning he will refer to Congregational Finances and their relation to spiritual welfare.

Rev. J. C. Davidson has gone to Belleville where he will take duty to-morrow, and on Monday institute a Chapter of the St. Andrew's Brotherhood.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free. At all druggists.

BUSINESS TAX BY-LAW

IS NOT ENDORSED BY THE BOARD OF TRADE.

A Lengthy Discussion—A Motion Recommending the Passing of the By-law Defeated—A Motion Condemning the Present Legal Enactment Carried—A Railway Extension to Young's Point—An Important Meeting.

The business tax which has been made a live question in town by the by-law providing for its introduction here, which was brought into the Town Council by Councillor Davidson, furnished the subject for a lengthy discussion at the meeting of the Board of Trade held in the Council Chamber last evening. Mr. W. H. Meldrum, President, was in the chair and among those present were Messrs. Adam Hall, Peter Hamilton, Jas. Kendry, J. R. Stratton, R. Innis, Geo. Hilliard, F. H. Dobbin, D. W. Dumble, Robt. Fair, W. H. Hill, Ed. Peplow, W. H. Meldrum, McFarlane Wilson, W. A. Sanderson, R. Mulholland, Wm. Manson, R. McWhinnie, A. V. R. Young, Chas. Taylor, Geo. A. Schofield, R. B. Rogers, H. S. Macdonald, F. J. Lewis, R. Hay, W. Blackwell, H. LeBrun, R. Kingan, T. E. Bradburn, B. Shortly, D. Breese and F. Foote.

The Secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were duly confirmed.

HUNTING INDUSTRIES.

The Secretary had sent out communications to several large manufacturers setting forth the advantages of Peterborough as a manufacturing site and its transportation facilities and replies that had been received were read. Some of these were more or less favorable and others were not contemplating any change of location.

RAILWAY EXTENSION.

The Secretary read a letter which has appeared in the local press in regard to extending the railway to Young's Point. The letter pointed out the material which was awaiting a railway to be brought into the market and also referred to the advantages a railway would be to Young's Point.

Mr. J. R. Stratton moved that the Secretary bring the communication before the General Manager of the Grand Trunk and ask him to take the matter of an extension of the company's line from Lakefield to Young's Point into consideration.

Mr. Hilliard thought the route of the railway might be considered before the motion was carried. He was of opinion that a very fine route could be secured from Lakefield, via Young's Point to Burleigh and Irondale. It might be better, perhaps, to have the C.P.R. carry this extension to Young's Point than the G.T.R.

Mr. Stratton did not think his motion would interfere with Mr. Hilliard's proposition. He said he believed that the Grand Trunk would some day extend its line to Young's Point and he referred to the claims which the Point had for the railway connection.

Mr. Stratton's motion was amended authorizing the secretary to send the communication to the C. P. R. as well as the G. T. R. Mr. Dumble was satisfied that the extention would bring traffic to the town and open up the granite quarries in the back country, and after some further discussion the motion as amended carried.

THE BUSINESS TAX.

The report of the Mercantile Committee, of which Mr. E. Peplow is chairman, was read. The report was of a meeting at which the question of the Single Tax by-law had been considered. The committee, after having the by-law explained to them and discussing the matter, thought that they had not had sufficient time to consider a question of such importance or sufficient information to come to a satisfactory conclusion and resolved to bring the matter before the whole Board.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The report of the Railway and Canals Committee was read, which stated that it had been moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Innis,—That inasmuch as the Peterborough Board of Trade have every reason to believe that the report of the Royal Commission is favorable to the construction of of the Trent Valley Canal, that Messrs. Kendry, Cahill, Hamilton, Burnham, and mover and seconder wait upon the County Council on the morning of the 31st of Jan., 1891, to ask them to join the Town Council and Board of Trade in sending a deputation to Ottawa regarding the prosecution of work upon the Trent Valley Canal. The report also stated that it had been moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Kendry,—That the secretary be instructed to communicate with the Town Council asking their co-operation in regard to asking the Government to give Peterborough an earlier Toronto mail service.

These two reports were received and the President invited discussion on the first.

THE BUSINESS TAX QUESTION.

Mr. Hilliard said he was one of the committee who had objected to the by-law. He believed that the matter had been sprung upon the people. As he understood the by-law he thought it would be an injustice to certain men. It was putting the tax upon the stock, which was now upon the building. This would be taxing the poor man, who did not own his whole stock, and letting the rich man escape. There might be an apparent injustice in the present system, but as Dan O'Connell had said there had never been an act framed that you could not drive a team and coach through and this was one of them.

CONDEMNING THE LEGISLATURE ENACTMENT

Mr. Dumble was the next speaker. He said there were two classes affected by the by-law. The one, the rich merchant, who wanted to take a little tax off himself and put a little more on the poor man. The other was the poor man, who was opposed to it because it would cost him more. The merchants, whose pockets were affected, were not the persons to decide the matter, but the people should pass upon it. Mr. Dumble attached the legal enactment that allowed an unfair state of things by which goods could be brought into a town, destroying legitimate trade, and escape taxation here or in Montreal or Toronto. He believed this state of affairs was an injustice, but the business tax did not meet the evil or did not give the people a dollar more, but just put more taxes on the poor merchant. The by-law did not meet the case and he was entirely opposed to it. He moved:—"That in the opinion of this Board the provision of the Assessment Act which provides for the exemption of personal property from taxation to the amount of the indebtedness against the same is not sound in principle and is unjust in its operation, that the Assessment Act should be so amended as to make such property fully liable to the municipality in which it is situate as to assessment without regard to indebtedness in respect thereof, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Provincial Legislature."

ANOTHER POINT TOUCHED ON.

Mr. Kendry agreed with Mr. Dumble in the main, but he pointed to the case of the man who held a mortgage on a piece of land, and yet did not pay a tax on it, while the mortgagor or paid interest on his borrowed money and taxes on the land.

Mr. Dumble replied that a land transaction in which he had borrowed money was a speculation of his own, but he instanced a merchant who came in with $1,000 and got $9,000 credit, and competed with the merchant who had paid $10,000 cash for his stock and was paying his taxes, while the first man escaped the tax and could sell relatively cheaper. This was an unfair state of affairs due to the legal enactment. He held that the man who got the privileges and conveniences of the municipality should pay his share of the cost of these conveniences.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

Mr. Davidson, the father of the by-law, was then heard and stated that the by-law was founded on a recent act of the Legislature, and while it might not meet the whole evil, yet it was a step in the right direction. There was a certain municipal expenditure directly benefitting the merchants, and he thought the cost of these benefits, equally enjoyed, should be equally shared. Mr. Dumble had said all goods should be taxed and he agreed with him.

Mr. Dumble admitted that the principle of equality was a good one, but the by-law did not go far enough. A step was always a putting off of the day of remedy.

Mr. Davidson took Mr. Dumble's illustration of the man with the $10,000 stock and asked if it was fair for one merchant to bonus another.

Mr. Hilliard again spoke against the tax, and held while there was an injustice, yet the by-law would be a greater evil. He seconded Mr. Dumble's motion.

THE TAX ON MORTGAGES.

Mr. Peplow said he favored the motion in part, but would not go so far as to throw out the measure entirely. The Legislature had placed the Act upon the statute books, and if it was not taken advantage of the Legislature would say when asked for a whole remedy, "We gave you part and you did not use it." They should take advantage of what they were given and then strike for more. He wanted to see all stocks taxed equally. A tax on a mortgage would be a double tax on the land directly. He would try to get at the income of the man who held the mortgage and tax that.

Mr. Kendry did not favor or oppose the by-law, but simply wanted to get information so that he could vote intelligently on the by-law in the Council. He did not think it an injustice that the man with the $10,000 stock paid for should be taxed for the whole, while the man with only $1,000 invested and $9,000 credit escaped, for the man who bought for cash could buy at from 2½ to 5 per cent discount.

FROM THE PEOPLE'S STANDPOINT.

Mr. Dumble pointed out that they should discuss the matter from the standpoint of the people, not of the merchants. Both the merchant with the capital and the man working on credit enjoyed the same privileges from the municipality and should pay equally for same. The Councillors had to consider the question from the standpoint of the whole community.

FROM EXPERIENCE.

Mr. Adam Hall from his own experience under the personal tax said he knew he had been paying a personal tax while some in opposition to him got off almost free. In this way he was paying his neighbor's taxes, or paying a bonus to his opposition to carry on business. The business tax he believed was a good move and equalized the taxation to men who were doing business in similar stores. He would move in amendment that the Board of Trade recommend the Town Council to pass the Business tax by-law.

Mr. W. H. Hill seconded this motion.

THE BANK STOCKS.

Mr. Foote asked what was the difference between the tax on bank stock and tax on a merchant's stock. The man with $10,000 in stock should not be on an equality with the man with $10,000 in gold on which he had to pay no insurance or rent.

Mr. Lewis, of the Bank of Montreal, said the bank paid a tax on its stock where it was established. The Bank of Montreal paid its tax in Montreal.

Mr. W. H. Hill supported Mr. Hall's amendment, submitting an argument to show that one merchant might invest his money in other ways and leave his stock unpaid for and escape taxation, while his neighbor paid for his and was taxed. The business tax would only be a step towards what they would soon have.

Considerable further discussion followed, during which questions were asked but nothing knew was forthcoming.

The amendment of Mr. Hall was defeated by one vote, and Mr. Dumble's motion was carried.

NEW MEMBERS.

The report of the Railway and Canal Committee was then adopted, and on motion the names of Messrs. A. A. Cox, R. B. Hall, Wm. Fitzgerald and H. C. Rogers were nominated for membership.

The Board then adjourned.

Facts From the Assessment Roll.

To the Editor of the Review

Sir,—At the Board of Trade meeting last night I understand that Mr. Adam Hall said that he was taxed for the full amount of his stock and that his opposition paid practically nothing and that he objected to paying a bonus to keep his opposition in business. Now, I have taken the trouble this morning to look up the assessment roll, and I find that last year W. G. Bain & Co. were assessed for $7,000 on real estate and $3,000 on personal property, a total of $10,000. At the same time Mr. Adam Hall was assessed $6,300 for his store, $1,200 on his storehouse on Simcoe-st., and $2,000 on personal property in both places, a total of $9,500, or $500 less than we paid taxes on. This does not look as though he paid any bonus to keep us in business, when we paid more taxes on our business than he did on his.

I wish, also, to state that I am personally in favor of the business tax, as our taxes would be reduced $6.25 on our present assessment.

Yours truly,
W. G. BAIN.

BRADLAUGH DEAD.

Bradlaugh Passes Away on the Anniversary of Tom Paine's Birth.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Charles Bradlaugh died at 6 o'clock this morning. Mr. Bradlaugh's end was quiet and peaceful. He was insensible when he died and seemed to suffer no pain. The immediate cause of death was uraemia. The funeral will take place Tuesday. There will be no funeral procession, no show of mourning and no religious services.

Mr. Bradlaugh had been unconscious since Tuesday. It has been decided that his body shall be cremated.

Charles Bradlaugh was born in London East Sept. 26, 1833. His father of the same name was a solicitor's clerk. The deceased was educated in elementary schools, after leaving which he became successively errand boy, coal-dealer, Sunday school teacher and free thought writer and lecturer. In 1850 he enlisted in the 7th Dragoon Guards and after serving a time in Ireland procured his discharge in 1853 and returned to London. Here he took up his father's occupation. It was through his secularist views that he became publicly known. He entered into controversies with clergymen and other defenders of orthodoxy. In 1868-9 he fought a great successful battle in the courts against the Attorney-General, who was prosecuting The National Reformer.

Mr. Charles Bradlaugh was returned to Parliament as one of the members for Northampton in 1880. His claim to affirm in lieu of taking the oath of allegiance led to a long and exciting controversy in and out of Parliament. He claimed the right to affirm, but a select committee decided that the claim was inadmissible. He then decided to take the oath, but the House refused to allow him to do so, and he was removed by the sergeant-at-arms and committed to the Clock Tower. Later, he administered the oath to himself. An affirmation bill was subsequently introduced by the Government, and lost by a majority of 3. Three times during the dispute Mr. Bradlaugh was unseated, expelled and resigned his seat, and was re-elected. At the general election of 1886 he was again returned for Northampton and was permitted to take the oath.

Mr. Bradlaugh sympathized with France in 1870. In Parliament he has taken frequent part in debates. He represented the labor and free thought element. A striking example of how a man may live down or change the current of public opinion is given in Charles Bradlaugh's later life, and a no less noteworthy instance of the generosity of that public opinion in England is the unopposed motion made this very week in the House of Commons for the expunging from the records of the House of the expulsion of Mr. Bradlaugh.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

The local grain market is quiet, very little offering. The principal part of what is coming in is wheat and oats, and these are selling at quotations. There are no changes in the figures from last week's, prices remaining the same. Wood and hay are offering in large quantities, the former selling all the way from $2 to $4 per load.

KILLED IN A COLLISION.

SAD DEATH OF A CONGREGATIONAL CLERGYMAN.

Suffocated by Coal Gas—Two Warnings to Youngsters, One Beheaded by a Train, the Other Killed by Falling From a Sleigh.

NEWCASTLE, Feb. 1.—A granddaughter of Joseph Gibson living here was surprised on returning home yesterday to find the house locked and no sign of life about the place. She procured an ax and broke the door in. The smell of coal gas was stifling, but she made her way to the rooms of her grandparents and was horrified at seeing Mrs. Joseph Gibson dead beside her husband. He, also, was nearly gone. A doctor was summoned and succeeded in bringing Mr. Gibson round. The body of Mrs. Gibson was quite cold when found and she must have been dead for hours. Mr. Gibson being a very old man his recovery is doubtful. It seems Mr. Gibson had put coal in the stove just before retiring on Friday evening and neglected to close the cover on the top.

Blew Himself to Atoms.

PEMBROKE, Feb. 1.—On Friday last Mrs. George Cotnam, jr., went out to call Harold Waring, whom she supposed, was attending to his duties about the farm, and was shocked to find him lying near the stable door a horrible spectacle to behold. Judging from the surroundings and position of the body, Waring must have had a vessel containing an explosive, which is thought to have been nitro-glycerine, on the ground between his knees, and was sitting or stooping over it when by some means or other it exploded. The hands were blown off at the wrist, the thighs torn into shreds and the face torn beyond recognition. Portions of his body, fingers, etc., were found imbedded in the woodwork, the body flung quite a distance and a large hole made in the snow where the explosion took place. Waring, who was about 18 years old, had obtained some nitro-glycerine some time ago, and as he was known to be fond of experimenting with the deadly compound, it is presumed that he accidentally exploded the substance himself.

Many Coasting Accidents.

GUELPH, Feb. 1.—These coasting accidents occurred yesterday: W. H. Jacomb, License Commissioner, was struck by a sleigh and thrown into the air, falling with such force as to smash his left leg badly between the knee and the ankle. He was then struck on the head by a sleigh following, which gave him a bad cut over the left eye, which bled freely. George Hastings, Queen-street, employed in Bell's brick factory, ran into a willow tree at the side with such force that he remained unconscious for a time. He was badly shook up, cut about the head and bruised about the body. A young son of Mr. George Whetstone, Albert-street, lost control of his bob and ran into an electric light pole. His face was very badly bruised and cut by striking the pole, and he could hardly stand. He had to be driven to his home. Willie, a 6-year-old son of Mr. T. W. Whiting, was run into by a sleigh, knocked down and had one of his shin bones splintered.

Beheaded by a Train.

MINDEN, Feb. 1.—Harry Hales, aged 11, son of William Hales, fell from a train while stealing a ride in the F. & P.M. yards and was instantly killed. The head of the little fellow was severed from the trunk, the wheels having passed diagonally over the body, cutting it in twain from below the left ear to a point on the right side below the arm. The body was also otherwise terribly mangled, a part of the lung and small portions of the trunk being found upon the ground after the head and body were picked up.

Death of Dr. Stevenson.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—Rev. Dr. Stevenson died this morning at 5 o'clock under peculiarly distressing circumstances at the Protestant Insane Asylum. He was one of the principal figures in the Canadian Congregational Church and one of its most eloquent ministers. He resigned his pastorate of Emmanuel Church here three years ago and took up a charge in London, Eng. He relinquished the place last fall and returned to Montreal where he remained till his death.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.—Winter set in to-day in dead earnest, and the thermometer dropped to 24 degrees below.

MASSACRED BY NATIVES.

SPANISH TROOPS KILLED IN THE CAROLINE ISLANDS.

A Cabinet Crisis in Italy Results in the Resignation of Signor Crispi—A Revolution in Portugal Quickly Suppressed by the Loyal Troops.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Advices from Singapore report the arrival at Manila of the Spanish steamer Don Juan with news of another terrible massacre of Spanish troops and residents in the Caroline Islands. It appears that the natives, without warning, fell on the Spanish garrison, killing some 90 soldiers and civilians. The Spaniards thereupon attacked the native fort. It is said the natives fought with singular bravery, but were eventually driven into the jungles, where the difficulties of the Spaniards were increased, as the bush and undergrowth are very thick, and the savages had covered the ground with man-traps, added to which their costume in war time consists of green leaves which makes them very difficult to see against the green foliage, while their superior size and strength and the fact that they are armed with Remington rifles and are as active as monkeys, placed the Europeans at still further disadvantage. Nevertheless the loss on the native side is said to have been very large. The Spanish commander was among the slain. He shot himself in a moment of frenzy caused by mortification over his defeat.

CABINET CRISIS IN ITALY.

The Prime Minister in Italy Steps Down and Out.

ROME, Feb. 1.—In the debate in the Chamber of Deputies on the spirit taxes bill Signor Crispi, the Prime Minister, urged that the taxes proposed by the Government were imperatively necessary to prevent Italy from falling again to the servile condition she was in as regards foreign power in 1878.

The Conservative members of the chamber who were in office in 1874 protested in an uproarious manner against the language of the Prime Minister. Finally the present Minister of Public Works, who was a member of the cabinet in 1874, left the treasury bench amid much enthusiasm on the part of the Conservatives.

Signor Crispi was greatly agitated and became deathly pale. He tried to explain his words, but he could not be heard above the howl of his opponents. The bill was finally rejected, a large majority of the members voting against it.

When the result of the vote was made known Signor Crispi announced that he would resign. The crisis is complete. It is doubtful whether Signor Crispi will be able to reconstruct the cabinet.

All the French papers rejoice at the downfall of Signor Crispi and say that the greatest enemy of France and Italy has come to the ground and that Frenchmen and Italians can now clasp hands sincerely since the last statesman in the Triple Alliance has disappeared.

PROMPTLY SUPPRESSED.

A Revolutionary Uprising in Portugal Put Down by the Troops.

OPORTO, Feb. 1.—The insurgents to the number of 400 assembled at 4 o'clock in the morning, and with much cheering paraded through the principal streets. They made an attempt to seize the prefecture of police and the central telegraph office. Their plans, however, were frustrated by the municipal guard, who made repeated charges on the insurgents and repelled their attacks. Meanwhile the Civil Governor transferred his authority to the troops, when the few civilians supporting the rebels dispersed. The latter then proceeded to the Hotel de Ville, fortifying the structure to the best of their ability in the short time at their command, but lacking ammunition they speedily submitted in response to an artillery bombardment. The number of the killed and wounded on both sides, including civilians, is variously estimated at from 20 to 50. Some of the rebels escaped, but surrendered later. The Municipal Guards subsequently occupied the Hotel de Ville and at once hauled down the flag of the Republican Federal Club which the rebels had hoisted on the building. Six or seven officers of an inferior grade took part in the revolt, which was of a distinctly Republican character. It is alleged that the civilian leader in the revolt was a lawyer named Alves Veiga. By 3 o'clock in the afternoon the revolt had been entirely suppressed, but the department has been declared in a state of siege. Gen. Searnichia has arrived in Oporto.

Great Havoc Occasioned.

OPORTO, Feb. 1.—Perfect quiet reigned in this city to-day. Government reinforcements have arrived from all parts of the country. Three hundred civilians and soldiers were arrested to-day. All of the Republican clubs have been closed and all of the Republican newspapers have been seized by the Government.

The government, suspecting that there was discontent in the Oporto garrison, had issued orders for the transfer of several officers there to other regiments. This action, together with the recent imprisonment of the editor of The Republica Portuguesa, expedited the outbreak. Oporto has been declared in a state of siege for one month. Twenty persons were killed in yesterday's fight.

A decree is published suspending the habeas corpus act and authorising the suppression throughout the country of journals prejudicial to the state. The Republican papers Patria and Debates have already been suppressed.

The insurgents counted on simultaneous risings at Coimbra, Braga and Vizeu and were only waiting for the departure of the troops to attack the capitol.

The front of the Town Hall and several buildings in other streets, where conflicts took place yesterday, are much damaged and battered. The King's portrait, which hung in the Town Hall, was destroyed by the rebellious soldiers who made the building their stronghold. Several of the soldiers who were wounded in the conflict died to-day.

It is estimated that 24,000 shots from rifles and machine guns were fired during the fighting.

The Abbe St. Nicholas, a parish priest of this city, was arrested to-day, charged with being concerned in the insurrection, as he was leaving his church after mass.

What Caused the Explosion.

SCOTTDALE, Feb. 1.—The State Legislative Committee investigating the cause of the recent disaster in the Mammoth mines say they have learned that an unexpected fall of slate liberated a pocket of gas or fire damp which rushed out upon the open lamps of the miners and exploded, killing all in the chambers. It is understood the committee will closely investigate the use of open lamps where gas is known to exist.

Perished on the Prairie.

MOOSEJAW, Feb. 1.—A lad named Albert Harry Case, whose father formerly lived in Perth, strayed away from home and became lost on the prairie. His body was found yesterday, the lad having perished from exposure.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Couple of Sudden Deaths—Peculiar Accident.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—William Briscoe, aged 70, a carriage builder, who lived at 151 Spadina-avenue, died Saturday afternoon while sitting in an orchestra chair in the Grand Opera House. Death resulted from heart disease.

Mr. C. H. Riggs, dentist, was smoking Saturday night at his residence, Sherbourne-street, when suddenly his pipe flew into fragments and the globe of the gasolier was smashed. Mr. Riggs himself had a quantity of nicotine forced down his throat. When he recovered from the fright he began to investigate the cause of the explosion. On the carpet was picked up a "22" cartridge shell, and in a corner of the room was the bullet it had contained. A cartridge must have found its way into the tobacco canister and was scooped into the pipe.

Theodore Braun, alias Charles Miller, formerly proprietor of Stanelands's restaurant and bar, King-street west, and president and treasurer of the Liederkranz Club, has disappeared, owing some $7000. O'Keefe & Co. are claimants for $2000, Charles Steinle $550 borrowed money and Michael McConnell $400 for liquors. Some months ago Braun sold out his business to Elliott & Best, but the amount he realized from the sale was swallowed up in chattel mortgages.

At a meeting of the judges at Osgoode Hall on Saturday Miss Catharine Sedlier of Hamilton was appointed a special examiner for the County of Wentworth. This is the first case on record of a young lady having been appointed to this position.

Gilbert A. Lockhart, a clerk in the Bank of Montreal, while leaning out of the window on the second floor of his residence in College-street, at 1 o'clock this morning, overbalanced and fell to the ground, a distance of about 20 feet, lighting on his head. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and carried into the house. He may die.

William Irwin of Rossley, near Orangeville, a patient who had been in the Toronto Hospital for six months, and upon whom the Koch treatment had proved ineffectual, died in the police ambulance while being taken to the Home for Incurables Saturday afternoon. A coroner will investigate.

THE CAT-O-NINE TAILS.

A Prisoner Whose Back Was Made to Look Livid.

KINGSTON, Feb. 1.—One month ago James McRae, alias McGuire, was sent to the penitentiary from Toronto to serve five years. For the first time in connection with such a sentence the court ordered the man to be lashed, twenty at the end of one month and the remainder at the termination of three months. The whipping occurred at 11 o'clock yesterday in the prison dome. As soon as the time came for the work a stout officer stepped to the side of the convict with a cat-o' nine tails in his hand. Then the word of command was given and the cat swung through the air. It came down with a swish on the white back of the offender, and a livid line was seen across the skin. The successive nine lashes seem laid on without stint. Another officer then stepped forward and the second consignment was given with equal force. The upper part of the back grew darker in hue and the impression of the lash stood out in bold relief. Before the twenty cuts were laid on the flesh looked broken and blood oozed out of the swollen lines. McRae was stoical. From the first to the last he received them without an outcry or even wincing, and the punishment was by no means light. His back was covered and he was returned to his cell to meditate over the matter. The convicts who had been marshalled to witness the whipping were much impressed.

An Atrocious Crime.

LANSING, Feb. 1.—The body of an unknown girl, hardly more than a child, to-day lay upon an extemporized bier in an undertaker's office in Dimondale, a village seven miles south of Lansing. The body, entirely denuded of clothing, was found last night in Grand River, three miles south of Dimondale, by two farmers. Looking through a hole in the ice they observed entangled in the branches of a fallen tree below the surface the corpse of a young girl not over 14 years of age. The ice had been broken and the body apparently tossed in carelessly with the expectation that the swift current would carry it down stream, but the tree limbs had caught it and held it fast. When the body was removed from the river an hour later it was evident that it had been thrust into the water but a few hours before and that it had been disposed of almost immediately after death. Beyond dark marks upon the throat there was no trace of violence. It was the corpse of a slender child, with dark brown hair and eyebrows, large brown eyes and a fair and attractive face. Doctors testified positively that the girl was dead before the body was thrown into the river, and that, to the best of their belief, death was caused by strangulation from choking.

A Murderer's Funeral Expenses.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 1.—At the meeting of Hastings County Council yesterday an account of $7 for burying Peter Davis, who was hanged some time ago for murder, was laid over until the June session.

Mr. Gordon asked why the remains were not buried in the jail yard?

Jailer Appleby, who was present, explained that the well from which the jail water was taken was situated in the yard, and the Government had allowed the body to be interred in the cemetery on that account.

The Cross-Eyed Eloper Caught.

SMITH'S FALLS, Feb. 1.—Marine McLean, the cross-eyed stranger who eloped with the wife of Howard Arnold, has been arrested at Regina, N.W.T., by orders of Mr. Arnold, the aggrieved husband. Constable Latrace of Jasper has left to bring him back. No orders were given to bring Mrs. Arnold back.

A Quarryman Fatally Hurt.

FOXBORO, Feb. 1.—George Gossell, a derrick man working in the stone quarry, was yesterday fatally injured. While lifting a large stone the derrick chain broke, causing him to fall about eight feet, striking on his head. A doctor was called and found wounds on the body and head and concussion of the brain.

Taps from the Telegraph.

Hog cholera is spreading in Kansas.

A fierce storm is raging in Montana.

Three transports will leave Lisbon for Oporto.

Masked highwaymen held up the stage near Pozzas Altos, Mexico, and secured $6000 in silver bullion.

A deficit of $7000 has been discovered in the accounts of Frank Butler, ex-tax collector of Ridley township, Pa. Butler has fled.

Dropped Dead in a Drug Store.

HAMILTON, Feb. 1.—This afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock an old man named John Newman, who lives at the House of Refuge, fell to the floor while standing in A. Vincent & Co.'s drug store, James-street north, and expired almost immediately. The cause of death was neuralgia of the heart.

PLEADING FOR PATIENCE.

PARNELL SPEAKS AT THE FOOT OF O'CONNELL'S STATUE.

He Asks the Ireland that has Stood Fast to Her Claim to be Sovereign Within Her Own Domain to Judge Him by the Results.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—Mr. Parnell spoke here to-day. His journey from Dublin to Ennis was a triumphant progress. There was a remarkable series of demonstrations in his honor along his route. At every stoppage an address was presented to Mr. Parnell, to which he briefly replied. At Athlone thousands of people had gathered at the station with bands, torches and illuminated devices and the crowd vainly tried to persuade Mr. Parnell to stop there.

Upon arriving at Ennis Mr. Parnell was greeted by the reception committee and by a dense multitude of people from the surrounding districts. A procession was formed with bands and banners and Mr. Parnell was escorted to the place of meeting in front of O'Connell's statue, where a platform had been erected. Mr. John Finucane, M.P. for East Limerick, presided.

Mr. Parnell in his speech declared that Ireland had stood fast to her claim to be sovereign within her own domain. He refused to admit any English veto as far as his own business was concerned, as indeed he told the Irish people that they would win and events had proved the truth of his words, so in a few days they would know the truth of his declaration, that they had won a settlement of this question which would be everlastingly creditable to their patriotism. They would gain a Parliament with real power to protect the interests of every class, to settle the questions of land and police, to disarm and convert the constabulary into a civil force under the control of Ireland's elected representatives. Under such a parliament Ireland would realize her aspirations to be a nation. For this he had fought through many long years under the foot of this O'Connell's statue asked them to have patience and judge him by results. [Loud cheers.]

During the afternoon Mr. Parnell was presented with addresses by numerous public bodies. In the evening he returned to Dublin en route for London. To-day's meeting was the last of those definitely arranged for Mr. Parnell.

Belligerent Ulster.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The plain avowal of the Marquis of Londonderry that the men of Ulster will fight in the event of Home Rule being granted to Ireland has aroused some sensation, as coming from a quarter well informed and responsible. All that Lord Londonderry asks is that England keep its hands off and allow the Ulster Protestants to fight it out with the Home Rulers without the interference of the Imperial troops. There is no doubt that the Ulster Protestants are well armed and drilled and, if their speakers are to be believed, they will resent the attempt of any Home Rule Irish Parliament to exercise any jurisdiction over them.

The Boycott Disappearing.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—In Ireland the boycott is disappearing, and for the first time in many months members of the League's Vigilance Committee have been absent from the Tipperary pig market. The tenants who have resumed possession on the Smith-Barry estate have formed an organization for mutual defence and support against any movement to subject them to boycott or persecution in the future, and they are actively engaged in preparing to put in crops the coming spring.

A Fierce Gale in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—A fierce storm has caused considerable loss in and about this city. A number of houses have been damaged and trees have been blown down. A terrific gale has swept over the Irish Sea. Reports received here from Cork state that a number of small craft foundered during the storm in Queenstown Harbor.

The Enforcement of the Crimes Act.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—The Gazette yesterday announced that the Government puts the Crimes Act in force in the town of Carlow, in Leinster, and revokes it in portions of Sligo county.

THE BULL AND THE MOTOR.

He Hadn't the Sense to Mizzle when He Heard the Locomotive Whistle.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Traffic on the London, Chatham & Dover Railroad was suspended for three hours yesterday near London, because of a mad bull taking possession of the line and charging furiously upon the trains. Every effort to kill or subdue the animal proved futile until finally an engineer, more agile or courageous than his fellows, engaged in a combat with the bull at close quarters and succeeded in felling him with a blow of a hammer. No one dared shoot the bull for fear of hitting some of the passengers or employes of the road. The delayed passengers were, many of them, quite badly frightened as it was.

Preparing to Strike.

WARSAW, Feb. 1.—There are startling rumors current in Polish circles here to the effect that Russian Nihilists are preparing for another political murder. The 13th of March, the anniversary of the assassination of Czar Alexander, is said to be the date determined upon by the Nihilists for their next coup. Russian refugees now in Bulgaria are suspected of being engaged in the preparation of the details of this plot.

Cable Briefs.

The Scotch railway strike, the greatest railway strike ever known in England, cost the companies £127,000, while the losses of traders and the men employed reach half a million.

A detachment of the military forces in Brussels refused to obey orders owing to not securing leave of absence promised, but were suppressed before they had occasioned any damage.

A sensation has been caused in the German Foreign Office by a suit brought by a broker named Jacobsohn against a barrister named Neurn for 3000 marks commission for securing Neurn a position in the service. Neurn has been dismissed on account of the scandal.

It has transpired that three artillerymen were killed by the premature discharge of a gun while a salute was being fired in honor of the Emperor William's birthday.

Schoolhouse Burned.

KINGSVILLE, Feb. 1.—Early yesterday morning the schoolhouse was destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to have started from a natural gas jet that was left burning in the basement. Loss about $[illegible].

Killed in a Collision.

KINGSTON, Feb. 1.—Two freight trains collided near Ballantyne's station this morning. Norton Clow, fireman of Prescott, was killed and three others slightly wounded.

Struck and Killed by the Express.

KENOSHA, Feb. 1.—Anthony [illegible], a carpenter living about two miles east of [illegible], was struck and killed by No. 11 express last night.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 18[illegible] I was in excellent health, weighing over 2[illegible] pounds. In that year an ailment developed into a[illegible] dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 1[illegible] pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia.

I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. The Jubilee Singers To-night.

The celebrated Fiske Tennesseean Jubilee singers will appear in the Opera House to-night. The St. John, N.B., Telegraph says: "The Famous Tennesseeans, under the management of Mr. B. W. Thomas, formerly of the original Fiske Jubilee Singers, performed here last night. The institute was crowded with a fine audience, largely made up of [illegible] people, to listen to the melodies of the Fiske Tennesseeans. Of the nineteen numbers on the programme a large proportion elicited enthusiastic applause, and in several cases double or triple encores were given. The melody, 'Rise and Shine,' the chorus, 'I'm Rolling,' with 'Swing Low Sweet Chariot,' 'Jonah and the Whale' and the 'Class Meeting' were vociferously cheered. There is the soul of true melody in these plantation songs as rendered by this company. Two recitations by a lady member of the troupe, Miss Verina Gilliam, were well received. The Tennesseeans will have a warm welcome and a bumper house when they again visit St. John." 1d27

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. "ROMEO AND JULIET."

A PRETTY GIRL AT A BOOK COUNTER SADLY BOTHERED.

A Mighty Mean Thing Who Made Game of Her on Surmising that She Had Never Read Shakespeare's Story of the Lovers.

Some of the down-town merchants put in a stock of books just before the holiday season and sell the volumes at way down prices that would make the authors groan. Sometimes these book-counters or stalls are placed in charge of a young lady who has all the necessary qualifications for making one buy, but who is utterly destitute of the sort of information a buyer sometimes wants before he makes a purchase. It isn't the fault of the young lady. She could puzzle a man very quickly if she were over in the embroidery department and a man went there to purchase. But she is sent to the book stall by the manager, who doesn't stop to inquire whether she knows anything about books, and the result is that the young lady is often quizzed in a way that makes her cheeks tingle.

A gentleman was at one of these book-stalls "looking over the bargains."

"Have you seen the beautiful books which we advertised today?" asked the young lady behind the books.

The gentleman said he had seen the advertisement, but not the books.

"Indeed," the young lady replied. "Well, they are here. Have you seen our beautiful 'Romeo and Juliet?' Here it is. Only $3"—and the odd cents, whatever they were.

The gentleman concluded he would have some fun quietly, so he looked over his glasses at the young lady and asked:

"Who is the painter of this Romeo and Juliet?"

"Painter!" exclaimed the young lady. "It isn't a painting, it's a book."

"Ah, I beg your pardon. Who is the author—I didn't mean painter—I meant author?"

The young lady blushed and then rallied. "Well," she said, "if you don't know who wrote 'Romeo and Juliet' I don't think there is much use showing you the book."

"Possibly not," the gentleman replied. "But I am a stranger in the city and I have been fooled so much since I came to Chicago that I thought I might venture to ask who wrote the beautiful book which you have advertised."

This was a long speech. The gentleman intended it should be. For during its delivery the young lady peeped into the front of the book, and shutting it quickly said in a decided way: "Mr. Shakespeare wrote it. May be you have heard of him."

She uttered the last sentence in a mean way—the way in which only a woman can utter a mean sentence. It was scorn, and hatefulness, and triumph all in a heap.

The gentleman replied: "It seems to me I have. Have you his other works?"

There was no impropriety in the query, and yet the young lady blushed again and looked at the man as if she could kill him. Then a light broke over her face, and the look of triumph came back to her eyes—the look which comes into the cat's eyes when it discovers that the canary is asleep.

"I will see" she said, and in her face was a you-haven't-got-me-yet expression. Then she glided to the end of the counter where the hairless-headed floor-walker was posing in his Sunday-school attitude. She whispered to him and he shook his head. She glided back to the place of beginning and said in a firm, you're-a-crank tone of voice: "No, sir; we had his other works but they have all been sold."

"I am sorry to annoy you," said the gentleman, "but can you tell me where I could get 'Shakespeare's Hiawatha' in the same binding as this? The publisher's list must be in your house."

The young lady bit her underlip until all the blood in her beautiful face—for she is a beautiful girl—rushed to the place of attack. A woman's intuition is quick. She knew this man was intent upon mischief, and yet there was nothing in his speech or manner to which she could take exception.

She again had recourse to the pious looking floor-walker, who said something and smiled. She returned to confront the man whom she now hated. She informed him in a hurrying way that this "Romeo and Juliet" was the only one of Mr. Shakespeare's works in the house, and that the house had no publisher's list.

"Very well," said the gentleman, "I will look at this, if you please, and see whose version it is, if you have no objection?"

"Certainly," she replied. And the way she said it!

He looked at the copy for a half hour. It seemed a whole afternoon to the young lady. Then he said to her:

"Of course it is not your fault. I don't blame you or your house. You could not have known this, of course. You will pardon me, of course."

This was one time when she had nothing to say. She stood like a piece of statuary that is to be raffled off for a fair.

The gentleman seeing her position continued: "According to this edition of Romeo and Juliet Juliet kills herself, when the truth is she was smothered to death by Othello with a pillow. The book is a fraud."

"I had not read it," the young lady answered in a subdued manner. "I am here to sell books not to read them," she concluded.

"Of course not," the gentleman replied, relenting. "Have you Mother Browning's Melodies?" he asked.

"You mean Mother Goose?"

"No. I mean Mother Browning. She used to be Mother Goose, but she is married."

The young lady put a pin in her hair and said something about "high time she was."

"Where is the soap counter?" asked the wretch.

"Second aisle to the right, this floor. That way."

The young lady felt relieved when he asked her for the soap counter. It was an indication that he was going. But he lingered

"Maybe you have it here," he said. "I want a book of poetical quotations. I have made a bet with a friend of mine that Campbell is the author of the line 'While there's life there soap,' and it occurred to me I might find it at the soap counter, but maybe you have it here."

"I think you will find it in the second aisle to the right," she said with indifference.

"Find what," he asked; "the book on quotations or——"

"No," she shrieked, "the soap!"

And she left him standing there while she went to wait on an old gentleman who was looking at the juvenile prints of Noah's ark at the far end of the counter.

"Do you think Wagner's theory of music is sound, professor?" "Yes; too much."

The pugilists are the fellows who make their money hand over fist.

Charity begins at home, and is one of the most confirmed home bodies to be found.

The cradle is an institution that is as old as the human race. It might almost be called the rock of ages.

Now is the season when the merry skater cuts geometric figures on the ice, and at intervals studies astronomy.

He—"I always pay as I go." She (yawning)—"Well; how is it that when you are paying attentions you never go?"

Judge—"Boy, do you understand the nature of an oath?" Juvenile Witness—"Yes'r. It's human nature, I reckon."

"May I not aspire to your hand?" he asked earnestly. "Permit me," she said positively, "to assure you that this is a lone hand."

Mrs. Blotter (of a literary turn)—And, John, send up a gallon of midnight oil. All our best writers, I'm told, burn it."

It is great fun teaching a pretty girl how to skate, and the more successful the teacher is the longer she is in getting to be expert.

Her Parting Words.—"So your wife has left you?" "She has." "What were her last words on leaving you?" "'Is my hat on straight?'"

Woman can't throw a stone straight to save her soul, but she can sit in an easy chair and enchant a man so that he will go and throw it for her.

Daggett—"Hello, Cutting, did you meet any glorious 'turn-outs' in the park this afternoon?" Cutting—"Oh, yes, a sleigh full of pretty girls capsized."

First Detective—"Bill, I've got a first-rate clew but I can't follow it up." Second Detective—"Why not?" "'Cause it doesn't jibe with the boss' theory."

Judge (to small witness)—"Do you know the nature of an oath?" Witness—"Oh yes, sir. I am an office-boy, and have to answer the telephone every few minutes."

"My husband is very fond of animals," said Mrs. Furber; "last night in his sleep he turned over and said: 'Take out something for the kitty.'"

An Interesting Event.—Little Jimmie boy, who has just learned to write, started to keep a diary this year. His first entry was: "Got up at 7. Had my neck washed."

Everything Takes Time.—Modern Matron—"Who is this Mr. Hughard, my dear." Modern Daughter—"How should I know, ma! I've only been engaged to him a week."

She (adjusting her skate)—"Oh, isn't the ice beautiful? The lake is just like a huge mirror. He—"Yes, and if you don't look out, you'll be pretty apt to see yourself in it.

Renting Time.—Applicant—"Your description of the house just fills the bill. How about the water supply?" Agent—"Never any trouble about that. The cellar is full of it."

A member of the corps de ballet overheard the manager telling a friend that he had a large collection of old masterpieces in painting, and indignantly tendered her resignation.

Tommy—"Mamma, can't you tell me a new fairy story?" Mrs. Figg—"I don't know any new ones, Tommy. Maybe your father will tell you some when he comes in to-night."

Mrs. Oldfidget is much worried about her daughter. The other night she kissed her, and the young lady murmured in her sleep: "Oh, Charlie, you've shaved off your mustache!"

Leaving Something to the Imagination.—"But, I say, Palette, this isn't a portrait of me. This is a picture of the Jagman House." "That's just the point. You are inside, taking a drink."

When a lady of uncertain age tells you coyly that she has seen twenty-seven summers, it is altogether impolite to ask her if she remembers how the last one of the twenty-seven looked.

Wickwire—"You're just too late, Yabsley. Mudge has just finished singing 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep.' You missed a treat." Yabsley—"O, he had to treat before you would let him sing, eh?"

"I hear the plumber is engaged to your housemaid?" "Yes." "Why don't they get married?" "He is not rich enough yet. She hasn't been in my employ long enough to stuff the water pipes more than once."

"Strange things happen in a drug store, I suppose." "I should say they did," answered the druggist, "but the oddest I ever knew was a policeman coming in once and asking me for a dose of paregoric."

"I think," said Gertrude to Algernon, "that you and papa will become better acquainted in time." "Yes," was the reply. "I noticed last night that your father seemed anxious to get on an intimate footing with me."

"I'll give you something to eat if you chop that wood." "Madam," replied the tramp, "I cannot go back on my record by working. Allow me to say before I became a gentleman of leisure I was an office-holder."

En Rapport.—Mrs. Grumpe—"If that stranger you were talking to said nothing to you about his wife, how do you know he is married?" Mr. Grumpe—"Oh, he looked so sort o' sympathetic when I told him I was."

Harry—"What would you think of a young woman that married for money?" Kate—"That would depend upon circumstances." Harry—"For instance?" Kate—"Whether it was I or some other young woman."

And No Stitch.—An eminent surgeon says that with four cuts and a few stitches he can alter a man's face so his own mother would not know him. That's nothing. Any newspaper in this country can do that much with only one cut.

In the Stationery Store.—First Young Lady—"Do you always buy two kinds of paper?" Second Young Lady—"Always. You see when I write to Charlie I use red paper; that means love. When I answer Jim's letters I use blue paper, which means 'faithful unto death.' See?"

A Cool Location.—Parlor car passenger—"Porter, this car is very draughty. I feel chilly." Porter—"Can't help it, sir. There's a party of the New York's Four Hundred in one end and a lot of Philadelphia exclusives in the other, and you're sittin' right between 'em."

The Population of Peterborough is about 10,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1. BY-LAWS.

A by-law was passed authorizing the borrowing of $80,000 to meet current expenses.

A SCHOOL MATTER.

M. J. COYNE BROWN was, on motion, heard. He called attention to a paragraph in the Examiner which reported that the Government grants had been delayed because he had neglected to send in the returns upon which the appropriations were based. This was not accurate. He had made a partial return early in the year, and was surprised when, having spoken to the Treasurer, a letter was received from the Department saying the returns had not been received. He had made the returns as fully as he could from the returns he had received from the Trustees. He did not wish to be responsible for more than his own faults, and therefore made this explanation.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

A deputation from the Peterborough Board of Trade, consisting of Messrs. George Hilliard, J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and J. Hampden Burnham, was heard.

Mr. Hilliard said he had learned since he had come into the room that the Council had appointed a deputation in regard to the Trent Valley Canal, and this gave him a great deal of pleasure, as it was in connection with that matter they had waited upon the Council. He referred to the importance of the work, and the appointment of the Commission, and said he believed, though he had no authority for the statement, that its report was favorable. As to the time they should go to Ottawa, he thought they should go before the House was in session.

Mr. J. R. STRATTON was glad the deputation was appointed, and it should go to Ottawa and force from the Government a definite promise.

Mr. J. HAMPDEN BURNHAM spoke briefly.

Mr. CARMENT said the County deputation had been appointed with a view to co operating with the town and other deputations.

The Council then adjourned.

MARRIED.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

The Baptist Pastor—Endeavor Society Anniversary—The Pulpits on Sunday.

A letter has been received from Rev. Mr. Trotter, of Clairmont, replying to the call which was extended to him by the congregation of the Murray-st. Baptist church. The rev. gentleman accepted the call and stated that he would be here on March first if that would be satisfactory to his new charge. This was most satisfactory to the congregation, who are to be congratulated on the unanimity and absence of delay that has characterized their selection of their new pastor.

It was ten years ago to day, February 2nd, 1881, that the first Christian Endeavor Society was formed in America, the founder being Rev. Francis E. Clark, of Portland, Me. The marvellous growth of the organization is known to all who are interested in church work and the benefit and good it has accomplished among the young people of the different churches is also an established and patent fact to all church workers. Last evening at St. Paul's church Rev. E. F. Torrance took advantage of the approach of its tenth anniversary to deliver a sermon on the Christian Endeavor Society. Touching on its formation and history, the rev. gentleman outlined its operations among the young people, spoke of its objects and the good it was accomplishing. The sermon was an interesting one to Endeavorers. A week from to-night the local Societies will hold a grand union meeting in St. Paul's church in honor of the anniversary.

Rev. Mr. Tully, of Mitchell, Ont., occupied the pulpit at St. Andrew's church yesterday at both services. This evening he lectures in the school room of the church on "The Pyramids of Egypt."

Mr. John Chandler, a student from McMaster University, Toronto, preached morning and evening at the Baptist church yesterday.

Two Ways of Gaining Money.

Personal Liberty. vs. Physical Slavery.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which dissolves the bonds of disease, gives health and perfect physical liberty.

OBITUARY.

The Famous French Painter Passes Away in Paris After a short Illness.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Jean Louis Ernest Meissonier, the painter, who had been ill for several days, died in this city yesterday.

Meissonier, "the master of the infinitely little," has reigned alone over the kingdom of Lilliput for a generation and a half. His purposes, his methods and, to a great extent his subjects were the same at the end as at the beginning of his career. His eulogists must admit that his was not the highest art. The "how" rather than the "what" forms the basis of most of the admiration lavished upon his perfectly executed works. But in his field of art he stood alone. In another respect Meissonier was unequaled. No artist of this century has received during his lifetime such prices as have been paid Meissonier for his works. His first picture was sold for 100 francs, $20. For the "1807" in the Stewart collection 300,000 francs were paid; for the "Arrival at the Chateau," in the Vanderbilt gallery, 200,000 francs in Paris and the "1814" was sold to M. Secretary for 350,000 francs, or $70,000. Notwithstanding the almost incredible sums received by Meissonier he was not a rich man.

Maria Chattoway, formerly custodian of Shakespeare's birthplace, is dead.

Eli Bertrand Martael, the French novelist, is dead. He was born in 1815.

The Very Rev. Edward Hayes Plumtre, Dean of Wells, England, is dead.

THE CANADA PACIFIC.

An Interesting Discussion in the U. S. Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Army Appropriation bill was taken up in the Senate yesterday on the amendment of the committee to insert a provision that Government transportation on land-aided railroads shall be paid for on such basis as the Secretary of War may deem just and reasonable, not to exceed 70 per cent. of the charges for like service to private parties.

Mr. Gorman made an argument to show the absolute injustice of the proposition as it came from the House, and to show that even the 70 per cent. restriction proposed by the committee amendment would be destructive to the interests of the American transcontinental lines, while it would operate to the advantage of the largely subsidized military and political lines of Canada.

He contrasted the illiberality of the Dominion Government regarding U.S. railroad with the great liberality of the Government of the United States in regard to Canadian railroads. He would not do injustice to Canadians; but he would demand justice to the American people and to American railroads. The true remedy was to enforce against the Canadian roads that carried freight and passengers from one port of the United States to another port of the United States the same provisions of law that are enforced against the American lines.

Mr. Washburn spoke of the great importance to the Northwestern States of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, and said that those States would not submit to any change in existing conditions that would rob them of the advantages which they thought had been secured to them. What they wanted was the cheapest possible transportation.

Mr. Power moved to amend the committee amendment by reducing the limitation from 70 per cent. to 50 per cent.; and on that he demanded the yeas and nays. The amendment was rejected—yeas 3 (Messrs. Cockrell, Davis and Power), nays 43. The committee amendment was then agreed to, and the bill was passed.

SIR JOHN INTERVIEWED.

He Says No Negotiations Were Opened For Reciprocity.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Sir John Macdonald was seen yesterday with reference to the Blaine correspondence. He said: "I have never stated that negotiations for partial reciprocity were opened. That was stated by the Ottawa correspondent of The Globe, who generally manages to get the thing that is not so, but not by me. There was some friendly talk, not amounting to negotiations, and which the Government were very glad to have and submitted to the Imperial Government. I have stated, and I wish to reiterate, that Mr. McKinley's friends made every effort to prevent any concession in favor of Canada. I state that because I have it from the mouths of those who were in communication with Mr. McKinley on the matter. Personally I have had nothing to do with Mr. McKinley."

With regard to Mr. McKinley's remarks Sir John adds: "The McKinley bill was discussed, printed and passed before the Foster tariff was completed, and Sir Richard Cartwright in every speech and all the Opposition press are dwelling upon it to this day.

"It is a singular circumstance, quite a happy coincidence in connection with Mr. McKinley's denial that his bill was a retaliatory one, that Canada is mostly hit. What other country does the increased duty on hay hit but Canada? What other country does the additional duties on eggs hit? Only Canada. It is the same with other items of the tariff; the only country hit is Canada, but it is not a retaliatory measure according to Mr. McKinley. I think the position I have taken is fully borne out by facts."

Killed on the Way Home From Church.

QUEBEC, Feb. 1.—At noon to-day an avalanche of ice was detached from the roof of the drygoods store occupied by T. Beland in John-street and fell on two ladies who were walking on the street on their way from church. One of them, a Miss O'Leary, was killed by the shock, and the other escaped with a broken arm. Miss O'Leary was the sister of the Rev. Mr. O'Leary of the Quebec Seminary.

Killed on the Street.

KINGSTON, Feb. 1.—Mr. Stayley of Wolfe Island was driving a load of hay with another also loaded behind it up Ontario-street yesterday. The pole at the rear of the sleigh was crowded with boys. Three, among them Eddie Davis, 8 years old, were daring enough to come between the two loads and ride on the tongue of the rear sleigh. Davis lost his balance. He attempted to crawl out, but the sleigh passed over him, killing him instantly.

Surer foundation cannot be laid than the real merit which is the solid base for the monumental success of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

NO RECIPROCITY THIS SESSION.

The U. S. Committee on Rules Hit Blaine Somewhat Hard.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A Washington special to The Herald says: Speaker Reed and Major McKinley, through the Committee on Rules, have settled that there shall be no reciprocity legislation this session. This is primarily intended to hit Blaine hard and is due to his attitude towards the McKinley Bill. Congressman McCreary of Kentucky, the ranking member of the Committee on Foreign Relations in the House of Representatives in a speech in that body yesterday said that the committee had prepared for passage at this session of Congress 17 bills, most of them providing for reciprocal commercial relations between this and foreign countries. Among the countries with which reciprocity was to be established were Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, some of the West Indies and the South and Central American republics. Mr. McCreary said that the Committee on Foreign Relations having approved these measures had applied to the Committee on Rules, which is doing the steering for the House at present, to name a day on which the measures might be considered and passed. Greatly to the surprise of the Committee on Foreign Relations the Committee on Rules had refused to permit more than one day to be named for the consideration of all the 17 bills. No amount of argument or appeal could shake the decision on this point. As the day the Committee on Rules was willing to allow was to-day, it was perfectly evident that there would be no steps taken towards reciprocity by the Congress.

When Emergencies Arise.

It is well when the clothing takes fire for the victim to stand perfectly still; this requires presence of mind. Motion fans the flame, so that it burns more rapidly. The victim may throw himself or herself on the floor and roll over and over. A woollen blanket or shawl, or a piece of carpet may be wrapped tightly around the person; if these articles are wet so much the better. No time should be lost, particularly if the clothing is of cotton. There are, however, other forms of danger where it is fatal to stand still. Promptness and decisive action, speed and celerity are most necessary in many cases to save life. The unfortunate mortal, be it man or woman, who finds himself or herself the victim of brain and nerve troubles, must in every case, if they value life, act quickly and without hesitation. Indecision and carelessness will only add fuel to the flame of disease, and cause it to burn with increased vehemence. That worn out tired feeling is a sure indication that your system is out of gear. That nervousness points to rocks and shoals which must be avoided, or you are wrecked physically. That feeling of sleeplessness, that state languidness and inertia, that condition of melancholy and morbidness must be got rid of, or your lease of life will not be of much value to yourself or family. In such emergencies it is well to know the great rock of safety and have it within reach. Thousands have already crossed the rocks and shoals of treacherous diseases through the use of Paine's Celery Compound. The discovery of this great remedy has done more to increase the happiness of mankind than any other discovery ever made. It has snatched from the grave and raised from beds of sickness thousands who now delight to speak of it and recommended it to others.

DILLON TO BE LEADER.

THE RESULT OF THE CONFERENCE AT BOULOGNE.

McCarthy to Remain Until Next Session and Dillon Will Meanwhile Surrender Himself to the Police—Parnell to Come to America—Emin Pasha's Extravagance.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—In the lobbies of Parliament to-night the rumor was revived that the settlement supposed to have been made made with regard to the split in the Irish Party, leaves Mr. McCarthy in the chair. Messrs. Parnell and O'Brien are going to America for the purpose of raising funds.

The Standard says: "We believe the Liberal Leaders have promised the Healyites a Home Rule scheme that will empower the Irish parliament to control the police and deal with the land question if it is still unsettled, but they insist that the right of veto shall be reserved to the Imperial Parliament, as in the bill of 1886. Both sections of the Irish party will agree to this and Mr. Parnell will temporarily retire and go to America. It is stated that Sir William Vernon Harcourt did not take part in these negotiations and that he entirely disapproves of the scheme. It is also stated that the surrender on land question is the result of a radical "cave."

The Times says it is reported that a settlement between Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien will be effected in America and that Mr. Dillon will surrender himself to the police on the understanding that he shall be nominated to the Irish leadership at the next session, Mr. McCarthy remaining for the present the leader of the reunited party.

McCarthy at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 2.—Justin McCarthy speaking here to-day on the Irish question said that if the majority would not yield the majority might as well disband. He was prepared, he said, to accept any settlement making for peace and union. The prospect of an agreement being reached were hopeful. The Imperial Parliament must settle the land question before or concurrent with the Home Rule question, or never settle at all. The Irish were quite competent to reorganize the constabulary as a civil force.

THE OPORTO REVOLUTION.

King Charles Thanks the Loyal Portuguese—All Is Now Quiet

OPORTO, Feb. 2.—Military law will remain in force here for a month. Several fugitives of the number of those engaged in Saturday's insurrection of garrison troops were captured to-day on the Spanish frontier. The official report of the results of Saturday's uprising says 9 persons were killed and 46 wounded during the fighting.

Prof. Albuquerque has been arrested, charged with having been concerned in the revolt. All the prisoners will shortly be tried by courtmartial. Two hundred and twenty-five rifles were found concealed in houses around the town hall in Dom Pedro-square.

King Charles and His Loyal Subjects.

LISBON, Feb. 2.—A number of prominent politicians went to the royal palace to-day to give expression of their loyalty to the throne. King Charles, in receiving the deputies from Oporto, asked them to thank the inhabitants of that city for their loyal attitude during the revolt.

He Spent Double His Allowance and Objected to Everything.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—A white book is published here containing Emin Pasha's reports to the Middle of November last. These form a record of Emin's extravagance and disregard of instructions. Emin ignored the order to form a station on the Victoria Nyanza instead he hoisted his flag at Tabor in spite of Commissioner Schmidt's efforts to dissuade him—the commissioner of objecting on the ground of the great expense Emin spent 190,000 marks, instead of the 60,000 marks allowed him. He repeatedly complains of the insufficiency of his supplies, owing to which, he says, his men were becoming mutinous. He therefore declines the responsibility for the failure of the expedition.

The Spanish Elections.

MADRID, Feb. 2.—Revised returns show the election of 214 Government candidates, 79 Liberals, 26 Republicans and 7 Carlists. No Socialists have been returned. A feature of the election was the abstention of the laboring classes and Anarchists from the contest.

A SCENE IN THE SENATE

IN THE DISCUSSION OF THE FORTIFICATIONS BILL.

Why Reciprocity was Killed by the United States Congress — Attorney - General Longley at Washington—An Explanation from Blaine Respecting the Baker Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The Fortification bill was before the Senate this afternoon. Discussing an amendment to reduce the sum asked, Mr. Cockrell said he regarded a system of coast defences which would cost $126,000,000 as utterly worthless and an absolute waste of money. Isolated as the United States is, it could resist the combined powers of the entire earth. We have no risk to run. Mexico is our friend. The Canadians are our friends. Suppose they are our enemies what do they amount to?

Mr. Frye: Not a row of pins.

Mr. Cockrell: That is so; but we can take Canada as a full compensation for any possible injury Great Britain may at any time hereafter do us.

Carrion for Powder.

Mr. Hawley ridiculed the pretension that the United States could whip any other people on the face of the earth. There was a population of 63,000,000 in the United States, capable of supplying the finest troops that the world had ever seen, but in case of an immediate and unexpected declaration of war they would be what Wellington called carrion for powder. What would the British nation care for a square mile of such troops armed with rifles that would not shoot over 1200 yards? He did not want to show the nakedness of his country, but it so happened the whole world knew already that the United States was absolutely helpless. The Government could not negotiate to-day with advantage. That was the Bible truth. Great Britain had a magnificent harbor at Halifax protected by noble batteries and the best fleet in the world. She had another naval station at Bermuda and another on the Northwestern coast so close to the United States that vessels in that harbor could throw shots across the line. Wars exploded without notice. It was said Great Britain would not fight, etc., but John Bull got mad and made an ass of himself like other people.

What John Bull Could do.

He fought against robbery and sometimes he fought for the sake of robbery. In 12 or 18 hours Great Britain could assemble a fleet at Portland, in 18 or 20 hours at Boston, and in 24 hours, perhaps, at New York. British war vessels in the harbor of New York could levy a tribute of 500 or 1000 million dollars on the City of New York, and New York would be compelled to pay it. In the meantime those "gallant sons of liberty," by the 100,000, or the 500,000, might be arming, but they would not be worth a single last year's bird's nest. The harbors of Boston, Portland, New York, Charleston, New Orleans and San Francisco could not be defended, as they had no modern guns.

Mr. Dolph also spoke in favor of adequate coast protection.

Mr. Blair ridiculed Mr. Dolph's and Mr. Hawley's fears of war with any nation. Great Britain had no conceivable motive to make war against the United States. He offered an amendment looking to an international conference for the suppression of the slave trade and of the trade in intoxicating liquors, firearms and gunpowder in Africa.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The circumstances leading to the strangling of the reciprocity measure in Congress as telegraphed yesterday are worth recording. The measure was killed by Reed and McKinley as a blow at James G. Blaine. There is no surprise at the development that the Speaker and Mr McKinley have used the first opportunity to knock Mr. Blaine's pet scheme a fatal blow. It has been understood all along that they would do that if they could, for both are bitterly opposed to the somewhat exuberant Secretary of State. Mr McKinley hates him because he came in with the reciprocity scheme after the McKinley bill had been formulated and presented and knocked the author of that piece of patchwork out of all the glory of his production. Besides, Mr. McKinley has not forgotten that hot incident, when Mr. Blaine denounced the McKinley bill and smashed a new ten dollar tile in the fierceness of his execration. That little phrase of the Secretary, that there wasn't a line in the bill that would enable a farmer to sell another bushel of wheat or another barrel of pork, clings in the memory of the Ohio tariff raiser. He has reason to remember it, for it met him often enough in his last campaign.

Dairy Schools for Canada.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—The Government, on the recommendation of the Minister of Agriculture, has decided to make a grant of money for the establishment of dairy schools throughout the Dominion this year. This is a step following upon the appointment of Prof. J. W. Robertson as Dominion dairy commissioner last year.

Torontonian Killed.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Frank J. Morrison, a Scotch man by birth, a man of excellent education, who came here from Toronto about five months ago and who was up to very recently advertising solicitor for The Canadian-American, was accidentally killed by falling out of a window at 205 South Clark-street. The deceased at one time held a good position on the Toronto press. He was in his 35th year.

Flames at Meaford.

MEAFORD, Feb. 2.—About 5 o'clock this evening the Meaford Building and Manufacturing Company's premises were totally destroyed by fire. It is not yet known how the fire originated. Loss not yet known; insured for $5000.

Cut Off His Hand.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 2.—J. W. Warwick, a farmer living near Brantford, while trying to chop the head off a fowl, hit his wrist. It had to be amputated. The fowl still lives.

Jimmy McShane Elected.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—Hon. James McShane was elected Mayor by 5178 majority. There is excitement to-night. Students unhitched the cabman's horses and dragged McShane and friends two miles through the streets. There were 5000 people, including over 100 cabbies headed by band, in the procession.

Met Death in the Woods.

ORILLIA, Feb. 2.—George Morton of Sturgeon Bay, aged 33, was killed by a tree falling on him to-day.

How The Standard Views It.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The Standard says the judgment rendered in the United States Supreme Court in the case the Canadian sealer, W. P. Sayward, is an assurance that the dispute will be settled on its merits and from the standpoint of strict legality.

Stonemasons' International Convention.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Feb. 2.—The first annual convention of the Stonemasons' International Union was opened in this city to-day. Mayor Cowie made the address of welcome. There are about 40 delegates from 16 states and Canada present. It is expected that it will take from eight to ten days to transact the business of the convention.

A Mangled and Frozen Body Found.

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 2.—The body of James Watson, at one time a brakeman on this division, but who has of late been working for farmers in this vicinity, was found in a ditch east of here yesterday. It is supposed that he left Paris in the night and was walking along the track to his home when struck by a train. The body was frozen, both legs cut off and his face badly smashed.

A RED RIBBON TOLD HER ALL.

How Young Mrs. Farley Found Her Husband's Remains at the Mammoth Morgue.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 2.—The identification of Hiram Farley, one of the miners killed at Mammoth, was made in an affecting manner. Before going to work Farley's young wife playfully tied a red ribbon, with which their baby had been toying, around his wrist. The wife said that the ribbon would bring good luck. When the news of the explosion became known Mrs. Farley rushed to the scene. Body after body passed by. At length a corpse unusually mangled was being carried out when Mrs. Farley saw a red ribbon shining on the wrist. In an instant the young widow had fallen across her husband's remains, and she was taken away hysterical. The begrimed ribbon has been laid away by the widow as a sacred relic.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—The inquest on W. Irwin, who died while being removed to the Home for Incurables from the General Hospital, was held yesterday afternoon in the former institution. The evidence elicited the facts which were related in The World. The report of the post-mortem examination showed that the deceased had been suffering from a very severe form of lupus and had diseased lungs. Coroner Duncan having summed up the evidence, the jury returned a verdict which declared that deceased came to his death from the disease from which he was suffering, and exonerated all the parties connected with the case.

At the Young Liberals' meeting last night Prof. Goldwin Smith read his essay on "Loyalty," which was a masterly production. He said he was with the Liberals in the present fight, although he is not identified with the party. At present the air of this country is laden with a species of loyalty, and every man must shout loyalty or run the risk of being sabred by some terrific warrior on the street. In the British Empire loyalty is strictly a colonial sentiment, for in the United Kingdom one never hears the word mentioned. If a woman were to go about declaring that her teeth were not false, her hair her own and her face not painted, people would be confirmed in the very impression she was so anxious to dispel, and it was similar as regards loyalty.

Term commenced at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning.

The Queen's Bench sat at 10 o'clock and delivered judgments, among which were the following:

Dancy v. G. T. Ry. Co.—A motion by the defendants to set aside the verdict and judgment for the plaintiff for $1000 damages in an action tried before Mr. Justice MacMahon and a jury at the last Goderich Assizes and to dismiss the action or for a new trial. The plaintiff was travelling by the defendants' railway upon a return ticket from Sarnia to Goderich, which ticket had printed thereon "direct route," and was ejected from a train because he wished to go round by Stratford instead of changing cars at Lucan and going to Goderich by way of Clinton, and refused to leave the train at Clinton or to pay extra fare for going round by Stratford. The jury found that the shortest way from Sarnia to Goderich was by way of Lucan and Clinton, but in answer to another question they found that the most direct route was the route that made the best connection. They also found that unnecessary violence was used in ejecting the plaintiff from the train. The defendants claim that "direct route" means "straight route" or "shortest route," and therefore that the plaintiff had no right on the train from which he was ejected, and also that the finding of unnecessary violence was against all the evidence, and that the damages were excessive. The motion was dismissed with costs and the verdict and judgment affirmed.

Taylor v. Massey.—A motion by the defendant to set aside the verdict and judgment for the plaintiff for $1500 in an action of libel tried before Chief Justice Armour and a jury at the Toronto Assizes. The plaintiff brought an action for the seduction of his daughter against one Johnston, the superintendent of the Massey Manufacturing Company, of which the defendant is president. The circumstances out of which that action arose, as stated by the plaintiff's daughter, were published in some newspapers in the City of Toronto, where the parties all lived, and the employers and fellow-employes of the defendant held a meeting, at which they passed a resolution expressive of their confidence in the defendant, and characterizing the allegations against him as a conspiracy. The publication of this resolution is charged as a libel against the defendant. The defendant contended that no malice was shown, that no charge was at any rate made against the plaintiff in the alleged libel, that the damages were excessive, and that there should be a non-suit or a new trial. The motion was refused with costs, and the verdict and judgment at the trial affirmed.

HE WANTED TO DIE.

Andrew Douglas, a Pickering Bachelor, Sends a Bullet Into His Brain.

PICKERING, Feb. 2.—Andrew Douglas, a man aged 70, was found dead in his brother's barn this morning. He was shot through the head and held in his hand a 38-calibre revolver. There was found on his person about $600 and also a receipt from Charles Stark for a $6 revolver, deceased having been in Toronto last Saturday. He has lived with his brother, George Douglas, for several years. He was a bachelor and supposed to be fairly well off. He has always appeared perfectly sane. It is rumored that some financial difficulties were troubling him. Douglas also left behind him a note saying he was tired of life.

MANITOBA'S SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

The Full Court Upholds the Action of the Legislature.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2.—The judgment of the full court has been given on the appeal of the Roman Catholics from Judge Killam's decision, which upheld the validity of provincial legislation in abolishing Separate schools. The judgment of the full court sustains Killam's judgment in every point. Judge Dubuc, who is a Frenchman, dissented from the judgment.

The appeal was therefore dismissed with costs.

By a curious coincidence the Roman Catholic electors met to-day and re-elected the old school trustees.

The Wellington Stable's Appomattox Heavily Backed and Wins.

GLOUCESTER, Feb. 2.—Appomattox was the big favorite in the first race to-day at 1 to 5 on, there being a good deal of Canadian money on hand. Appomattox has been in several races and stood pretty well, but was not regarded as being safe against even such a field as that of to-day. The Canadian confidence, like the Canadian money, is often misplaced, and Appomattox got there with both feet. Ida Girl was a split favorite in the third race, but made a poor showing. Summary:

First race, ¾ mile—Appomattox, 105 (Randolph), 1; Amalgam 2, Harsburg 3. Time 1.20½.

Second race, 4½ furlongs—Ben's Pet 1, Gadabout 2, Muggs 3. Time 1.00¾.

Third race, ¾ mile—Gen. Gordon 1, Davy Johnson 2, Ralph Black 3.

Fourth race, ¾ mile—Sallie Harper 1, Prodigal Son 2, Jubilee 3. Time 1.18.

Fifth race, 7½ furlongs—Canwood 1, Can't Tell 2, Bohemian 3. Time 1.38¾.

THE WRIT WILL BE FILED.

The United States Supreme Court Will Hear the Behring Sea Application.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—In the Supreme Court of the United States to-day Chief Justice Fuller announced that the court had decided to grant the British Government leave to file an application for a writ of prohibition in the Behring Sea matter. A rule directing the District Court of Alaska to show cause why the writ should not be issued was made returnable on the second Monday in April.

The Chief Justice said in delivering the decision that the Supreme Court undoubtedly had jurisdiction in the matter.

Perhaps It was a Bluff.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The Times says it would be interesting to know whether Parnell's utterances were merely a bluff. It will be strange if Ennis should prove a second time to be the theatre of a deliverance that is historic to the fortunes of Parnell.

MARCH FIFTH THE DATE.

NOMINATIONS FEBRUARY 26; VOTING MARCH 5.

The Dominion House Dissolved and the Writs Issued—The Campaign Will be Short and Sharp—Only 30 Days for Discussion.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—A special despatch from Ottawa to The World says: The Governor-General on the advice of his Ministers has dissolved the sixth Parliament of Canada and ordered the writs to issue for a new election. The writs will bear date of February 4th and be returnable on April 25th. They direct the nominations to be held on Thursday, February, 26th, and the polling on March 5, thirty-one days hence.

The dissolution will be published in a special of The Canada Gazette to-day, Tuesday.

The campaign will open by a big meeting in Toronto, where Sir John and probably Hon. Mr. Foster will speak. That meeting will be within a few days.

TRAINS IN COLLISION.

Particulars of the Wreck on the G.T.R. Near Kingston.

KINGSTON, Feb. 2.—The wreck on the Grand Trunk Railway near Ballantyne's Station yesterday occurred just after daybreak. The results of the collision were at once terrible and appalling. After the first great crash the momentum of the cars carried them on, and they piled one over another to a height of twenty or thirty feet. Some were thrown to one side and thus formed a wider foundation for the others to rest upon. The engine hands got clear of the smash by jumping, with the exception of Norton Clow of Lyn, who was caught between the two iron monsters and hurled into the ditch on the south side of the track and buried under hundreds of tons of iron, machinery, freight cars and other debris.

The pieces of the carswere spread on both sides of the track, and merchandise of every description lay about in all directions. The engines were so badly mashed that to tell what they were was an impossibility. The cars had contained apples, drygoods, hay, rubbers, flour, envelopes, tin pails and meal, and the freight was lying promiscuously about the sides of the track.

Operator Laidley, whose negligence caused the collision, received orders to detain a special freight train at the Kingston station until it was crossed by one from the east. The east-bound train got away. The result was that the trains met.

As soon as the operator discovered his mistake he hurried to the residence of the day operator, Mr. Nicholson, and after telling him what had happened, left the city.

HAUNT OF A GORY GHOST.

The Spirit of a Soldier Said to Wander About the Scene of its Disembodiment.

LEXINGTON, Feb. 2.—An old substantial brick residence located on one of the principal thoroughfares of this city has been considered a haunted house ever since the war. Old citizens claim that during the war a Union soldier, who had been wounded in the battle at Richmond, Ky., and who was being taken care of by the family that then lived in the house, was brutally murdered by a Southern sympathizer in the cellar of the residence.

Ever since then, so the story goes, there have been uncanny doings and mysterious noises seen and heard in this old mansion at regular intervals of six months. At these times when the families occupying the house would be at supper, lights left in the living room and other parts of the house would be extinguished and sounds very much like the groans of a person in agony could be distinctly heard. No one ever saw anything other than this until a few evenings ago.

The family that has been occupying the house for the past three months, and who did not know of the supposed existence of this peculiar ghost, were sitting at their table eating supper at about 6½ o'clock. The parlor had been lighted up, as there was some young people visiting the house, and the lamp was brightly burning in the living room. The servant girl had occasion to go into the parlor and living room during the progress of the meal, and when she returned she exclaimed:

"Miss Sallie, who dun blowed out dem lights in yor room an' in de parlor?"

Miss Sallie did not know, of course, and before the astonished household could recover from their surprise deep groans were heard as if coming from the living room, which was separated from the dining-room by folding doors. The groans grew louder and more agonizing in their tones, until suddenly the folding doors opened backward, and in the centre of the threshold the now thoroughly frightened family and friends beheld a sight which is usually supposed to freeze the blood with terror. There stood the form of a man with his hands uplifted; he seemed enveloped in a white gauze, through which could be seen a bloody and apparently bleeding breast. The apparition only remained in sight of the terror-stricken people but a few seconds and then slowly disappeared into the gloom of the darkened room behind it. The supper was left unfinished, and there was no sleep in that house that night.

The next morning the head of the household notified his business partners that he would not be at the office that day, and before night he had secured another house, into which he moved his family the next day.

This story is told by a neighbor and a friend of the family, who is a thoroughly reliable man.

What a Portuguese Explorer Says.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Major Serpa Pinto, the Portuguese explorer, says the revolt of Oporto on Saturday was arranged to occur simultaneously with a similar rising in Lisbon. There are only five Republicans among the members of the Portuguese Chamber, and they are from Lisbon. These Lisbon members never stirred a hand in the movement.

Many Frozen to Death.

THE ELECTIONS ANNOUNCED.

THE elections for the House of Commons having been announced, to take place on March 5th, it becomes the duty of all who believe that the maintenance of the present administration in office is for the benefit of the country, to respond to the call to arms. Never in the history of Canada has there been a time when so much depended upon the result of an election. Not only has the Government been a progressive, prudent, far-seeing and patriotic one, but it has also combated those influences which would lead the Dominion into such a position that it would be absorbed by the American Republic. These influences have still to be fought, and the result of the election will show that they will be overcome.

The Government has been approached by the United States to consider the questions at issue between the two countries, and the question has been referred to the Imperial Government for action. Among the questions to be discussed is the trade question, and it is desirable that it and the other matters shall be dealt with by a House composed of members fresh from the polls with the mandate of the people. Under these circumstances the House has been dissolved, and the Government asks the people for an endorsation of its action.

The friends of the Government in this county will take immediate action, and with the cause they have to support and with good men in the field victory is assured.

A PROSPERING INDUSTRY.

The Lock Work's Annual Meeting—$37,000 Paid in Wages.

The annual meeting of the Locke Manufacturing Company was held yesterday afternoon, when the reports submitted showed that the past has been a most prosperous and successful year. During the year the sales amounted to $120,000, drawn from all over the Dominion. A fact showing the benefit that a prosperous manufactory is to a town was that $37,000 was paid out during the year in wages. A dividend of 6 per cent. was declared as usual and a goodly sum added to the reserve. The $20,000 of new stock which is being raised to increase the capacity of the works will all be taken up by present stockholders. The following are the officers elected:—

DIRECTORS.—John Burnham, Q.C., Jas. Stevenson, M.P., and Thos. Brooks.

PRESIDENT.—Jas. Stevenson.

MANAGER.—Thos. Brooks.

SECRETARY.—Geo. Stevenson.

From Business to Pleasure.

For the third time in the last few weeks the Councillors, after spending several hours of earnest and painstaking labor in legislating for the ratepayers, enjoyed a "social re-union" after the session last evening. On the first meeting night in each year during his term of office, Mayor Stevenson has entertained the Councillors, town officials and reporters at an oyster supper. At the first meeting this year business prevented His Worship following his usual custom, but he made good his intention at the close of the second meeting of the new Council. Mine host, Mr. Thos. Dunn, served the bivalves in excellent style, and after all had partaken a short time was spent in pleasant sociability, speech-making and song. It was a jolly gathering and the Mayor's hospitality was heartily enjoyed, the heat of debate being forgotten in the pleasantry of the feast. The Mayor made a speech referring to the town's prosperity in reply to his health, which was enthusiastically drank, and the three maiden Councillors—Messrs. Bradburn, Meldrum and Dennistoun—were duly initiated and made happy responses. Mr. Jas. English, a former Peterborough boy, as he called himself, now of the Baldwin locomotive works, of Philadelphia, was toasted, and in reply made an interesting speech dealing with Peterborough and Canada's possibilities. The growth of the town during his absence drew forth words of congratulation and, after travelling all round the world, he still believed Peterborough was the place of the earth. Councillor Dennistoun established himself as an Irish vocalist with his fellow civic dignitaries, and Mr. Dunn also gave a couple of fine songs.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free. At all druggists.

ONLY ONE MONTH

Michael Murray Receives a Light Sentence in Consideration of Circumstances.

Michael Murray, the young man who was arrested and committed for trial by Police Magistrate Dumble on a charge of maliciously wounding Wm. Browne, an employee of the C. P. R. restaurant, came up for trial before His Honor Judge Weller yesterday afternoon at the Court House. The particulars of the case will be remembered. Murray was intoxicated and Brown had taken him outside of the restaurant to induce him to go home, when Murray drew a jack knife and made a thrust at Browne, cutting him on the forehead. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the crown, and Mr. W. A. Stratton for the defendant.

The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge. His counsel then put in evidence as to previous good character. Mr. Law and several of the prisoner's fellow employees at the Bridge Works testified to his previous industrious, quiet and inoffensive character. Mr. Stratton briefly addressed the Court presenting a plea for leniency on account of circumstances and previous good character.

His Honor in sentencing the prisoner said he hoped the young man would never again be as near the penitentiary as he was at that time. He spoke strongly of the seriousness of the crime of which the prisoner stood charged and said that the full penalty of the law was three years. However, in view of the young man's previous good character and in consideration of his wife and family he said he intended to make the sentence light. He did not wish anyone to think that the crime was not a serious one because the sentence was to be lenient. The object of the law was to protect society against any attacks or injury and any violation of that law had to be punished. After further reference to the circumstances surrounding the case His Honor sentenced the prisoner to one month in gaol at hard labor.

Annual Meeting of the Water Co.—The Operations of the Year.

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Water Co. was held in the company's offices on Hunter-st., yesterday afternoon. In the absence of the President, Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., the Vice-President, Mr. R. A. Morrow, presided and present were G. W. Hatton, Secretary-Treasurer, R. B. McKee, A. Stevenson, Edg. Pearce, J. E. Belcher, Wm. Henderson, manager, and F. Adams, Accountant.

DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS.

The old board of directors was unanimously re-elected as follows:—

PRESIDENT—John Burnham, Q. C.

TREASURER—G. W. Hatton.

DIRECTORS—R. B. McKee and A. Stevenson.

Mr. W. H. Budden was re-appointed auditor for the year.

The manager's report which was presented gave a detailed statement of the work during the year. The amount of cast iron pipe laid during the year was 7,686 ft., or about one and a half miles, of which 2,140 ft. was 8-inch pipe, 4,600 ft. 6-inch pipe, and 886 ft. 4 inch pipe. During the year 13 stop valves and 14 new hydrants have been placed. The total amount of cast iron pipe now laid is 19 2-5 miles, and the total number of stop valves is 86 and the total number of hydrants 87. There are 580 services in at present, 68 services have been added during the past year. The total amount of excavation was 2 miles.

Before the meeting closed a vote of thanks was tendered the directors for their valuable services.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.

A Regular Meeting of the Village Fathers—The Business Transacted.

The Ashburnham Council met last evening, with the Reeve and all the Councillors present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

On motion of Councillor CALCUTT, seconded by Councillor CRAIG, the following accounts were ordered to be paid:—

E. Cianey	$ 2 50
Pay Sheet No. 2	5 00
Auditors' Salary	10 00
C. H. Manvers	19 75
Electric Light Co	112 50
	$149 75

TAX COLLECTION.

Councillor CRAIG moved, seconded by Councillor WAND, that Mr. John T. Wright be empowered to extend the time for the collection of taxes to the 1st of March.—Carried.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

Councillor THRoop moved, seconded by Councillor WAND, that the report presented by the auditors be received and adopted and the abstract published according to law, and that 150 copies of a detailed statement be printed for distribution in the same manner as last year.—Carried.

CONSIDERATIONS.

Councillor CRAIG brought up the question of having an additional snow plough in the village. Numerous opinions were expressed and arguments discussed over the matter, but it was finally allowed to drop.

An order was given to the constable to prosecute those leaving obstacles on the streets. Blocks of ice, it was said, were left scattered where they dropped and were dangerous as well as a nuisance.

With regard to coasting on hills, the constable was also ordered to attend to it.

The matter regarding the taxes of several persons was laid over till some future meeting.

The Council then adjourned.

Sale of High Class Pictures by British Artists.

Messrs. Baggart & Kidd to-day inaugurated the most important art sale that has ever taken place in this city. The pictures presented are from the well known collection brought to this country by Mr. J. J. Dillon, whose sales of high class paintings Montreal, Toronto and other principal cities of the Dominion, have secured for his importations a high reputation. We are indebted to Messrs. Haggart & Kidd's exertions in securing a selection for sale in Peterborough, and have much confidence in commending to special attention this exceptional opportunity to secure really excellent genuine pictures by artists of indisputably high standing, many of whom are exhibitors in the Royal Academy and leading exhibitions of Great Britain. Amongst the works enumerated in catalogue are choice examples by H. Schafer, C. Meadows, H. Lee, J. J. Barker, G. B. Yarnold, J. Hector, B. Davis and other well known masters, and the works shown fully maintain the prestige of the respective painters. The sale will be continued this evening at 8 o'clock and to-morrow (Wednesday) 3 and 8 p.m. as already announced. In directing attention to this unusually important sale we do so with very great confidence and feel assured that purchasers will have no reason to regret their acquisitions.

Advantages of Wearing Hair Goods.

Who does not recognize that to have a good growth of hair is beneficial to health, appearance and happiness? But few persons can boast of an abundant natural growth; the majority require artificial additions. Prof. Dorenwend is a manufacturer of Hair Goods on a large scale. When he first introduced them it seemed as if it would be a fruitless undertaking, but large quantities are sold. Prof. Dorenwend visits the important cities and towns of Ontario, and in every place he has large numbers of customers. He carries with him a large stock of Frontpieces, Bangs, Waves, Wigs, Switches, Toupees, etc. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 6th and 7th. Go and see him. Wear his goods and save doctors' bills.

THREE PAIRS OF SHOES.

There they are in a neat little row under the mantel in the children's bed-room, a pair of twelves, a pair of nines and a tiny pair of fives belonging to the baby.

They are all more or less wrinkled and worn and the pair of twelves have holes in the toes which caused me to say a little while ago to the sturdy wearer of them that there was "no sense in his kicking out shoes like that," and if he were not more careful he would just have to go barefooted.

He heard me with the utmost indifference as I know from the fact that the threat was hardly out of my mouth when he asked me if I knew where little boy he would have been if I had never been born.

"You might have been the little boy of some papa who couldn't have bought you any shoes at all," I said reproachfully.

"Oh, well," he says, calmly, in the fullness and beauty of his childish faith, "God has millions and trillions of shoes and I could just ask Him for a pair whenever I wanted them. Don't you see, papa?"

Three pairs of shoes! Three pairs of tender little feet upon the untried border of life's mysterious land.

I sit and look at the little shoes wondering where the feet that wear them will be led in the time to come, the little feet that

"——Through long years,
Must wander on 'mid hopes and fears."

How much I would give to know the future that I might stand between them and the temptations so sure to assail them, that I might guide their feet aright, that I might shield them from pain and sorrow if I could.

There is something strangely appealing and half pathetic to every loving father and mother in the sight of a row of little shoes like those I see before me now. They arouse the tenderest instincts of one's nature. I don't know why.

The wearers of the little shoes may have been very fretful or mischievous or trying all day.

You may have been "all out of patience" with them. You may have whipped the little hands or put the rebellious little ones to bed, declaring that they were "worrying the life out of you," but they are not "worrying" you now, and you go about picking up a little stocking here and a little skirt there with nothing but tenderness in your heart toward them.

You think only of how precious the wearer of the little clothes are, and there is no melody on earth one half so sweet to you as the music of the baby voices when they knelt around you a little while ago saying "God bless mamma and papa and keep us all safely through the night." You will hear no sweeter music than that this side of Paradise.

You reproach yourself for your lack of tenderness and patience as you look at that little row of shoes, and sometimes you fall to thinking of the unutterable sorrow that would fill your heart to breaking if the wearer of any one pair of the little shoes would wear them no more—if you should awaken some morning, as heartbroken fathers and mothers have sometimes awakened, and find that the wearer of one pair of the little shoes had gone from you in the night to wear the garments that wax not old.

Three pairs of little shoes! There are tears in your eyes as you look at them now, and perhaps you steal softly to the bedside of the little sleepers to make sure that they are sleeping sweetly and safely and to touch their little hands or their cool, moist brows with your lips, your heart filled with tender memories, with hopes and fears, with unspoken prayers.

Three pairs of little shoes! Three little pilgrims setting out on the voyage of life, their frail barks as yet untouched and unharmed by adverse winds and waves. God bring them all to port!

Broke Up the Game.—She—"We were having a most interesting game at the De Courtneys' the other evening when you began your solo." He—"Indeed! Who won?" She—"I didn't stay."

A gown for the infanta Eulalia, daughter of the ex-Queen of Spain, is described by a Paris writer as a marvelous gold and silver woven brocade, on a ground of cream satin. The tablier of this rich material is cut vertically on the sides by narrow bands of sable fur; the long train is built of plain cream satin. The low-necked corsage has one side of brocade, the other of satin; the latter drawn across the waist and fastened at the sides in gleaming folds. The trimming at the bust is formed of sable tails festooned over a graceful draping of soft white chiffon.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Went to Gaol to Die.

Henry Fowler arrived here last night from Havelock where he had been committed to gaol as a vagrant. The unfortunate man was taken to gaol and this morning he was dead. An inquest is being held this afternoon.

St. Andrew's Brotherhood.

At the usual monthly meeting of this Society this evening the matter of the representation of St. John's Chapter at the Second Annual Convention in Toronto next Saturday, will be settled. It is expected that eight members of the Chapter will represent Peterborough at the Convention.

A Blood Be-spattered Drunk.

Geo. Roberts, a man from Gilmour's lumber camp, appeared in the Police Court this morning his face all scarred and be-spattered with blood. He had come from the woods yesterday afternoon and had lost $22.50 out of his purse. He was going back to the woods and the Magistrate discharged him.

The Songsters of the South.

The Fisk Tennessee Jubilee singers attracted only a small audience to the Opera House last evening. The programme comprised some of the familiar old songs and was rendered as a whole in very good style. However, the concert was not as good, in some respects, as former entertainments given by the same company.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

Mrs. H. B. Griffin presided at the Ladies Auxiliary meeting yesterday afternoon. The attendance was large. After transacting a large amount of important business and among the rest it was resolved to hold "Trade Receptions" for the employers and employees of the various business and manufacturing establishments of our town. The first will be tendered to the employers and employees of the different printing and book-binding establishments on Tuesday, Feb. 10th, at 8 p.m., when we cordially invite all to come and spend an evening in our rooms.

The Pyramids of Egypt.

Rev. Mr. Tully, of Mitchell, delivered a lecture last evening in the school room of St. Andrew's church to a good audience. Rev. E. F. Torrance presided. The lecturer had a model of the great pyramid of Ghezi on the table, with which he illustrated the lecture. He introduced his subject with a brief description of Egypt, and then gave a graphic description of the pyramid, its construction and measurements. He pointed out some theories regarding it and the basis of them, but held that it was built by Cheops as a tomb. He concluded by pointing out how the pyramid disproved the Darwinian theory. At the close a vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer, on motion of Mr. R. Mulholland, seconded by Mr. C. Cameron. The lecture was a very interesting and instructive one throughout.

THE BUSINESS TAX BY-LAW NOT GIVEN ITS THIRD READING.

A Lengthy Discussion—The Committee Reports—Assessors and Board of Health Appointed—A Public Scavenger Appointed—The Forestalling By-law—Communications and Accounts.

There was a good attendance in the people's gallery at the meeting of the Town Council, the discussion of the Business Tax by-law probably being the attraction. Mayor Stevenson presided and the ward representatives present were Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, Hall, Bradburn, Dawson, Moore, Meldrum, Langford, Kendry and Dennistoun.

After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and confirmed Town Clerk Macdonald read the following

From W. H. Law of the Bridge Works, asking the Council to pay over the $300 still due him on the $900 grant made in 1890.—Finance Committee.

From the secretary of the Ontario Telephone Co., offering to place five telephones, one in the police station and one in each of the constable's houses, for the sum of $60.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From Mr. J. H. Burnham, secretary of the Board of Trade, asking the town to take steps to procure an earlier mail service for the town.—Received.

Councillor KENDRY, Chairman of the Committee on Appointments, presented a report as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Your Committee on Appointments and Supervision of Police beg to report as follows:—That Wm. Aldridge and Angus Williams be assessors for No. One and Two Wards, and J. J. Hartley and Thos. McKee be assessors for No. Three and Four Wards.

THE COUNTY CONFERENCE.

Councillor CAHILL, Chairman of the Joint Committee, reported as follows:—

To the Mayor and Town Council of Peterborough:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your Joint Committee beg leave to report that they met with a committee of the County Council on the 20th ult. for the purpose of providing better fire protection for the County buildings. The County Council subsequently passed a report providing for the payment to the town authorities of $60, provided that a hydrant be placed on the corner of Brock and Sheridan-sts. Your Committee therefore recommend that a hydrant be placed as above as soon as the weather permits. Your Committee also discussed with the members of the Committee appointed by the County Council the advisability of establishing a House of Refuge jointly between the town and county, but owing to the meagre information Your Committee had they do not feel warranted in making any recommendation at present. The chairman of the committee of the County Council promised to submit all the information in his possession to Your Committee with a view of taking such action as you may deem advisable at the June session of the County Council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
THOS. CAHILL,
Chairman.

This report was adopted.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Councillor HALL introduced a by-law appointing the Board of Health for this year. The by-law was given its readings, passed and numbered. The Board is composed of the following gentlemen:—Jas. Stevenson, Wm. English, J. L. Hughes, Dr. Brennan, Wm. Lech, B. Shortly, Edg Pearce, Dr. Fife and H. Denne.

CONFIRMING THE ASSESSORS.

Councillor KENDRY then introduced a by-law appointing the assessors for the year 1891 in accordance with the above report of the Committee on Appointments. The salary was fixed at $125 each. The by-law was read, passed and numbered.

THE BUSINESS TAX.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor Winch,—That the Council go into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of the Business Tax By-law.

Councillor KELLY moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That the by-law be given a six months' hoist.

This amendment, however, was not put, and the Council went into Committee of the Whole, Councillor Cahill in the chair.

The by-law was read through and then the flood-gates of discussion were opened.

AN OBJECTION.

Councillor KELLY commenced the discussion. He said he considered it unfair that there should be any exemption (carriage makers, blacksmiths and photographers, being excepted under the by-law as being liable for a business tax). Mr. Kelly produced a statement taken from the assessment roll showing the assessment of the merchants on George-st. and stated that there were none, except perhaps three, who were over assessed on personalty. If there was no unfair assessment at present, then why change the system and put a tax on the man who had no personalty. As an instance showing where the assessment was wrong, he said there was a double shop with two stories above it which was assessed for $4,400, while the store directly opposite with no stories above it was assessed for $8,300. This was where the assessment was unfair and it was not in regard to the personalty. The business tax meant an assessment on the real property of the men on George-st. of 21 mills, while the outside public would pay only 15 mills. Councillor Kelly said he did not wish to make any personal remarks as to assessments.

UPHOLDING THE BY-LAW.

Councillor DAVIDSON said the matter had been pretty well considered and needed little further discussion. Blacksmiths, carriagemakers and photographers were working mechanics and therefore did not come under the provisions of the by-law. As to the 21 mills assessment which Mr. Kelly complained of, Councillor Davidson said the business men received privileges and luxuries which they should equally pay for.

A CASE IN POINT.

Mayor STEVENSON brought up the case of the man who kept a confectionery store and only had a small stock, but under the business tax would be taxed high on his rental as he occupied good premises. The Mayor said he referred to Mr. Geo. Hall.

Councillor HALL—Its only about $2.00 difference under the by-law.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that Mr. Hall lived over his store and that under the by-law the business tax would only relate to the part of the building used for his business. He had figured up Mr. Hall's case and he found it made a difference of only about one dollar.

Councillor BRADBURN said it was only the building occupied for business that would be taxed.

EXEMPTING THE RICH.

Councillor DENNISTOUN wanted to see every man taxed for what he was worth. The object, he said, was to get rid of some of the present exemptions, but he had gone to the Clerk's office and got some figures which showed that if the by-law was passed there would be exemptions of a peculiar kind. Some of the prominent merchants would be reduced from $100 to $30. Instead of exempting the poorer merchants they would by the by-law exempt the richer men. The course indicated by the Board of Trade he thought was the proper one. He also thought that some provision should be made if the by-law was passed for those carrying small stocks, such as fancy goods stores. As to the effect of the by-law in the ward he represented he found on figuring that the taxes in some cases would be doubled on the present assessment. If the assessment was revised he could not say what the effect would be.

Councillor LANGFORD said in regard to the effect of the by-law in No. Four Ward that he had taken two cases and the difference would only be about seven cents.

AN INJUSTICE CLAIMED.

Councillor KENDRY said a lady who kept a fancy store had came to him and told him she would have to pay $52 more under the business tax than she did now. The lady had very little capital and such cases, he claimed, were unjust. It was an injustice to the poor man, and he thought if they passed the by-law they would be sorry for it. He suggested given the by-law a one month hoist.

Councillor MOORE agreed with Mr. Dennistoun that men should be taxed for what they were worth. The Legislature had made a distinction between the assessment of personal and real property which he thought was wrong, but a remedy would be found before long. The merchant enjoyed certain special privileges and protection and the Legislature probably intended the business tax to take the place of a frontage tax which would pay for their peculiar protection. This was not as unfair as one merchant to be able to stand next to another and enjoy equal privileges and the peculiar protection and the one pay for this peculiar protection and the other pay nothing. If it was so that only the part of the building occupied for business would be taxed it would make little difference with these people that had been referred to. On the whole he was inclined to favor the by-law, although he would like to have a little more time to consider the matter.

Councillor KENDRY claimed that the outside limits of the town had nearly the same privileges and protection as the business portion.

UNDER MISAPPREHENSION.

Councillor HALL said it seemed that the gentlemen who had argued against the by-law seemed to be under a misapprehension in regard to the assessment of stock. The by-law did away with the tax on stocks altogether and taxed the assessed value of the building. The question was "Was this step in the right direction?" The tenant going into a store would know what his rent was and what his taxes would be. If a man occupied an expensive store he would know that it was to his advantage to occupy such a store and should pay accordingly.

Councillor DENNISTOUN said some firms would find their taxes greatly increased and others decreased, and that would be a species of exemption. There would be exemptions with the by-law or without it. At present the poorer class were exempted and with the by-law the richer would be exempted.

Councillor KELLY again pointed out that the business tax would be an injustice to the small merchants outside the business limits. Councillor Kelly is proceeding with his argument, asked if the stores were moved to Water-st., where would George-st. be?

Councillors HALL and DENNISTOUN (in duet)—In the soup.

Councillor DAWSON favored the by-law, asking what object there would be for a man to save and pay for his goods if he could escape taxation by not paying for them?

Councillor DAVIDSON, in reply to a question of Councillor Kendry, said that small shops where hats were trimmed or millinery work done would not come under the by-law, but only such persons who were buying and selling goods.

Councillor DENNISTOUN, asked if any other places had tried this system, or was Peterborough the first?

Councillor DAVIDSON said no, that the system was in operation in several other places.

THE MANUFACTORIES.

Councillor MELDRUM asked why the large manufacturing concerns in town were not taxed, as they received all the privileges. He was only partly in favor of the by-law. He was in favor of having all the business men equally taxed, but Mr. Davidson's by-law did not cover the whole evil, although it was a step in the right direction.

Councillor MOORE also thought that, as this was a frontage tax for privileges, the wholesale manufacturing concerns should be taxed.

Councillor CAHILL said there were two sides to the question and after listening to the discussion he was unable to say what was right and what was wrong. He held that anything of value should be taxed. The man who bought land and did not pay cash for it was no more of a speculator than the man who bought a stock. After further arguing as to the apparent unfairness of the business tax, Councillor Cahill thought they should wait until next year and see what expense other places would have with the by-law. He intended to vote against the by-law.

THE FINAL VOTE DELAYED.

Before a vote was taken on the first clause of the by-law, Councillor Kelly moved in amendment that the committee rise to sit three weeks hence. This amendment was lost and the clause was carried, Councillors Davidson, Winch, Hall, Bradburn, Dawson, Langford and Mayor Stevenson voting for it. The remaining clauses were also carried and the committee rose with leave to sit again. The understanding was that the by-law would be given its third reading in three weeks.

THE MORTGAGE HOLDERS.

Councillor KELLY then moved his motion of which he had given notice at the last meeting authorizing the registrar to prepare a statement showing the mortgages held by private parties in town and the interest thereon, the cost not to exceed $200.

The MAYOR pointed out that while a mortgage was lying in the registry office nearly the entire mortgage might be paid.

Councillor MOORE said that a great deal of money was loaned by parties in town on property in the neighboring counties of Victoria, Northumberland, Durham and Hastings. How would they get at this?

Councillor DAWSON wanted to know what return there would be for the expenditure.

Councillor KELLY said the increase in the taxes would be the return.

Councillor HALL said it was perfectly absurd to pass such a motion, as it would have to be passed every year, the mortgages were always changing and the amount of money invested could not be got at.

Mayor STEVENSON suggested that in cases where land was mortgaged that the amount of mortgage be deducted from the assessment.

Councillors KELLY and CAHILL favored this.

Considerable amusement was manifested during this discussion and the motion was finally lost on a vote, only Councillors Kelly, Cahill and Kendry voting for it.

The yeas and nays were taken on the motion.

TO AWARD TENDERS

Councillor WINCH moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Charity Committee be authorized to award tenders for charity wood.—Carried.

Councillor LANGFORD moved, seconded by Councillor DAWSON,—That the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to award the tenders for the necessary material for which tenders are at present asked.—Carried.

THE GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS.

Councillor HALL moved, seconded by Councillor BRADBURN,—That this Council would urgently press on the Mayor both in his capacity as member of Parliament for this town and county and as Mayor of this town to urge on the Dominion Government the necessity of erecting a more commodious building for a custom house and inland revenue office at the corner of George and Charlotte-sts. than would appear to be intended by the work done, as the building as it appears now designed is not at all in keeping with the present or future progress of the town.

As the motion was made the Mayor remarked "I will be most happy to do so." The motion carried.

Councillor MOORE moved that the Court of Revision be authorized to remit the taxes of Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Thornton.—Carried.

Councillor HALL moved, seconded by Councillor BRADBURN,—That the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to ask for tenders for the water-pipes necessary to lay into the Edison Works.—Carried.

THE FORESTALLING BY-LAW.

Councillor LANGFORD introduced the question of forestalling in the market. He said that local dealers felt it a hardship that they were prevented from purchasing on the market before eleven o'clock while outside buyers came in and bought as and when they liked. He thought the by-law should be amended doing away with forestalling.

The MAYOR endorsed what was said, and stated that he intended bringing the matter up himself.

The by-law is to be revised and brought up at the next meeting of the Council.

THE CLOSING BUSINESS.

Councillor HALL moved, seconded by Councillor LANGFORD,—That Messrs. Winch, Meldrum, Dennistoun and Bradburn be added to the Manufacturers Committee.—Carried.

Councillor DAVIDSON said he noticed that the city of Toronto had asked a part of a million dollars to assist in the establishment of smelting works in that city. Mr. Davidson thought a resolution should be drawn up and forwarded to the Legislature protesting against such a grant.

The communication from the Board of Trade in regard to the Trent Valley Canal deputation was then brought up.

Council HALL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That as many of the Councillors as possible be a deputation to proceed to Ottawa and act in conjunction with the other deputations in reference to the construction of the Canal. The motion carried.

The Council then adjourned.

OUR STREET RAILWAY.

Electric Cars to be Running Before the Close of the Year.

A member of the Peterborough Street Railway Co. stated to the REVIEW yesterday that this summer would see electric street cars running on George-st. The work is to be started early in the spring and negotiations are now being made for four electric street cars to be made by the Edison Co. The cars cost $5,000 each. The line will first be constructed from Hilliard's mill to the cemetery and Exhibition grounds, and extended in the course of time.

A New Organist For St. Paul's.

An organist has been engaged for St. Paul's church, that position having been made vacant some months ago by the resignation of Mr. Parker. The new organist is Prof. Ardagh, who has been organist in the Carlton-st. Methodist church, Toronto, and a teacher in the Academy of Music. Prof. Ardagh was here yesterday afternoon and gave an exhibition before a number of the managers of the church and a few of the congregation. The new organist comes here highly recommended as a master of the instrument, and his musical talent is of no mean order. He is the first solo flutist in the Dominion and has played as such before the Queen. A young son of Prof. Ardagh's was here with him yesterday and sang a couple of solos which surpassed anything that had been heard here for a youth of twelve or fourteen years. The boy possess a rare soprano voice and will be a valuable acquisition to the choir. The new organist will be here for Sunday next.

PROF. KOCH GOING TO EGYPT.

He Tells Why He Only Partially Disclosed His Lymph Secret.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—Professor Koch, who is about to start for Egypt, gave a farewell reception to his laboratory assistants to-day. The professor says that he will probably be absent from Berlin about three months. He explains that he only partially disclosed the method of the production of the curative lymph because he desired to stop the rush of doctors to Berlin. If he had described the method of manufacture more fully, he says, he would have been more worried about the details. Great discontent prevails among medical men regarding the published account of the method of manufacture of the lymph. They have made numberless attempts to produce the lymph, but they find Professor Koch's description totally inadequate to enable them to make it.

Killed Her Two Children and Herself.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 2.—A despatch from Horton, Kan., says: "News reached here to-night of a horrible act of an insane woman who has been living on a farm seven miles west of here. Mrs. Henry Wysong was left a widow two years ago, with three children, the youngest four years of age. This winter she has been almost destitute. The fear of starvation so preyed on her mind that she attempted to kill her children and herself. The oldest, a boy of 12, escaped from her after she had cut his throat with a knife, and then ran to a neighbors, giving the alarm. The neighbor hurried to the house, which he found in flames. The woman had killed the remaining two children, and after inflicting fatal wounds on herself had set fire to the house. The three charred bodies were found. The boy who escaped will live."

Passenger Train Wrecked.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 2.—The passenger train which left Griffin to-night on Savana, Griffin and North Alabama road was thrown from the track and the whole train rolled down a twenty foot embankment. About 15 passengers were severely wounded, but none were killed.

The Cuban Revolution.

BUENOS AYRES, Feb. 2.—After a battle lasting several hours the regular troops have reoccupied Valparaiso. The insurgents lost heavily and it is believed the revolt will be speedily suppressed. President Balmaceda has sent 2000 troops to Ancud, on the Island of Chiloe, off which a naval engagement was fought recently.

A CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON.

Hon. Mr. Longley Discussing Reciprocity in the States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Hon. J. W. Longley of Halifax is here accompanied by Erastus Wiman on their way south, and with a view to promoting the movement in the direction of reciprocity they called, while here, on a number of leading statesmen. There is believed to be a sincere desire on the part of the commercial element in the United States to ascertain what is the real sentiment of the Canadian people regarding trade with this country, and thus an election would afford an early opportunity to decide. In order that there may be every encouragement afforded, some resolution—probably that recommended by Mr. Hitt finds greatest favor. To show the extent of the feeling in this direction, even Mr. McKinley, the author of the House tariff which so seriously affects Canada, assured Mr. Wiman that he would vote for Mr. Hitt's resolution, while Mr. Speaker Reed referred to the proposed reciprocal movement as likely to be more beneficial to his constituency than almost any event that could happen. From Senators McMillan and others assurances were received that if the House passed the resolution, the Senate would promptly follow suit.

A London Attraction.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—A curious fact has happened with regard to the Parnell case. Crowds have recently been observed in Medina-place, and every day more and more people have been seen wending their way thither. The object of attraction is the fire escape by means of which it is said Parnell's escape was effected on the occasion when Capt. O'Shea returned at an inopportune and unexpected hour. The commercial aspect of this attractive object has not been lost sight of and the owners of the house have been offered a large sum for the ladder by a museum proprietor, who expects to reap a golden harvest if he is able to succeed in purchasing it. Another offer has been made for the house itself, which would then be opened to the public gaze at so much a head.

Mormonism in England.

NOTTINGHAM, Feb. 2.—The dissenters of this city and neighborhood have declared a vigorous war against the Mormons. Rev. Mr. Ward, an anti-Mormon missionary, delivered a fervid lecture upon the subject last night at South Normantown, the strongest Mormon centre in England. Mr. Ward declared the Mormons were as great polygamists as ever.

EYRAUD GUILLOTINED.

THE STRANGLER DIES LIKE THE RUFFIAN HE WAS.

He Refuses to Return the Abbe's Kiss of Death, Blasphemes the Minister of the Interior and Finally Has to be Thrown on the Block.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Eyraud met his fate this morning with sullen resignation. Eyraud declined a glass of cognac which was tendered him by one of the wardens before starting for the place of execution, and in spite of the earnest solicitations of Abbe Faure positively, even angrily, refused to listen to the good priest's prayers, to pray himself, or to have any religious rites performed in his behalf. He continued impatiently to refuse religious consolation while on the death march to the guillotine, which had been erected during the night in the Place de la Roquette by M. de Paris and his grim assistants. When pinioned and on the point of being overturned upon the bascull of the guillotine—upon the plank which was to glide with him beneath the fatal suspended knife, Eyraud, with a movement as of angry contempt, refused to return the last kiss bestowed on him by Abbe Faure, as is customary in the case of criminals on the point of being executed. The action of the guillotine, once Eyraud's neck was well beneath the uprights, was instantaneous. There was a flash and all was over. Eyraud's head had fallen into the sawdust, then fell into the receptacle which awaited it. The body of the murderer was handed over to his relatives and acquaintances.

Scenes at the Guillotine.

Before Eyraud was strapped to the guillotine he gazed at the faces around him, then angrily exclaimed: "Constans, the Minister of the Interior, was right. He has won his case now—his prize. He will be to-night with Gabrielle. What grand personage is going to decorate Gabrielle Bompard!" When within a few feet of the fatal block Eyraud eluded the executioners for a moment and loudly and angrily shouted to the assembled crowd, "Constans is a murderer. He is more of a murderer than I. Constans is — — —."

Before he could complete the sentence the executioner seized the murderer, threw him upon the inclined plank of the guillotine dethier, pressed the knob, and the flashing blade suspended over Eyraud's neck fell with a sharp sliding sound, and the head of Gouffe's assassin rolled into the basket below.

AUSTRIA'S TARNISHED LOYALTY.

A Doubly Fatal Duel Over an Unfaithful Wife, Who Takes Poison.

VIENNA, Feb. 3.—No such sensation has occurred in court circles here since the mysterious death of the Crown Prince Rudolph as that caused by the circumstances surrounding the decease of the daughter and the son-in-law of the famous Princess Pauline Metternich. When Countess Antoinette Pascaline Waldstein, nee Metternich, was found dead in front of her toilet-table, where she had fallen while dressing for dinner, it was said that she had succumbed to aneurism of the heart. The young Countess, who was a great favorite in Viennese society, had just celebrated her 28th birthday.

Her marriage to young Count Waldstein-Wartenberg six years ago at the famous Metternich Castle of Johannesberg had been a love match, and they lived very happily together. Her sad fate brought sorrow to all who had known her, and when her husband died suddenly at Vienna the other day his death was attributed to his despair at losing his charming and beloved wife. A peculiar circumstance was that his land-steward—an ex-hussar officer, Baron X., who had been his most intimate friend, died about ten days before Count Waldstein. A few days ago it became known, through the indiscretion of Count Waldstein's valet, that Countess Waldstein had carried on an intrigue with the young Baron, and that upon this being discovered she had committed suicide with poison to avoid the exposure with which she was threatened. The young count fought a duel with his wife's lover in the park of his castle of Dux, in Bohemia, a duel which ended fatally for both combatants, the Baron dying within 24 hours; whilst the betrayed husband, who had also been severely wounded, managed to reach Vienna, where he breathed his last a week later, refusing absolutely to see any of his own people or any member of his wife's family. He was connected with most of the great houses of the Austrian aristocracy.

A Decision Thursday.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The sections of the Irish party will probably meet Thursday when the result of the Boulogne conference will be [illegible] and a united [illegible] will be proposed.

OPENING THE CAMPAIGN.

ALL THE DOMINION MINISTERS ARE ON THE MOVE.

Sir John to Speak in Toronto Friday—Chapleau to Take Charge of the Montreal District—Foster and Costigan off for New Brunswick—Dewdney will Leave for Regina this Week.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—The reason for the Government's appeal to the country is contained in the following letter from Lord Stanley, the Governor-General, to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, OTTAWA,
Dec. 13, 1890.

MY LORD,—I have the honor to send to Your Lordship to-day a telegraph message in cipher, of which the following is the substance. With reference to my telegram of the 10th inst. this Government is desirous to propose a joint commission such as that of 1871 with authority to deal without limitation and to prepare a treaty respecting the following subjects:

1. Renewal of the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 with the modifications required by the altered circumstances of both countries and with the extension deemed by the commission to be in the interests of Canada and the United States.

2. Reconsideration of the treaty of 1888, with respect to the Atlantic fisheries with the aim of securing the free admission into United States markets of Canadian fishery products in return for facilities to be granted to United States fishermen to buy bait and supplies and to tranship cargoes in Canada: all such privileges to be mutual.

3. Protection of mackerel and other fisheries on the Atlantic Ocean and in inland waters, also

4. Relaxation of seaboard coasting laws of the two countries.

5. Relaxation of the coasting laws of the two countries on the inland waters dividing Canada from the United States.

6. Mutual salvage and saving of wrecked vessels.

7. Arrangements for settling boundaries between Canada and Alaska. The treaty would of course be ad referendum.

FROM OTTAWA.

Movements of the Ministers—All to Start for the Battlefield at Once.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Hon. Mr. Colby sailed on the 31st inst. for Canada and is expected in Ottawa in a few days.

Hon. Mr. Chapleau leaves to-night for Montreal. He has been entrusted with the division extending from Three Rivers to Pontiac, Quebec. He will make his headquarters at Montreal.

The extra of The Official Gazette announcing the dissolution will be issued to-morrow, 4th inst. It will be the same form used since Confederation. It will announce that Parliament has been dissolved, that it stands adjourned till April 25, and that in the meantime the Senators and members are discharged from their attendance.

Honore Robillard, ex-M.P., will probably be a Conservative candidate in Ottawa.

The Cabinet met at Ottawa yesterday.

Hon. Mr. Foster will open the campaign on Monday at Sussex, N.B.

Sir John Macdonald intimates that he will be a candidate in Kingston only.

Hon. John Costigan will leave for New Brunswick Tuesday.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney says the prospects are that the Conservative party will have a clean sweep in the Northwest and Manitoba. He leaves for Regina at the end of the week.

THE FINANCE MINISTER.

What Hon. Mr. Foster Has to Say Respecting New Brunswick.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Said Hon. Mr. Foster to your correspondent: Nothing more can be said about the offer from Washington than has appeared, but full particulars will be given later. In New Brunswick the Government stands to come back stronger than at present. A strong fight will be made in St. John, with a good prospect of carrying the three seats. Restigouche, Gloucester, Northumberland, Kent, Westmoreland, Albert, King's, will, I think, present an unbroken front. Victoria will return the Minister of Inland Revenue without a doubt. Carleton stands fairly to win. York will probably go by acclamation. Sunbury will stand by Mr. Wilmott and in Queen's and Charlotte I believe the old standard bearers will give a good account of themselves. New Brunswick wants no policy hatched out in a foreign country to destroy the independent state of Canada, to discriminate against British trade and raise a Chinese wall about our borders for the sole benefit of one country, and that not our own. She will stand by the policy of wise protection to home industries and reasonable reciprocity with any country that desires it. The Liberal-Conservatives are consistent in this policy and will remain so. The interests of Canada will with them be first.

The Government is willing to widen the area and volume of foreign commerce with the United States and other countries so far as that can be done consistently with the honor, the interests and the future of Canada. If the Government is returned to power it will at once be prepared to send representatives to Washington to treat for fullest possible reciprocity obtainable and consistent with Canada's best interests.

Toronto Notes.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The Conservatives have decided to open the campaign by a mass meeting in the Auditorium on Friday night, at which Sir John Macdonald is to be present. A telegram was read from him that he and two or more of his colleagues would be present, probably Sir John Thompson and Hon. Mr. Foster.

Echoes of the Campaign.

John White, ex-M.P. for East Hastings, will probably run in his old constituency.

South Brant Reformers will meet to-day to fix upon a date for a convention.

Henry Muma of Drumbo, the Dominion arbitrator, may run in the Conservative interest in South Oxford.

Alexander McKay and George Tuckett are mentioned as the Hamilton Conservative team.

L. E. Mallette, contractor for the Langevin block, Ottawa, will oppose Hugh McMillan, M.P. (Con.), in Vaudreuil.

Warden John Dickenson will likely be the Reform candidate for the Dominion House in South Wentworth against Major Carpenter, M.P.

The Halifax Liberals hold their convention next Tuesday evening to nominate candidates. Hon. A. G. Jones will offer for re-election.

E. A. Macdonald is running in East York, and running hard. He has issued his address to the electors and with his nomination from the regularly organized convention he is ready to do battle for his illustrious namesake.

In Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3.—No great excitement is apparent here over dissolution, it having been anticipated by private despatch. It is not known yet whether Scarth will run or not. Watson is in the field for Selkirk, with Boyd of Carberry as a possible opponent, and Daly for Brandon will not be elected without opposition. In Provencher there is not as yet any opposition to Lariviere, nor in Lisgar to Ross, but both will probably develop in the early days of the campaign.

THE ICE FIELD MOVED OUT.

A Score or Two Fishermen Carried Out on Lake Huron.

BAY CITY, Mich., Feb. 3.—Much excitement prevails here concerning a report that many fishermen have drifted into Lake Huron on an icefield carried out of Saginaw Bay by a strong south wind this forenoon. A number of the fishermen reached Andersonville, a suburb of this city, and reported that most of their companions reached shore safely. The best authority obtainable places the number of castaways from 20 to 30. If these do not reach shore before the ice passed outside of Saginaw Bay there is no hope of their being rescued.

MAKE IT PART OF THE UNION.

He Gives Reasons Why Canada Ought to be at Once Secured.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Discussing the Fortification Bill in the Senate, Mr. Blair said he believed Canada would be the great base of any warlike operations against the United States, and therefore Canada ought to be secured and made part of the American Union.

WHIPPED SAM JONES.

A Texan Mayor Did Not Like His Remarks.

PALESTINE, Tex., Feb. 3.—At a meeting here last fall Rev. Sam Jones, the evangelist, spoke of Mayor J. J. Word's official and private character before a large audience in the severest terms. Jones lectured here last night and as he was about to take a train this morning the Mayor appeared and vigorously caned him. In the struggle the cane changed hands and the mayor received several blows. Heavy bruises were inflicted and both bled profusely.

The Big Glove Contest To-Morrow.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Every preparation has been made for the Cal McCarthy-Dixon glove contest, which will take place at the rooms of the Puritan Athletic Club, Long Island City, on Thursday evening next. Both men have trained very carefully for the event and a rattling contest should be the result. The McCarthyites are at present bearing their stock with stories that Cal is not as fit as they would like to see him. He is as fit as he ever was or can be made and he will need to be both when he sizes up against the Provincialist, whose talents the Bostonese were the first to recognize. The doors of the club will be closed at 9 o'clock on the night when the men will meet.

The Ancaster Murder.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—Last night word was received from Lynden to the effect that a strong clue to the murderers of Mr. Heslop had been discovered there. Detective Greer was notified and made an investigation but no arrests. Mrs. and Miss Heslop have both improved in mind and body since the funeral on Friday. It is the intention of the widow and daughter to vacate the old homestead and to take up their residence in Dundas.

Barnum's $15,000 Tiger Choked.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 3.—A big tiger valued at $15,000, belonging to Barnum & Bailey, was choked to death by a bone sticking in his throat while eating his breakfast at the winter quarters of the show in this city last night. By the law of compensation a fine lioness gave birth to four beautiful cubs at the same place in the evening, which are valued at $15,000.

Fire at Hepworth.

HEPWORTH, Feb. 3.—About 4 o'clock this afternoon the Hermann House was discovered to be on fire. The villagers turned out and subdued the flames. Loss comparatively light. The fire is supposed to have originated from the kitchen stove.

Two Killed, Three Injured.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 3.—About 11 o'clock to-day, during a snowstorm, a way freight east bound and an extra west bound freight train collided three miles west of Corry on the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio road. Lew Osgood, a well-known engineer, and Fireman Imson were killed and Engineer Britton and two brakemen injured.

Hotel Burned.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—A fire broke out in Mr. P. Hamier's hotel at East Templeton about 10 o'clock last night, which destroyed the building. The fire lasted over three hours, and much difficulty was experienced in keeping adjoining houses from igniting. The building is a total loss, and damages will amount to $4000.

A Canadian Killed.

BUFFALO, Feb. 3.—Wallace Harrington, aged 25 years, a native of Canada and employed as a fireman on train 31 of the Lake Shore Railroad, was fatally injured in a collision near Ripley, Chautauqua county, at 9.14 this morning. He was taken to Brocton, where he died.

Attempted Suicide at Delhi.

DELHI, Feb. 3.—This afternoon Adam Laing, who for some time has been in a demented condition, attempted suicide, by cutting his throat with a razor. He failed to cut the windpipe or sever an artery and will likely recover.

Without a Moment's Warning.

RIPONTOWN, Feb. 3.—Cyrus Bell of Windsor died here suddenly to-day. The deceased was well known throughout Western Ontario and was apparently in the best of health an hour before his death.

Whittier Drops the Pen.

DANVERS, Mass., Feb. 3.—John Greenleaf Whittier's pen has been laid aside forever. "My writing days are over," he said the other day. "I have stepped aside to make way for others."

Government Inspection of Cattle.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Mr. William Smith, Deputy Minister of Fisheries, speaking on the cattle commission, said he thought it would result in a measure being introduced into Parliament subjecting all shipments of cattle to Government inspection.

Probably Fatally Injured.

RODNEY, Feb. 3.—Colin Lamont, employed at Patterson's Hotel, fell from a second story window of the hotel last evening on to the hard pavement, being badly shaken up and severely injuring his spine. His recovery is doubtful.

Edith Loses Her Suit.

BUFFALO, Feb. 3.—The case of Edith Sanderson Tupper against Martin Morin, ex-superintendent of police, was dismissed in the Circuit Court to-day. Justice Lewis called the case and no one responded for the plaintiff. Detective Cuddy of Toronto, who made the arrest on a telegram from Morin, was one of the witnesses subpœnaed.

Incendiary Fires in London.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—An incendiary set fire to the Britannia House stables and the stables east of the Martin House last night. A few hundred dollars will cover the loss in each instance. Assistant Fireman John Alfords fell from a haymow and fractured his leg during the fire.

BURIAL OF BRADLAUGH.

LATEST PHASES OF THE OPARTO REVOLUTION.

One of the Insurgent Leaders Explains That It Was Intended to Sack Oporto and Shoot All the Officials of the City—Lead to His Death.

OPORTO, Feb. 3.—One result of the enquiry made by the military and civil authorities into the cause of the revolt of troops here Saturday is the discovery that an effort was made to involve the Portuguese navy in the uprising. Two sergeants of marines belonging to the Sagres, a government corvet lying in the roads outside of Oporto, endeavored to incite the crew of that vessel to mutiny and seize the ship. The two sergeants were arrested while trying to arrange for the proposed plot. One of the sergeants named Cardoso, when questioned, declared he was a supporter of the project to establish a Federal Republic having its seat of government at Oporto and independent of Lisbon. He added that it was expected the movement in Oporto would have the support of the Spanish revolutionary party.

A decree issued in Lisbon to-day announces that all the crimes connected with the rising here come under the jurisdiction of the military tribunals. This is interpreted to mean that all the civilians, as well as soldiers, connected with the revolt will be tried by martial law and that the ringleaders will probably be shot.

It is now stated 50 persons were killed and 200 injured in the fight following the revolt of the garrison here.

An insurgent leader declares it was the intention of the insurgents to sack Oporto and shoot all officials.

LED TO HIS DEATH.

A Learned Doctor Supposed to Have Been Foully Murdered.

MANCHESTER, Feb. 3.—The details of a foul crime have just come to light. Dr. Lindermann, the assistant librarian of Owens College, has been murdered in Italy, whither he journeyed in search of health. On his way south he met a couple of Germans of middle age, who traveled with him. Such was the learned doctor's mental condition that they gained a complete ascendency over him. Some days later the two men returned to San Remo, and announced that they had placed Dr. Lindermann in an institution. His friends in Manchester, who had become anxious, came to the Continent to learn what had become of him. They found the body in one of the grottoes of the wonderful Cornice-road. The two men who are supposed to have killed him and taken all his money are missing.

Parnell and McCarthy.

DUBLIN, Feb. 3.—The Freeman's Journal says: "It is curious to note that Mr. McCarthy is following Mr. Parnell's lead. In his Liverpool speech he echoes Mr. Parnell's Ennis speech. All just men will read Mr. McCarthy's speech with pleasure and with reassurance that this week will see settled many momentous matters. Mr. McCarthy's tone is not similar to that of his followers, and it is a hopeful sign to find that Mr. McCarthy recognizes with Mr. Parnell that the granting of real Home Rule is the only way to settle the Irish question."

Colored Ribbons at a Funeral.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The funeral of Charles Bradlaugh took place to-day at Woking. Over 15,000 people traveled from London by special trains to be present. Many wore colored ribbons around their hats.

About 2000 people gathered around Mr. Bradlaugh's grave. Among those present were John Morley, Henry Labouchere, Mrs. Besant and a number of members of the House of Commons. The coffin was covered with floral wreaths, but no mourning garments were worn, nor was there any display of crape or black cloth. Complete silence was maintained by all who gathered around the grave.

Spain Begins to Feel Uneasy.

MADRID, Feb. 3.—On learning of the revolt in Oporto the Government here ordered the troops to be confined in the barracks and other precautionary measures to be taken on the frontier. The official press urges the Governments of Spain and Portugal to be more watchful of the doings of the democracy.

Death of a Noted Welsh Bard.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Thomas Dowles of Pontypridd, Wales, better known as "Dardi of Ergylt," one of the most distinguished Welsh poets, or bards, died suddenly, just after drinking a glass of spirits at a local public house. He was about 50 years old, and had taken more Eisteddfodd honors than any other Welsh bard.

Charged with Perjury.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—Robert Nichol, jr., the young Seneca farmer against whom the Binbrook Liberals preferred a charge of perjury because it was alleged he took a freeholder's oath when he had sold the property, came up at the Police Court this morning. Lawyer Nesbit argued that the case must fail as it was not proved that Nichol took the oath wilfully and that it was a false oath. Although the deeds were produced it had not been shown that Nichol was not the owner on that day. Nichol was on the revised list and he honestly believed that he had the right to vote. The magistrate reserved judgment until Saturday.

Dragged to Death.

HEPWORTH, Feb. 3.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning, as John Meyer was hauling cordwood into the Grand Trunk yard here, part of the load on which he was sitting slipped forward, throwing him in front of the sleigh. He was dragged a considerable distance, and when picked up life was extinct.

Telegraphic Taps.

Major Wissman has sent to Emperor William his resignation as commissioner in East Africa.

The Manchester Ship Canal Company, engaged in digging a ship canal to the sea, have appealed to the Manchester corporation for assistance. They want $1,700,000 to complete the work.

The Hoola bronze and iron works were almost completely burned out to-night; loss $200,000.

The Washington census bureau reports the total cargo tonnage for 1889 on the great lakes was 27,460,300. Coal, iron ore, lumber, corn and wheat formed 90 per cent. of the traffic. The Canada coastwise trade is not included.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

A MASS meeting of the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough will be held in the Opera House, Peterborough, on Saturday next, Feb. 7th, for the purpose of selecting a standard bearer in the Dominion campaign. The campaign will be a short one and prompt action is necessary. The Conservatives of the constituency should be present in large numbers, for the time is short in which to make the necessary arrangements for the day of voting.

The friends of the Government have a good cause to uphold, and one that cannot fail to win the sympathy of the people. The policy of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues has been one of progress combined with economy; they have had in view the motto endorsed by the people of "Canada for the Canadians" and have acted upon it. For over twelve years they have guided the affairs of the Dominion with a careful hand, and the more its record is examined the more clearly it will be seen that the Government is entitled to the hearty endorsation and warm support of the people. There is not a part of the Dominion that has not been benefitted by its action and policy, and a reversal of that policy would be disastrous for the country.

Let there be a grand rally on Saturday next, and by prompt and united action West Peterborough will again send a member to Ottawa in sympathy with the old Chieftain.

The Single Tax.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Before Father Huntington and his lecture are forgotten, would it not be nice if the members of the Association under whose auspices he appeared would inform us whether or not they consider it as great a sin to own land as to own a slave, and also in each case let us know whether or not they own land, and if those who do own land and who do consider it a sin to own it are taking any steps towards living up to their convictions? Having given us this information will they also state whether they believe in "confiscation" or "compensation"? We think we know where Mr. Burnham stands. Where are the rest?

ONE OF YOUR READERS.

You Takes Your Choice.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Look at this extract from an interview yesterday with W. T. R. Preston, Grit organizer and boodler in chief:—"We knew it was coming and have been preparing for it for months past." Just for a moment contrast that sentence with the hysterical scream in last night's Examiner. Evidently the lesser lights were not included in the "we" who knew the elections were coming.

THE LATEST FASHION.

A demand for miniature paintings has raised the price of these pins and ornaments 15 per cent.

Just now rice pudding is in favor as a desert, followed by a liqueur of some half-curling strength.

Brown, in mahogany, seal, chestnut and coffee, is the prevailing tint among the walking dresses imported from England.

Think of paying $30 for a whisk broom—with a handle of embossed silver! Yet thousands are sold in New York in a season.

One of the most petted pieces of furniture in the modern drawing-room is a chair or sofa upholstered in embroidered cream colored satin.

An attempt is made to introduce brocaded silk tablecloths. It goes without saying that a meal served on a $9 a yard cream brocade should be extra dry.

Smart millinery is unquestionably a very good paying business for a young and pretty woman to engage in. With toques selling at $19 and demi-dress bonnets at $35, one can stand the left-over stock.

There are notebooks for the woman and girls we love, of various sizes, bound in Russia and morocco leather, the covers of which are embellished with mosaic work done in bits of enamelled and painted leather.

Put white lilacs, white hyacinth or white carnations in a white bowl; get a yellow jar for jonquils, a pink vase for Bon Silene rosebuds and arrange crimson tulips with their foliage in a green or red bowl if you care for the monotone that colorists are advancing.

A pretty tailor-made outdoor costume is dull dahlia-red lady's cloth, with sleeves, revers, and bands of Persian lamb. The jacket, which has a flat cloth plastron, fastens at the side. Rows of fancy black galoe encircle the lower part of the skirt, which also has a deep hem of similar fur. Hat in red felt, trimmed with a velvet ribbon round the low crown, secured in the centre by a long buckle in oxidized silver group of ostrich tips.

MR WRIGHTON CHAIRMAN

OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION FOR 1891.

Mr. Stevenson Declines—A Tribute to Efficient and Faithful Services—The Standing Committees.

The inaugural meeting of the Board of Education for 1891 was held at one o'clock noon to-day, when the chief fact of interest was the retirement of Mr. Jas. Stevenson from the Chairmanship, which he has so efficiently and faithfully held for several years past. Those present were Messrs. Stevenson, Dumble, Kendry, Burnham, Ferguson, Rutherford, Bradburn, Wrighton, Hill, English, Hamilton, Denne and Corkery.

ELECTING A CHAIRMAN.

The Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Geo. Morrow, called the members to order and announced that Wm. English, W. H. Wrighton, Dr. Burnham and Thos. Rutherford had been re-elected public school trustees, that D. W. Dumble and W. G. Ferguson had been appointed High School trustees, and John Corkery Separate school representative for the ensuing year. He also stated that all the members had signed the necessary declaration, and called upon the Board to elect their Chairman for the year.

Mr. KENDRY moved, seconded by Mr. Hill,—That Mr. Jas. Stevenson be elected Chairman for the year.

Mr. STEVENSON after referring to his twenty-one years on the Board and thanking the Board for the honor tendered him declined the position stating that he had other business which would demand his attention. He moved, seconded by Mr. English, that Mr. W. H. Wrighton be chairman.

A TRIBUTE TO SERVICES.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. RUTHERFORD,—That on the occasion of the election of a Chairman of the Board of School Trustees this Board regrets that Mr. James Stevenson has declared his intention of no longer occupying the position of Chairman, the Board acknowledges the long and faithful services rendered to the town by Mr. Stevenson in his official capacity as Chairman of the Board; he has always been courteous and fair as a presiding officer, agreeable and painstaking in his intercourse with the teaching staff and with the many people with whom he was officially brought into contact; this Board now thanks Mr. Stevenson for past services and hopes he may long continue as a member to give his wise and prudent services to advance the educational interests of the town.

The motion of Mr. Stevenson was then carried and Mr. Wrighton took the chair and returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him and promised to perform the duties of the office to the best of his ability in the interests of the Board.

THE STANDING COMMITTEES.

Messrs. Denne, Kendry, Hamilton, Hill and Burnham were appointed a committee to strike the standing committees for the year and after consideration reported as follows:—

FINANCE.—Dr. Burnham (Chairman) and Messrs. Bradburn, Ferguson, Corkery and McKee.

SUPERVISION.—Messrs. Denne (Chairman), Dr. Boucher, Hill, Dumble and Kendry.

PROPERTY.—Messrs. English (Chairman), Stevenson, Hamilton, Rutherford and Kendry.

APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Dumble (Chairman) and the whole Board.

This report was adopted.

The Board then adjourned.

A REPLY.

The Agricultural Society Replies to the St. Andrew's Society.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Would you kindly allow us space in your valuable paper to answer that very malicious and wanton attack made by the St. Andrew's Society (or a faction of it) over the signature of the President, George Noble, on the Agricultural Society, because that one paragraph of the Annual Report of the officers referred to a matter of business, casually, between the officers of the two societies.

First of all this precious tirade comments on the small attendance and lack of interest taken by the members. We admit the attendance was not what the importance of the meeting deserved, but was scarcely so small as stated by our friends, none of whom, however, were present on this occasion, they having lost all their boasted sympathy with the agricultural interests, which they professed to have last summer, but which had disappeared on the last of November, for at their annual dinner they omitted to propose or honor the agricultural interests among the long list of toasts proposed. We do not know if the loss of haggis was the cause, or whether they were ashamed to acknowledge the agriculturalists after their base treatment of our Society, or probably they were anticipating the report which they are pleased to call incorrect and injudicious, but which we claim is neither the one or the other. The clause referred to merely mentioned the games by their Society as one of the features of the fair, as was done with other attractions, in a general way, commenting on some and commending others as they deserved which is the usual way in the reports of officers to their members.

We will now give you a statement of how the affair commenced. Some time about the middle of July last Messrs. Cameron and Noble spoke to some of the Directors about making arrangements for holding Caledonian games at the Fall Fair. They said it would be a good drawing card, and attract a very large attendance, thereby being a great benefit to our Society, and they (St. Andrew's Society) would not expect to make much out of it financially, but that it would be a mutual benefit to both Societies. Committees were appointed by each Society, and the first meeting held in the parlor of the Morgan House, on the evening of July the 29th, when the Exhibition Committee wanted something more than the mere running off of a few games, so their Committee said they would work up an excursion from Toronto. An adjournment was made for one week to allow their Secretary to correspond with the Highland Societies in Toronto, and they also sent Messrs. Cameron and Noble up as a deputation for the same purpose. The next meeting was held in the same place as the previous one, on August 2nd, the minutes of which we will give as writ en by Mr. Menzies, Secretary of the St. Andrew's Society, and published in the Daily Examiner on August 4th, a proof also being sent to the EVENING REVIEW of same date, by Mr. Menzies, for publication. This is a true copy as published, and giving the names of Committees, showing Mr. Noble's letter to be misleading from start to finish:

"At a meeting of the Committee of the Central Exhibition held in the Morgan House on Saturday evening, a satisfactory agreement was reached with the Executive Committee of the St. Andrew's Society for holding a grand exhibition of Scottish games and other first-class athletic sports, on the second day of the Central Exhibition.

"There was present at the meeting Messrs. H. C. Winch, A. P. Morgan, J. A. Davidson, Geo. Elliott and the Secretary. Wm. Collins, in behalf of the Exhibition Directors, and Messrs. Chas. Cameron, President, Geo. H. Noble, Vice-President, R. M. Dennistoun, Treasurer, W. Bettesby, and W. Menzies, Secretary, in behalf of St. Andrew's Society.

"In the absence of President Rutherford Mr. Winch acted as chairman during the evening and called upon the St. Andrew's deputation to state their case.

"The deputation then recited the details of their visit to Toronto, and the satisfactory result of their interview with the various representatives of the Scottish societies for securing the attendance of Highlanders, pipers and others who usually take part in Scottish games throughout the Province. The Secretary also read the following letter, which he had received since the return of the deputation, from J. M. Wingfield, Grand Chief of the Grand Camp, Sons of Scotland:—

"GRAND CAMP, SONS OF SCOTLAND,
OFFICE OF GRAND CHIEF,
TORONTO, 1st August, 1890.

"DEAR SIR,—Your favor to hand regarding a Scotch day during your exhibition. Since your president was here I have seen some of our pipers and others who usually take part in our games, and they say if the prizes are liberal they will go; and if a cheap trip can be arranged from Toronto on the day, you will have a great many from this city. I will do what I can to encourage our men, as opportunity offers, to take in your games. I feel some interest in your town, as I think you ought to have a camp of the Sons of Scotland.

"Wishing you every success in your undertaking,

"I am, sir, yours very truly,
"J. M. WINGFIELD.

"After some further talk the exhibition committee expressed themselves unanimously in favor of securing this additional attraction to the fair, and, on motion, a resolution was passed closing with the terms proposed for the same. An agreement was then drawn up and signed by the respective secretaries of the two bodies, after which the deputation withdrew."

Now, sir, you will see we had no advantage in point of numbers on the committees, but were really at a disadvantage, having no solicitor on our behalf.

After the deputation mentioned had reported and before the agreement was drawn, several members of our committee asked how many excursionists they could promise to bring to town from Toronto. Messrs. Cameron, Noble and Menzies all said they would certainly have from six to eight hundred, among which would be Highland societies in uniform, who would march down the street to the fair grounds to the music of the bagpipes.

It was on the strength of these statements, our committee thinking they were dealing with honourable men, that this precious agreement was drawn up (and not by a blacksmith or shoemaker either, who, however, left a small loop hole in it, but quite large enough for that very honourable committee of the St. Andrew's Society to crawl through). Some time after Mr. Cameron was again sent up to Toronto about the excursion, but he seemed to fail in his mission. We from time to time kept asking about the progress they were making with the excursion. At last they said they had failed to get a cheap one, but hoped for quite a large crowd anyway. But imagine our surprise when this large crowd came down in one hack—just six, but not the six hundred.

Another cause of complaint we have. There was a draft programme of games mentioned in the agreement. This programme contained 14 events. Eleven of those were to be cash prizes, 3 cups or medals. Mr. Menzies took this away and was to return it after copying, which he never did, although it was demanded personally and by letter.

Mr. Menzies says he gave the original programme to Mr. Dobbin, of the REVIEW, as the copy for games on our posters. This was, after being set up ready for posters, taken away from the printer and another programme substituted, giving 12 events. In 11 of those the prizes were cups and medals and in 1 event cash prizes. This was done without saying by your leave. The item for this change in programme on the poster was on our bill, but we had no right to pay it and did not, and it still remains unpaid, although those gentlemen promised to pay for this change. They also changed the programme to cups and medals, the latter being cheaper, and these philanthropists wanting the cash. This had the effect of keeping the competition among only local athletes. Professionals did not come, only two being from outside the county, the rest of the competitors being our own local men with a few from the neighboring villages, not the kind or quality of performance we were expecting to get for $200.00.

Another clause in the agreement says they were to put forth their best efforts to make the Scottish day a success. Did they do so, and in what way? We claim that they failed altogether to keep faith with us. We are willing to leave it to a discriminating public to say whether or no we were not justified in asking a reduction from the $200.00 stipulated.

On Oct. 15th we paid them $120.00 and requested the Treasurer to try to get them to accept that sum in full. That was rather better than 50cts. on the dollar, and we think a great deal more than we ought to have paid under the circumstances, but we were told by those Christian Jews by their action, "No, give us our pound of flesh." When we demurred they sued the committee individually, also Mr. Hugh Davidson, who was not a Director, and at a subsequent meeting of the Directors the committee was instructed to settle with them, which was done, the St. Andrew's Society paying all costs, including our solicitor's.

Then the gratuitous advice to the public to have all agreements with the Directors in writing is, to say the least, very kind and disinterested on their part, but the people of this community will not be slow to see what a mean advantage was taken of a technicality in an agreement by these 19th century Pharisees. The following old stanza would almost explain the matter itself. It reads thus:—

Sometimes we with false brethren meet
Whose hearts are filled with base deceit;
They appear quite fair, just at the first,
But of all men these are the worst.

In conclusion we would say that we have given a true statement from first, which of necessity is very long, as a great many charges were to answer, but in no case will we follow this controversy any further, as it would do no good to any one.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness in furnishing us so much of your valuable space, we remain,

Yours truly,

Signed on behalf of the Committee of the Board of Directors.

WM. COLLINS,
Secretary Agricultural Society.

OMAHA MODESTY.

Venus Attired in an Overcoat is the Latest Result of It.

A week or two since, in Omaha, a young man was arrested, and I suppose by this time sentenced severely, for the destruction of a most valuable painting of Bouguereau, valued at $18,000 or $20,000. The subject was of Spring, represented by a nude female form, which the touch of the master-hand made purity itself, for any one capable of appreciating purity of conception and execution. The young man, who was of a religious temperament, was passing through a gallery with a friend to view the pictures. When he saw the idealized Spring his modesty was not only greatly offended by the picture, but he determined at once it was not a picture to be placed on exhibition for the public. After one or two attempts at its destruction he finally seized a chair and dashed it violently through the canvas, almost totally destroying the work of the great artist. Of course he was arrested at once and his sanity questioned as well, and Omaha's cultivated circles wept over the loss of art to that city, knowing too well that none of the famous artists will hereafter allow their pictures to be exhibited for any money in Omaha.

In this case the act was a most criminal one, but last week I heard another exhibition of modesty in art that was as amusing as it was pleasing and touching for its very innocence. A family who were about to leave the city had in the house an exquisite collection of statuary, many pieces of which, owing to the contemplated removal, were sold to friends. Among the beautiful works of sculpture was quite a large sized one of Venus in the undraped manner in which the goddess usually is shown. An Irishman was sent to convey the statue to its owner, and he rolled cheerily up in his wagon and called for that for which he was sent. Very promptly the marble Venus was handed to him and the companion who had come with him, another man of his own country. For a moment the two men looked aghast, then crimsoned with shame, and before carrying the offending goddess to the wagon they looked furtively up and down the street to see if anyone was unfortunately in sight. Only in the distance were people approaching (but unobserved from a window was the young lady artist who told me the story). Then a bright thought flashed through the mind of the first man. It was cold, but he was also modest, and his keen sense of modesty forbade his going through the streets with the undressed Venus with him. So, for a moment pale and white, was the goddess placed lonely on the ground whilst the overcoat of the man who was to carry her was hastily taken off and presto, as swiftly wrapped about the chiseled form of Cupid's mother. Then with this achievement and the nude statue warmly covered with his overcoat the man walked triumphantly to the waiting vehicle, and placing the overcoated goddess securely in it, drove to his destination in great content. It was an intensely amusing scene, but there was a pretty vein of delicacy beneath the ridiculous aspect, for he who could not understand art certainly did that of not offending modesty.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

The Weather Bulletin.

Mr. Thos. Telford reports:—At sunrise this morning my self-registering thermometer stood 19 degrees below zero. Another spell of cold weather.

Personal.

The Belleville Ontario of Monday says:—"Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of Peterborough, preached two forcible sermons in Christ church yesterday. In the evening he took for his text Acts 18c., 17v. He is here to establish a Brotherhood of St. Andrew."

County Lodge Officers.

The County Lodge, L.O.L., held a meeting last evening at which the following officers were elected and duly installed by Bro. Waram, P.C.M:—

Alex. Hamilton	County Master
James Moore	Deputy County Master
C. W. Sawers	Secretary
Wm. Hastings	Treasurer
Wm. Graham	Chaplain
J. McClelland	Director of Ceremonies
J. A. McWilliams	Lecturers
Richard Waram

A Happy Congregational Re-union.

A congregational re-union which was characterized by a pleasant and happy spirit of sociability was held in the Charlotte-st. church last evening. The object of the entertainment was obvious, viz., to promote friendship among the members of the congregation and extend individual acquaintances. The pastor, Rev. R. J. Shorey, presided and made a short, happy address. A short programme, interspersed with pleasant intermissions, was rendered and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. Geo. S. [illegible] gave an instrumental solo. Vocal selections of excellence were given by Mr. A. L. Davis, Miss Fawcett, Mr. Knowles and Mrs. Shorey, and an instrumental solo was rendered by Master Bert. Brooks. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The Death at the Gaol.

The inquest to inquire into the death of Henry Fowler, the unfortunate old man who was brought to the gaol here from Havelock as a vagrant and who died a few hours after reaching this "house of refuge," resulted in a verdict being returned that death had resulted from inflammation of the lungs, brought on by exposure and drink. The unfortunate victim of the icy king was 69 years of age and but little of his previous history is known here. Dr. Fife coroner, conducted the inquest, and the jury was composed of the following citizens:—R. McWhinnie, foreman, F. H. Pearce, H. Newton, J. W. Bates, Jas. Best, Jas. Long, Thos. York and Thos. Bell. The prisoners on the jury were Dennis Slattery, Wm. Bethray, Michael Linnett, Michael Murray, Wm. Oldfield, John Stewart, Wm. Cooper and Chas. Wren.

The Population of Peterborough

is about 10,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1. VENTILATION.

Principal Fessenden, of the Institute, in reply to a question, said there were some complaints by parents that the children in the class which occupies the lower or underground room were suffering injury by the close atmosphere due to poor ventilation.

On motion of Mr. Dumble the Property Committee was authorized to improve the ventilation of the "underground" rooms of the school buildings.

ANOTHER QUESTION OF FEES.

Mr. Walkie reported that there were two families sending their children to the North Ward school who were unable to pay the fees. The families lived in the township. The Board advised the Principal to tell the families to apply to the townships in which they lived.

The Board then adjourned.

THE ASSOCIATION WORK.

A Member's Report of the Y. M. C. A. Director's Meeting.

The Board of Directors met last evening. Mr. Early, President, occupied the chair. There was a good attendance of the directors present and much important business was transacted. DANGERS OF THE RAILWAYS.

Two Flat Cars Derailed—A Narrow Escape from a Terrible Death.

Conductor Stein's way freight which left here at four o'clock yesterday afternoon had a run off at Campbellford. Two flat cars in the train were loaded with heavy iron girders which were being shipped from the Central Bridge Works here to St. Johns. These girders shifted in travel and this was the cause of the two flat cars leaving the rails. An auxiliary was sent from Belleville and the two cars were re-railed. Conductor Morris' train was slightly delayed by the accident.

Thos. McNabb, road master on the Grand Junction, had a narrow escape from a terrible death on Monday evening. He had travelled to Belleville on Conductor Stanton's train and was jumping from the coach while the train was in motion in the station yard at Belleville. The ground was very icy and he slipped and fell in under the cars. So close did he fall to the revolving wheels that one of the bolts scraped his head and one of the wheels took a piece out of his cap. It was a close call.

A Prosperous Sunday School.

The numbers in attendance at Charlotte-st. Methodist Sunday School are on the increase. Last Sunday there were 272 present. The Superintendent asked that a special collection be taken up as a thank offering and that the money be applied to the fund for enlarging the Sunday School room. Everyone present was asked to give one cent for every year that they have lived, and though a number of the scholars forgot the instructions, the sum of $17.71 was collected.—$7.50 was the boys' contribution and $11.21 the girls'.

The Guards Coming to Peterborough.

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"An officer in the Governor-General's Foot Guards told the Free Press to-day that the regiment had received an invitation to go to Peterborough on the 24th May and would accept it providing the 57th consented to come to Ottawa on Dominion Day. 'We would then try and arrange for a Montreal regiment to come to the Capital,' said the officer, 'and then hold a big field day. It is practically settled that we will go to Peterborough if we can arrange for rates with the railway company to suit us.'"

The Bertha Harper Entertainment.

There was not a large attendance at the George-st. church last evening to enjoy the Bertha Harper entertainment, although the programme merited a larger audience. Mr. Seward's organ solo was a masterly effort, while the local vocalists, Mrs. W. Daly, Miss Brundrette and Mrs. Seward acquitted themselves remarkably well. Miss Harper was down for four numbers on the programme and was encored twice. As an elocutionist the large church and small audience were against her, but, as it was, she pleased many of her audience in the most flattering manner. Her "Domestic Mutual Improvement" was encored as also was her last effort, "Aunty Doleful's Visit." Dr. Fife presided as chairman.

CITIZENS' SEND OFF

TO MR. JULES MEYERS OF THE EDISON GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.,

Who goes to Milwaukee, Wis., to Take Charge of Important Work in that City—A Pleasant Gathering.

The statement made yesterday by Mr. J. Meyers, engineer in charge of the works being erected here by the Edison General Electric Company, that he had been notified by the company to at once go to Milwaukee, was a surprise. The operations of the company here are of considerable size, will enlarge and have called for a high degree of technical skill on the part of Mr. Meyers to successfully carry out. The interests of the company at Milwaukee, where they have undertaken the construction and equipment of ten miles of electric street railway, require a man of wide experience at the helm of affairs.

On learning of Mr. Meyers' intended departure a number of citizens decided to give him a send off and gathered at the Oriental Hotel at ten o'clock last night, where they presently sat down to a nicely served supper of oysters and trimmings. These things put below, the chairman, Mayor Stevenson, having Mr. Meyers on his right and Mr. Stratton on his left, proposed the usual loyal toasts, which were duly honored.

In proposing the health of the guest of the evening, Mayor Stevenson referred to what had been accomplished by Mr. Meyers under the difficult conditions amidst which the work had been carried on. He referred to the intention of the Council, backed by the town, to carry out to the letter the arrangement with the Edison Company, and referred to the fact that one of the first contracts to be executed by the new works would be building and equipping the Peterborough Electric Street Railway. Mr. D. W. Dumble in a humorous way referred to the enterprise shown by Mr. Meyers in pushing on the work of building for the company in the face of the rigors of a Canadian winter. He admired Mr. Meyers for his success in his work. In his larger field of responsibility in Milwaukee he would no doubt be successful as well.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., spoke of the interest taken by the town in the progress of the company and expressed the hope that he would have a successful future in the west.

Mr. T. Cahill, as a member of the Town Council, regretted the departure of the guest of the evening. In a municipal way he had not always agreed with Mr. Meyers, but found him thorough and capable and watchful of the interests of his company.

Mr. Meyers in reply expressed the diffidence he felt in acknowledging the compliment of a public farewell. He was sincerely sorry to be obliged to go away, but it was the penalty of his profession. He had come to Peterborough on very short notice. He was agreeably disappointed in the town. The people were friendly and hospitable, more so than he had expected. He was sorry to go away, but hoped the work would progress rapidly and speedily. It would be a pleasing remembrance of his short sojourn in Peterborough and he promised to return when the works were opened and join on that occasion with the observers. One thing he hoped to see under way on his return was the Trent Valley Canal. It would be of immense advantage. There was an essential difference between a canal and a railroad. Any spot on the canal was a station. The canal would assist in developing the country and in hundreds of ways prove beneficial. In the way of municipal development he said that his experience was that places prospered in direct ratio as its people were progressive and pushed it ahead. Foreign capital would do much. The men of the town could do more. If it was desired to draw manufacturers, a chief essential was good sanitary conditions. This the town should receive to a fuller extent. He again thanked the company for their hospitable farewell and much kindness. The work would go on under the direction of his assistant Mr. A. J. Martin, who would have charge of the operations.

Mayor Stevenson proposed the health of Mr. Martin, who said he had received a cordial welcome and enjoyed himself thoroughly. He found the town a cheerful and pleasant place to reside in. He was glad Mr. Meyers was going to Milwaukee to advance the interest of the company though he regretted his departure. The increased responsibilities he assumed under favorable auspices, in taking up Mr. Meyers work.

The usual toasts to the various interests of the town were proposed and speeches in reply made by Messrs. A. V. R. Young, W. H. Moore, R. H. D. Hall, W. H. Meldrum, J. W. Taylor, T. Cahill, L. M. Hayes, J. L. Gower, F. J. Lewis, H. Phelan, Geo. Stevenson and representatives of Review and Examiner.

After a general hand-shake with Mr. Meyers the company dispersed.

Slow up at Crossings.

Thos. Fee, the driver of the royal mail sleigh, was charged at the Police Court this morning with furious driving. The occurrence which led to the case has been reported, Mrs. (Squire) Breckenridge having been struck by the horse at the G.T.R. station on Saturday last. After hearing the evidence the Magistrate said even the driver of Her Majesty's mail should moderate the speed of his horse at a crossing where pedestrians had the right of way. He fined the accused two dollars and costs ($5.75).

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

BABY'S FACE WAS RAW.

Distressing Itching Skin Disease Cured in One Month by the Cuticura Remedies.

When our boy was six weeks old he had a rash on his cheek. It spread on both cheeks and chin. His face was all raw. I doctored with various remedies, but it got no better. My mother advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I used them faithfully, and in one week the boy looked better. In one month he was cured, and now he is three years old and no signs of it returning. The child was so bad I had to tie him in a pillow-case, and pin his hands down so that he could not scratch his face. I cannot speak too highly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I recommend CUTICURA whenever I can. I would be pleased to see anyone and talk to them of the good it has done my boy.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Druggists in Council—Amending the License Law.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The semi-annual meeting of the council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy was held in the college yesterday afternoon.

The report of the registrar-treasurer since Aug. 1, 1890, was presented by Mr. Lewis. The number of applications of apprentices for registration has been 101. The receipts were $14,913 and the expenditure $6060. The balance in the Bank of Commerce has increased in the six months from $4278 to $8853. The assets of the college amount to $42,125, including the college building, $1716; furniture, etc., $4675; lot, $3000. The liabilities amount to $15,731, leaving a balance of $26,374.

The report of Principal E. B. Shuttleworth showed that the attendance of students at college for both junior and senior courses was larger than ever before, the numbers being respectively 91 and 76. The fees for the junior course amounted to $2307, and for the senior to $4416, making, with the matriculation fee, a total of $6852 for the entire term. The results of the junior examination in December were satisfactory, but the results of the supplementary examination in January were not so satisfactory, owing to the occurrence of the Christmas holidays. He therefore recommended the abandonment of the latter.

A deputation from the Dominion Alliance waited on the Ontario Government yesterday afternoon and asked for some important amendments to the Liquor Laws.

Dr. McLaren thanked the Government for the present legislation on behalf of temperance and then enumerated the desired amendments:

The prohibition of the sale of liquor to persons under 21 years of age.

The adoption of the Nova Scotia system of prohibiting drinking at bars, by which the treating system in its present form may be abolished.

The giving power to the electors in a polling sub-division, by a majority petition, to prevent the issue of licenses to take effect in such polling sub-division.

The licensing and inspecting of all hotels and eating houses, whether liquor is sold therein or not, so as to secure their efficient supervision.

Mr. Mowat assured the deputation that the Government would always legislate as much as possible in favor of temperance, but they must remember that all the members of the House were not temperance men. The proposed amendments would receive the serious consideration of the Government.

The annual meeting of the Grand Camp of the Sons of Scotland began in Occident Hall yesterday morning. The reports of the grand secretary, grand treasurer and grand medical examiner were presented, all showing the society to be in a flourishing condition. The financial condition of the society was so good that it was decided to increase the insurance from $500 to $1000. The election of officers resulted: Grand chief, J. M. Wingfield, Toronto, re-elected; grand chieftain, J. McNab, Barrie; grand secretary, W. Banks, 5 River-street, Toronto; grand treasurer, A. Hay, Toronto, re-elected by acclamation; grand chaplain, D. MacKay, Owen Sound; grand marshal, A. Bell, Ottawa; grand medical examiner, Dr. Ross, Barrie, re-elected by acclamation. Various amendments to the constitution were discussed, after which the society adjourned until to-day.

Insurgents Losing Ground.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Advices from Buenos Ayres say the Chilian insurgents have been obliged to abandon La Serena and Soquimbo, and the harbor of Iquique has been reopened. The Government will raise the blockade at Valparaiso in three days unless the insurgents make another attack in the meantime.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The North German Gazette publishes a decree relieving Count Von Waldersee from the position of Chief of the General Staff and appointing him to the command of the 9th Army Corps.

Parnell's American Tour.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Justin McCarthy said to-day he had heard nothing about Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien going to America. He added that if it were true that they intended to visit the United States their proposed journey formed no part of the negotiations between the two sections of the Irish party.

Buried with Military Honors.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The body of Meissonier, the painter, was laid to rest to-day at Poissy. The funeral services took place in this city at the Church of La Madeleine, that edifice being thronged with the leaders in the world of art and letters. An imposing military cortege escorted the remains.

The Italian Crisis.

ROME, Feb. 3.—King Humbert has summoned Signor Zanardelli, Signor Crispi's Minister of Justice, to form a cabinet. The Marquis di Rudini has abandoned the task.

10,000 Shoemakers Strike.

VIENNA, Feb. 3.—Ten thousand shoemakers have struck here for an increase in wages.

Rheumatism is like sand in the bearings of machinery. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great lubricator which cures the disease.

Vocal Music and Chest Power.

In a paper recently read before the Medical Society of Virginia, Dr. C. I. Pusey, of Lynchburg, stated that the people of those nations which are given to the general cultivation of vocal music have broad, expansive chests, and are much less afflicted by consumption and other lung diseases than nations which do not cultivate vocal music. The doctor said that these facts are well-known to the medical fraternity.

DISASTER ON THE C.P.R.

A SLEEPER TOPPLES OVER A 60-FOOT BRIDGE.

On the Lake Superior Section Near Schreiber—All of the Eleven Passengers Injured, Four Seriously—The Accident Caused by a Broken Rail.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—A little before noon to-day the sleeping car on the through west bound express on the Canadian Pacific was thrown from the track by a broken axle in the forward truck about 15-feet east of a trestle bridge near Schreiber on the Lake Superior section. The car ran half way across the bridge tearing up the ties and was then precipitated over the side and fell 50 or 60 feet to the ground. There were eleven passengers in the sleeping car, nearly all of whom were more or less injured but only four seriously. Some of the sleeping car passengers were fortunately in the dining car at the time and escaped injury.

The Injured.

JAMES HAROUN of Winnipeg, seriously injured about the body.

T. S. HIGGINSON, leg broken.

DR. MCLEAN, injured about body and head cut, injuries not serious.

G. W. RAE, cut about the head, injured slightly.

W. ALEXANDER, cut about head, injuries slight.

F. B. MCNAMEE, cut about head, injuries slight.

MRS. DR. TORRANCE, injured about right shoulder and back.

E. N. HIGGINBOTHAM, cut about the head and back injured.

E. J. REDSHIP, cut about the head and right leg injured.

G. W. SMITH, bruised and cut, injuries not serious.

The sleeping car porter was not hurt, nor was Miss Mary Redmond, a passenger. It is not thought that any injuries are fatal. A surgeon was on the ground very soon after the accident and another was sent from Port Arthur. Every care is being taken of the injured passengers.

LIKE RATS IN A TRAP.

Another Frightful Mine Disaster in Pennsylvania—Water from An Old Working Drowns an Entire Gang.

HAZELTON, Pa., Feb. 4.—A terrible accident whereby 17 men lost their lives occurred at Jeansville at 11 o'clock this morning in slope No. 10, operated by J. C. Hayden & Co. This working is situated immediately under the old workings known as No. 8 and worked out some five years ago, and which were filled with water. The cause of the disaster was the drilling of a hole through the pillar, which liberated the immense body of water confined in the old workings which flooded the new workings, drowning all the men in that portion of the mine.

The news of the disaster created the wildest excitement and the mouth of the slope was in less than half an hour surrounded by hundreds of men, women and children and it was only after the terrible result was made plain that none of the entombed men were living or could possibly be reached until all the water was pumped out of the slope that the grief-stricken friends of the unfortunate men could be induced to go to their homes.

How long it will take to pump the water out is a question. Some miners say it will take four weeks before the bodies can be reached. Others say it will take twice as long.

A BROTHER'S FATAL AIM.

Mistaken for a Deer and Shot Through the Body.

RIVER DU LOUP, Feb. 4.—On Monday as two brothers named Corboréau of Calouna were out in the woods some 20 miles from here deer hunting, one of them shot and wounded a deer and ran to it to kill it with his knife, and as he was doing so his brother perceived the deer. Not seeing his brother, he fired his shot, which struck the brother in the abdomen, the ball entering one side, going through the body and coming out the opposite side. The wounded man managed to walk with his brother's assistance eight miles before they could reach the first house. He lived until this morning.

KILLED BY A NEEDLE.

Peculiar Death of a Young Woman Near Halifax.

HALIFAX, Feb. 4.—Sarah Cummings, aged 21 years, secured a position as domestic in a house in Victoria-road. Six months after entering the house she complained of feeling unwell. She experienced a peculiar sensation in her side which the doctors could not account for. Last night she decided to go to her home at Guyborough. This morning a telegram was received announcing the girl's death. A post mortem held revealed the fact that her death was caused by a needle entering the girl's heart. The needle (a small one), it is supposed, had been swallowed by the girl in food.

THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

SIR JOHN'S VISIT TO TORONTO POSTPONED.

Foster, Thompson, C. H. Tupper and Others to Speak—How Affairs Look in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia Conventions Being Called in Many Counties—General News.

Sir John Macdonald gave a dinner party at Ottawa last night.

The candidates for Lanark will probably be B. Rosamond (Con.) and D. G. MacDonald (Lib.).

Peter Mitchell of The Montreal Herald will again be a candidate in Northumberland, N.B.

Hon. L.P. Pelletier gives up his seat in Hon. Mr. Mercier's Government and will be a candidate for the Commons in his old constituency of Bellechasse.

Hon. Mr. Mercier has delayed his trip to Europe until after the elections. He has recalled his colleagues, Hons. Charles Langelier and Robidoux, from New York and organization is being looked after with all possible despatch.

It is expected that J. C. Rykert will be opposed at the Lincoln convention by either Mayor Goodman of St. Catharines, S. Neelon or Dr. Clark, while ex-Mayor McIntyre, Dr. Downey or Henry A. King may be the Reform nominee.

With the exception of three constituencies, Algoma, Cariboo and Gaspe, polling will be simultaneous throughout Canada. In the three districts mentioned the returning-officer is authorized to fix the dates of nomination, polling to take place not earlier than 15 days or later than 30 days after nomination.

Sir John Macdonald will not be at the Friday night meeting at Toronto, but But Sir John Thompson, Hon. G. E. Foster, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. John Haggart and Hon. John Carling, are promised for a certainty.

Laurier En Route for Toronto.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—Hon. Wilfrid Laurier left for Toronto by the C.P.R. at 8.45. He arrived in Montreal this morning and spent a busy day conferring with the Liberal leaders here. He stated in an interview that the work of organization was well under way and that advices from different parts of the country were encouraging. He will return to Montreal shortly and will make his headquarters at the St. Lawrence Hall.

New Brunswick.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 4.—D. McLeod Vince, who opposed F. W. Hale, Liberal candidate, at last election and was defeated was renominated to-day by Conservatives of Carleton County. The Hon. G. E. Foster will be opposed in King's county by Col. Domville. G. G. King will be the Liberal candidate in Queen's county.

The Conservative convention will be held at Albert to-morrow.

Gossip From the Capital.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—W. C. Edwards, ex-M.P., will not be a candidate.

Dr. Montague, M.P., of Haldimand, is the latest arrival here.

The Equal Rights Association have decided nothing as yet. A meeting of the committee will be held on Friday night.

The rumor that Mr. C. H. Mackintosh, M.P., would not again be a candidate for the city is discredited in well-informed circles. Ald. Cox in conversation to-day said: "Certainly Mackintosh will be one of the candidates."

Among the various statements respecting Russell county is one that in the event of Mr. W. C. Edwards not running a strong effort will be made to induce Mr. Robillard to resign his seat in the Provincial House and accept the nomination for the Federal House.

The names of ex-Ald. Levi Crannell, ex-Mayor Frank McDougall and Mr. N. A. Belcourt were mentioned as those likely to be submitted for nomination in the Liberal interest for the city.

Dr. Valade was talked of a good deal today as one of the French-Canadian candidates whose name will be submitted to the Conservative caucus.

The Workingmen's Liberal-Conservative Association will meet to-morrow to elect officers and organize for the campaign.

Mr. P. Purcell, M.P., Glengarry, arrived in town to-day. He says he will run again in Glengarry.

Mr. G. L. Dickinson, M.P., will run again in Carleton.

Mr. R. G. Vallee, M.P. for Portneuf, P.Q., is in town. He may possibly again contest this county in the interest of the Conservative party.

Mr. Peter White, M.P., Renfrew, arrived in town to-day on departmental business. When asked regarding the statement that he would not run again in Renfrew, Mr. White replied: "All I can say at present is that I am in the hands of my friends."

Mr. F. Routhier of Vankleek Hill, ex-M.P., has been chosen as candidate by the Conservative convention of the county of Prescott. The Liberal party has not chosen a candidate yet. Mr. Proulx of Plantagenet is already in the field as a Liberal, but is not accepted by the party, who would like to have either Mr. Belcourt of Ottawa or Mr. Clerun of Montreal.

Another Cave-In.

WILKESBARRE, Feb. 4.—A cave-in occurred this afternoon in No. 3 slope at grand tunnel opposite the river from Nanticoke and three men were drowned.

NOVA SCOTIA.

Both Parties Actively at Work — Candidates Thus Far Nominated.

HALIFAX, Feb. 4.—The political fight in the Maritime Provinces will be short, sharp and promises to be decisive. Both parties have set to work with great energy. In Halifax the Conservative convention will be held on Monday night and the Liberals' on Tuesday. The Conservatives will renominate Kenny and Stairs. Mr. Jones will be the Liberal candidate. His Catholic colleague has not yet been decided upon. Following nominations have been made:

Constituency	Government.	Opposition.
Annapolis	K. B. Mills	——
Antigonish	Sir J. Thompson	——
Cape Breton	McKeen & McDoug'll	——
Colchester	Sir A. Archibald	——

An Absconder Arrested.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 4.—Detectives arrested this morning an absconding banker from Wawanesa, named [illegible] [illegible]. He will [illegible] extradition.

THE RAT IS USEFUL.

Dr. Hankin Reveals to the Public His Cure for Anthrax.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Dr. Hankin, the well-known English investigator who is studying the Koch method at the Hygienic Institute here, has disclosed the nature and method of manufacture of his remedy for anthrax. The remedy consists of proteid matter extracted from the spleen of the rat with the aid of 50 per cent. of glycerine, the extract being precipitated with alcohol. When used it is dissolved in water and injected under the skin.

The Plan of Campaign.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Replying to charges made against him by Mr. Balfour, Mr. O'Brien denies that he is the author of the "Plan of Campaign." Concerning its points he says the farmers remember the campaign as the instrument which, in a single winter, brought the Russels and the Salisburys to the right way of thinking about the reality of the crisis. It was, he said, an instrument which had effected the enfranchisement of a hundred thousand leaseholders and cut off a million pounds a year from rents. It had insured compulsory reductions of judicial rents and saved tens of thousands of families from eviction. All this, said Mr. O'Brien, had been effected by it, without the loss of a life or the eviction from a campaign estate of a single peasant.

The Irish Leaders Confer.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The Times says that Mr. Parnell went to Boulogne on Monday night, conferred with Dillon and O'Brien yesterday and returned to London last night. Immediately on his arrival he drove to the Parliament buildings, where he had a conference with his supporters. Mr. Parnell has decided to address no more meetings in Ireland for the present. He also declines to go to America. Rumors of a hitch in the negotiations looking to a settlement of differences have emanated from both factions of the Irish party.

Mr. McCarthy has issued a summons for a meeting of his followers Feb. 12 and he hopes a satisfactory settlement with the Parnellites will then be ready for ratification.

It is probable Mr. Gladstone will make a public statement regarding the assurances given by him to the Irish leaders with reference to Home Rule.

Hartington Talks to the Liberals.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—At a banquet of the Liberal Union Club this evening Lord Hartington said that it was strange that the ambition for political success could make men so honorable in all other relations of life so indifferent to moral character in their political allies as their British opponents appeared to be. Englishmen, he said, would never consent to have an Irish parliament deal with the land question. The situation now was an illustration of the saying that when rogues fall out honest men get their own.

Feeding the Destitute in Paris.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Although the weather has moderated, the authorities of Paris continue the supply of soup, free of charge to the destitute. Great boilers, each containing from 1000 to 1200 bowls of soup are emptied several times a day at the refuge in the Champs d'Mars. The number now out of work in Paris, including habitual dependents on charity, is estimated at seventy-five thousand.

Twelve Killed and Seventeen Injured.

JOANA, Java, Feb. 4.—The Chinese quarter has been entirely wrecked and the European quarter rendered almost uninhabitable. Twelve persons were killed and 17 injured. All the districts of west and middle Java suffered more or less, some severely.

Down With the Blood Tax.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 4.—About 2000 conscripts to-day paraded the streets of Mango, in the Province of Hainaut, as a demonstration against compulsory service in the army. They sang the Marseillaise and fastened to their caps cards inscribed, "Down with the blood tax."

An Agrarian Murder.

DUBLIN, Feb. 4.—A man named Reilly and his wife, employed as caretakers on a farm at Ballyjaines, Duff, County Cavan, have been murdered. The crime is supposed to be of agrarian nature.

The Charge Exploded.

MARSEILLES, Feb. 4.—A number of artillerymen belonging to the garrison of Montpellier were charging a mine at the rifle butts with dynamite when the charge exploded, fatally injuring nine of them.

Where the Funds Came From.

LISBON, Feb. 4.—It is asserted here that Zorilla, the Spanish agitator, and the Spanish Republicans provided funds for the aid of the insurgents at Oporto.

The Italian Crisis.

ROME, Feb. 4.—King Humbert has not definitely accepted Signor Crispi's resignation and the ministerial crisis is therefore not yet ended.

The Heslop Inquest.

ANCASTER, Feb. 4.—The inquest into the murder of Treasurer John Heslop was resumed last night. Mrs. Heslop told the story of the shooting, and said the men came straight upstairs after breaking in, as if they knew the way. She also testified that one of the men had a beard. At the request of Detective Greer the inquest was adjourned until Feb. 24. Meantime the detectives are endeavoring to find a suspicious character named Bill Steeves.

Fatally Hurt.

HAMILTON, Feb. 4.—Mr. W. D. Booker, secretary of the Victoria Mutual Fire Insurance Company, slipped and fell in James-street this afternoon. He was picked up and carried into the office of Mr. William Stewart, architect. The three doctors summoned could do nothing for him and he died in two hours. It is thought that the fall caused the rupture of one of the blood vessels in the head.

Census Officers at Work.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—The chief census officers, 14 in number, arrived in the city to-day and after being sworn in began a course of instruction in the taking of the census. They will be here from 10 to 12 days, after which they will go back to their districts and instruct the commissioners under them.

Edith is Indignant.

BUFFALO, Feb. 4.—The action of Edith Sessions Tupper against Ex-Superintendent of Police Morin for $10,000 damages for alleged illegal arrest in Toronto was restored to the docket to-day, at her request, her failure to put in an appearance yesterday having been due to an error of her attorney.

Mrs. Birchall Has Recovered.

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 4.—A letter from Mrs. Birchall to a friend here states that she is in good health, having recovered from the effects of her experiences here and the trying trip home.

Alleged Burglary.

BRAMPTON, Feb. 4.—John Ryckman and James Lee were arrested at Shelburne today charged with burglarizing the house of James McLellan. Part of the stolen property was recovered.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT,

THE RELIGIOUS DISABILITY BILL HOISTED.

Gladstone Delivers a Stirring Address and Says He Knows No Obstacle to Prevent Any Person Being Chancellor of the Exchequer—The British War Office.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Gladstone moved the second reading of the bill to remove religious disability, and said: "When we undertook by this bill to remove from the statutes an injustice and an anomaly which are a discredit to us—(cheers)—we hoped it would be necessary to spend only a few minutes in introducing the bill. Now that we needed to trespass at greater length upon Parliament there were mutterings and murmurings. As Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1866 I pleaded for the opening of the most difficult offices to which the most objection was taken. It is seriously doubtful now whether Roman Catholics are illegally disabled from holding the offices of Viceroy of Ireland and Lord Chancellor of England. The Catholic Relief Act did not impose in so many words disability to hold these offices. It provided that no Catholic should be entitled to hold them otherwise than as now legally entitled. What," Mr. Gladstone asked, "is the Catholic's legal position? Before the act of 1829 every subject was entitled presumably to hold any crown office, but Catholics were debarred by the Test Act." Mr. Gladstone added that he and a number of good lawyers, including the Chief Justice, were not aware that there was any disability except the Test Act, which was repealed in 1863. It was contested whether the repeal effectually qualified Catholics. Parliament when it repealed the Test Act had no specific intention to open those offices, and it was, therefore, his duty not to be deterred from prosecuting this bill, the object of which was simply to remove an anomaly, which was supposed to exclude, and perhaps did exclude, certain of the Queen's subjects from holding certain offices. If the bill was read a second time he proposed to move that it be passed through the committee pro forma, reserving that substantial committee be taken after the report of the bill from that committee.

Does not Affect Succession to the Crown.

The bill, Mr. Gladstone said further, did not effect the succession of the crown because the crown was not open to competition. The Home Secretary, he added, is himself a Catholic and he stood as near the sovereign as the Chancellor of the Exchequer and nearer than the Viceroy of Ireland. Yet nobody disputed his right to hold his office and he (Gladstone) knew of no obstacle against a Jew, Mohammedan, Hindoo or non-religious person being Chancellor of the Exchequer.

William Henry Smith asked why Mr. Gladstone's speech was made now instead of during the many years he had held office?

Mr. Gladstone retorted that he had delivered similar speeches in 1867.

Mr. Smith replied that Mr. Gladstone then was in Opposition, and that moreover in 1881 Mr. Gladstone, in answering a question on the same subject, said that the Government did not intend to advocate the abolition of all the remaining religious checks such as prevented the Chancellor or sovereign being Catholics. Catholics did not demand the bill.

Mr. Smith opposed the bill because it applied to two persons only and moved that it be read for the second time six months hence.

After further debate Mr. Gladstone's motion for the second reading of the bill now was rejected 256 to 233.

In the division Secretary Mathews and Sir William Vernon Harcourt abstained from voting. Three Conservatives and nine Unionists, including Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Henry James, supported the bill. The Irish members, including Parnell, voted solidly with Gladstone.

The War Office Criticised.

There was a sharp debate on the subject of the new magazine rifle, and allegations were made amounting almost to a charge of corruption in the War Office. The debate was not of a partisan character. Hon. E. Majoribanks (Liberal), from the Scotch side of Berwick, began the attack with a motion that a committee be appointed to examine the magazine rifle and report upon the reasons for its adoption.

This was not strong enough to suit Mr. Hanbury (Conservative) from Preston, who in plain language condemned the way in which the adoption of the new rifle had been secured. Of 13 patents connected with the arm in question, one official held 10 in his own name. What was needed was not an isolated inquiry as to how the rifle came to be adopted, but a thorough reform in the methods of the War Office. It was undesirable, he thought, to go into a mere detail of military administration and thereby weaken the full responsibility of the officials who recommended the rifle.

Mr. Hanbury, therefore, moved as an amendment that a committee be appointed to investigate the War Office and recommend any reforms that might seem desirable.

After a sharp debate, in which the War Office was severely criticized, the amendment was carried by a vote of 105 to 74.

Fiscal Relations With the Colonies.

Rt. Hon. James Lowther, Conservative asked whether the Government proposed to take immediate measures to promote the formation of preferential fiscal relations between Great Britain and the British colonies.

Baron Henry de Worms of the Colonial Office replied that the question was receiving careful consideration, and the Government recognized its urgency.

Mr. Nolan, member of parliament for Galway, moved to extend the operation of the relief works act to Galway and Mayo.

Mr. Madden, the Irish Solicitor-General, promised that Mr. Balfour would make a statement on the subject before Easter.

The House agreed to the motion of Mr. Beach to appoint a select committee to enquire and report as to the necessity of legislation restricting the hours of labor of railway servants.

Arnauts Set Fire to the Government Buildings at Dreniten.

BELGRADE, Feb. 4.—Two thousand Arnauts in the neighborhood of Dreniten have revolted and have set fire to the Government buildings. They now threaten the town of Pristina and the officials of that place have taken refuge at Mitrovitza.

Mr. Gladstone denies that he tried in 1884 to get rid of Parnell.

Documents seized in the office of Republica Portugueza include messages of congratulation from Spanish republican organization.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." Ed. Jenkins, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. Brooles, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. Phebe Mosher, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

THE CANADIAN PROPOSALS.

The Dominion Government has acted promptly in regard to the negotiations with the United States, and has given another evidence of its good faith and of its watchfulness to take advantage of every opportunity to advance the interests of the country, by outlining the questions it desires to discuss with the United States with a view to an amicable arrangement. The opening for these proposals came about through the negotiations going on between the Republic and Newfoundland. The Canadian Government called attention to the assurances received from Newfoundland that no country would be given special privileges in regard to the purchase of supplies and bait that Canada would not share, and insisted that the Dominion should have the option of being included in any arrangement made with the States. Mr. Blaine did not wish to carry on the negotiations jointly with Canada and Newfoundland, but intimated that he would not be unwilling to enter into private negotiations with Canada. The Dominion Government reminded Mr. Blaine of the overtures formerly made by Canada, and repeated its willingness, now that overtures had been made, to again negotiate officially, whereupon Mr. Blaine asked upon what basis it desired to negotiate. The reply of the Canadian Government was a despatch to the Imperial authorities asking for the appointment of a joint commission to deal with the following subjects:—

1. Renewal of the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 with the modifications required by the altered circumstances of both countries and with the extension deemed by the commission to be in the interests of Canada and the United States.

2. Reconsideration of the treaty of 1888, with respect to the Atlantic fisheries with the aim of securing the free admission into United States markets of Canadian fishery products in return for facilities to be granted to United States fishermen to buy bait and supplies and to tranship cargoes in Canada: all such privileges to be mutual.

3. Protection of mackerel and other fisheries on the Atlantic Ocean and in inland waters, also.

4. Relaxation of seaboard coasting laws of the two countries.

5. Relaxation of the coasting laws of the two countries on the inland waters dividing Canada from the United States.

6. Mutual salvage and saving of wrecked vessels.

7. Arrangements for settling boundaries between Canada and Alaska. The treaty would of course be ad referendum.

There are all very important questions, but the one having the greatest interest in this section is the question of reciprocity. The Government has expressed its willingness to enter into a fair treaty of reciprocity, one that would be of benefit to both countries and that would not be injurious to the various industries and interests of the Dominion, and it has taken prompt advantage of the first opportunity to to endeavor to carry out that idea.

The action of the Government cannot fail to meet with the approval of the people. It is in line with the policy the electors adopted in 1878 and so unmistakably endorsed twice since that time. The Dominion must not be placed in a position of dependence upon the Republic; it must not yield the hope, now being happily realized, of becoming a strong manufacturing and prosperous country; it must not throw away its immense and profitable trade with Great Britain. But it is, we believe, willing to enter into a fair arrangement with the United States or any other country for the extension of trade. That is the position of the Government. That was its position in 1878, and again in 1882 and in 1887, with this difference only, that now the opening for negotiations has been made and a commission will be appointed to enter into negotiations with the United States in regard to this and the other important questions named.

Catarrh is not local but a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

Some Foolish People

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. To My Mother.

How fair you are, my mother!
  Ah, though 'tis many a year
  Since you were here
Still do I see your beauteous face,
  And with the glow
Of your dark eyes cometh a grace
  Of long ago.
So gentle, too, my mother:
  Just as of old, upon my brow,
  Like benedictions now,
Falleth your dear hand's touch.
  And still, as then,
A voice that glads me overmuch
  Cometh again,
  My fair and gentle mother.

How you have loved me, mother,
  I have not power to tell—
  Knowing full well
That even in the rest Above
  It is your will
To watch and guard me with your love,
  Loving me still.
And, as of old, my mother,
  I am content to be a child,
  By mother's love beguiled
From all these other charms;
  So, to the last,
Within thy dear, protecting arms
  Hold thou me fast,
  My guardian angel, mother.

A STRANGE CASE.

"Prisoner at the bar, what have you to say why sentence should be passed upon you?"

A solemn hush pervaded the courtroom as the judge addressed the young man in the prisoner's dock as above.

Wallace Harper turned his gaze for an instant toward me. I had defended the young prisoner to the best of my ability and the outcome was a verdict of guilty. From the outset I expected this, although in my utmost soul I believed the unfortunate man innocent. Circumstantial evidence, however, had encompassed him round so completely, it was impossible to override it. I could give the prisoner no look of encouragement. I merely looked dumb, perhaps stolidly indifferent, although I was far from feeling so.

Wallace Harper rose slowly to his feet, until he towered full six feet of noble stature, and gazed fixedly at the judge: His face was pale as death, and when he opened his lips and spoke, the words sounded hollow and unnatural.

"Your honor, what can I say on an occasion like this? I was foredoomed from the start. Our family has always been unfortunate. My father was killed in battle (Gettysburg,) and my poor mother died of a broken heart. My eldest brother fell in one of the battles in the West, the youngest died of yellow fever at Memphis, some years ago, and I am the last of the race. I, it seems, am doomed to die on the gallows!"

He paused here, a hot flush shooting into either pale cheek. Would he break down and beg for mercy? It was not in keeping with his cool courage during the trial. I could not help pitying him, and feeling that it would have been much better had he refrained from speaking at all. I dared not look at his face for some moments. At length he was speaking again, and I ventured once more to look towark him. The flush had disappeared, and the prisoner's face was pallid as before.

"I know what the sentence must be, your honor," continued he, with awful calmness. "I have only this to say: I am an innocent man, I lay up nothing against the members of the jury. They thought they were performing a duty; but if there is a future life, in that future the truth will be with me, and I shall be vindicated."

He bowed his head and ceased to speak. His words had been impressive. To me they were convincing. I had moved for a new trial when the verdict had been rendered, on the previous day, and now had no more to say.

"Hanged by the neck until dead—Friday, November 14."

These were all the words that reached my ear. I rose to leave the room. The prisoner was led past. I glanced into his white face. A look of settled despair rested on every lineament. I bent forward and whispered a word of hope, mentioning the fact of my determination to move all the powers for a new trial. He said nothing, and soon the courtroom was empty.

"It's justice. It was an infamous murder."

I started at sound of voices at my elbow. Two gentlemen were discussing the prisoner and his sentence.

I paused to listen.

"I knew Wallace Harper well. Al of his family have died violent deaths. He had a good show with Donald Dunham. He had been with the old gentleman two years. I think the trouble was all on account of the girl, who they say is quite sick because of the death of her father."

"Did the girl think any thing of the clerk?"

"Some say so. I don't know. It seems 'twas on her account that Harper put poison in the old man's wine. It was a foolish as well as a wicked crime."

I walked on. The details of the murder had been recited too many times to interest me now. It had appeared on the trial that Harper was in love with his old employer's only daughter, and that Dunham had quarreled with his confidential clerk in consequence.

On the evening when he (Harper) was to depart Mr. Dunham called him into the library and requested him to drink a social glass of wine with him. It seems that Harper assented. An hour later Donald Dunham was dead. He had died in agony, and with his latest breath accused his clerk of having poisoned him. The dregs of one of the winecups were found to contain arsenic, the other being harmless. The confidential clerk was at once arrested, and in one of his pockets a package of arsenic was found. Such evidence was overwhelming. Wallace Harper sent for me, and I undertook his defence. I made as good a fight as possible under the circumstances.

The ante-mortem testimony of Donald Dunham, together with the fact that the two had quarreled, and the finding of the poison in the pocket of Harper, was evidence that I could not overcome.

I went from the court-room to my own pleasant home feeling a weight on my mind that I could not shake off. A few hours later a messenger came to me from the prisoner, requesting an interview.

I at once repaired to the jail.

Wallace Harper greeted me with a pleasant smile, and held out his hand.

"I am satisfied that you did all that a human being could do, Mr. Nelson, and I want to thank you for it, and to tell you that it is my wish that you do nothing toward securing a new trial."

I expressed my surprise at this.

"It would only postpone the inevitable," he said. "Ill luck runs in our family. I suppose I was born to be hung!" and the laugh that followed made my flesh creep.

"But you are innocent?" I said, a sudden doubt coming, unbidden, to my brain.

"I am innocent. I hope you will never doubt that, Mr. Nelson."

A little later I left him, promising not to urge a new trial. I was satisfied that a new trial could not be obtained, and I had only entertained the thought, to delay matters as long as possible.

It was two months to the 14th of November. Much might be done in that time if there had been any foundation on which to stand. As it was, I tried to dismiss the prisoner from my mind and attend to other business. I could not do this, however, and the days and weeks passed, until one day remained before the day set for the execution of the condemned. On this day I visited Wallace Harper once more.

He had lost flesh, and I could see that there was much inward suffering. I became fully convinced that something rested on his mind, and I urged him to make a clean breast of it.

"It could do no good," he declared. "I will die without speaking." And then I left him.

As I passed from the jail another visitor was announced—a vailed woman. It was doubtless the man's sweetheart, come to visit him for the last time. She had been too ill to appear at the trial, and I had never seen her to speak with her since.

In the gray mists of the morning of November 14 a veiled female walked to my door. I answered the bell in person and I admitted the visitor to my office-room. Being seated, she threw aside her vail, revealing a young face, pale and thin, and almost beautiful.

Before she spoke I knew that she was the daughter of the late Donald Dunham.

"Is it too late to save Wallace Harper?" she asked, in a tremulous voice.

"Certainly too late," I answered. "Of course, if there was new evidence, of a positive nature, going to show that some other person committed the crime for which he is to suffer, I've no doubt we might save the young man. But—"

"I have that evidence."

"You have? Why in Heaven's name did you not speak sooner, then?" I cried, in a stern voice.

"I dared not," she said, slowly. "I—I must speak now: the world must know the truth. Wallace Harper is innocent. It was I who did the deed."

Her whole frame shook like an aspen, and I could see that she was wrought up to an awful pitch of excitement. I could scarcely believe her words, however. It must be that she was driven mad on account of her lover's peril. I requested her to speak, however, and she did so, in rapid, low tones.

"It was I who did the deed. I hated to speak sooner. I loved my father, and I did not like to believe him capable of doing an evil deed. He did it, however. He invited Wallace to take wine with him that last evening. I saw him pour the wine, and I saw him drop a powder into one of the goblets. Then he called Wallace, and requested him to quaff with him.

"I did not know what the powder was, but an awful fear oppressed me. With a quick movement when father's back was turned I exchanged goblets, and father drained the one intended for his clerk. What followed you know. I was horrified when I learned that a deadly poison had been administered.

"I could not speak. My father a murderer! It was horrible. I realized that my hand had substituted the poison for his lips that he had intended for another. In the excitement of the moment Wallace picked up the folded paper containing the poison that lay near by and dropped it into his pocket, as he testified at the trial. In his dying moments my father cursed the name of Harper and accused him of murdering him.

"I fainted, I think, and I have been near to death since that. I have tried to bring myself to speak more than once, but have been unequal to the task. I am now anxious to have the truth known. Can you save Wallace? He is an innocent man."

There was no time to be lost. I sprang up at once. I visited a magistrate with Miss Dunham, and her affidavit was sent over the wires to the Governor.

We were none too soon. A reprieve was granted, and the facts at once investigated. Miss Dunham adhered to her story, and Wallace Harper corroborated it. He saw her move the glasses, but had refused to speak, lest he should criminate the girl he loved. That was his secret.

A thorough investigation was had, and the story told by the girl accepted. Wallace Harper went forth a free man, and he has since won an honorable place in the business world.

I saw him, five years afterward, for the first time since his narrow escape from the gallows.

"Yes, I am married," he said, when I brought up old times. "No, Miss Dunham is not my wife. Do you know, Mr. Nelson, I have always believed that she poisoned her father! I think her mad love unsettled her mind. At any rate, she is now an inmate of an asylum, and hopelessly insane."

It was a strange case. I always believed Harper innocent. As to Miss Dunham, I hold grave doubts.—J. M. Merrill, in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

ABOUT WOMEN.

There are about 2,500 women in the United States who hold diplomas from from medical colleges. The first woman physician was Elizabeth Blackwell, who graduated in 1848.

Kaiser Wilhelm's sister, the Princess of Meiningen, has developed a talent for literature that is regarded as remarkable. Her principal efforts have been to translate German classics into into modern Greek.

The dresses worn in Wilson Barrett's new play, "The People's Idol," were designed and executed by Mr. Barrett's three youthful daughters, who have voluntarily entered the ranks of the toilers as professional dressmakers, because as they express it, they have no genius as actresses and do not see why they should not work and support themselves as well as to have their father work and support them.

There is a peculiar gambling club of working women in England, having thirty-four members. Each woman deposits a small sum of money as her entrance fee, and the winners pay the rent and the woman in charge of the rooms. The gambling is done by means of bits of paper containing the numbers, passed around like refreshments on a plate, and each woman draws a piece in turn. The highest and lowest numbers win the pile, toward which each woman contributes her share.

Scotting in Well.

A despatch from Winnipeg dated the 4th says:—Probably the greatest game of curling ever witnessed in Canada was played in the Manitoba bonspiel to-day between rinks of Lindsay and the Winnipeg Thistles, skipped respectively by J. D. Flavelle and Dr. Clark. Flavelle started the game with a good lead and at the middle of the game was five points ahead. Clarke, however, pulled up, and at the fourteenth end was one in the front. He added two in the fifteenth, being three ahead, leaving Flavelle four to win. To the surprise of everyone, Clark's men went all to pieces, and in the sixteenth and last end Flavelle scored four and won the game with his last stone."

THE EDUCATED HORSES.

A Remarkable Performance Delights a Large Audience—Well Worth Seeing.

It was a delighted audience that filled the Opera House last evening to witness Prof. Bristol's eques-curriculum. Those present, young and old, were equally pleased with the wonderful performances and remarkable intelligence of the horses, ponies and donkeys. Outside of the beauty of the beasts, their education and almost human powers of understanding were of such a remarkable character and the time, patience and amount of training it must have taken to reach such a point with animals so great that the audience were filled with admiration, while the novelty of the performance pleased them immensely. To see the fine spirited steeds, or the beautiful little ponies, taking their parts in the programme with a regularity and steadiness of a reasoning being was indeed something well worth seeing. The horses do almost anything, they swang, played at see-saw, answered questions in arithmetic, went through a drill, and, in fact, did everything almost but talked. Denver, the trick or clown donkey, is a remarkable beast and caused much amusement by his blunders. Dynamite was a smaller donkey, but a clever one also. It walked a pole, as a tight rope, and made much merriment by quarreling with the Professor. Tony, the little pony, in his swinging trapeze act, was greatly applauded. It was a pretty sight to see the gentleness of the spirited beasts and the matter of fact way they each advanced to the front of the stage and made their bow after performing a feat. The stage was small and when twelve or fourteen horses were on it at one time it required the greatest care and watchfulness on the part of each animal to prevent accident. A proper description of the wonderful and entertaining performance cannot be given, but the Professor has a fortune in his animal pupils, for they will attract anywhere. An excellent orchestra renders selections during the performance. These musicians accompany the Professor in his private cars.

This afternoon a matinee is to be given and in the evening the last performance is to take place. It is safe to predict that the house will be crowded, for the equescurriculum is well worth seeing.

"Laboring John" Goes up Again.

Mayor Stevenson wielded the wand of justice at the Police Court this morning in the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble. The only object for His Worship's attention was a familiar one, "Laboring John" Sullivan. Just out of gaol last week John had flown to drink again and was picked up from the cold streets. As usual John had the same song to sing—if allowed to go he was going right out of town and not drink "another drop." However, the Mayor fined him $10 and costs or thirty days, and he went up.

January Weather.

Mr. Thos. Telford writes:—Another month has gone and one which will long be remembered for the many events occurring throughout different parts of the world, including robberies, murders, earthquakes, pit and dynamite explosions, causing large destruction of life and property. Not only that, but the severe weather throughout the world caused immense suffering both from cold and hunger, with numerous railway and other strikes also furnishing their quota of disaster and misery. But nearer to our own little Dominion we may only look to our kind and loving cousins across the borders. They, too, during the month, have been visited with one of the severest and heaviest falls of snow I believe recorded during a number of years, doing a large amount of damage to property, during the same time in which our wheather has been uncommonly fine. On the 26th, the time of their storm, although snowing all day, it only fell 15 fractions, namely, 1½ inches. The first half of the month, although there was some sharp frost, still never uncomfortable, the last being uncommonly fine. I am not aware of a finer month. especially the last two weeks, and a strange coincidence was, I have often remarked during southern storms we will have it fine, but as a general rule it will fall around on us within 12 days, but never so severe. Snow fell on 13 days to the depth of 19.7 inches, about a fair average. Rain fell on 6 days to the depth of 1 inch and 74-100 of an inch, being a large average for January. Only 8 times my self-registering thermometer went below zero, the coldest being 11 degrees below on the 16th, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 19 12-211 degrees, but in the material of white frost and fog, like a city merchant with a good advertisement, it did a large business, claiming 11 days to show its bills of fair. There were two days of severe drifting, on the 12th and 14th, with two pretty fine-looking bull dogs beside the sun on the afternoon of the last day. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, namely:—East 2 days, south-west 7 days, north-west 12 days, west 2 days, north-east 4 days, and south-east 4 days.

THE CAUSE OF THE FIRES.

AN ENQUIRY INTO THE BURNING OF TWO SCHOOL HOUSES.

A Resident of Asphodel Pointed to in the Evidence—The Verdict of the Jury—Voluminous Evidence.

As was stated in Wednesday's issue, an enquiry was held at Westwood on Tuesday into the origin of two fires in Asphodel. On Dec. 17th the school house in section twelve was burned, and on June 1st a building which was being used temporarily for school purposes was also destroyed by fire. That these fires were not of accidental origin there was a strong suspicion, and in the case of the second fire the incendiary origin was plain. The Township Council of Asphodel took the matter up, and a requisition, signed by the Reeve, the Deputy Reeve, and two Councillors was sent to Dr. Bell, Coroner, asking him to hold an enquiry. In accordance with this requisition the inquest was held. The jury was composed as follows:—

WILLIAM SHARP, Foreman,

George Whitred,	John Comrie,
John C. Reid,	David Breckenridge,
John Drummond,	Job Humphries,
Edward Sargent,	Edward Thoms,
John Cook,	Joseph Comstock,
John Humphries,	John Francis,
Edward Sousie,	John Bathgate,

Henry Elmhirst.

A number of witnesses were examined and the evidence was voluminous. Very little was learned regarding the first fire, and the evidence bore chiefly upon the second fire on the first of January.

Mr. James Lancaster, who was one of the first at the burning building, testified that the fire was undoubtedly

OF INCENDIARY ORIGIN.

When he got there the fire was in the north room, while the stove was in the other room. The door was partially open, and when he opened it wider the flames spread like a flash, as coal oil had been freely used. Timothy Whitred had picked up a mit on the path to the house. He had taken it home and took it on with him to Mr. Birdsall, who was another trustee.

Timothy Whitred testified to being at the fire. He picked up the mit, which smelled strongly of coal oil.

Mr. Birdsall and others gave evidence regarding Charles Fox's objections to the teacher. He was the only one who had complained, and he objected to her being re-engaged at a meeting on Dec. 31st. He had complained of the school house, the one first burned.

Other evidence was given regarding tracks seen crossing in the rear of Mr. Bathgate's buildings and proceeding to a fence that led to a the road near the school house. Tracks were also found in the fields leading across towards the other road near Charles Fox's.

Mr. John Lobb had followed the tracks out to the road. There were signs of a man having fallen there and marks showed that one hand had been covered with a mit and the other bare. There was also an impression made by a can or pail.

THE MIT CLUE.

Evidence was given that one of Mr. Lancaster's sons had said, when the mit was picked up, that the one who had knit his mits had knit that one. The point of this is that Charles Fox is a brother-in-law of Mrs Lancaster and it is claimed that she made Fox's mits. Mr. Lobb, who accompanied Mr. Lancaster home, said that Mrs. Lancaster, when she saw the mit, exclaimed, "My God, been it? Poor fellow." He supposed she referred to Fox, as there had been rumors about him.

Mary Lancaster, daughter of James Lancaster, testified that Charles Fox's adopted daughter had brought the mate of the mit found to her father's and that with it was this note:—"You can take this mit and show it to Birdsall and tell him you knit it and can prove to it, as you told him about the other. You would all like to condemn the wearer if you could, but there is too much proof in the house for that."

Evidence was also given, largely corroborative, by Sampson Comego, George and Thomas Lancaster, James and George Bathgate, Miss Kennealey (the teacher). Michael Lynch, Geo. Johnston, Mrs. Thos. Lynch, Chas. Leatch, and Michael Garvey.

THE JURY'S FINDING.

After considering the evidence the jury returned the following verdict:—

"That the original school house in section twelve, Asphodel, was burned on Dec. 17th, 1890, but whether by accident or intentionally this jury is unable to decide. That the temporary school house fitted up to replace the above was burned on the morning of January 1st, 1891, and that the evidence points strongly to Charles Fox being guilty of having set fire to said building."

YOUNG'S POINT.

Accident to an Elderly Resident—The Proposed Railway Extension.

Correspondence of the Review.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday evening last Mr. Joseph Blewet, a resident of this place, had occasion to go out to the well for some water. The place being down an incline he fell and broke one of his ribs. He is an old man but feels as good as any young chap. The members of his family have been very attentive to him and he is nearly well again.

THE RAILWAY.—Your correspondent is glad to see our local members, Mr. Hilliard, Mr. Dumble and other prominent citizens of Peterborough taking up the long talked of railway extension from Lakefield to this place, and when they go further north to Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon they can take in that piece of new road, all ready made from McNabs corners. It is already for the rails I am told, and the Dominion Government will not be called upon to go to the expense of a finger board in their estimates for 1891.

PASSED THROUGH.—His Lordship the Roman Catholic Bishop of Peterborough, accompanied by the Rev. Father Scollard, passed through here on Friday last for the back townships.

The Homeliest Man in Peterborough.

As well as the handsomest, and others are invited to call on any druggist and get free a trial bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, a remedy that is selling entirely upon its merits and is guaranteed to relieve and cure all Chronic and Acute Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Large bottles 50c. and $1.

Brevities.

—Mr. J. J. Turner has received an order for fifty life preservers for equipment of the new steamer "Sunbeam," now building at Lakefield.

—Carewell Lodge, Good Templars, will meet to-morrow evening for the installation of officers. A full attendance is requested.

—A chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew has been organized in connection with the Church of England of Belleville. This was a result of the visit of Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's, to the Bay City.

—There will be no skating at the rink this evening, but the band will be in attendance to-morrow (Friday) night.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d16w4 6mo

NORWOOD NEWS.

Another Change in the High School Staff—Other News Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

FOOTBALL.—At a largely attended meeting in one of the school rooms recently the football club was organized with the following officers:—

ANOTHER CHANGE OF TEACHERS.—Miss Louise E. Ryckman, the teacher of English, French and German in our High School, has resigned her position to accept the position of senior English teacher in the London Collegiate Institute, at a salary of $1,000 per annum. The School Board passed a resolution expressing their regret at losing Miss Ryckman, who discharged her duties with marked ability and leaves here with the best wishes of all. Miss Ida Ditabaugh, who was specially recommended by Mr. Seath, takes her place on the staff.

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

A Warning to Hilarious Young Men—A Bible Society Meeting—Other News.

Correspondence of the Review.

MORE CARNIVAL CASES.—The police court was well attended on Tuesday with spectators and witnesses to listen to the trials of the five young men who were charged by Policeman Campbell with being drunk, fighting and disorderly on the night of January 23rd. The Bench was occupied by Magistrates Hull and McKibbin. A number of witnesses were called bringing out the fact that a wild, hilarious orgie had been indulged in. The charges against three of the accused were dismissed. Fred White and Thomas Squires were each fined $5.00 and costs ($4.90). Mr. Johnston, of Poussette & Johnston, conducted the defence. Now that these cases are disposed of let this be a warning to all young men coming to Lakefield that they are coming to a law abiding place; not to come on the Sabbath and other days making our public streets a race course and disturbing the quiet and peace of orderly citizens. Also to remember that we have a policeman who will do his duty, an efficient Magistrate who fears neither friend nor foe, and a police court which, to the honor of the inhabitants of Lakefield (excepting for outsiders) is very seldom used. The authorities, now that the lion is aroused, are determined to put a stop to all such unruly and disorderly conduct.

BIBLE SOCIETY.—A fairly large audience greeted the agent of the Bible Society, Rev. J.G. Manly, who delivered an eloquent and instructive lecture in the P. C. A. Hall on Monday evening, the subject being "Africa Lost and Found." He read the 18th chapter of Isaiah and showed that the prophet here alluded to Africa. Reports were had from the officers of the band regarding the work of the year.

The following officers were elected:—
PRESIDENT.—Mr. David Smith.
VICE-PRESIDENT.—All the resident ministers.
TREASURER.—Mr. John Sherin.
SECRETARY.—Mr. John Hull.
DEPOSITARY.—Dr. Burgess.

ROYAL TEMPLARS.—The Royal templars have now secured a lease of the Bible Christian church, lately Salvation Army barracks, which they intend renovating and putting in repair as a lodge room. Work will be commenced at once, so that it will be ready by March 1st. Their next regular meeting will take place in the Orange Hall, on Monday evening.

DRAMATIC.—The Belle Stevenson Company are now playing an engagement of four nights in the Town Hall to crowded houses.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—At Osgoode Hall the motion for a commission to issue to Pachuca, Mexico, in the alimony suit of Netherton v. Netherton, came up before the master in chambers yesterday. The defendant wishes to show by witnesses at that town that he was never married to the plaintiff, but that she was only his mistress. The parties first began living together in Mexico when she was but 16 years of age and have since continued to live together as man and wife until a short time ago, when they separated. For some 20 years they have lived in Ontario, near Chatham, but the defendant now disputes the marriage for the first time. The learned master said that he would grant an order for a commission to issue but that the defendant would have to pay the costs incurred by the plaintiff in employing counsel to act for her there. The order is not to issue till the plaintiff writes to the British Consul and ascertains what it will cost her to employ counsel there.

A writ was also issued on behalf of William Jones against George W. Banks to recover some $1332, which it is alleged the defendant collected for, but failed to pay over to, the plaintiff. The plaintiff also claims $300 damages for wrongful detention.

The Governor-General and Lady Stanley had a busy day yesterday. In the morning Commodore Boswell and Capt. Bruce Harman called at the Queen's and welcomed them on behalf of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, whose guests they are. At noon the party lunched with Mr. A. M. Cosby at his residence in College-street.

At the second day's meeting of the Council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy President Clarke was in the chair and all the members were present.

At the opening of the session Mr. Walters reported for the committee on the president's attendance at the meeting of American boards of pharmacy, commending the action of the president. The report was adopted and the president appointed the representative of the council in the organization of the secretaries of state associations and boards of pharmacy. The council is not willing, however, that there should be reciprocity of certificates with the American boards until they bring their examinations up to the standard of the Ontario College, which is also the English standard.

Mr. G. S. Hobart of Kingston presented the report of the Infringement Committee, which consisted of the report of a detective who had been employed by the council to look up and prosecute cases of infringement of the Pharmacy Act. The committee asked authority to employ a detective by the year to examine the working of the Pharmacy Act throughout the province, to collect fees in arrears and look after the interests of the council.

Mr. Petrie read the report of the Building Committee recommending that the whole of the land in the rear of the present building be occupied by a fine brick structure, costing about $9000, with Mr. Sheard as architect.

Another project is being mooted in the East End which promises to supplement the boom given that part of the city by the proposed reclamation of Ashbridge's Bay. It is none other than the launching of a scheme for the utilization of the natural gas. Mr. A. W. Dingman and several other well-known East End property-owners are taking an interest in the matter. Already 100 shares have been subscribed towards the formation of a company to be known as the Toronto Natural Gas Company. The capital is $10,000 in shares of $10 each.

SHE WAS FROM CANADA.

A Box of Rat Poison and 57 Cents Found in Her Pocket.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Patrolman Jones of the Fourth Precinct of Jersey City found a young girl staggering and in great agony on his beat in Summit-avenue soon after midnight. She said that she had taken poison and that she was Annie Nagle, 17 years old. Officer Jones took her to the hospital, where doctors worked on the girl with a stomach pump and used antidotes, but in spite of their efforts she died before 3 o'clock. Annie lived at 688 Grand-street and worked in a pocketbook factory. She came from St. John, New Brunswick, Canada, three years ago. She worked yesterday and last evening.

A box half full of rat poison and 57 cents were found in Annie's pocket. There is talk that the suicide was no result of a love affair.

Threatened C.P.R. Strike.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—A big convention of C.P.R. conductors is now being held in this city. It is closed to the press, but it has been learned that the trouble has arisen from a question of wages, and Mr. Shaughnessy made an offer which was refused and he will be asked to make another offer to-morrow. The brakemen and switchmen are also dissatisfied and, it is thought, will join the conductors should a strike be ordered. This, a prominent member declared, will surely happen if the demands are not complied with.

Another Postoffice Robbed.

STITTSVILLE, Feb. 4.—Thieves stole a set of tools from a farmer in the village, and with these they succeeded in opening the door of the postoffice. The cash drawer was broken open and its contents, $50, stolen. A couple of watches and two marked coins which were in the same drawer were left untouched.

Muldoon Released.

BUFFALO, Feb. 4.—Commissioner Herscher to-day decided to hold Miller, alias Muldoon, of Toronto in $1500 bail to appear at the Utica session of the United States court. Rich, the Lewiston fisherman, was also held for trial at the same court. Muldoon's wife and children attended the trial.

Shot in the Hand.

ANCASTER, Feb. 4.—Ernest Hagel had a gun and a revolver—and was on the lookout for game. He sighted a squirrel and emptied his gun at it without effect. Then taking the gun in his left hand, he drew a revolver, but the weapon went off before he got it raised and the bullet went through his left hand.

The Black Hole of Calcutta.

This celebrated prison was only 18 x 18 and contained 324 square feet. In the year 1756 Surajah Dowla, Nabob of Bengal, shut up in this place of confinement one hundred and forty six persons.

This dungeon had but one small grated window, and in less than four hours many were suffocated or died from violent delirium. Eleven hours afterwards only twenty-three persons came out alive. Since that time the Black Hole of Calcutta has been synonymous with disease and death. Figuratively speaking, there are in our midst at the present time a host of men and women who are bound and confined by the chains of disease, and who suffer as keenly as did the unfortunate victims of the Calcutta dungeon. They are crying out as loudly and as earnestly for liberty and release as did the prisoners of Surajah Dowla in their delirium. Many of those around us have been suffering for years from nervous troubles and tired weary brain, with a feeling of goneness and complete exhaustion. They are unable to sleep at nights; recuperation by sleep—nature's great restorer—is an impossibility, and they are continually tossed on the billows of fear and uncertainty.

When these dangerous signals are not heed in time, and Paine's Celery Compound not used to invigorate and strengthen the nervous system, the consequences are really terrible to contemplate.

We generally find such victims afterwards grappling with increased torments and fatal maladies. A deep seated feeling of morbidness is induced, and we are not surprised to find paresis and insanity. Paine's Celery Compound is the only remedy that can ward off these terrible and dreadful results. This excellent compound will surely restore to their pristine vigor the nerves and brain, the great essentials to the building up of a vigorous constitution.

Secretary-Treasurer Henry Wade made his fifth annual report, showing that the membership has now increased to 241, and that the stud book is of great help to the members. During the year 68 horses registered on the books of the association had been exported to the United States. The stallion show in Toronto on the 11th and 12th of March is expected to be a big success.

The long-standing difficulty between Professors Shuttleworth and Avison and the council of the College of Pharmacy was settled yesterday by a complete reorganization of the staff. The engagement with those professors was already terminated. Prof. Harrison tendered his resignation, having been appointed public analyst at London. Four new professors were appointed.

The special committee to advertise for professors and registrar reported through Mr. J. J. Hall, recommending these appointments:

A. Y. Scott, B.A., Toronto, Dean, general chemistry and botany, $1200.

Prof. Heibner, Ph.G., New York College of Pharmacy, pharmacy, theoretical and practical, dispensing prescriptions, pharmaceutical chemistry, $1400.

Graham Chambers, B.A., M.D., Toronto, practical chemistry, toxicology, $800, with the assistance of a student, whose fees are to be remitted.

G. T. Fotheringham, B.A., Toronto, Latin, microscopy, materia medica, pharmacology, $750.

The arrangement with these gentlemen provides for increased hours of instruction at considerably less cost than heretofore. No recommendation was made with reference to the registrar.

The report of the Committee on Education recommended that $495 be expended on the purchase of books; that diplomas be granted to 34 who have obtained the number of marks requisite for registration; that the junior course be lengthened to 14 weeks, commencing Sept. 8, 1891, and the senior course to 18 weeks, commencing first Thursday in January, 1892, and that the fees for the senior course be reduced to $50; that the matriculation fee be reduced from $5 to $2. The committee also reported that Dr. Graham Chambers, B.A., had performed the work of assistant to Prof. Harrison to their entire satisfaction. The report was adopted.

The Smith's Falls Elopement.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 5.—Marine McLean, who eloped from Easton's Corners with the wife of W. H. Arnold and who was arrested at Regina on a charge of larceny and brought back, has been committed for trial. His brother Malcolm has also been committed charged with being a party to the larceny. Mrs. Arnold accompanied the contingent to town yesterday afternoon and registered at a hotel. She approached her husband on the train, but he refused to have any conversation with her.

C. P. R. Plans at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Feb. 5.—It is said that the C.P.R. line from Cooksville to Hamilton will certainly be built this summer. The C.P.R. time-table and map which was issued a week or so ago shows a dotted air-line from Woodstock to the Niagara River at the Falls, another from Cooksville to Hamilton, and a spur line running south from the city and connecting with the air-line. The dotted lines on the map represent the company's projected lines.

CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY.

REPORTS FROM THE VARIOUS OUTPOSTS.

A Large Batch of Returning Officers Appointed—Likely Candidates in the Various Ridings—Notes and News from all Points.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian High Commissioner, arrived here from England to-day and left for Montreal this afternoon. When interviewed on the reciprocity question Sir Charles said: "I am perfectly familiar with the grounds covered by the Governor-General of Canada in his communication to the Colonial Secretary in England. I think the proposition which it contains is of the most practicable and satisfactory character ever submitted for consideration between the two countries. It is the nearest approch to what I consider to be legitimate reciprocity that has yet been devised." Sir Charles continued: "The issue upon which the election in Canada will be fought will be reciprocity. Unrestricted reciprocity is not desired by the majority of our people. If such a thing were brought about either Canada or the United States would want to furnish the tariff prices on foreign goods. If the United States took as a standard the McKinley bill that would not suit Canada, and if Canada submitted the present tariff it would make a big smuggling highway to the States. I would like to see the trade relations between Canada and the United States placed on the broadest and most friendly basis possible and I know such a state of affairs would meet the approval of the Home Government."

In regard to the case of the Sayward, the Canadian vessel seized in Alaskan waters, Sir Charles said: "I regard it as a high compliment paid to the United States by Canada in leaving the whole matter to the Supreme Court of the United States for settlement. It shows Canada has the utmost confidence in the fair-mindedness of that body—one of the greatest judicial tribunals in the world."

FROM OTTAWA.

General Political and Personal Notes—Movements of Politicians.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—Mr. W. C. Edwards is reconsidering his determination to retire in Russell.

Mr. Domville is out against Hon. G. E. Foster for King's, N.B.

L. E. Mallette, contractor for the Langevin block, Ottawa, will oppose Hugh McMillan, M.P., in Vaudreuil.

An effort is being made to induce Mr. Henry J. Cloran, Q.C., of Montreal, to contest Prescott in the Liberal interest.

The views of Chandiere lumbermen on the probable effect of the Government policy of reciprocity will be looked for with interest. Mr. J. R. Booth was seen to-day. He said: "No doubt reciprocity would do the lumber trade good, but you know the trouble with us just now is not what we can sell lumber for but what others can sell it for. If the United States lumbermen can sell at a certain price below our own we must come to that price or do no business. It has got to be so now that we cannot compete with the southern red pine which is being placed right in all the northern and eastern markets at from $3 to $5 per thousand less than we can do it, but, of course, the $1 of duty off will help us some. With the duty off, Mr. Booth went on to explain, the Chandiere lumbermen would not fear competition with the Michigan men, but they would still find the southern red pine and negro labor a hard nut to crack.

Sheriff Murray of Pembroke will be the Liberal candidate in Pontiac.

Mr. Alonzo Wright declines to offer himself for re-election in Ottawa county.

Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5.—The Conservatives of Winnipeg meet Tuesday, but the Reformers have as yet made no movement. In many quarters Sir Donald Smith's name is favorably received as an independent candidate. Both parties in Marquette hold conventions at Minnedosa on the 11th, when Watson will be nominated by the Liberals and either Orne of Minnedosa or Boyd of Carbery will be the choice of the Conservatives. The Liberals of Selkirk meet at Wawanesa on the 11th and the Conservatives at Boissevain on the following day. Daly will seek renomination and Christie, Reform candidate at last election, may be the choice of the Reformers. Ross in Lisgar and Lariviere in Provencher have not yet been opposed, although efforts are being made to put candidates against them.

What the English Papers Say of Sir John's Scheme.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Standard in an editorial this morning argues that there is a political object behind the American tariff which seeks to drive Canada into a corner and inflict the greatest possible commercial injury on her, hoping that the Canadians, worn out by the struggle, will ask admittance to the United States. This, that paper declares, constitutes a weak point in Sir John Macdonald's otherwise statesmanlike policy. Neither Sir John's nor the Opposition's proposals are likely to be endorsed by Americans, but Sir John's is a dignified and patriotic scheme of which no Canadian or Englishman need be ashamed. An election will compel Secretary Blaine and his Government to show their cards face upward, and thus serve a useful purpose. One thing is perfectly clear—America will never help Canada to get rid of her commercial embarrassments unless Canada consents at the same time to surrender her political independence.

East Northumberland Conservatives renominated Mr. E. Cochrane, M.P., yesterday.

H. H. Cook has decided not to run in Simcoe. Mr. Lount will not run in that county either.

It is said that W. B. Scarth will not again be a candidate in Winnipeg and that Hugh Sutherland is likely to be chosen as the Conservative standard-bearer.

A gentleman just from Prince Edward Island regards it as almost certain that the little province will return at least four Conservatives this time.

The names of Mr. A. R. Poirier, advocate, and Joseph Lamarche, president of the French-Canadian Artisans Society, are mentioned as probable opponents to Mr. Lepine in Montreal East.

In South Renfrew, Mr. John Ferguson says he will not seek re-election. Mr. Duncan McIntyre, ex-vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is likely to be the Reform candidate there.

Several names are mentioned in opposition to Mr. J. J. Curran for Montreal Centre, the most prominent being that of ex-Alderman Mullen, wholesale grocer, who, Mayor-elect McShane says, will spend $50,000 if necessary to be elected.

Sir Hector Langevin, it is said, will allow himself to be nominated for both Three Rivers and Bonaventure. In the former place the Liberals are anxious to have Hon. Mr. Laurier oppose Sir Hector, besides standing for his old constituency of Quebec East.

In South Ontario William Smith will stand for re-election. A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Conservative Association will be held at Whitby on Saturday to map a plan of action. The Reformers will offer nomination to William Ross of Port Perry.

HAMILTON, Feb. 5.—Sheriff McKellar has received the writ for an election to fill the place vacated by the unseating of Mr. Thomas H. Stinson. The appointed day for nominations is Tuesday, Feb. 17, and the polling will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 24.

Alleged False Imprisonment.

BUFFALO, Feb. 5.—The false imprisonment suit of Edith Sessions Tupper against Martin Morin, ex-chief of police of Buffalo, came to trial before Judge Lewis and a jury in the Supreme Court circuit this afternoon. Arthur C. Wade, for the prosecution, detailed the circumstances of Mrs. Tupper's arrest in Toronto and Superintendent Morin's telegraphed orders, "Hold the woman," Wade insisted that Morin was responsible for the arrest and that the Canadian authorities were simply acting under telegraphic instructions.

Mrs. Tupper was the first witness and told her story to the court substantially as she told it in the columns of a New York newspaper some months ago.

Dr. Dorin of New York, Mrs. Tupper's physician, was next called. He testified that she was ill in New York, troubled with insomnia, hysteria, morbid fancies and other more peculiarly feminine disturbances.

Mrs. Tupper, being recalled, testified to sleepless nights, nightmares and hysteria, also loss of employment.

On cross-examination witness said she lost a job to do eastern watering places for The Chicago Herald for $600. She admitted that she wrote the story of her experience for The New York World, but said she received no pay for it. It took her four or five days to compose it, she was so rattled.

A Strike May Follow.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—The deputation of C.P.R. train men were closeted with Mr. Van Horne, the president, until after 11 o'clock to-night. They refused to divulge the result, but it is understood Mr. Van Horne declined to entertain their proposals and a strike may ensue.

The Corporation Responsible.

QUEBEC, Feb. 5.—The jury which inquired into the death of Miss O'Leary, who was killed by the fall of snow and ice from a roof, returned a verdict that the Quebec corporation was responsible for her death.

Indiscreet Financiering.

ABILENE, Ks., Feb. 5.—A large meeting of the elders of the Church of United Brethren of Kansas was held here to-day to consider the case of Bishop Engle. The Bishop had been speculating in real estate and failed recently with liabilities $50,000 in excess of assets. The elders to-day deposed him and expelled him from the ministry for "indiscreet financiering."

Strike Among the Welsh Dock Laborers—Orphan Asylum Burned and Nine Children Perish in the Flames—A French Railroad Tragedy.

CARDIFF, Feb. 5.—A general strike has been declared here among the dock laborers. The trouble is serious and likely to result in another long struggle between capital and labor. Every tip in Cardiff is idle and the steamer pickets are guarding the entrance to all of the docks. The entire police force of Cardiff is on duty.

The Chilian Uprising.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—A despatch from Buenos Ayres says the Chilian rising was due to violence on the part of Chilian regulars. The rising occurred at Castro. The battle between the regulars and the insurgents lasted three hours. Seventeen of the former and 120 of the latter were killed. Profiting by the revolt the hostile sections of the Chilian regulars attacked one another with knives to settle an old quarrel and the insurgents around the city joined in the fighting, which lasted two days. The lyceum and hospital suffered severely. The number of persons killed is not known exactly, but is large. Ancud is now quiet. The harbor is patrolled by volunteers, who are partisans of the president, assisted by 2000 sailors. The revolt appears to be reduced to the principal harbors. Beaten on all sides, the insurgents intended to retreat to the mountains, assume the defensive and march towards Santiago, which is now denuded of troops. Friends advise the president to convoke Congress, which would settle the quarrel.

Reckless Shooting.

BARCELONA, Feb. 5.—The revolutionary spirit smouldering throughout Spain nearly burst into a flame in this city to-day. There was a peaceful demonstration, in which a parade and speeches were the main features, going on in favor of the Republican leader, Don Nicholas Salmeron. Alfonso Zorillas, co-workers in the propagation of Republican ideas, and naturally the crowds which were attracted by the procession became somewhat excited. This attitude of the populace seems to have alarmed the officer in charge of the troop of mounted gendarmes, who seems to have lost his head and to have ordered the gendarmes to charge the crowd. They did so at a gallop, firing their pistols and carbines right and left. The result was that several persons were more or less dangerously wounded. The action of the gendarmes deeply enraged the people, but the crowd seemed to have dispersed without any open act of retaliation.

As in the Good Old Times.

LEICESTER, Feb. 5.—In receiving a deputation of Irishmen yesterday Mr. McCarthy, in addition to informing that he had summoned a meeting of his followers for Feb. 21, said the Irish Parliamentary party would probably hear on that date the terms which had been made between the two sections that the party might meet again as in the good old times and, standing together like friends and brothers, fight against the common enemy.

Parnell's Terms.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Standard says it is rumored Mr. McCarthy will read at the meeting of his followers next Thursday a letter from Mr. Gladstone giving his views on the present situation, and that afterwards a meeting of the whole Irish party will be held, at which Mr. Parnell will explain the conditions on which he withdraws from the chairmanship and his future intentions.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—A despatch to The Temps from London says Gladstone has given the required assurances justifying Parnell in retiring from the leadership of his section of the Irish Parliamentary party. Dillon, the correspondent adds, will replace Mr. McCarthy as leader of the McCarthyite section and will be selected as leader of the reunited party.

Carlist Riots in Spain.

MADRID, Feb. 5.—Despatches report rioting in a number of towns this morning. A Liberal Carlist riot occurred at Logrono. At Haro the Carlist club was wrecked. There was serious rioting at Santo Domingo and Calzada, where many persons were injured.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

RALLY TO-MORROW.

TO-MORROW afternoon at 3 o'clock the Conservative convention called to select a candidate for this constituency will be held in the Opera House. Every Conservatory should make a point of being present. The issues in this campaign are of the first importance. The welfare of the country, if not its very existence, is at stake, and all who desire to see Canada advance should prepare at once to do their part to return a supporter of Sir John Macdonald to Ottawa. The first step will be taken at the meeting to-morrow, and united action will make victory assured. Rally at the Opera House at 3 o'clock.

THE POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES.

THE leading Liberal organ says that the United States Government is entirely opposed to limited reciprocity in any form, and will only consent to unrestricted reciprocity. Now, it must be admitted that the Globe should be in a position to know the feeling of United States politicians on this matter if it could only be depended upon to faithfully report them. Its editor, Mr. Farrer, has recently been in Washington in consultation with Mr. Hitt, Mr. Blaine and others. Besides, Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Charlton, Mr. Laurier, Mr. Longley and other Liberal leaders have made pilgrimages to Washington, and Mr. Wiman, the father of commercial union, is a frequent visitor to the United States Capital. As the Liberal leaders hold peculiar relations with the United States politicians, they should be in a position to know something of their opinions, though whether it is creditable to them to be conspiring with foreigners who have no friendly feeling towards Canada, is another matter. These frequent visits to Washington, the sending out of campaign literature from New York, the advocacy of a policy which would play directly into the hands of those United States politicians who wish to annex Canada—are things that the people of this country cannot view without some alarm as well as disgust. Mr. Blaine may not be willing to enter into a fair reciprocity treaty with Canada, and he has before declared that, so far as he was concerned, a political union was the only closer relation he would accept, but he asked for information as to what basis the Canadian Government desired to negotiate upon and he received the information. The proposals then made set out the policy of the Government, and they are such that the people will endorse them. If an arrangement for freer trade relations does not follow the blame will rest on the United States, as the Canadian offer is a fair and just one. Canada will not consent to form an alliance with the Republic against the rest of the world and contrary to her own interests, and this election will show that. The position of the Government is plain. Its proposals are before the people and are in accordance with their views. The Liberals, on the other hand, ask the people to follow them into commercial union—to sacrifice their independence, their manufacturing industries, the agricultural and other interests, and to fall into the hands of the Republic—a humiliation and a grave error that this country will not hesitate to reject. The Government has done all that could or should be done towards meeting the United States.

IN the United States Supreme Court Sir John Thompson has gained the first success. That court has entertained the appeal in the case of the seized sealer, and the decision of the court, whatever it may be, will aid in reaching a settlement of the question.

THE Conservatives of East Peterborough are called to meet at Norwood on Tuesday next to select a candidate for the Commons. East Peterborough is waiting for the opportunity to remedy the error it made in the last election, and by taking proper and energetic measures for organization this county will send two supporters of the present patriotic Government to Ottawa.

AFTER Sir Richard Cartwright had spoken at a banquet in Boston recently, President R. B. Bullock, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, said:—"The ready road to reciprocity with our neighbors is to accept Sir Richard Cartwright as a Senator from the State of Ontario." Annexation is what the foreign commercial unionists wish to lead Canada into.

The Population of Peterborough

is about 10,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection of the Throat and Lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1. He Was Spared.

Then they killed the Injun chieftain,
Sitting Bull, the tough old Injun,
Shot him when he tried to mizzle,
Shot him with their deadly muskets,
Filled him full of leaden bullets,
Emptied their revolvers at him,
Plugged him with their trusty carbines,
And old Sitting Bull, the Injun,
Heap big Injun, quit his fighting.
Quit his trying to skedaddle,
Quit his lying and his cheating,
And his stealing, and his whiskey,
Laid aside his evil habits,
And took straightway his departure
For the Kingdom of Ponemah,
For the land of the hereafter.

Mourn not for the tough old Injun,
Shed no bitter drop of anguish
O'er the grave of this old Injun,
He has missed one piercing sorrow
One soul-harrowing affliction,
One heart-breaking, frightful horror—
He will never see the pictures
Printed of him in the papers.

A GYPSY'S PROPHECY.

"A gypsy encampment, as I live!"

Philip Trevanion paused suddenly as he came round the bend in the forest road. Miss Westerly, his pretty companion, uttered a slight shriek, and clung closer to his arm.

"Oh, let us go away—I am afraid of these wild-looking people!" she exclaimed.

"Afraid! pretty lady? No one would harm a hair of your golden head!" croaked a bent old beldame, hobbling suddenly forward from behind a clump of hazel bushes and holding out to the startled couple one yellow and withered claw.

Philip, understanding the situation, tossed a gold piece to the withered old hag.

"Give her the best fortune you can afford for that!" returned the young man, laughingly; and Miriam held out her little roseleaf palm, prettily expectant.

"There's a long life before you, but not a happy one," croaked the daughter of Egypt as she studied the delicate lines, "You'll be married within the year."

"Tell me what my future husband will be like!" hazarded Miss Westerly, with a side glance at Mr. Trevanion's dark, handsome face.

"He will be old and white-haired; but there's the shine of yellow gold about him, and you'll be rich, my bonny lady, you'll be rich!"

Miriam jerked away her hand.

"Nonsense!" she said, shortly. "Come, Mr. Trevanion, we are rightly served for listening even for one instant to such a string of superstitious absurdities."

"And you, young man"—the beldame turned to Trevanion—"your book of life has two volumes—the second is brighter than the first! Now go—your fortune is told!"

Philip Trevanion looked annoyed, too; but in the same instant his eye fell on a slender little girl who had been leaning against the trunk of a tree—a child of thirteen or fourteen, whose magnificent black orbs were curiously eying them.

"Did you ever see such a lovely face?" he asked, enthusiastically. "She might sit as a model for Esther the Jewess!"

"Do let us get away," Mariam said, petulantly; and they walked in silence for several minutes.

At length the girl looked winningly up in her companion's face, her golden hair falling gracefully back on her shoulders in luxuriant burnished ripples.

"Mr. Trevanion, surely you attach no importance to that old sibyl's chatter?"

"If I did, Miriam, I should be miserable."

"Why?"

"Because, I love you so dearly, that I could not for one instant endure to think of you as the bride of another."

Miriam Westerly's eyes sparkled.

"Philip you love me!"

"As my own life. And you Miriam?"

Her shy, bright glance answered him—and if ever two lovers walked home on enchanted ground, illumined by the glow of an Arcadian sunset, those two lovers were Philip Trevanion and the lovely Miriam.

"You will just have time to answer your mother's questions and dress for dinner," Philip said, playfully, as they crossed the threshold of the quiet country hotel where they were staying. "It must be 7 o'clock!"

* * * * * *

Five years is not a very great space of time; yet it had aged Philip Trevanion more than a little. Had you stood in the salon of that elegant Parisian hotel you would scarcely have known the ardent young lover of other days in the tall reserved man whose lips had such an iron firmness, and whose eyes seemed to scintilate a mocking mirth.

"You are going home to-morrow, monsieur?" A brisk little dark man accosted him. "You have fully made up your mind?"

"I have, M. d'Antin."

"Then, if you would take charge of my niece, it would be an incalcuable favor. She will be accompanied by her lady's maid; and her aunt, Mrs. Devereux, will meet her at London Bridge Station."

"I shall be very happy, monsieur."

The little dark man was full of thanks and ecstatic gratitude; but Mr. Trevanion scarcely listened to them. He was thinking how different would be his return home from what he had once fondly fancied.

"How little we can foresee what lies before us!" he thought. "I suppose I shall see Miriam again—how that fancy would have set my heart beating once!—but she will not be the same Miriam. The widow of old Sir Hugh Rochefort is very fascinating, they say; but my Miriam died and was buried to me the night she wore her bridal wreath. Ah, well-a-day! I wonder if she ever remembered the gipsy's prophecy, when her white-haired husband stood at her side! It has come oddly true."

He laughed bitterly. Philip Trevanion could not forgive Miriam Westerly for jilting him in favor of the rich old baronet.

M. d'Antin's neice was at the station, with her maid, the next day, when Mr. Trevanion arrived there. He was prepared to meet a shy, freckled schoolgirl; consequently, he was taken a little by surprise when the old Frenchman led him up to a tall, magnificent-looking woman, not far from twenty, with velvety black eyes, creamy skin, and lips rich in scarlet bloom, whose costly cashmere shawl trailed from her shoulders as a queen might have worn her royal robes.

"Mademoiselle," began our hero, "je suis tres heureux"—

"Pardon me," the young lady interrupted, with a smile half languid, half amused; "I am of English birth and prefer to converse in the English language."

"But, Miss d'Antin"——

"Pardon me once more. My name is Genevieve Dale. The fact that my aunt married M. d'Antin does not deprive me of a name and heritage of my own."

"The deuce it doesn't!" thought Mr. Trevanion. "But there's something very enchanting about the dark beauty, after all, though my mind misgives me she is something of a termagant. On the whole, I think I shall like my traveling companion."

Trevanion's surmise was correct; so much so, in fact, that, when the journey was ended at the London Bridge terminus he was desperately in love with Miss Dale. In fact, the journey to Philip Trevanion seemed like a brief beautiful dream.

"And when may I hope to see you again?" he asked, when he handed her into Mrs. Devereux's elegant carriage, and the aunt had received her with true maternal tenderness.

"I shall receive some friends in honor of Genevieve's safe arrival, on Thursday of next week," said Mrs. Devereux. "We shall be delighted to see you then."

He glanced at Genevieve's velvet dark eyes. The velvet dark eyes answered plainly: "Come." And Mr. Trevanion went away with heart as light as any feather.

"I suppose I must go and see Miriam," he thought, as his eye fell on a number of cards lying on the table at his room in the Albany, but there was no particular ardor in the accents of his voice.

Lady Hugh Rochefort was sitting alone in a boudoir whose pink walls and pink draperies were infinitely becoming to her brilliant complexion and flaxen hair. She was very pretty still, with the fair, dimpled prettiness of a magnified wax doll, and the diamonds that sparkled on her neck, arms and bosom set off her bloom as dewdrops set off a garden of roses.

She started up, graceful and eager, as Mr. Trevanion was announced.

"Philip!"

"I am very happy to see you, Lady Rochefort."

Miriam's heart sank within her at the cool, metallic ring of his voice. Was it possible that he had ceased to love her? And she—how she had looked forward to the hour when, freed from the yoke of a hateful, though ambitious marriage, she might say to him, "Philip, I love you still!"

They chatted on different subjects; the visit was stiff and formal, and Philip soon took his leave; while Miriam, sitting with hands so tightly clinched that the nails cut into her delicate flesh muttered between her teeth, "I will make him love me yet! Surely the old spell is not all exorcised? He must love me, or I shall die!"

So, when Lady Rochefort heard the Mr. Trevanion was to be at the Devereux reception, she resolved to make one last effort to relight the smouldering spark that had burned so brightly in the lang syne.

Mariam Rochefort looked radiant that night in her floating draperies of blue gauze starred with silver, and the costly turquoises which gemmed her slender throat; but her beauty paled as the moon pales before the vivid incarnadine of July sunrise when Genevieve Dale came into the room.

Miss Dale, dressed in lemon-colored silk, with yellow jessmine in her blue-black hair, looked like a sultana—an Oriental queen. Her cheeks glowed with the vividest carmine; her eyes sparkled like dusky stars; and Miriam's heart ached to see how Philip Trevanion hung enraptured on her every glance and smile.

"You have passed a pleasant evening," her ladyship said, bitterly, when he bowed her a good night.

"The pleasantest in my life," he said, enthusiastically. "Congratulate me, Lady Rochefort; I have this evening become engaged to Genevieve Dale!"

Was it the heat or the fatigue of waltzing that suddenly blanched the lovely widow's cheek?

Miriam Rochefort never closed her eyes all that night, and when morning dawned she looked as if she had been ill for months of some weary, wasting disease. When the heart is sick all the springs of life wax low.

Genevieve Dale was sitting on a low velvet cushion at her aunt's feet the next morning, when Philip Trevanion called. Mrs. Devereux welcomed her niece's lover with a smile.

"I am glad you have come, Mr. Trevanion," she said, smoothing down the bright brunette's lustrous hair. "Genevieve wants me to tell you one or two things before she can consider this engagement as finally settled."

"Indeed! what are they?"

"That she has not always lived a life of luxury. Her mother, a wild romantic girl of sixteen, committed what the world calls a mesalliance—she married a handsome adventurer, who died in great poverty, leaving herself and her babe in the companionship of a band of strolling gypsies, who had shown the sick man great kindness. And when, shortly afterwards, my sister died, these same strollers instead of fulfilling her last desire, that the little child should be given to Mme. d'Antin and myself, adopted her; and"—

"And," interrupted Mr. Trevanion across whose brain a sudden light had flashed—"and Genevieve is the same black-eyed sprite whom I saw with the gypsies five years ago?"

The deep crimson overflowed Genevieve Dale's face as Philip took both hands and gazed into her eyes.

"She is. It was not until the following year that the old creature who had specially protected her died, and she was restored to us."

"And why do you tell me this?"

"Because Genevieve fancies it might make some difference in your views for the future, if"——

"Genevieve!"

"Oh, Philip!" she faltered, throwing her arms around his neck, "pardon me! I did not really believe it!"

And Aunt Devereux—considerate old soul—took her crochet-work and went up-stairs, so that Philip and Genevieve might stand all alone in their fairy world of happiness. You see, she had been young once herself.

And Philip Trevanion's second love was far brighter and deeper than his first. The gipsy's prophecy had come true!

Asleep At the Throttle.

WELLAND, Feb. 5.—Seven cars of merchandise were wrecked here last night by a rear-end collision at the Michigan Central depot, caused, it is claimed, by the driver of the second train falling asleep and allowing his train to run into the first train, which was waiting at the depot. The contents of the cars were scattered over the platform and close by. The wrecking train soon cleared the track.

An Unenchanting Life.

Ed. Johnston, a strong, burly man of good appearance, appeared before the Magistrate this morning as a vagrant. He had been working on the tunnel at Sarnia as a laborer and is now moneyless, homeless and friendless in these parts. He was sent up for one week.

Some one was Wrong.

The boy that was charged with breaking the window in new South Ward Mission building was in the Police Court again this morning. Last week he swore that another boy had done the deed, but this morning the second boy swore he was inside the building under maternal care when the glass was smashed. Some one was telling what was untrue and the Magistrate had to dismiss the case.

Personal.

Mrs. Allison, of Hamilton, sister of Mr. E. C. Hill, is in town the guest of her brother.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"Misses Hattie and Annie, daughters of the Rev. Mr. White, Peterborough, are guests of Mr. Wm. Gibson, King-st."

The following Peterborough representatives are chronicled as being present at the Y.M.C.A. convention now in session at Kingston:—W. J. Colville, General Secretary; Powell Armstrong, John Williams, Arthur Jolly, Charles D. Collins, J. Dousee and Ed. Manning.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor was in the sanctuary in St. Michael's cathedral, Toronto, yesterday, when a solemn High Mass of Month's Mind was held for the repose of the soul of the late Very Rev. Vicar General Laurent.

He Asked for More.

Here is an instance of an abnormal capacity on the part of an individual stomach, a capacity which some unappreciative people may declare hoggish. A resident of Douro, well known for his feats in the way of gastronomy, was at Craig's restaurant on Wednesday night. The subject of his ability to get away with a deal of provender was broached. Instances were mentioned and doubts expressed as to the extent of his accomplishments in this direction. A wager was made and the stakes, $2.00, put up. The cadaverous gentleman from Douro set to work and consumed, in rapid succession, three dozen raw eggs, finishing off with a large plate of oysters, raw. At the conclusion of this light refreshment he offered, if the stakes were increased to $5.00, to dispose of the balance of the eggs left in the basket, a considerable number, but the party who had lost the money grew alarmed and withdrew his purse from active competition with the stomach of the gentleman from Douro.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d10w4-6mo

THE CONVENTION TO-MORROW.

To Select a Candidate—Mr. J. S. Lark Will be Present.

To-morrow afternoon at three o'clock a mass meeting of the Conservatives will be held in the Opera House to select a candidate. This is the first step in one of the most important campaigns in the history of this country, and every Conservative who can be present should attend. United action, thorough organization and a vigorous campaign will place the Conservative candidate at the head of the polls by a good majority.

Mr. J. S. Lark, of Oshawa, will be present and deliver an address. Mr. Lark is a vigorous and logical speaker, and his former visits to Peterborough are pleasantly remembered. He will give an address on the important issues now in question and will deal with them in his clear and forcible manner. Let there be a large attendance.

SEARCHING FOR STOLEN GOODS

Chief Rossel After More of the Lakefield Jewellery—None Found as Yet.

Yesterday Chief Rossel received a letter from Oliver Williamson, a private detective at present at Clairmont, which has led to some suspicious discoveries. The letter stated that the detective had been informed that a jewellery store had been robbed in this locality and went on to describe several watches and pieces of jewellery that had been offered for sale in Clairmont. The robbery referred to was that of Mr. Patterson's jewellery store in Lakefield, for being implicated in which three men are now serving a seven years' sentence in the penitentiary.

Mr. Patterson was shown the description of the Clairmont watches and was so satisfied that it was some of his stolen goods that, in company with Chief Rossel, he went to Clairmont. The Chief secured a search warrant and with Detective Williamson and Mr. Patterson went to the house of John Badgerow, a farmer, living six or seven miles from Clairmont. The officers were at first refused admission, but upon threatening to force an entrance the door was opened. Mr. Badgerow, the suspected man, was not at home, the house being in charge of his brother. The latter stated that Mr. Badgerow and his wife were in Toronto. The officers then proceeded to search the premises. Nothing was found until a few rooms which were locked had been opened. Then the searchers came upon a startling stock of jewellery, albums, combs, purses, and in fact, a regular general store supply. The jewelry which was described in the detective's letter as having been offered for sale by Mr. Badgerow could not be found, and when questioned the brother said that that gentleman had taken it with him to Toronto in the morning. As to the unusual stock of miscellaneous goods that had been found in such an unexpected place as a farm house, the man said his brother had bought them. This story was hardly credited. However, as none of Mr. Patterson's goods were found, the officers had to withdraw.

Chief Rossel returned home but Mr. Patterson remained with the detective to examine the watches and jewellery which Mr. Badgerow had taken to Toronto with him. The Chief says the J.P. from whom he got his search warrant and others in the locality gave Badgerow a bad name. Certainly an explanation of his miscellaneous stock will have to be given to remove suspicions which must necessarily come.

The Educated Horses.

Prof. Bristol gave a matinee in the Opera House yesterday afternoon and the successful performance given by his educated horses delighted the large audience of ladies and children which filled the house. After the performance the children were given a pony ride on the stage. In the evening the Opera House was again crowded and those present were in raptures over the remarkable performances of the horses.

Campaign Notes.

The Conservatives meet in the Opera House at three o'clock to-morrow to select a candidate.

On Wednesday the Liberals meet in the same place for the same purpose.

Norwood should be a lively place on Tuesday. Both the Conservative and Liberal conventions will be held there on that day.

The Ontario Government heelers who run the East Riding in the Grit interest have held a convention in Mr. Stratton's office and selected the names to be submitted, pro forma, to the Norwood meeting on the 10th. Mr. Lang's name does not appear. We understand the favorites are Mr. Drummond, Mr. Niven and Mr. Theodore Ludgate. Mr. J. B. McWilliams approves of these. He will not be a candidate himself except in case of extreme emergency.

The Equal Righters have called a convention at Norwood on Wednesday.

The Liberals of the town held a meeting last night in Messrs. Stratton & Hall's office to secure a candidate to place in nomination on Wednesday. Several leading members of the party declined to carry the party's banner to sure defeat, and the meeting adjourned without securing a candidate. Among the names mentioned were those of Messrs. Peter Hamilton, J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., W. H. Meldrum, Geo. A. Cox and Wm. Yelland.

TIPS FROM THE TEE.

Campbellford Defeats Two Local Rinks—The Winnipeg Bonspeil.

Two rinks of curlers went from here to Campbellford yesterday and played a friendly match, but they were doomed not to win. In some respects it was a remarkable game. At the end of the thirteenth end W. G. Ferguson's rink was facing odds of 19 to 2 and W. H. Budden was 12 shots behind. Then the Peterborough's struck their tension and won end after end, and at the final were only 6 shots behind. The score and rinks were as follows:—

PETERBOROUGH.	CAMPBELLFORD.
A. R. Thompson	Dr. Mason
R. B. McKee	— Waters
W. Salisbury	— Gaudrie
W. G. Ferguson, s'p. 15	— Smith, skip....20

J. H. Burnham	John Smith

Majority for Campbellford 6 shots.

Six rinks from Toronto arrived here at noon and are playing six local rinks this afternoon. The same skips as went to Toronto are skipping for Peterborough.

FLAVELLE IN WINNIPEG.

A Winnipeg despatch dated the 5th says:—"The fifth draw in the Manitoba Challenge Cup competition was finished at the big bonspiel to-day. Four exciting games were played. That between Flavelle, of Lindsay, and Dr. Jamieson of the Thistles, Winnipeg, was the great contest of the day, and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators. At various stages of the game the rinks were tied, and until the last stone was played victory for either side was uncertain. A two-end in the last head, however, gave the game to Flavelle by four points, the score being 16 to 12. The other games of the same series were equally exciting, Harstone defeating Sparling by two points, and Grant, of Calgary, winning from Dunsford, of Morden, by the same score. The following play to-morrow in the sixth draw:—Flavelle v. Hartstone and Grant v. Fortune. All these rinks receive prizes, as there are five prizes. The struggle now is for possession of the challenge cup. This morning an international contest was played between two rinks from St. Paul and rinks skipped by Fortune, of Winnipeg and Flavelle, of Lindsay. Canada won by 42 to 29. Flavelle defeated his men by 25 to 15."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Just So.

Anyone can strike a match, but you cannot always strike such bargains as are now being offered in groceries at Stapleton & Escombe's. The Coming Contest.

It is considered it will be of a very lively nature. Every man may have his friends in politics, but when it comes to Grit or Tory of course he must cast his vote for his party irrespective of social friendship. The same may be said in this case. Parties may have their friends, but when it comes to business and they wish to buy teas, Groceries, wines or liquors at sacrifice, W. J. Morrow's is the place they go to. d31w7

NORWOOD NEWS.

Correspondence of the Review.

FAREWELL PRESENTATION.—On Thursday afternoon the pupils of the High School presented Miss Ryckman, the Modern Language teacher, with some of Shakespeare's plays in thirteen volumes with the accompanying address:—

Dear Miss Ryckman:—It is with feelings of the deepest regret that we, the pupils of the Norwood High School, bid you adieu. During your too brief stay among us we have all profitted by your instruction and example. For five months under your guidance we have pursued the study of modern languages and literature with great pleasure and with a slight degree of that enthusiasm which characterises you in all your undertakings. By your energy and scholarly attainments, coupled with a kind and pleasing manner, you have stimulated us to nobler resolves and to aim at a loftier ideal. The culture of the intellect has not been your sole aim, but also that of taste and feeling, and your manners and conversation have had over us an elevating and refining influence. We cannot permit you to leave us without in some way giving expression of our esteem and regard for you personally. We ask you to accept these thirteen plays of Shakespeare which, we trust, will recall in after days a pleasing remembrance of your associations with us as teacher and pupils. While we feel very sorry that you must leave us, we wish to congratulate you on the promotion to so high and honorable a position which you have been called to fill, and hope that you will find in the London Collegiate Institute as warm friends as you have left in the Norwood High School. Wishing you every success, we are,

Most sincerely yours,

REVIEWS.

THE COSMOPOLITAN.—The first original article by Count Tolstoi, that has ever been published in an American magazine, appears in the February issue of The Cosmopolitan, with a number of interesting photographic reproductions, one of them being a picture of Tolstoi guiding a plow in his Russian fields. Brander Matthews appears with his first article upon Some Latterday Humorists. The third in the series of colored frontispieces is a delightful sketch by McVickar, illustrating a character in Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger's new story, Mademoiselle Reseda. Ex-Postmaster General James presents an article upon the Welsh in the United States, liberally illustrated by portraits of prominent men who are of Welsh extraction. Women Clerks in New York, by the Marquise Clara Lanza. A charming article on the old Chateaux in Touraine by Miss Elsie DeWolfe; Prince Talleyrand and his Memoirs by H. de Bury, Amateur Portraiture in Photography, and A Remarkable Musical History by William Pole, F. R. S., the well known Englishman, are other prominent features of the February issue. Price 25 cents. (Cosmopolitan Pub. Co., Madison Square, N. Y.)

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.—A portrait of Talleyrand in his youth is the appropriate frontispiece of the February Century, in which is given a very full and interesting instalment of extracts from the Talleyrand Memoirs (begun in the January number). Napoleon is almost the sole subject of the extracts in this number. A most striking description is next given of Bonaparte in the first flush of his victories. These extracts are full of plots. The first described is that between Bonaparte and Talleyrand himself, just before Napoleon overthrew the Directory and made himself ruler of France. Then comes Talleyrand's apology for supporting Bonaparte, followed by a number of anecdotes of Bonaparte, and including an account of his meeting with Goethe and Wieland. The beginning of a new novel, in a new field, by Dr. Edward Eggleston, is an important feature of the February Century. The scene of The Faith Doctor is laid in New York City, and the subject is not only Christian Science, Faith Cure, etc., but the social struggle in the City of New York. The first heading of this story is The Origin of a Man of Fashion, and the second, The Evolution of a Society Man. Dr. Eggleston describes a Spontaneous Pedigree, and the Bank of Manhadoes. Besides the Faith Doctor, the fiction consists of the third and closing instalment of James Lane Allen's Sister Dolorosa, an instalment of Hopkinson Smith's Colonel Carter of Cartersville, a story by Miss Wilkins with a picture by Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote, a story, Penelope's Swains, by Mrs. Burton Harrison, illustrated by Wyles, and a strange story by Joel Chandler Harris called Balaam and his Master, with pictures by Kemble. Other papers of great interest make up a thoroughly interesting number.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.—The issue for February contains rich illustrations in very different manners. There is a series of interesting portraits of African explorers and artistic reproductions of paintings and sculpture of the Neapolitan school. Edward L. Wilson—author of In Scripture Lands, and well known for many years as an enthusiastic and adventurous photographer—records in Mount Washington in Winter the incidents and beauties and hardships of five notable ascents of that peak. The narrative has the real charm of stirring adventures, with the added merit of thorough appreciation of beauty and grandeur in nature.

In About Africa, J. Scott Keltie takes the African Exhibition in London as a text for a review of fifty years of African exploration—from Livingston to Stanley. In brief compass he presents a clear and entertaining account of each explorer's part in enlarging the area of known country in the Dark Continent. Sir Edwin Arnold's third Japonica paper continues the subject of Japanese people, with special reference to their habits in dining, and other domestic customs. A Box of Autographs is Richard Henry Stoddard's account of some of his unique treasures, with fac-similes of manuscripts of Addison, Burns, Mrs. Browning, Campbell, Scott, Thackeray, and other worthies. Mr. Stoddard embodies in his article much entertaining literary reminiscence. Frank R. Stockton's two-part story, The Water Devil, reaches a most unexpected and original conclusion, equalling this writer's most fantastic conceits. There is a short story of New York Club-life, by John Seymour Wood (author of The New England Ingenue). It is entitled The Story of an Old Beau, and is a sympathetic study of character. This month's instalment of the serial Jerry shows the hero in desperate straits, of which he proves a master. The number is also replete with interesting papers on other topics.

At what? Both political parties pegging away, getting ready for the fray. They say that a political contest wakes business up. FIRES AND ALLEGED FIREBUGS.

Several Arrests for Arson — An Alleged Tell-Tale Hat.

WHITBY, Feb. 5.—Joseph Gragg, who lives on the townline of Markham and Pickering, east of Mongolia, is in jail awaiting his trial on the serious charge of arson. It is charged that Gragg came home intoxicated and chased his wife and step-children out of the house with a shotgun. He then set fire to the house (which belonged to his wife) and burned it down with the contents.

Disastrous Fire in Strathroy.

STRATHROY, Feb. 5.—About 4 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in a billiard room in Frank-street and spread to the cigar and tobacco store adjoining. The total loss will be between $8000 and $9000, divided as follows: Ex-Mayor Johnson, $4000 on his two stores; insured for $2000. W. Jay, loss on billiard room, cigar and tobacco store and household effects, $3000; insured for $1500. Dr. Whitehead loss $300; no insurance. James Cox, loss $300; covered by insurance. S. H. Ray, on building $1200, on stock $1400; insured for $2100.

Bishop's College School Burned.

LENNOXVILLE, Feb. 5.—Bishop's College school, the college chapel and the rectory were destroyed by fire this afternoon. The fire broke out in the school and was first discovered at 2 o'clock and the alarm given. The local volunteer fire brigade hastened to the scene and with the aid of the townspeople they succeeded in getting the fire under control after about two hours' hard fighting. As yet the origin of the fire is unknown. There were no lives lost nor anyone injured. The boys lose all their effects and the majority of them are housed with friends and will leave for home to-morrow. The college proper, which is partially isolated from the school and chapel, was saved. The loss is placed at $50,000 and is said to be fully covered by insurance.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS

INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS CULLED FROM VARIOUS FIELDS.

The Chignecto Ship Railway—The Tunnel Below the English Channel—Aluminum at 50 Cents Per Pound Promised—Other Big Engineering Works.

A Chinese telegraph line is sanctioned by the Government to connect Pekin with Kiachta, on the Siberian frontier.

The cheapest railway ticket iss[illegible] to be one on the Berlin P[illegible], between Friedenau and Schone[illegible] is for school children and costs one-[illegible]

Mitis metal has been found, b[illegible] Silvanus Thompson, to be far [illegible] ordinary cast iron and not muc[illegible] wrought iron for electro-ma[illegible] great advantage for the cheap[illegible] dynamos and motors is that it ca[illegible] cast to the form required, and the [illegible] forgings avoided that are now ne[illegible] with wrought iron.

A drainage scheme for Melbourne, proposed by James Mansergh, engineer to the Government of Victoria, would cover an area of 134 square miles, and is planned for a present population of 430,000 and an ultimate population of 1,700,000. The separate system is recommended with a disposal by soil filtration. The estimated ultimate cost is nearly $30,000,000.

The smoke cloud overhanging London is estimated by Prof. Roberts-Austen, F R S., to weigh 300 tons. Of this volume 50 tons are solid carbon and the remainder carbonic acid gas. He figures the yearly value of its constituent parts as equaling $10,000,000. This item was included in the late report of the sanitary committee of the London City Council on the smoke nuisance in that city.

The English Channel Tunnel Company, at a meeting held Dec. 18, reported that the experimental tunnel was in excellent order. The gray chalk was now dry and hard, resembling firestone, and the percolation of water was inconsiderable. This trial tunnel is 2,300 yards long. In the search for coal measures, now going on, they had found one 3 ft. 6 in. seam. They have also found traces of petroleum and bituminous shale suitable for the production of mineral oil.

A street-cleaning syndicate in Baltimore, made up of a number of business men of that city, makes a formal proposition to perform all the duties of the street cleaning department in a more effective manner than heretofore, for $175,000 per annum, for five years. This is $100,000 less than it cost the city in 1889. They offer satisfactory bonds, but stipulate that they are to be allowed all refuse matter collected. They would form a stock company and would expect some profit from their enterprise.

The Blackwall tunnel under the Thames proposed by Sir Benjamin Baker, would have an outside diameter of 27 feet and an inside diameter of 25 feet, as contrasted with the 10 feet of the Southwark tunnel just completed. This tunnel would be an iron tube built in segments and excavated by means of a shield. The soil to be penetrated is clay, gravel and sand, without mud. The tunnel would be lined with two feet of brickwork, and space would be afforded inside for two lines of rails and a clear height of 18 feet for vehicles.

Aluminum at 50 cents per pound is promised for 1892 by Mr. Eugene H. Cowles, president of the Cowles Aluminum Co., of Lockport, N. Y. The price of this metal in an iron alloy, as made by this company, is now [illegible] per pound. Mr. Cowles says that in the near future his company will make the pure metal by a new process, "radically different" from other processes and "ridiculously simple." Reagents will be used as cheap as the clay which will form the base. Patents are being applied for and for the present the process is kept secret.

A new form of railway track has been patented in England by Messrs Rothery and Warburton, mining engineers. It consists of a V-shaped bridge rail, supported on chairs having a seat formed to fit into the hollow of the rail. The chairs are secured to the ties by spikes or bolts, like the chairs ordinarily used on English track. At joints the chairs are exceptionally long, and horizontal bolts pass through the legs of the rail and the saddle of the chair. It is claimed that the chairs may be attached to the ties at the proper distance apart for gauge, which may be done at the railway shops, and that the rails can then be laid by unskilled labor.

The largest carrier of freight for her size is said to be the steel steamer Maryland, owned by the Inter Ocean Transportation Co., and built by the Detroit Dry Dock Co. The Maryland carries iron ore from Escanaba to South Chicago, and her largest cargo was 3,282 gross, or 3,737 net tons of ore. This cargo was taken on a draught of 16 ft., and did the depth of water permit, she would carry 4,000 tons. The largest grain carrier on the lakes is the steel steamer America, with a record of 111,507 bushels of corn carried from Chicago to Buffalo. These steamers are generally fast boats for freight carriers; the Oswego, this summer, made the 889 miles between Buffalo and Chicago in 54h. 16m., developing an average speed of 16.4 miles per hour.

The Chignecto ship railway works are now well advanced, the roadway proper being about finished, about ten per cent. of two large cuttings being all that remains undone. The track is laid from the southern dock for 13 miles, or to within 4 miles of the northern dock. The track, as previously noted, is an ordinary double track, laid with 110 lb. rails, 18 ft. between centres, with 9 ft. x7 x12 in. ties, laid 2 ft. centres, the two ties at each joint being 27 ft. long, to connect the two tracks, and thus preserve exact gauge for the cradle. The locomotives run on one track only, of standard guage, two locomotives being used for each cradle. There are no turn-outs, but traverse tables at each end; frogless switches riding the rails being used for switching the locomotives. Rock ballast, 18 inches under the ties is used throughout. Work on the lifting docks is in a very forward state, so as to make it fairly certain that the work will all be completed in 1891. The pumping machinery at the southern end is in place, and the building for it completed; at the other end the same work is about half completed, and is likely to be complete by July 1. At least 1,800 men will be employed on the works next summer.

The Late W. D. Booker.

HAMILTON, Feb. 5.—W. D. Booker, secretary of the Victoria Mutual Fire Insurance Company, whose sudden death was announced yesterday, was a son of the late Rev. Alfred Booker, a Baptist clergyman, and was born in Nottinghamshire, England, about 65 years ago. He came to Canada with his father in 1843, and the family settled in Hamilton. Rev. Mr. Booker was killed in the great Desjardins bridge disaster. Mr. Booker is survived by his wife, four sons and two daughters. William Booker, the eldest son, is in the Black Hills country, where he owns a ranch; Charles is in business here; Hubert is in the employ of Tuckett & Son, Newman is in the Traders' Bank in Toronto.

A Rescuing Party Perish.

OURAY, Cal., Feb. 5.—Advices from Mount Sneffles state that some miners started out last evening to help bring in Billy Maher, who had been blown up in his cabin. While going up the mountain a heavy body of snow became detached and the men were buried down the mountain and buried 36 feet beneath the snow. Their bodies were recovered to-day.

THE LOVER'S LAMENT.

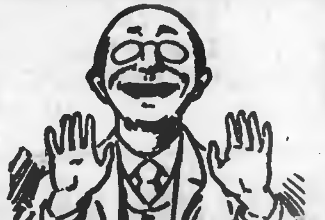
Your face is like a drooping flower,
Sweetheart!
I see you fading, hour by hour,
Sweetheart!
Your rounded outlines waste away,
In vain I weep, in vain I pray,
What power Death's cruel hand can stay?
Sweetheart! Sweetheart!
Why, nothing but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hand of time deals lightly with a woman in perfect health. But all functional derangements and disorders peculiar to women leave their mark. You needn't have them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to your rescue as no other medicine can. It cures them.

For periodical pains, prolapsus and other displacements, bearing-down sensations, and all "female complaints" and "weaknesses," it is a positive remedy.

The "Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, restorative tonic and nervine, imparting strength to the whole system in general, and to the uterine organs and appendages in particular. It keeps years from your face and figure—but adds years to your life. It's guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case. If it doesn't, your money is returned.

World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.



"Well! Well!"

That's the way you feel after one or two of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have done their work. You feel well, instead of bilious and constipated; your sick headache, dizziness and indigestion are gone. It's done mildly and easily, too. You don't have to feel worse before you feel better. That is the trouble with the huge, old-fashioned pill. These are small, sugar-coated, easiest to take. One little Pellet's a laxative, three to four are cathartic. They regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels—quickly, but thoroughly. They're the cheapest pill, sold by druggists, because you only pay for the good you get.

WOMEN FAIR.

The Empress of Austria has lost all interest in dress and courtly ceremonials of state since her son's death. The wonderful parure of diamonds in process of construction for her at the time of his death was sold. She travels incognito about the Continent in plainest garb, but her love for roses remains unchanged, and she still delights in their perfume and tintings. Accordingly, during the royal lady's stay in Laina Schloss, over 800 rose trees were brought from Count Hohenstein's collection to meet the great demand for her favorite flower. There are advantages in being an Empress.

The inscription fad is one of the latest crazes among the fair sex. Every boy that ever recited "My Name is Normal," has heard of the handwriting on the wall and the intense effect it had upon Mr. Belshazzar. It was about this time the inscription fad started, and although it has taken some time to reach over American cities, it has at last got here, and way back districts are impressed by the touching simplicity of "don't blow out the gas" or "use the rope in case of fire." An East End girl—one of those girls that you always read about—with large liquid eyes and even temperament, who never snores and sleeps with hands resting peacefully over her bosom—that sort of a girl—has the following in her boudoir:

Sleep sweetly in this quiet room,
Oh, thou, whoe'er thou art,
And let no troubled yesterday
Disturb thy peaceful heart,
Nor let to-morrow scare thy rest
With dreams of coming ill.
Thy Maker is thy changeless friend,
His love surrounds thee still;
Forget thyself and all the world,
Put out each glaring light;
The stars are shining overhead.
Sleep gently, then—
Good-night.

Mary B. Clay, of Whitehall, Ky., is one of the most successful farmers in that portion of the State. In a recent article, contributed to the Woman's Journal, on farming for women, Miss Clay says: "The advantages of farming as a business for women may be summed up under the following heads: Women who have no training or learning in other ways so as to take a profession can, with ordinary application and judgment, make a comfortable living on a farm. It is available for women with large or small means. For women thrown upon their own resources, with children to raise, it is an economical and safe business investment. If the means to be invested are small a judicious choice of land as to location or access to market, the quality of the soil for the purpose wanted, etc. should be considered, with a view to small fruits, such as strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, dwarf fruits and grapes, and the most salable vegetables, one or two cows, chickens and ducks. Milk and cream bring more to sell than to make into butter. Eggs are more profitable to sell than to raise chickens. Money invested in two or three acres, can with industry and care, be made to produce more than any notes or bonds with interest will bring, and the family can live on the fat of the land with very little money outlay.

BABY'S FACE WAS RAW.

Distressing Itching Skin Disease Cured in One Month by the Cuticura Remedies.

When our boy was six weeks old he had a rash on his cheek. It spread on both cheeks and chin. His face was all raw. I doctored with various remedies, but it got no better. My mother advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I used them faithfully, and in one week the boy looked better. In one month he was cured, and now he is three years old and no signs of it returning. The child was so bad I had to tie him in a pillow-case, and pin his hands down so that he could not scratch his face. I cannot speak too highly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I recommend CUTICURA whenever I can. I would be pleased to see anyone and talk to them of the good it has done my boy. MRS. CYRUS PROSCH,

MINISTERS AT TORONTO.

FOSTER AND THOMPSON OPEN THE CAMPAIGN.

The Former Deals With the Finances and Thompson With the Negotiations Between Canada and the United States—Messrs. Bowell and Carling Also Deliver Addresses.

TORONTO, Feb. 7.—Between 2000 and 3000 persons assembled in Shaftesbury Hall last night on the occasion of the opening of the Conservative campaign for the coming Dominion elections. The ground floor and aisles were packed with men; the first gallery, a horseshoe, was reserved for ladies with Heintzman's band in the centre, and the top gallery, like the ground floor, was packed with men. Mr. A. G. McLean, president of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association, occupied the chair. In apologizing for the absence of Sir John he said that wherever he was he was not asleep, and he would probably be present next Tuesday.

Mackenzie Bowell, the first of the ministers said that the trade and navigation returns showed conclusively that under the present Conservative administration the imports from England have averaged several millions of dollars more per annum than under the Reform administration. And the exports to England have also been increased by millions of dollars. Take also the trade with the United States and statistics show that under the Conservative administration the exports and imports have been less than under the Reform administration.

Sir John Thompson.

Sir John Thompson is a short stout knight with sharp straight nose and ruddy countenance like the Jack of Clubs, and clean-shaven face with little side whiskers no bigger than a 50 cent piece. He wore a white scarf round a stand up collar, corners turned down. Like his fellow-ministers he wore the young men's badge. Sir John's voice is clear, musical, and delivered from the chest, somewhat after the manner of a Church of England rector.

On coming forward the hon. gentleman cheering. He modestly remarked that he was greeted with cheers. We have been told, said he, within the last four years that new light has come upon the men who are opposed to us; that they have discovered a new gospel. In 1878, in 1882 and in 1887 they went up and down this country denouncing the corruption and bribery of the Government of the day, declaring that our manufacturers were robbers and that our great public works were undertaken for merely corrupt purposes. All this has passed by and we are told to-day that the issue now before the people of Canada is to be decided on the one question of our trade relations with the United States. Well, we are ready for the fight on the issue of our trade relations with that country, and it is to explain that issue that we are here on this platform to-night. To show that this issue is by no means a new one with the Conservative party, I shall briefly refer to the relations that have existed between the two countries in the past.

Diplomatic Relations Since 1854.

The treaty of 1854 was consummated and put on the statute book by the statesman who now leads the destinies of this country.

In 1866, when the good and beneficial relations following the treaty of 1854 ceased to exist by the action of the United States, it was the same statesman who urged upon the United States to reconsider their rash decision to sunder the happy relations which then existed between the two countries, but he appealed in vain.

In 1868, under the guidance of the same statesman, an Act was put upon the statute book to testify for all time to come our willingness, on a moment's notice of the willingness of the United States, to have a fair interchange of natural products between the two countries.

In 1871 a treaty was made and carried through the Parliament by Sir John Macdonald, giving a large measure of reciprocity in various interests, in addition to those of a commercial character.

When our American friends put an end to that treaty in 1885 the same statesman, continuing to exhibit his desire to maintain friendly relations with the Republic, left open to the Americans our fisheries on the Atlantic for six months beyond the right. They had renounced their right to use them on the promise of President Cleveland that he would recommend to Congress a commission to consider all the relations between the two countries. His promise was fulfilled in a certain sense. He made his recommendation and Congress declared it was a project unworthy of receiving a single dollar of public money from the United States.

In 1888 a delegate appointed by the same statesman went to the United States and offered them reciprocity, offered to discuss it in the broadest sense of the word; he asked the Americans to discuss the whole question with us, and that offer was absolutely declined on the part of the United States.

Now, that is our record on the reciprocity question, but you have yet to find a single line in the statute books of Canada put there by a Reform administration. [Applause.] During this time what was the policy of our opponents? Well, it was not broadly different from our own. In 1878 Mr. Mackenzie was asked to state his policy with regard to the United States. He said: "We are willing to trade with any country we can." In the same year Sir Richard Cartwright expressed himself on this same question. He stated that while reciprocity was desirable Canada was not in such a state of subjection to the United States that she can't live without that country. Sir Richard stated that we had guns and ships and we would carry the war into Africa. Canada would find new markets for herself. Nothing was more certain, said Sir Richard at that time, to bring about unrestricted reciprocity than to lead the people of the United States to believe that Canada could not get along without them. What a pity Sir Richard had forgotten his words of 1878! What a pity he had forgotten his statements that Canada could afford to live without reciprocity with the United States!

Well, now, what is the cry that comes up from the Reformers to-day? They state that we have stolen their clothing. They said that while they were in bathing we ran off with their clothes. [Laughter.] Stolen their clothing! Down to 1878 we all wore the same clothing. There was no difference between the two parties as to reciprocity. But while we all wore the same clothing then, to-day the clothing of the Reform leaders is variegated indeed, every trip they take to Washington adding new colors to their attire. [Laughter.] One day it is commercial union; another day it is unrestricted reciprocity, and then again we find it under the guise of continental free trade.

The Government's Policy.

What exactly is our policy to-day? I will tell you. A little over three months ago it transpired that negotiations were being entertained by the United States for making a treaty of reciprocity with the colony of Newfoundland. These negotiations have not yet ripened into a treaty, but they were proceeding on lines which were not unlike, as far as they went, lines which Canada would be willing to pursue with regard to trade relations with that country; and, at our own motion, on hearing these negotiations were progressing, we insisted on the British Government that Canada should have the option if she pleased of being included in any treaty which might be made with the colony of Newfoundland, but we in Canada at the same time thought that the proposed treaty with Newfoundland didn't seem to proceed upon lines so expansive as was suited to the wants and interests of Canada, and that it might be better to avail ourselves of entering upon separate negotiations on behalf of Canada. That intimation was promptly conveyed to Washington. It will be made plain to you when the time comes that, in response to that intimation, Mr. Blaine stated that, although the negotiations with Newfoundland would not suit the Dominion of Canada for a trade treaty, yet he was willing to make a wide treaty of reciprocity with Canada and to enter upon separate negotiations with her. That statement being made we were bound to avail ourselves of that opportunity to extend our trade. The next request that came from Mr. Blaine was that, preparatory to negotiations being entered upon, we would outline the basis upon which the convention should proceed. We did so in the document which has just been published in the press, offering to consider a renewal of the treaty of 1854 with such modifications as the altered circumstances of the two countries might call for. We asked them to reconsider the abortive treaty of 1878, to settle the fishery dispute along with trade questions, likewise to settle the Behring Sea controversy and the matters affecting the Atlantic coast, the wrecking business, etc. A good deal has been said about the uncertainty of all this. It is said that having made a proposition to Mr. Blaine, without any prospect of its being entertained, Sir John has sprung on the elections under the pretence that he is going to carry out these negotiations, while in reality the Cabinet at Washington will have none of it. When the proposition was submitted to him, Mr. Blaine answered that he was willing to enter upon a preliminary discussion in advance of the more formal commission, but he would not be prepared to do so until after the 4th of March, when the term of the present Congress expires. In the meantime, what would our position have been if we hadn't gone to the people of Canada? It would have been said that in the very last hours of the parliament we were endeavoring to make a treaty which would entirely change the business aspect of the country, and when we went to Washington we would have been met with this objection from the men with whom we would be negotiating. We would have been a government entering upon the most important negotiations without a parliament behind us. What we propose is, that if you and the people of Canada accept the policy we lay before you we will go to Washington with the Parliament behind us and able to treat with Mr. Blaine with the assurance that our Premier has the renewed confidence of the people of this country.

I am sorry to see that Mr. Laurier is going about the country declaring that we have exacted such hard conditions against the American fishermen that we have alienated the good-will of the people alongside us. We have done no more than uphold the undoubted rights of Canadians—[applause]—and those undoubted rights, whether on the Atlantic or on the Behring Sea, we are determined, with the help of Great Britain, to sustain to the last. [Cheers.] Great Britain has declared over and over again that we were strictly within our rights in regard to everything that was done about the Atlantic fisheries. When our people were refused plain justice at the hands of the American executive we went to the bar of the Supreme Court of their own country and appealed against that injustice. [Applause.] When the Reformers tell us, then, that we have done all we could to break up the good neighborhood between the two countries, you will bear in mind that we have done only that for which every citizen of the United States would have despised us if we hadn't done. [Applause.]

Now I shall tell you a few things that our policy does not mean. In the first place our policy of reciprocity does not mean that Canada is to lose control of her own tariff or the regulation thereof. It does not mean that the Government has yet arrived at the position that, in matters of trade, it is prepared to discriminate against the parent country. [Applause.] Nor does it mean direct taxation. Direct taxation is no part of our policy. If you want Canada to lose control of her tariff, if you want to see Canada discriminate against Great Britain, I am sorry to say you will have to vote against the candidates who represent the Government of this country to-day [Cries of "Never."] Our policy does not mean the granting of a practical monopoly of trade of Canada to the cities of the American seaboard. It does not mean the surrender of the National Policy under which the industries of this country have been built up. It does not mean that for the benefit of American labor the industries of Canada shall be pulled down and scattered to the winds.

Our opponents say we are going to fail in getting reciprocity with the United States. Well, our policy may fail. If it does fail it will be because Sir Richard Cartwright and his followers have put on record whole volumes to prove that bankruptcy awaited this country if it did not get reciprocity with the States. It will fail, if it fails at all, because of the cloud of witnesses he has produced to belittle this country, to prove to the Americans that this country can be starved into submission. These men have opposed every concession which friendly congressmen and senators were willing to make to Canada in the fear that it might do Canada some good, and Canada has lost the benefit of concessions which have been made to her through the tactics of these emissaries to Washington.

In conclusion, let me say something about the American press. From now till the election you will find every kind of statement quoted from the American newspapers against us. They have lately solicited Mr. Blaine to come out and declare that no negotiations have been made towards reciprocity with Canada. They have solicited The New York Tribune and have got it to come out and declare against everything but unrestricted reciprocity. They will presently declare that Sir John Macdonald can never get any concession for Canada, that unless you place Sir Richard in power there is no hope of anything being done for Canada. Beware of tricks and intriguesof that character. We appeal to our Canadian fellow-citizens, and if they sustain us in the policy I have stated to-night, the negotiations which will be begun in March on fair lines of interchange that will be beneficial to both countries, these negotiations will be carried out. In those negotiations you will find it necessary to send no United States Senator from Ontario. [Laughter and loud cheering.]

The Minister of Finance.

Hon. George E. Foster of New Brunswick opening congratulated the young men on their organization. His part of the proceedings was to place before his hearers some of the other issues now before the country. The motto for the campaign (more approproprate now than ever) was Canada for the Canadians. [Cheers.] Never before had the spectacle been seen of the chiefs of a party (Reform) singing their songs of ruin in this country and going to our neighbors for the aid and comfort and plan of argument for carrying on their crusade in Canada.

Sir Richard Cartwright had declared time after time that our country was in a state of arrested development, that our people were poorer, and toiling for nothing. Goldwin Smith a few nights ago in Toronto had told the Governor-General to quit this country; and uphold the idea of our going into the American union. For this speech he had the thanks of the Young Liberals and the approval of The Globe. [Hisses.] But these men were only beating tom-toms in order to induce the general showers of office.

One answer he could give to them were extracts from their own friends. Oliver Mowat had said not long ago that the percentage of increase in Canada was greater than that of the United States. George W. Ross had said in 1888: "Canadians are a peaceful, happy and contented people." Mr. Drury, Minister of Agriculture, had said, "Notwithstanding the great enterprise of the Americans, Canada can show as much progress as they can." The Globe in 1890 had said the trade situation was sound and much more to the same effect.

Sir Richard Cartwright had said Canada was retrograding, was going to ruin and that unrestricted reciprocity was the cure. Like the quack he had first to persuade the public that they were ill before he could sell them his nostrum.

What was the answer to this mournful picture of Sir Richard? The credit of Canada was higher in the British money market than that of any other colony. Our last loan had been placed at 3 per cent. the lowest ever obtained by a colony. Our 3 per cents brought more than 3½'s of other colonies. Sir Richard placed his last loan at 4 per cent. In spite of Sir Richard's story of ruin our national debt carried hardly 3 per cent. Our national debt was being lowered though we had been building railways, canals and other works. Last year our annual expenses had been reduced by a million. Our revenue is buoyant; it was not the case when Sir Richard was in power. In Sir Richard's time our public works earned four millions; now they earned eight millions.

The surplus last year was over three millions; in Sir Richard's time it had a minus sign before it. Our exports last year were 96 millions; in Sir Richard's time 71 millions. Last year's exports were eight millions more than that of the preceding year, showing we were going ahead by leaps and bounds. The circulation showed an increase. The savings of the people showed great increases every year. Our vessel tonnage had increased in two years from 15 millions of tons to 18½ millions. Was that retrograding? Must not this increased tonnage have been employed in carrying more trade?

But the most astounding evidence that we were not retrograding was to be found in the returns of the railways. Ten years ago we had no C.P.R.—the Grand Trunk and Intercolonial. But not only had these two roads increased their carrying returns—passengers and freights—by large figures, but the C.P.R. in addition had carried last year nearly 10 millions of tons of freight and 4½ millions of passengers. And all this was independent of the increase of trade by the water routes.

The Canadian banks had passed through a crisis that had pulled down London houses like the Barings.

The president of the Toronto Board of Trade, in his recent address, had shown how trade had grown in every direction.

But when Sir Richard was in power there was a genuine falling off in our trade and in our revenue.

Canada to-day, instead of being a retrograding land, was a place of peace, comfort and prosperity. As he had said before, Sir Richard had deliberately and dishonestly set about to prove to the Canadian people that they were ill in order that he might sell them his nostrum of unrestricted reciprocity, which had many names. Laurier called it "the application of the expansive theory rather than of the restrictive theory." Edgar calls it "unlimited free trade." Charlton calls it unrestricted reciprocity or commercial union. The fathers and founders of it call it straight "commercial union."

Why had not this panacea been thought of before? Why was it not thought of in 1873? Because the Reformers had a level-headed man at their head—honest, straightforward Alexander Mackenzie, a man who had more hard common sense in his head than the committee of leaders all together. At that time they relied on a revenue tariff and the Pacific scandal to get into power. In 1878 their cry was a denunciation of the N.P. No mention of the panacea. In 1882 it was down with the monopolies like the C.P.R. In 1887, when Mr. Blake was leader, it was, "We can't change the N.P. on account of vested interests and the need there was to raise a revenue." No talk of the panacea then. But now the panacea was brought out and it was in contradiction of their past. They, these one-time free traders, advised the people to embrace a tariff of 62 per cent. all round.

But he (Mr. Foster) challenged these men who were offering us unrestricted reciprocity to make good that offer if they could. What these men (Sir Richard and Mr. Laurier) meant to teach the people was simply this: We have the power to give you unrestricted reciprocity, therefore vote for us and you will get it. It takes two to make a bargain. He challenged their credentials. Let them produce a single statement, a single document from the United States authorities that they (Sir Richard and Mr. Laurier) could give the people of Canada unrestricted reciprocity. Has any cabinet of the United States pledged itself to unrestricted reciprocity? Even any member of the cabinet. None. But what had Mr. Blaine said: If Canadians wish to have the advantages of the citizens of the United States they must come under the flag, that they could not be both Canadians and Americans at the one time. How could Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard pretend to speak for people who denied our rights on two seas and who still maintained the Munroe doctrine?

The speaker then read from the speeches of Hitt, Wiman, Laurier, Charlton, Edgar, Davies, their definition of unrestricted reciprocity. If, as some of these men said, it meant that Canada could retain her own tariff, but have free access to the States, then we would be able to wipe out the woolen mills, the iron furnaces of the United States, a thing that appeared absurd before it was stated.

Their proposal meant the abnegation by Canada of its power of fiscal legislation—a right which no people of self-respect would give up. It means that our tariff powers are to be given up. Once we surrendered this power we would be part and parcel of the country to the south of us.

Next it meant a loss of revenue. On United States goods we to-day get over $8,000,000 a year. On sugars (free in the United States) $3,000,000. On goods from other countries (which the United States tariff would protect) $6,000,000, in all $18,000,000 of a loss in our revenue. The only way to make this up would be in direct taxation—Sir Richard's tax-gatherers would demand $4 from every head and $15 or $20 from every family.

The speaker read an extract from L'Electeur (Mr. Mercier's organ) to the effect that Mr. Mercier's weakness was liberality to his friends in Quebec, that he would be able to be much more liberal if Laurier was in power in Ottawa, and if this were to obtain, how could Sir Richard get along without a high rate of direct taxation! That didn't look like economy. They were not much on economy in Quebec.

Mr. Foster went on to say that next it meant national suicide. All the advocates of it in the United States from Hitt down to Wiman said it meant in the end absorption into the Union.

Speeches were also made by Hon. John Carling, Senator Frank Smith and others.

A Rene his Budget from Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—Le Canada announces that Mr. Rochon, Ottawa county, will resign his seat in the Local House and run for the Commons.

It is said that Mr. Alexander Robillard also will resign and run for the Commons and that Mr. D. B. McTavish, barrister, Ottawa, will offer himself for the Ontario House, both elections to take place the same day.

In consequence of Mr. Alonzo Wright's decision, Mr. Henry Ayton as Conservative, J. M. McDougall as Independent, and Mr. Ed. Devlin, jr., as Liberal, all three of Aylmer, have taken the field. Citizens are working hard to induce Mr. E. B. Eddy to stand as a Liberal-Independent candidate.

Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, who is attending the Supreme Court here, being seen as to his opinion of the political situation, said that he would not speak at present. He was going to Toronto shortly, when he would consult with his political friends, after which he would make a public statement. Asked if he would run as a Conservative or as an Equal Righter he replied that he would run, but he didn't care what they called him. He said he could not say anything of the intentions of the Equal Rights party.

The Workingmen's Liberal-Conservative Association held a meeting last evening when they organized for the campaign and elected officers.

Mr. Pat. Purcell intimated to-day that he will not run again in Glengarry. He had a lengthy interview yesterday with the Premier.

Sir Charles Tupper arrived at noon to-day and is the guest of his son, Hon. C. H. Tupper. Lady Tupper did not accompany her husband, fearing the voyage at this season of the year. Sir Charles says he is in excellent health. He had a lengthy conference this afternoon with the Premier. He starts for Nova Scotia on Monday. Sir Charles denies that he will enter the cabinet.

Desultory Firing at Various Outlying Points.

North Norfolk Reformers will renominate John Charlton.

Joseph Featherston will probably oppose W. A. McCulla of Peel.

Hon. David Mills is mentioned for South Middlesex. Robert Ferguson, the Liberal member for East Kent in the Legislature, may resign his present seat and tackle Bothwell for the Commons.

Sir Donald Smith accepted the candidature for Montreal West.

It has been definitely arranged that the Legislature will meet only to adjourn.

Mercier arrives in Montreal to-morrow to confer with Laurier as to mode of campaign.

It is generally understood that the only name which will be seriously before the South Oxford convention will be that of the present member, Sir Richard Cartwright.

Charles Fairbairn, the member elected for South Victoria, will have all his troubles in the recent bye-election for naught, for he has not yet had the pleasure of adorning his seat in the House of Commons. It is not known whether he will be opposed.

A large and influential deputation of West Durham Conservatives waited upon Mr. G. T. Blackstock yesterday and asked him to be their candidate again. Mr. Blackstock declined partly for business reasons and partly because he thought the nomination ought to be offered to a local man this time.

It has been decided after the Lieut.-Gov.'s speech is delivered and answered, to propose an adjournment of the Provincial Legislature until after the Dominion elections. The election of Speaker will take place on Wednesday.

The Lieutenant-Governor's speech will be delivered on Thursday, and after the routine business is completed the House will adjourn.

A Washington despatch says it is doubtful if the Fifty-second Congress will be convened before August, and consequently reciprocity negotiations could not be opened before that time. It is, of course, possible, however, that the President may convene the Senate in an extra session after March 4 to consider such matters of an executive character relating to treaties as may be submitted to it.

Candidates Nominated Yesterday.

North Ontario Reformers in convention at Beaverton reconfirmed the nomination of A. P. Cockburn.

South Essex Liberals met at Kingsville and nominated H. W. Allen of Essex Centre unanimously.

Mr. W. H. P. Clement, barrister of Toronto, was the unanimous choice of the Liberal convention for West York yesterday afternoon at Weston. There was a large attendance of delegates. Reeve Stonehouse was also nominated, but withdrew in his favor.

At 2 o'clock this morning the police ambulance brought to the hospital a woman named Mitthew, who resided in Mercer-street. She was in an unconscious state and suffering from a pistol shot in the chest. The wound was a serious one, and it is believed that in a fit of aberration the sufferer had attempted self-destruction. The doctors were of opinion that if inflammation did not supervene she would recover. The ambulance was summoned by a neighbor.

The Y.M.C.A.

H. B. Fraser, Toronto University, submitted the report of the College Department, showing that there are eight college associations in the two provinces. The work where established is in a very encouraging condition, financially and otherwise. Mr Fraser read a memorial from the Canadian delegates at Northfield in 1890, recommending the appointment of a provincial college secretary. At the afternoon session there were various essays.

Unaccountable Suicide of the Master of the St. Pierre Treasury.

HALIFAX, Feb. 6.—M. Larive, Master of the Treasury at St. Pierre, suicided there by killing himself with a revolver. The deceased occupied a room immediately above the office occupied by the clerks. There was a small opening in the floor of M. Larive's room through which he watched the movements of the clerks. Just previous to his death M. Larive put his head through the opening and shouted "Good-bye." Almost immediately after a report was heard. In entering the deceased's room Larive was found on the floor in a pool of blood. The unfortunate man had put a bullet through his heart. His accounts were found to be all right.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia.

I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1891.

CANADIANS, HOLD YOUR OWN.

EVEN men, prominent men, who were at one time enthusiastic for commercial union or unrestricted reciprocity, have by calmer consideration seen grave dangers in it. "Tariff discrimination against her in favor of foreign countries," writes Hon. Wm. MacDougal to his dear relative, Mr. Wiman, "would soon sever the British connection." The old leader of the Reform party, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, tells his friends that he "could never consent to a zollerein policy for obvious reasons," and that any commercial treaty must not be "inimical to the interests of Great Britain as the heart of the empire." Despite such warnings, however, the Liberal leaders stand upon the one plank platform of a commercial alliance with the United States. "It is said," Mr. Charlton says in a speech, "that it would lead to political union. It was not for him to say what would be the future relations of Canada and the United States. It was a question he did not take into consideration." The Globe declares for the United States alliance even "though it should involve discrimination against Britain twice over." It cares not for British connection. "Providence has planted us on the American continent," it says, "not surely to be mere henchmen to that distant Crown." Are these the men who can be trusted with the present and the future of Canada? Do the loyal people of the Dominion feel so indifferent about the future of their country? No, no. Canada will not become, to use Mr. Wiman's flowery language, "a star in the galaxy of nations" south of the lakes, and those who would trifle with the life of this nation will find that they have made a tremendous mistake. The electors must realize the importance of the issues at stake in this contest, and by a united stand put down forever such disloyal sentiments that they may never trouble this country again. The poisonous flower must be nipped in the bud and the allies of the United States schemers downed once for all at the ballot box.

THE GOVERNMENT OFFERS.

WHEN the National Policy was enacted in 1879, there was an offer made to the United States for the free exchange of a number of articles. In 1888, after the Liberals had adopted Mr. Wiman's scheme and when Sir Richard Cartwright moved his unrestricted reciprocity resolution, Hon. Geo. E. Foster moved the following amendment, embodying the policy of the Government:—

"That Canada in the future, as in the past, is desirous of cultivating and extending trade relations with the United States, in so far as they may not conflict with the policy of fostering the various industries and interests of the Dominion which was adopted in 1879, and which has since received in so marked a manner the sanction and approval of the people."

For this resolution every Conservative in the House voted, as it was but a reaffirmation of the policy they had all along advocated. Upon the statutes there still stands, placed there by the Conservative Government and its supporters, the following offer:—

"Any or all of the following things, that is to say: animals of all kinds, hay, straw, vegetables (including potatoes and other roots), salt, peas, beans, barley, malt, rye, oats, buckwheat, flour of rye, oatmeal, buckwheat flour, butter, cheese, fish of all kinds, fish oil, products of fish and all other creatures living in the water, fresh meats, poultry, stone or marble in its crude or unwrought state, lime, gypsum or plaster of Paris (ground, unground or calcined) hewn or wrought or unwrought burr and grindstones, and timber and lumber of all kinds, manufactured in whole or in part, including shingles, clap boards and wood pulp, may be imported into Canada free of duty, or at a less rate of duty than is provided by any Act at the time in force, upon proclamation of the Governor-General, which may be issued whenever it appears to his satisfaction that similar articles from Canada may be imported into the United States free of duty, or at a rate of duty not exceeding that payable on the same under such proclamation when imported into Canada."

This offer was open for the United States accept, but they did not do so. The United States, however, having intimated a desire to know upon what basis the Government would negotiate, their policy has again been formulated and a commission will be appointed.

The present proposal is in accordance with the policy laid down in the statutory offer, with the resolution of 1888, and with the views of the Conservative Government as expressed in 1879 and up to the present time. It is in accordance with the National Policy, which the people have so emphatically endorsed, and is opposed to the Cartwright scheme of unrestricted reciprocity, because it will not sacrifice Canadian industries and interests, and will not discriminate against Great Britain.

The Old Reciprocity Treaty.

The reciprocity treaty of 1854 provided for the free exchange of the following articles: Grain, flour and breadstuffs of all kinds animals of all kinds, fresh, smoked and salted meats, cotton, wool, seeds and vegetables, undried fruits, dried fruits, fish of all kinds, products of fish and of all other creatures living in the water; poultry, eggs, hides, fur skins or tails undressed, stone or marble in its crude or unwrought state, slate, butter, cheese, tallow, lard, horns, manures, ores of metals of all kinds, coal, pitch, tar, turpentine, ashes, timber and lumber of all kinds, round, hewed and sawed, unmanufactured in whole or in part, fire wood, plants, shrubs and trees, pelts, wool, fish, oil, rice, broom corn and bark, gypsum, ground or unground, hewn or wrought or unwrought burr or grind stones, dye stuffs, flax, hemp and tow, unmanufactured, rags, unmanufactured tobacco.

Where Hon. Wm. Macdougall Stands.

Mr. Wm. Macdougall publishes a letter which he sent to Mr. Erastus Wiman on Jan. 26th. It says:

"I regard annexation as unattainable in our day, except by force, which means war between England and Canada on the one side and the United States on the other. I don't expect to witness that catastrophe, nor will you—younger and more vigorous though you be. If annexation, therefore, is out of the question in our time, why should we permit it to obscure the true issue? Why abandon the reasonable, beneficial, and probably only feasible scheme—to wit, the free interchange of enumerated home productions on both sides. Even this adjustment, as you know, will not give us free trade. There will still be a wire fence Foreign goods cannot cross the line from either side without payment of duty. Custom houses, therefore, must still be maintained. In my humble opinion a reciprocity treaty on the basis of that of 1854, but including a greater range of articles, is the only practical method of dealing with our neighbors while Canada remains a British colony.

I throw out these hints as an old-timer who has had practical experience in political affairs. Burdened with nearly $300,000,000 of debt, and a yearly expenditure greater than the income, I don't see how we can meet our obligations and maintain our general government without a productive tariff. Direct taxation is practically out of the question. The provinces are pretty heavily burdened already in that line, and any Government proposing to raise say $40,000,000 a year by direct taxation might as well secure tickets for Honolulu or some other remote but hospitable island beyond the reach of your telegraph system. Believing that a sufficient revenue by direct taxation will not be achieved in our day, I am in favor of reasonable import duties for federal revenue. Moreover, it must not be forgotten that free imports from a foreign country will have to be free to the Mother Country. Tariff discrimination against her in favor of foreign countries would soon sever the British connection."

Mr. Macdougall adds this remark:—

"The proposals of the Dominion Government, through the Secretary of State for Colonies, do not seem to conflict with my views as expressed in my letter of the 26th January, and I am therefore well pleased to find myself so strongly endorsed."

REVIEWS.

THE METHODIST MAGAZINE (Toronto: Wm Briggs).—The number for February is a special Methodist Centennial number, one of the illustrated articles being devoted to Footprints of Wesley with numerous illustrations of his haunts at Oxford. Dr. Douglas writes on the development of Methodism, the Hon. J. W. F. White, LL.D., on Lay Preachers, and Dr. Stafford compares, at length, the characters of Wesley and Voltaire. Mr. Blackwood gives a valuable sketch of the Moravians and their influence on early Methodism. A series of papers on Eastern Europe begins with a graphic illustrated account of Hungary and some of its cities. A number of fine illustrations of life in the Black Forest are also given. In the science department are papers on How the Prairies were formed, and Is there Life among the Stars? In succeeding numbers a series of centennial articles will be given on the origin and development of Methodism. One of the most remarkable stories of the age is commenced, viz., All He Knew, by John Habberton, author of the popular book, Helen's Babies. A competent writer calls it "the sweetest and most affecting little story ever written." It will run through eight numbers. The price of the book alone is $1.00. Also a striking story of London Life in a Garret is given.

The Coming Contest.

It is considered it will be of a very lively nature. Every man may have his friends in politics, but when it comes to Grit or Tory of course he must cast his vote for his party irrespective of social friendship. The same may be said in this case. Parties may have their friends, but when it comes to business and they wish to buy tea, Groceries, wines or liquors at sacrifice, w j morrow's is the place they go to. d31w7

SWINE.

Hogs like a variety in their food as well as other stock.

Too early breeding stunts the growth and prevents good development.

Fall pigs need a dry, warm shelter if they are kept growing during the winter.

Quality is the first consideration and a good animal of medium weight will bring the best prices.

It is not a healthy plan to supply so much bedding that the hogs can lay themselves in it.

In feeding the sow it is needful that she have a variety, but the change should be made gradual.

The sleeping quarters need cleaning out occasionally in order to prevent filth from accumulating.

When bran is fed to hogs in a majority of cases will be found profitable to use in connection with oil meal.

Generally the sow with a good sized litter of pigs will be better off if they are kept to themselves until they are weaned.

Brood sows should not by any means be fed on corn alone. It is too much towards keeping them in a feverish condition.

It is quite an item in breeding and feeding hogs for market to have them of a good even size and weight as well as uniform in color.

The pig that will make a large hog nex season can not be kept in an open pen if it is small, but requires a warm shed and plenty of clean litter.

No infalliable rule can be laid down as to the exact weight to which a hog should be fed before marketing, but generally the condition should be the best possible.

The pig will do his best to reach an early market. The trouble is, the owner does not know how to make this natural propensity work to its greatest capability. In Sweden 200 pound pigs take the cake.

TALKS FOR THE FARMER.

GOOD PARAGRAPHED INFORMATION IN FOUR DEPARTMENTS.

Horse, Cattle, Sheep and Hogs—Pertinent Items About Each of Them—If They be Kept in Mind the Farmer Will be Benefitted.

A good horse blanket saves feed, checks disease, improves the looks of the horse, and is a credit to the owner.

Have you ever figured out the actual difference in the cost of raising a good grade draft or coach colt, and in raising a scrub.

Colts should have outdoor exercise every pleasant day, even though the mercury is below zero. They should not be allowed to stand and get chilled, however.

When ice forms in the yard or paddock where colts run, sprinkle ashes over it or scatter gravel upon it. A very thin coat of either may save a valuable youngster from ruin.

If you want to sleep sound and enjoy the good long nights this winter you should be sure that your horses are securely fastened in the stable with good, strong halters. A saving of twenty-five cents in halters has often cost the price of a good horse. You cannot afford to fasten a good horse with a poor halter.

With the large increase of acreage being brought into cultivation in several different sections of Colorado, there is a call for horses in the farming localities ahead of anything known since farming has been carried on extensively. Everywhere our farmers are insisting upon having better and larger horses than formerly. This is an encouraging sign and one cheerful to chronicle.

With a very true horse it is desirable to cautiously accustom him to the sound and feel of the whip lightly drawn across him so as not to hurt him at all, says an experienced horseman. This will prevent him from running whenever you take the whip in hand, and make it possible to touch up a slug by his side. A slow, easy-going horse, on the other hand, should never feel the whip except to hurt him. Ladies and tender-hearted drivers often do great mischief to such horses by constantly flicking at them until the horse cares no more for the whip than he does for his tail. With such horses a pretty heavy whip should be used, and used often, but so that they will feel it and know what it means. A horse that will not move and move quickly to the whip is neither pleasant nor safe.

CATTLE.

In feeding soft feed to the cows, adding a little salt will make it more palatable.

Two things—perfection of flesh and of dairy products—in the same animal can hardly be expected.

There are few substances more easily contaminated by impure odors than fresh milk.

A cow stable must be comfortable, but this does not by any means imply that it should be costly.

Kindness in managing cows is almost as necessary as plenty of feed, in order to have her do the b[illegible] item helps to increase the flow of milk.

With milk cows during the winter at least, the quality as well as the quantity of milk secured depends largely upon the kind and quality of the food that is supplied to the cows.

The best market for milk and butter is at home. Milk should be used freely on the table, not only for the advantage of so doing, but also because the first duty of a farmer is to supply all his own wants before creating a surplus to be disposed of.

Every time a cow moves her tail, to switch a fly she exerts a force of three pounds. In the course of the summer a single cow wastes 5,000,000 pounds of energy. The cows of America throw away enough power to move every piece of machinery in the world. This is exclusive to kicking milk maids off stools.

SHEEP.

Sheep need water in winter as well as in summer.

Feed has more to do in making the quality of mutton than breed.

The contrast between the wheat and sheep farms is all in favor of the sheep.

A pound of lamb sells for more than mutton and costs, as a rule, less to produce it.

The farmer who keeps a half dozen dogs, but cannot afford to keep a sheep, is not traveling the high road to prosperity.

A Canadian paper makes note of a six months old lamb that weighs 180 pounds. At five cents a pound he is worth just $9—a pretty fair profit for six months' care.

The best growth of wool can only be secured by giving the sheep sufficient feed during the winter, to keep in a good, thrifty condition, and under present conditions sheep can be made to pay.

It is not only on the poor land that sheep can be made profitable but on the rich as well. In either case good care must be given so as to keep the largest number of sheep in proportion to the acreage.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. A Merry Sleigh Drive.

Last evening a pleasant sleighing party, composed of members of the Time Kill Club and their lady friends, drove out to Mr. Fobert's hotel at Bridgenorth where they spent a few most enjoyable hours. They made the parlor ring and almost raised the roof with music and singing, after which they proceeded to the dining hall and did justice to a tempting spread of edibles placed before them. Shortly after midnight they returned home delighted with their trip.

After the regular routine of business Rt. Wor. Bro. Millar in complimentary terms referred to the work done by Peterborough Lodge and gave a short address which was plain, practical and thoroughly appreciated by the brethren present, who will look forward with pleasure to another visit from the present D.D.G.M. At the close of the work the brethren adjourned to the refreshment room when a social time was spent.

Rev. Mr. Hay and Pulpit Announcements.

At the morning service in the Presbyterian church at Cobourg last Sunday, after reading several notices, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hay said, that in future he would read no more notices from the pulpit other than those having to do with the affairs of the congregation, unless convinced in his own mind that it would be for the advancement of the Great Cause, and that that was the proper means to make the announcement. Take your notices, the rev. gentleman is reported by the Sentinel Star as saying, of tea meetings, concerts, entertainments, and so on, to the press, and pay for them honestly as advertisements. Through the medium of the public press is the proper means by which to reach the people with such announcements. The pulpit was never intended to be a great bulletin board, upon which to placard notices of tea meetings and entertainments, for a radius of five miles, and he had resolved firmly to adhere to the course he had just announced.

THE VISITORS VANQUISHED.

The Toronto Curlers are Defeated by 22 Shots—Curling Chit-Chat.

Yesterday was a lively day for the curlers. Six rinks of enthusiastic stane hurlers of the Toronto club came down from the Queen City and met a like number of rinks from the town. The result was a victory for the home players by the good majority of 22 shots. The ice was in good condition and the play on the majority of the rinks was close and exciting. It was an enthusiastic scene with the curlers all intent on their play and the rafters of the rink rang with the familiar and characteristic war crys of the skips and the shouts of triumph when a pretty shot was made. The veteran skip Thos. Rutherford gave his opposing rink a bad beating, coming out with the neat majority of 21 shots. On one rink the result was a tie and only on two of the others did the visitors receive a majority.

The rinks and scores were as follows:—

A Dwelling House Burned.

Shortly after ten o'clock last night an alarm of fire was sounded for a fire on Park-st. which was discovered in the dwelling house of Mr. James Moore, an employee in Wm. Hamilton's foundry. The brigade turned out with alacrity and in an incredibly short time had water on the burning building and the flames were quickly subdued. When the fire was discovered the neighbors turned out and succeeded in saving most of the furniture. The fire originated, it is supposed, from a defective chimney. Mr. Moore owned the house and it was insured. His loss will be in the neighborhood of $400. About 2.30 o'clock this morning the brigade were called again to the same fire which had been fanned into life. The building was torn down by the firemen to prevent the necessity of another visit.

The Tag Social.

"Y" hall was filled to its utmost capacity last evening, and all united in pronouncing the new entertainment a decided success. The programme published in yesterday's issue of this paper was presented with one or two changes. Mrs. Daly being unavoidably prevented from appearing, Mr. Daly favored the audience with a second selection, both being rendered in that gentleman's well-known and popular manner. Mrs. Seward being physically indisposed, the promised vocal duet was substituted by a charmingly rendered instrumental selection generously contributed by Misses Snowden and Sproule. By request the Misses Hurley charmed the company a second time. Mrs. Shorey's realistic rendering of "Five O'Clock in the Morning" elicited an enthusiastic encore, to which she responded with the old favorite plantation melody, 'Dere's a meetin' here tonight." An unexpected addition to the evening's enjoyment was a piano duet by Miss Lulu Seward (aged five) and her pater familias. This young lady made her debut with great eclat, and will doubtless appear again. Mrs. Goldsmith's recitation, "Aunt Huldah in Matrimony," created much merriment, and it is to be hoped that the sage advice contained in the moral will be followed by all "ye fair-minded maidens." The question, "What is a tag social?" which has been agitating the minds of many, was satisfactorily answered. Each person upon entering the hall received a tag or card upon which was written a number, with a question or answer. Rev. S. J. Shorey, who acted the part of Master of Ceremonies in a bright and admirable manner, at certain stated intervals called for certain numbers, the holders of these responding with the appropriate questions and answers which had been prepared on various topics, grave and gay. Piano duets by Misses Hall and Jones, Netherout and and Maguire, which were rendered in creditable manner, filled the numbers of a most enjoyable programme. A pleasant little departure was made at one stage of the performance by an announcement from the chairman that as the "Y" entertainment had fallen upon the birthday of an old lady who had reached her 77th year, she had sent a token of good will to the piano fund of the Society in the form of a cent for every year of her life. Mr. Shorey commended the example as one worthy of emulation. In catering to the requirements of their guests, the members of the "Y" did not fail to consider the claims of the physical man. Palatable viands and excellent coffee were served, after which an impromptu closing was conducted by Mr. Seward, in which the company heartily joined. Those who failed to attend missed one of the most pleasant entertainments of the season, and we advise them to look out for the next affair under this auspices.

Contract Awarded.

The Street and Bridge Committee of the Town Council met last evening for the purpose of awarding the contract for the different material required by the corporation for the year. Tenders were opened and contracts awarded as follows:—Stone, 100 cords, more or less, divided between John McFadden and John Lytel, who offered the same figures; pine lumber, the Dickson Co.; hemlock and block paving, Geo. Hilliard; scantling, divided between W. B Kelly and A. McDonald whose figures were the same; square timber, Squire Breakenridge. The Charity Committee also met and opened tenders for wood for the year. The contract for the supply was divided between J. Toomey, of Ennismore, and W. Glyan, of Westwood.

MESSIANIC PROPHECY.

Whither are we Drifting.

To the 200,000 Methodists scattered abroad throughout the Dominion of Canada, greeting:

I take the liberty of addressing you on a very important matter, in which we, as Methodists, should feel deeply interested. Let me call your attention to a so-called new theology which is at present being taught in our Victoria University at Cobourg. This new doctrine has been fathered by Rev. Prof. Workman, Ph. D., head teacher of the Old Testament in that institution. What is this new teaching? you ask. Listen patiently for a little while and I will tell you something of it that will make your ears tingle and make your Methodist, if not Christian, blood mount to your face in righteous indignation. Last June Dr. Workman delivered a lecture before the Theological Union of the Methodist church, on Messianic Prophecy, and was flattered by prominent men in the Bay of Quinte conference—whose names I will give further on—as being a workman that needeth not to be ashamed. When the Guelph conference, which was in session at this time, heard of the teaching that Prof. Workman was giving to the world in the name of Methodism, it at once passed a motion condemning his teaching as being dangerous and totally opposed to Scripture and to Methodist theology. The Bay of Quinte conference, hearing of the action of the Guelph brethren, passed a resolution condemning the Guelph conference for daring to meddle with matters outside of their jurisdiction, and for their audacious conduct in lifting up their voices against teaching which they, the Bay of Quinte men, had heard and could find no fault with. They further resolved and carried that, after examining by a properly appointed committee all the teaching in said lecture, they found nothing in it contrary to Scripture or the principles of Methodism. Mark this well, and remember this resolution of the Bay of Quinte Conference (men who heard the lecture), as you read the teaching of this smuggled into our beloved Methodism, and taught in Victoria College. Prof. Workman gave this lecture in Toronto some time later, when Dr. Potts protested against a vote of thanks being given to the lecturer for any such lecture given in the name of Methodism. Dr. E. Harper also protested against this new doctrine, and said he could not agree with Prof. Workman's teaching in one particular.

SO-CALLED NEW THEOLOGY,

Now for the doctrine, as we find it set forth in this lecture of Prof. Workman, published in the October number of the Methodist Quarterly. He tells us on page 448 that "in the Prophetic Age * * * there is no prophetic passage that has an original reference to the New Testament Messiah." Hear that, ye Scripture-loving Methodists. If such a statement came from a Huxley or a Bob Ingersoll we would take no notice of it, but it comes from the head master in our Victoria University, at whose feet our young ministers are being trained in the Scriptures. He tells us on the same page that "there is no passage in the Old Testament that refers, directly or predictively, to Jesus Christ." These are his own words in plain English, that a wayfaring man, though a fool cannot mistake their meaning. Now, if there is any prophecy in the Old Testament that has any original nor direct nor predictive reference to Jesus Christ, there is no prophecy that can be called a prophecy concerning Him at all, and if that be true, then Christ was an impostor, His holy apostles were deluded men, for they all said that in Christ. He says on page 448, "there is no passage in which the future Messiah stood objectively before the writer's mind or in which the prophet made particular and personal reference to the historic Christ." So particularly and plainly did Isaiah see the person and glory of the future Messiah that it is written of him, Isaiah saw His glory and spake of Him, Jno. xii-41. He also saw his humiliation and spake of Him when he says "He is despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief * * he was brought as a lamb to the slaughter and as a sheep dumb before her shearers, so he opened not his mouth * * He was taken from prison and from judgment, &c." Isa. liii. We read on page 450 that the New Testament writers "seem not to have made a critical use of sacred Scripture" or, in other words, he might have said, they used the words "that the Scripture might be fulfilled" without sound judgment, as to its application, for a critic means one accurate and skilled in judging. Hear him again on page 453, "The New Testament writers, it may be seen, invariably, (that means every time—mark the expression) employ the language of the old testament in way of ADAPTATION OR ACCOMMODATION. That is, as Barrows says, "they use its phraseology, originally applied in a different connection (mark that reader) simply as expressing in an apt and forcible manner the thoughts which they wish to convey." Now, I would ask my readers, what confirmation of their doctrine could the New Testament writers find from a prophecy that did not orginally apply or refer to the subject to which they applied it, but was merely capable of some fanciful accommodation? This is ascribing to these writers, or rather to the Spirit of God, a puerility of which any writer of sound judgment would be ashamed. He tells us that that beautiful prophecy of Isaiah vii. 7-14 (which Matthew quotes in Matt. I, 22 23), viz, "Now all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet saying, Behold a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel." This "had no direct, much less exclusive, reference to the Messiah," pages 446 and 447. He tells us further that "this prophecy was fulfilled in, and applied to a real person living at or near the time of its delivery," 446, and that "Matthew does not here assume, much less affirm that that quotation had a direct personal reference to Jesus Christ. He now that it primarily and immediately referred to an event which was to happen in the time of Ahaz," 457. Will Prof. Workman, or any member of the Bay of Quinte Conference, who approves of this teaching, show where this prophecy of Isaiah, vii-14, was fulfilled in the time of Ahaz? We have searched for the place in vain where it tells of any, save the holy Virgin Mary, who gave birth to Emmanuel, which, being interpreted, means God with us.

THAT GLORIOUS PROPHECY

of Isaiah lxi, which Christ applied to Himself in Luke iv-18, and after reading it "He closed the book and gave it again to the ministers and sat down, and the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him. And he began to say unto them, This day is this Scripture fulfilled in your ears."

Now listen to what Prof. W., would have us believe, and what he is teaching our young theologians in our university to believe. He says this prophecy refers originally to the prophet himself who writes the passage, 447. Let us see if it does. We read, "the Lord spoke by the prophet." The Lord is here speaking of the Anointed One Himself, the Christ of God. He tells us a few verses before this in the 60th chapter, "I will make the place of my feet glorious, * * * I the Lord am thy Saviour and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob"; and the last words just before the passage in question reads: "I the Lord will hasten it in his time." Then come the words which Jesus said applied to himself, and which were fulfilled, "The spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because He hath anointed me (here we have the Annointed One, the Messiah Himself, speaking) to preach good tidings unto the meek, he hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to them that are bound. To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord. And in the 8th verse He says: "For I, the Lord, love judgment, I hate robbery for burnt offering," &c. Could these prophetic words possibly refer to the prophet himself? Any school boy would say, No. Every prophecy, without one exception, quoted by Christ or any of the New Testament writers, is treated in like manner as those referred to. Now, what is the secret of all this darkness? Here it is. He tells us on page 457, "When investigating the meaning of the Old Testament we may keep the New Testament closed. For the time being we are not supposed to know anything of its contents." That's it! He who is the Light of the World, the Word of God made flesh, the Great Teacher who came from God, of whom it is written:—"Never man spake like this man," and who said, "All things that I have heard of My Father I have made known unto you," and of whom it is written again, concerning his disciples, "And beginning at Moses and all the prophets—mark that—He expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself," Luke xiv. 27th verse. His teaching we do without, whose "name is Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." If, in studying the Old Testament, we turn our back on the Great Teacher and also on the lesser teachers, whom the Christ Himself educated and filled with His own Holy Spirit, we

MAKE AN AWFUL MISTAKE.

What think you, reader? Prof. Workman has made this mistake, and if, instead of adopting his so-called grammatico-historical method of interpreting the Holy Scriptures, he had gone and earnestly sung from his heart that good old Methodist hymn:

"Come, Holy Ghost, for moved by thee,
The prophets wrote and spoke,
Unlock the truth, thyself the key—
Unseal the sacred book"—

he would never have given to the world such a dose of German rationalism, sugar-coated with the name of good, sound Methodist theology. If the Methodist Church tolerates any longer such teaching, either in her pulpits or in her colleges, Ichabod shall be written over her doors.

SANK IN THE MERSEY.

A DYNAMITE VESSEL RUN INTO BY ANOTHER VESSEL.

The Force of the Collision Not Sufficient to Explode the Powder—A Panic on the London Stock Exchange Due to a Forged Order from a Paris Banker—Russia and the Jews.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 6.—The steamer Knutsford, Capt. Harrison, which arrived to-day from Galveston, collided in the River Mersey with the steamer Drumhendrie, injuring the latter vessel to so great an extent that she soon filled and sank. The Drumhendrie had on board a cargo of dynamite. Though the force of the impact of the two steamers was sufficient to crush in the plates of the Drumhendrie, allowing the water to rush into her hold, it was not sufficient to explode the dynamite. Had the dynamite exploded both vessels would have been blown up with great loss of life.

FIRE AND FLOOD.

Police Open Fire Upon Them and a General Fight Ensues.

HAVANA, Feb. 6.—Police recently informed that several bandits had taken passage on the steamer Baldomero Iglesias here with the intention of escaping to Aspinwall. Officers went where the steamer was lying. The bandits opened fire and the officers returned fire, and a fierce battle ensued. The passengers on the steamer were thrown into a great panic. The police finally gained possession of steamer. It was then found that three of the bandits including the notorious Montelongo were dead. Montelongo was shot while trying to swim ashore and soon sank beneath the waves. Another of the bandits was captured. Two policemen were wounded.

BRADSTREETS' REVIEW.

Only a Moderate Improvement Reported in the State of Trade.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show only moderate improvement in the state of general trade. Recent ill-founded reports of a much larger volume of trade last month than in Jan., 1890, are best answered with our report of bank clearings for Jan., 1891, which show a decrease as compared with the like month a year ago. The decrease at New York and other eastern cities is due to reduced railway share speculation, interrupted telegraphic communication and only a moderate volume of general trade. Reports from 55 cities furnish a total of $4,959,915,421 or 6 per cent. less than in Jan., 1890, and only a little more than in Jan., 1889.

The money market continues particularly easy and rates for funds both at New York and generally elsewhere throughout the country are practically unchanged. There is a better demand at a few points west but the banks appear to be supplied. Mercantile collections are only fairly prompt. The iron industry shows no improvement beyond the fact that it is no worse. Consumers are not anticipating wants and prices, while unchanged, tend to weakness. Anthracite coal is rather more unfavorably situated. Leading producers exceeded the allotted output in January and are restricted to producing 2,000,000 tons in February. Meanwhile cold weather appears to lack staying powers and the market is dull and weak except at the Northwest. Copper is firm and unchanged, and lumber and leather are in only steady demand at former prices. Gains in the distribution of general merchandise are noticeable at Chicago, St. Paul, Omaha and Kansas City, drygoods, clothing, boots and shoes being first in request. There are also gains in hardware, drugs, paints and grocery staples, St. Louis reporting them conspicuous. At the principal cities in the province of Quebec, general trade is of moderate volume and promises to remain so until navigation opens. There is a fair volume of business in Ontario, in some instances in excess of totals for January, 1890. Interest in the Dominion elections tends to interrupt business some. In Manitoba the wheat movement continues slow and the tendency is to light purchases of spring goods. The Dominion of Canada reports 56 failures this week against 39 last week and 57 this week last year. The total number Jan. 1 to date is 293, against 267 last year. The most conspicuous cause of business failures in the Dominion in 1890 was lack of capital, incompetence ranking second and disaster or financial stringency third.

Three Men Implicated.

HAMILTON, Feb. 6.—Detective Greer's investigations have convinced him that there were three men implicated in the murder of John Heslop of Ancaster. He has had some correspondence with the Attorney-General, and he reported that he thought three men were implicated. The Ontario Government is considering the advisability of issuing a proclamation promising immunity to the third person if he will give the crown any information. It is thought that this may have the effect of getting one of the burglars to turn Queen's evidence.

Canadians, Read This, and Think well.

Healthy, strong nerves make us happy; diseased or disordered ones make us miserable. These nerves do not get sick without long abuse or provocation. Our nerves first fill with poison in the air. Diseased nerves with improperly chosen food starves the brain. Our ideas become confused, the feelings morbid, the power of the will weakened, and the whole fabric deteriorated mentally and physically. These are common truths known to every honest physician and educated man and woman.

Science has drawn from nature a relief—a permanent cure for all who are the victims of nervousness. It matters not whether this nervousness is hereditary or the result of abuse; Paine's Celery Compound is the great and infallible remedy. Pharmacy or the skill of physicians has not yet given to mankind its equal for the cure of nervous diseases. It raises the weak and helpless to perfect manhood and womanhood; gives them sound refreshing sleep, healthy countenance, clear heads and great digestive vigor, as well as extending life. Paine's Celery Compound should be a family companion in our land. It should be near when any symptoms of nerve or brain troubles arise. Its effects are instant, marvellous and astonishing.

Free Trip Around the World.

The absorbing topic of the day is a Free Trip Around the World, offered by "The Home Fascinator," Pub., Co., to the person sending the largest number of words constructed from letters contained in the sentence "GOD SAVE THE QUEEN," and found in either Webster's or Worcester's Dictionary. The publishers have arranged with the C. P. R. General Pass Agent, Mr. D. McNicoll, for the trip by their new palatial steamer, leaving on its famous globe-circling excursion about March 15th next. Also in order of merit, additional prizes of:—A free trip to Florida; Silver Tea Sets, Sewing Machines, Lady's or Gent's 14k. Gold Watch, etc. Every-one whose list contains not less than twenty-five words will receive a prize. Enclose these 50 cents to pay for a grand Premium Catalogue, Complete Rules, and a six months' trial subscription to their beautifully illustrated family story paper. As the successful Competitors may not care to make the extensive trip offered, the publishers offer the option of $1,000 in cash. Contest is open to any person in Canada or the United States. Address "The Home Fascinator," Montreal, Quebec. 5w50-5d150

BREAKFAST.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette

CANDIDATES CHOSEN.

LIST OF THOSE NOMINATED ON SATURDAY.

Sir John Macdonald to be Opposed in Kingston by Alexander Gunn—The "War Horse of the Cumberland" Delivers an Address in the Limestone City

KINGSTON, Feb. 7.—To-night a great ratification meeting was held by Conservatives to endorse the candidature of Sir John A. Macdonald. Sir Charles Tupper made his first public utterances. After pointing to the great advantages of Canada over those of the United States in national products and which manufacturers of United States feared to have opened to their markets, he referred to the McKinley bill as a measure passed to coerce Canada and prompted by unworthy men in our own land for the purpose of handing over Canada to the United States. He felt the attempt would meet with such an indignant response at the hands of Canadians as to prevent it ever being made again. He touched on Wiman's proposals for commercial union, and said that the making of a tariff for the United States and Canada at Washington was scouted by Canadians and even refused recognition by the Liberal leaders. The Liberals wanted freedom between the two countries, but asked leave to make their own tariff against the rest of the world. This, the United States would never endorse unless Canada became part of the Union. It would not be listened to for a minute. There was no use, he said wasting time killing a dead thing. He then touched on the policy of Sir John Macdonald as contained in Lord Stanley's despatch to Lord Knutsford. He wanted such reciprocal and friendly trade as the conditions and positions of the two countries can make mutually agreeable. He was not prepared to adopt the treaty of 1854. The policy suggested had the favor and approval of Lord Knutsford, he had it from that minister's lips that he would be delighted if such reciprocity could be carried out. The opposition to such a course came from the Liberal party in Canada, who were baulking matters in the United States and trying to prove that other influences would prevail and that the people of Canada would endorse such a movement as would give over to the United States the great continent of British North America. Sir John was justified in bringing on the elections to show that the great body of the people were unfavorable to such a proceeding. He had no doubt of the verdict of the people.

OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW BETTER.

A Lothario of 65 Elopes With His Daughter-in-Law.

NIAGARA FALLS, Feb. 8.—A man named Shumway, residing in the township of Tuscarora, Bradford county, Pa., died last fall leaving a young widow and a bright little child. The father-in-law of the widow, an old man of 65, whose name is Winslow Shumway, took her and her child to his home to support them. It was not long, however, before the old gentleman's wife observed certain irregularities between her spouse and her daughter-in-law. She remonstrated somewhat strongly, and the result was that a couple of days later the old gallant left Tuscarora on the evening train, the widow following the next night. They came here about Dec. 1 and, renting a house in Simcoe-street, settled down to housekeeping as husband and wife. Meanwhile the deserted wife kept her eyes and ears open, and at last observed at the railway station there a bundle of goods which she recognised as belonging to the runaway widow. The package was addressed to P. Tracy, Niagara Falls, Ont. Immediately the police were communicated with and the couple were located at their residence. The old lady and her son came here and swore out an information against the two. As the object of the prosecution was to induce Shumway to support his wife and send away his daughter-in-law, she was permitted to sleep that night in the house she had occupied, receiving a strong recommendation to skip out before morning. She took the hint and vamoosed, and when the old fellow was brought before Magistrate Hill he agreed to take his wife to live with him again, depositing a considerable sum of money as security that he would appear when called upon. The old couple then went to live in the house in Simcoe-street which had been so comfortably furnished for the young woman.

A steamer conveyed them to Penzance to-day.

DISTURBED SPAIN.

The Situation at Barcelona Considered Critical.

BARCELONA, Feb. 8.—The excitement caused by the recent electoral contest, by which the Republican leader Salmeron was, according to the Republicans, unfairly defeated by the Conservative candidate, Puig, has not abated. The troops of the garrison are confined to their barracks, and preparations are being made to send strong reinforcements to this city should the state of affairs call for an additional display of force. Thousands of people not connected with the Republican party have signed petitions, which have been forwarded to Madrid, asking the government to dismiss the civil governor and other officials from office, in consequence of the outrageous treatment upon the part of the mounted gendarmes of the crowd of people who gathered on Wednesday night to attend the reception given to Senor Salmeron.

CRUELTIES OF THE RUSSIANS.

Fearful Atrocities Perpetrated Upon Polish Suspects.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Two delegates of good Polish families now here report that the Russian authorities in Poland have revived the practice of the question by torture where it is desired to extort information from prisoners. At Warsaw the special tribunal tried and condemned 46 "suspects" without permitting them to call witnesses or to employ counsel. Before starting for the prisons in Central Russia the prisoners were flogged. While under the torture of the "question" a well-known teacher, Ladislas Guisbert, became a maniac from the terrible suffering brought on by want of sleep.

WHAT VILLAIN DID THIS?

The Mutilated Body of a Girl Found at Cricklewood, England.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The dead and horribly mutilated body of a girl, who was apparently about 15 years of age, was found early this morning by employes of the Midland Railroad, lying beside the track at Cricklewood. The face had been cut away, both legs and arms were severed from the body, and the brains were scattered over the rails. Stab wounds, inflicted by some very sharp instrument, were found in the back and head.

Complete mystery surrounds the ghastly crime, and the police seem powerless to secure any clue to the perpetrator.

KILLED HER FATHER.

She Confesses to the Murder and Claims It Was Justifiable.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—A startling tragedy is reported from Blois. A wealthy man of high social standing and a member of the municipal council has been shot dead. The crime was committed by his daughter. She fired five shots from a revolver at her father with fatal effect, and he expired in a few moments.

The New Italian Cabinet.

ROME, Feb. 8.—The formation of a Cabinet is not yet completed. The Marquis di Rudini insists upon large economies in the military and public departments and the adoption of a policy of early dissolution of parliament, abolition of the scrutin de liste and better relations with France. The Marquis di Rduini assumes the Foreign portfolio, while Signor Pelloux is assigned to that of War. The other members, including Signori Luzzati, Maracco and Morin, are variously allotted.

A ministry has been formed as the result of the collapse of the projected combination having Signor Saracco at its head. Signor Crispi to-day took farewell of the officials of the interior and foreign offices.

The leading Italian newspapers do not look with favor upon the new ministry, and they express the opinion that it will be short-lived. Of the new ministers Sig. Nicotora and Sig. Branca are members of the Lefts, Sig. Pelloux is neutral and the others belong to the party of the Right. With Sig. Saracco not in the Cabinet, Catholic support of the new ministry is very uncertain.

An Important Liberal Measure.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Mr. Charles Seale-Hayne, Liberal member for Ashburton, has prepared a bill providing that justices of the peace shall hereafter be elected instead of appointed by the Government. March 10 is set down for the second reading of the bill, which will be opposed by the Government, but receive the general support of the Liberals. The bill embodies an entire revolution in the minor administration of justice in England. The justices of the peace now are nearly all well-to-do squires who have their own way in dealing with the people brought before them. Sir William Harcourt has pronounced in favor of the reform and will support it.

An Avalanche's Terrible Work.

BERNE, Feb. 8.—News of a terrible disaster comes from the village of Ruetti, Canton Glarus. NONE LEFT TO TELL THE TALE.

Two Vessels Sunk, Probably by Collision, Off the Jersey Coast.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Another steamer is reported sunk almost on the spot where the Viscaya went down a few months ago. The vessel is supposed to be the Norwegian fruit steamer, Simon Dumois, which left this port Wednesday last for Matanzas, Cuba. As yet nothing has been heard of any of the crew.

The first tidings of the disaster were brought here to-day by Frank Kelley, a pilot of the boat Ambrose Snow. Kelley reports that on the 5th inst. he passed close to the wreck of a vessel with three masts standing about 20 feet above the water. The vessel lay with her head to the north. A short distance away was a sunken three-masted schooner, whose cargo consisted wholly or in part of petroleum, as oil was floating on the sea. No wreckage was floating about. Inquiry among steamshipmen here brought out facts enough to fix beyond a doubt the identity of the vessel as the Simon Dumois. The Dumois is one of a fleet of five fruit steamers plying between New York and Cuban ports, all owned by Norwegians. Capt. Johan Kanitz was in charge of the Dumois, with a crew of 16 men.

Deceased was considerably the worse of liquor when he left Novar on Wednesday evening to walk down the track, and before he had gone very far had been overtaken by the Atlantic express. The train crushed one leg, nearly severing it, but it is believed that the poor fellow with a jack knife cut through the remaining flesh, thus completely amputating the limb from the body, as it was found lying beside his dead body next morning.

This Englishman and companion were chopping wood a few miles from camp, and in felling a tree his leg was very badly injured. His companion attempted to bring him into camp, and for a mile or so carried him on his back. Becoming tired, however, he was forced to rid himself of his burden and with all possible speed ran into camp for assistance accompanied by several others. He returned in an hour or so and the party were horrified to find only a few of the young fellow's bones in the place where he had been left. Wolves, which infest the district, had attacked and devoured him.

100 Doses One Dollar

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1891.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

THE large attendance, the enthusiasm and the result of the convention on Saturday augure well for the complete success of the Conservatives in this election. It was one of the largest, if not the largest nominating convention ever held in the riding, although the notice of the meeting was necessarily short on account of the near approach of election day. The large attendance showed that the people are alive to the importance of the issues at stake in this contest and are determined that the schemes of the disappointed leaders of the once great Reform party will not succeed.

The selection of Mr. James Stevenson to again carry the Conservative banner was a wise one. Mr. Stevenson has given four years of faithful service to this constituency and has allowed no opportunity for advancing its interest to pass without being taken advantage of. The public spirit that he always evinced as a citizen and the zeal for welfare of the town that actuates him in his municipal positions he carried into the Parliamentary sphere, and his efforts have been crowned with a large measure of success. The requirements of his constituency have received his careful attention, but as a member of the chief legislative body of the Dominion he had a larger duty to perform for his country, and he has been true to its interests. As a supporter of the patriotic, progressive and prudent administration of Sir John Macdonald he has assisted in the development of the Dominion and in repelling the insidious attempts that have been made to undermine its prosperity and its very existence.

The growth of this town, as pointed out at the convention, has been largely owing to Mr. Stevenson's efforts, and as pointed out by Mr. Willan, himself a farmer, and others, when the town is benefitted by the addition of such manufacturing establishments as the lock works, bridge works, Edison works and carbon works, the surrounding country shared the benefits. The enthusiasm with which Mr. Stevenson's nomination and acceptance was received showed that the meeting was pleased that he was again, though reluctantly on his part, their standard bearer, and the unanimity exhibited carried into the campaign will give the constituency the benefit of his services for another term in Parliament. There is a feeling among prominent members of the Liberal party in the riding that there should be no opposition to Mr. Stevenson's re-election, but if the extremists should have their way, with so strong and popular a candidate and with a cause so clearly and unmistakably in the interest of the riding and of the country, a vigorous campaign will result in the polling of a large majority for the Conservative nominee.

As the nominating convention was larger on Saturday than that of four years ago, so will Mr. Stevenson's majority be increased if he is opposed.

WORK is now the word. The banner of "Canada for the Canadians" is again raised. Rally around it.

To Rent.

Farms wanted to rent. Tenants supplied this year at half price. Call or write.

T. HURLEY, d28tf 287 George-st.

At it Again.

At what? Both political parties pegging away, getting ready for the fray. They say that a political contest wake's business up. That may or may not be the case, but which ever party wins there is the reflection that winners and losers also will go ahead drinking Hawley Bros. teas, the best, the purest, the cheapest that are sold. It may be convenient to forget some things in politics, but don't forget Hawley Bros teas. d31tf

The Coming Contest.

It is considered it will be of a very lively nature. Every man may have his friends in politics, but when it comes to Grit or Tory of course he must cast his vote for his party irrespective of social friendship. The same may be said in this case. Parties may have their friends, but when it comes to business and they wish to buy tea, Groceries, wines or liquors at sacrifice, w j morrow's is the place they go to. d31w7

Still Victorious.

A Winnipeg despatch dated the 9th says: Flavelle, of Lindsay, won three games at the bonspiel on Saturday. In the morning he defeated Cobb, of Virden, in the international competition, and will play to-morrow with McKichnie, of the Winnipeg Thistles, in the finals. In the afternoon he won the Royal Caledonian tankard from the St. Paul club, and will carry the trophy to Lindsay on Wednesday. At night Flavelle played off with Grant, of Calgary, for the third prize in the grand challenge competition. To-morrow the bonspiel will close with games in the Walkerville and international series. Flavelle is in the last draw of the latter.

A ROUSING MEETING.

said that the farm lands had decreased in value. What was the reason? During the last few years a large amount of free lands had been opened up. Young men grew up and started life in new lands, and there was not so much competition for land in the older districts. Then as to the statement that the N.P. had arrested trade development. This was best disproved by figures. From 1868 to 1873 there was a wonderful development of trade, so that in 1874 our total trade amounted to $217,000,000. Sir Richard then went in to manage the finances and he managed them so successfully that at the end of five years, in 1879, our total trade had fallen to $153,000,000. Sir Richard not only arrested development, but turned back the clock of time and reduced our trade down and down at the rate of sixteen million a year. When the fly was in the wheel the country failed to go forward. That fly was Sir Richard, and he was so heavy that he had turned the wheel backward. (Laughter and cheers). The fly was removed and the result was that the remnant of $153,000,000 came up to $218,000,000, the N.P. giving to the country a foreign trade that made its trade returns go up as fast as they had gone down under Sir Richard. Under the N.P. they had not only caught up to where they had been but were now forging ahead. He could go on all night quoting figures to

of the statements made by these people who were going into a policy at the dictation of a foreign country. They said they were going to have a restoration of the good times of the reciprocity treaty. The speaker admitted that in the years of the building of the Grand Trunk and the Russian war they did have good times, and also during the time of the American war. Foreigners were fighting and had to be fed and supplied with bread. But in 1857 they had the worst times the country ever saw. It was even worse than during Sir Richard's term. This was hard to imagine, but it was so. (Laughter and applause.) Why were these hard times? Because all the trade came through the United States and the money was in the States, and four New York banks failed and the farmers could not get pay for their wheat. They would not have the good time of 1861-1866 under reciprocity now, and he would tell them why. They could not bring about another Russian war or rebellion, and they did not want to if they could. It was possible to return to the evils of 1857 without the prosperity of 1866 It was a fact, as Mr. Stevenson had stated, that they had been getting better prices since the time of the reciprocity treaty than before. This was shown by the report of an expert who had been sent by the American Government into Canada to investigate trade. This gentleman had reported that he found that the farmers were actually getting better prices since the treaty had been abrogated than they were before and gave figures to show this. The treaty did not affect prices so much because those who wanted a thing could get it even if they had to pay a little more for it. If the Yankee wanted our barley he would buy it. They could not restore the good old times because they could not restore the conditions. We need not be depending upon Americans when we now had our own railways and steamship lines. Why then it might be asked, did the Government propose a treaty? There were differences between them in regard to the fisheries, in our coasting trade and on other questions, and they liked to live in brotherly friendship. But sometimes even the older brother took advantage of the younger. Over there we know there are ten brothers to one of us, and we know what once ten older brothers, when jealous, did. Their ten older brothers might get the younger down in a pit and sell him into a strange land. (Applause.) What next did Sir Richard tell them? He said this connection with the Americans was going to break up combines. Why, the States was the very home of combines, and he would tell them a few of the trusts or combines that had been formed over there since Sir Richard had spoken There was the paint trust, the plate glass trust, the window glass trust, the wheel trust, the barb wire trust and many more. In a speech last September Postmaster-General Wannamaker had said that if any man had invested $1,000 in stock in the Western Union Telegraph Company when it was formed he would have received $50,000 in stock dividends and $100 000 in cash, a rate of $3,000 per annum for their investment. No one, he said, could believe that this profit was earned honestly. The amount showed, and investigation proved, that it was made by fraud, perjury, by slaughtering of opponents, by bribery of servants and by every scheme that could be invented. Jay Gould was at the head of this concern and his lieutenant was Erastus Wiman. This gentleman, Mr. Wiman, popped up now and then in Canadian affairs. He popped up in Toronto and talked of his early days in Canada and made the people grateful by presenting them with public baths. Shortly after he went down to Parliament and received a charter for the North-Western Telegraph Co. and was given power to construct a line in the North-west. This was another evidence of his love of our country. But in the charter there was a little clause, not noticed at first, that gave the company power to amalgamate with any other company. They had at that time two companies, the Dominion and the Montreal. The Montreal company were given the right to send over the Western Union lines and the Dominion company was thus restricted in business. Mr. Wiman then went to the Dominion and under the disadvantages existing was able to negotiate the amalgamation of his North-west company with the Dominion company at advantageous terms. Then he transferred the right of way over Western Union lines to his amalgamated company and of course the Montreal stock dropped and they had to come to Mr. Wiman's terms and were robbed by the action of Erastus Wiman, and that gentle man secured as well as the United States. But the C.P.R. line was built in opposition to Mr. Wiman and, although pressed hard, had remained proofs against his plottings and there was no telegraph monopoly to-day. In the farmers' associations in the States they heard an outcry against railway and telegraph monopoly and not a word against protection. Jay Gould was the head of the monopoly there and his lieutenant, Mr. Wiman, was anxious to get his friends here into power, when they, of course, would be grateful to him. What else, Mr. Larke asked, did Sir Richard say? He said he was going to make a growing market for Canada. This was the greatest fraud with which the Commercial Union people attempted to deceive the people. They said the United States was our natural market. They did not generally go to a dry goods house to sell dry goods and the Americans were exporting more goods of the same kind than Canada did and were supplying themselves. In 1878 we sent twice as much to the United States as to Great Britain. Since then the exports to the States have been growing less and growing more and more until now we shipped more to Great Britain than to the United States. Sir Richard admitted this, but said if they took cheese out then the opposite would be the case. Yes, said Mr Larke, and if they took horses, cheese, cattle and butter away they would soon have no exports to Great Britain at all! As to barley, he said if the farmers were not better off now than in 1878 it was simply because they did not produce as much, for the figures showed better prices. The fact was that they did not produce as much now on account of unseasonable weather and because the land was becoming exhausted by barley growing. They would have to less grain growing and go in for cheese making and cattle raising to bring the land up to its old fertility. In Great Britain was their market for these products and not in the United States. The only reasons which these gentlemen advance for their policy, said the speaker, are false, untrue, fraudulent and deceitful There were certain national questions that had grown up between the two countries, Canada and the United States, which required arranging, but in any arrangement made there were things which they were not going to have. There was to be no discrimination against Great Britain, the Canadians were to have the power to make their own tariffs and protect their home market. All the Reformers were not for Commercial Union, and they would find that a very large number of them were going to support Mr. Stevenson. (Applause.) Who was to make this common tariff they would have under unrestricted reciprocity? Mr. Wiman came forward and explained that a commission would be appointed on which each country would be represented according to population. This would be very fine. According to this twelve Yankees and one Canadian would sit down to frame the common tariff. And who was going to interpret the tariff. "Oh," the New York Times said, "it will be an American tariff and the American courts should interpret it." An American tariff with an American interpretation was what they would have. They would be giving the money power into the hands of the United States, and by so doing pass everthing over to them. What was it that made the third estate of the realm, the House of Commons, the ruling power in England and in Canada? It was because it had the power of the purse; and the very moment they said to the Americans "frame our tariff," they put the country into their hands, for the power to tax carried every other power. The Americans said they were going to advocate commercial union because it would lead to annexation. Erastus Wiman said before a United States Senate committee that no man who advocated annexation could be elected in Canada, but he said there were politicians advocating commercial union who would favor annexation. The speaker said he knew some Reformers would say "We are as loyal as you are." So they were; the great body of Reformers were loyal men. But when he found men talking this way he would ask them to inquire, "Who is the traitor?" These conditions, which were talked of, so far as giving any advantage to the farmer was concerned, were deceptive. Sir John had given farmers all the advantages of a home market. The introduction of the Edison Works employing some 600 men would give the farmers of this county a larger market than unrestricted reciprocity with the United States. The town of Peterborough was three times a better market for the produce of the farmers of the county than the whole of the United States. The 600 men would mean 3,000 of an increase in the population and this would mean a great increase in the demand on the farming community. Therefore it was far better to keep the manufactories here and have a home demand for the produce than to drive them 500 miles away and have to

A MONOPOLY IN CANADA

THOSE TO GREAT BRITAIN

to them. By the home market they got better prices, as there were no middle men to make their profit or any cost of shipping the produce to the market. Why was it that the Americans were now after Canada? It was because they saw she was on an eve of development, the equal of which no country had ever seen. The construction of the C.P.R. had given her a trans-continental route with one thousand less rail and steamship miles than any line in the United States. This was to be the line over which the trade of Great Britain, China, Japan, India and perhaps Australia would pass, running through Canadian territory, brought by Canadian steamships, carried on Canadian cars, manned by Canadian men. (Applause.) When the C. P. R. was first talked of, Sir Richard had said it could not be built, the Americans had said it was impossible, but Sir John said it must be built, and it was. (Cheers.) The speaker, whose time was limited to an hour, as he had to leave on the evening train, closed his address with an eloquent peroration in which he held up in national pride Canada's

The nickel alone was sure to be an inestimable source of wealth in the future. English companies were being formed, one with a capital of $5,000,000, to establish smelting works in Canada, which would give us Canadian iron less the $4 duty In closing he said he knew they would send Mr. Stevenson to support Sir John and give him the power to frame the treaty and at the same time encourage the general development of the country. The speaker sat down amid most enthusiastic applause.

The meeting then closed with hearty cheers for Mr. Stevenson, Sir John and the Queen, after tendering a vote of thanks to Mr. Larke.

A Primitive Krupp.

Near Apt, in the French department of Vaucluse, a retired inspector of forests has accidentally unearthed some ancient work of peculiar interest. The remains were found on a bed of pebbles 8 feet below the surface, and seem to be those of a prehistoric workshop. The flint implements were so sharp and well-preserved as to indicate that they had never been taken from the place where they were shaped, and two nuclei were discovered upon which some students succeeded in replacing the pieces chipped off. Here, then, is a factory of the stone age with the materials in such position as to indicate exactly the procedure of the early workman.

Jupiter's Rotation.

Among the analogies traced between the planet Jupiter and the sun is the rotation of the equator at a more rapid rate than the rest of the surface. A Russian astronomer, Bielopski, has lately combined the observations and drawings of many different observers, and has been able to determine more than a hundred angular velocities at various latitudes upon Jupiter. These indicate that a zone of 5° on either side of the equator rotates in 9h. 51 m., the surface beyond 10° to north or south in about 9 h. 55. 5., and the points between 5° and 10° north or south in an intermediate period.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

CONSERVATIVES, RALLY.

A MEETING of the Liberal Conservatives will be held to-morrow night, to organize for the campaign, in the Council Chamber in the Opera House block. There should be a rousing meeting, as the Conservatives should be thoroughly prepared for a contest should it come. The issues to be decided are of such a most important character, of such vital interest to the country, that everyone should be ready to do his utmost for the complete triumph of the patriotic policy of the administration. Thorough organization is one of the necessities of a vigorous campaign, such as this must be. Let there be a grand rally at the first organization meeting and victory is assured.

Personal.

Mr. W. L. Hamilton, District Inspector of Inland Revenue, is in town to-day.

Arrested for Alleged Fraud.

W. S. Loveless, a young man who has been residing in Ashburnham, was arrested last night at the request of the authorities at Trenton, who held a warrant for his arrest on a charge of fraud, Chief Hinds, of Trenton, arrived here this morning to take the prisoner to that town. The trouble arose over a note Loveless gave in some horse deal.

Charged With Stealing.

Frank Lafavre, a man whose name got into print a few weeks ago when his son-in-law, Wm. [illegible]uffman, raised a disturbance at his house on Hunter-st., was arrested last night charged with stealing $25 from Gilbert Defoe, an old man who is familiar on the streets. It appears that Lafavre went into the bank with Defoe while the latter was drawing $25. Defoe got the money, but before he left the bank the money was gone and so was Lafavre. Defoe reported the occurrence to the police and Chief Rossel, after investigating the case, arrested Lafavre on suspicion. The man came before the Magistrate this morning and was remanded until Wednesday.

Among the Churches.

Rev. Mr. Morris, of Glen Allen, preached at both services at St. Andrew's church yesterday.

Mr. Priest, a student, occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church yesterday.

Prof. Ardagh, the new organist of St. Paul's, presided at the instrument in that church yesterday. His fourteen-year-old son, whose sweet soprano voice was mentioned before as being a remarkable gift, rendered a solo at the morning service which was delightful to listen to and charmed the congregation. The youthful vocalist has indeed a wonderful voice, characterized by sweetness, and handled with all the confidence of an adult. In the evening he took the solo in an excellent anthem which was rendered by the choir. The boy singer will be an attraction, for he is well worth hearing.

A union meeting of the Christian Endeavor Societies of the town is to be held in St. Paul's church this evening to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the organization.

A ROUSING MEETING.

Mr. Stevenson Again in the Field.

UNITED---ENTHUSIASTIC.

THE CONSERVATIVES PREPARE TO UPHOLD THEIR PRINCIPLES.

Mr. Kendry Retires in Favor of the Late Member—How the Liberal Policy Would Injure Peterborough and the Country—The Trent Valley Canal to be Built—Addresses by Mr. Stevenson, Mr. Lark and Others—Resolutions Adopted.

The opening gun in the election campaign in this riding was fired on Saturday, when a rousing mass meeting of the Liberal Conservatives was held in the Opera House to choose a standard bearer for the battle. The meeting had been called very suddenly with only three days' notice, but, nevertheless, there was a grand rally of the solid and representative members of the party from the town and county. The result of the meeting was the choosing of Mr. James Stevenson, the late member, to be the Government candidate. Mr. Stevenson enters the fight, if such it proves to be in this riding, with the assurance of the hearty, united and enthusiastic support of the party, and a confidence of a splendid victory. Mr. J. S. Larke, of Oshawa, an eloquent speaker of great force and clearness, was the speaker for for the occasion, and he made a stirring address which the electors present listened to with the keenest interest and applauded enthusiastically.

Mr. W. H. Moore, president of the Liberal Conservative Association, was chairman and seated with him on the platform were Messrs. James Stevenson, George Hilliard, Jas. Kendry, Thos. Kelly, W. H. Law, R. M. Dennistoun, T. M. Willan, of South Monaghan, Alex. Clarke, of Ennismore, and Alex. Scott, of Smith, while in the seats were a large number of prominent residents of the town and different townships.

Mr. MOORE, after calling the meeting to order, spoke of the object of the meeting, viz., to select a candidate to represent West Peterborough in the Dominion House. He was pleased with the large attendance on such short notice, and said he would first call upon Mr. Stevenson, their late member, who wished to give an account of his stewardship. Mr. Moore reminded them that upon them rested a tremendous responsibility, as on the result of the vote of the full electorate depended the welfare of the Dominion for the next four years. After referring to the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Larke, who he stated was one of the most conversant men with the trade question of the day, he called upon Mr. Stevenson.

THE MEMBER SPEAKS.

Mr. STEVENSON when he arose was received with a storm of applause. He thanked them for his election four years ago and said that during the years he had been their representative he had endeavored to perform his duties faithfully and to the best of his ability. During the four years he had been present at every important vote in the House. This he considered only his duty, for their representative should be present on all occasions to look after the interests of this county particularly and the country generally. To Sir John Macdonald, Mr. Stevenson said, they owed much. Nothing he (Mr. Stevenson) could do could be commensurate in any way to what that great tower of strength, Sir John, had done and was doing for the country. (Applause.) At present, the speaker said, they were aware that there was being agitated in the country—the trade question. When he first went to Ottawa Mr. Blake had been the leader of the Liberal party, but shortly after he had resigned the leadership and had taken little part in the discussions. He did not know for certain what Mr. Blake's views were at present, but at that time he was opposed to unrestricted reciprocity, which their opponents, the Liberal party, were now offering the people. But in offering this policy, they did not say "we will give it," but said "we will try and give it." There was nothing coming from the United States, no indications apparent that would lead any person to suppose that the United States had any desire for such a state of things on their part. Therefore the Reformers' offer was really nothing. In Quebec they found Mr. Laurier telling the people that they were subservient to the people of Upper Canada, because of the duty of flour, saying that they in Quebec did not raise any flour for themselves and had to pay 75 cents a barrel extra to the farmers of Ontario for what they used on account of the protective duty: commercial union or unrestricted reciprocity was to be the remedy. But, as he had said before, there had been no indications that such trade relations were desired by the Americans, and they had received no offer of it from them—except perhaps the McKinley Bill. The leading men over there threw out no hope except for annexation. "Gentlemen, when you are annexed you can come in and trade on equal terms," was Mr. Blaine's reply. It was for them to judge. Were they willing to become hewers of wood and drawers of water for the United States? for such they would be if absorbed by that nation, because Canadian factories could not then live here at all. There would be no bridge works, no lock factory, no carbon works. He had been talking to a gentleman who had lectured here not long since and he told him that a binder could be bought in Lancashire, England, cheaper than in Chicago where it was made. How could this be done, they would ask. The reason was easily explained. They had

ONLY ONE QUESTION

COMBINATIONS AT HOME

and kept prices up, but when they entered a foreign country they sold at any price. He could speak from experience of coal. When the duty on coal had been 40 cents per ton he could go into Buffalo and buy at 40 cents per ton cheaper than the Buffalo men, as they allowed that rebate to cover the duty. The Government took the duty off and up went the price and the American dealers said: you will pay the same as our merchants for your coal. Coming nearer home, he said in Peterborough they had made an effort to bring manufactories here. First they had brought the Lock Works. They had gone to Cleveland and brought a gentleman here with all the tools, patterns and other necessaries for the manufacture of locks here. There had never been such a factory in Canada, and the Americans from that time out had reduced the price of locks 20 per cent. They said, "We must break down that Canadian lock factory and not lose the Canadian market." The same plan had been adopted in regard to carbons. The price of carbons was $10 per thousand. When the carbon works had been started here American manufacturers had come over here and tried to take stock and arrange to raise the price of carbons. They refused and the Americans had immediately sent out circulars offering to put in carbons by the car load, if wanted, at $5 per thousand. Mr. Stevenson said he knew this to be a fact because he was connected with both works. He said he would leave the trade question for Mr. Lark to deal with at greater length. Another matter, however, that had been up at the last election was the

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

This matter they had brought before the House at every session since. At the second session it had been stated by a leading Reformer that there would not be sufficient water to supply the canal and other objections had been raised. The Government therefore, said that it would appoint a royal commission to take evidence as to the route, cost, and feasibility of the canal and await a report. This commission had been appointed with Peterborough's County Judge as chairman, and no one could complain of the ability of the men. Mr. Turner, of Toronto, and Mr. Kennedy, of Montreal, who completed that commission. These gentlemen had gone over every inch of the route, had gone to Buffalo and Albany, inspected the Welland and Erie canals and examined everything in connection with them. Their report was now ready and was in the hands of the Minister of Railways and Canals. He had tried to get a copy of the report, but that was impossible, as it must first be laid before Parliament, but he had good reason to believe that it was decidedly in favor of the construction of the canal. If that should be the case, and he had excellent reasons to believe it was, and the Government did not proceed with the construction of the canal, he would feel it his duty for he felt that the Government was bound, if that report was favorable, to proceed with the work. Mr. Stevenson then reverted to the trade question. He said the question was asked what would we have with free trade with the States? Mr. Thomson, an ex-editor of the Globe, had pointed out in a recent letter that it would mean the loss of $16,000,000 revenue. This would mean an immense increase in their taxes. What taxes were they compelled to pay now? The man who drank champagne and wine had to pay the duty on those luxuries, while the man who did not indulge in these did not pay any of it. The same was the case with cigars and tobacco; the smoker paid the duty, but the man who did not smoke paid nothing of it. There was not a cent of duty on tea, while the tax on sugar was a mere bagatelle, and the man who wore good Canadian tweed paid no duty on his clothes. Sugar was cheaper now, much cheaper than it was some years ago, and they got Canadian cotton cheaper than they formerly got American or English cotton. But if they had unrestricted reciprocity and lost the customs revenue, they would have to resort to direct taxation, which would press

TO RESIGN HIS SEAT,

HEAVILY UPON THE FARMERS,

for then farms could be easily assessed while the funds of the rich man, invested in stocks, bonds, and other ways, would largely escape. The farms would have to bear the brunt under direct taxation. The speaker then referred to the depreciation in farm property in the United States. A gentleman who came from near Philadelphia told him that there the farmers could not sell cattle, because they could not raise horses or cattle as cheaply as they could be raised in Texas or Kansas. With pork and beef it was the same, for the big dealers with their cold storage could shut out the ordinary farmer, and across the lines farms were deserted. Mr. Stevenson went on to show how the price of barley, oats, and potatoes were regulated by the supply and demand, and that the American consumer paid the duty on them, as was shown by the fact that the prices increased across the lines when the duty was imposed. The Government had a standing offer to the United States to bring in all natural products free, but the United States had not heretofore shown any inclination to accept it, but had kept a tariff wall between them. This had been the Americans' course, and if Canada wanted free trade she would have to go in with the States and dispel all feelings of loyalty. Mr. Glenn had said at Washington, "Squeeze them and you will get them in." That was the gentleman who had sat as a good Reformer in the House of Commons. Erastus Wiman had said himself that commercial union simply meant the adoption of the American tariff against the rest of the world. Then every American manufacture would be pressed into the Canadian market and our manufacturers would be ruined. The speaker proceeded to point out the large export trade done in England in cattle and cheese and how this trade had grown, while trade with the United States had not increased. In closing Mr. Stevenson again brought the question home to Peterborough. Here, he said, they had been trying to bring manufacturers into their midst and they had succeeded. Mr. Meyers, the representative of the Edison Company, had said the other night that that company but for the duties. The town had given $25,000 to bring the Edison works here and then they were asked to turn around and and with their votes wipe out the industry. It would be a serious matter for Peterborough if such should be the case, for the town would soon go back to the 4,000 inhabitants it had a few years ago. He said he had spoken to Mr. Bertram, a gentleman whom they all knew, and that gentleman had told him he was opposed to unrestricted reciprocity as proposed by Mr. Wiman. Before taking his seat Mr. Stevenson said he was not a candidate for Parliament and did not want the nomination. He had lost time and money and he would be only too glad if another person was found who would support the policy of Canada for the Canadians and he would do all he could to secure his election. He resumed his seat amid applause.

WOULD NEVER HAVE COME HERE

ENDORSATION OF GOOD GOVERNMENT.

The Chairman, when the applause had subsided, said there were a number of resolutions which were to be placed before the meeting and he called for the first of these.

Mr. ALEX. SCOTT, of Smith, moved, seconded by Mr. W. H. LAW, of the Central Bridge Works,—That the convention of the electors of the Liberal-Conservative party of West Peterborough most cordially endorse and approve of the policy of our Government, and hereby express our unbounded confidence in the ability and patriotism of Sir John A. Macdonald and his administration to continue the management of the affairs of the Dominion to the advantage and prosperity of the people of Canada, and we will use every legitimate effort in our power to secure the election of the Conservative candidate of this riding.

The resolution was carried with applause.

A GOOD REPRESENTATIVE.

Mr. ALEX. CLARKE, of Ennismore, moved the next resolution, seconded by Mr. THOS. KELLY, of town, as follows:—That the Liberal-Conservative electors of the West Riding of the County of Peterborough in this convention assembled, do place on record an expression of their gratitude to Mr. James Stevenson, the late representative of the riding in the House of Commons, for his untiring attention to his duties in the House, his unceasing efforts for the advancement of the best interests of the riding, and for the loyal support he has given the Government in its patriotic and progressive course and policy.

This resolution was received with enthusiasm and carried amid loud applause.

TO GUARD CANADA'S NATIONALITY.

Mr. T. M. WILLAN, of South Monaghan, moved, seconded by Mr. GEO. HILLIARD, the following resolution:—Resolved,—We the members of the Liberal-Conservative party of West Peterborough, in convention assembled, take advantage of this opportunity of declaring our unswerving loyalty and attachment to the Crown and delight at forming a part of the British Empire. We would also at this time most emphatically and in a manner that will not admit of question or uncertainty declare our determination and resolve that Canada shall be for Canadians and that the policy of any party in this country that shall propose the adoption of measures which will endanger or threaten our nationality or which may, in any way, render us subject to the rule, control or influence of a foreign power in the management of our public affairs, deserves and will receive our most vigorous condemnation and energetic and inflexible opposition, and that we will on the occasion of the present contest, use every legitimate means within our control to overthrow the effort which is being made by certain unscrupulous politicians to gain place and power at the price of national existence.

Mr. WILLAN, in moving this resolution, was greeted with applause. He said he had felt in observing Mr. Stevenson's course that he had been consistent in supporting a Government of which they should all feel proud. He felt proud as a farmer of the Government and their representative, whose energy and efforts had been largely instrumental in making Peterborough a city. As a farmer, he was glad of this, for the prosperity of the town benefitted the farmer. He felt that it was their duty to support Mr. Stevenson in the course he had taken and he hoped it would be the unanimous voice of the meeting that he should be the candidate.

Mr. GEO. HILLIARD said he heartily seconded the resolution, for he condemned with the utmost positiveness any person or persons who wanted to lead Canada into annexation with the United States. He was unswervingly loyal to Her Majesty. There were some who looked upon him as an American, but he could say he was born in Ontario, had lived and worked in Ontario and had seen the province grow to its present position of prosperity. When he saw persons trying to wring the life from the nation he felt they were traitors. The prime mover on this question was one who should be as good a loyalist as any of them for he came of good U E Loyalist stock and if his father was still living he felt he would chastise him. He referred to Sir Richard Cartwright, the man who had not the confidence of his constituency. This was the man who had been fixing affairs at Washington, along with Mr. Charlton, an American born and brought up. This man's sympathy was with the States and he was trying to represent Canadians at Washington. Then there was Erastus Wiman, a former resident of Canada, but whose interests were all in New York. These men had no authority to treat with the United States and were actually deceiving the Americans. This election was perhaps the most important since confederation. American money would be scattered broadcast throughout the land, but he felt that the people of this city were too much alive to their own business to be drawn into the snare of unrestricted reciprocity, which simply meant annexation. He was satisfied that the Government had worked in the interests of the country. Their late member had said he had no axe to grind and the speaker knew from experience that to a man who had no axe to grind it meant a loss of money to be a representative. He himself had made a sacrifice for two sessions. He was glad that they had a man who was so wrapt up in the interests of the town as Mr. Stevenson, a man who had shown energy, and but for whose efforts Peterborough would have had no lock works or no carbon works. They owed a great deal to Mr. Stevenson for the introduction of these works. He had shown by his works and deeds that he had faith in the National Policy and he thought they could trust him with their interests. (Loud and long applause.)

THE NOMINATION.

The Chairman, after referring to the necessity for unanimity in work and action called for nominations of candidates. Mr. Geo. Hilliard moved that Mr. Stevenson be the candidate in this campaign. This was received with loud applause. Mr. Thos. Kelly seconded the nomination, referring to the faithful manner in which Mr. Stevenson had performed his duties.

Mr. Stevenson then nominated Mr. Jas. Kendry. Mr. Law seconded this nomination.

MR. KENDRY DECLINES.

Mr. KENDRY, returned thanks for the honor done him, but he was sure that they could not have a better man than they had had. Business reasons would prevent him from accepting the nomination, but he would do all in his power to elect Mr. Stevenson. Mr. Stevenson had done more for the town than any other man in it. He had done everything in his power to further the town's interests and the speaker thought he was the man to represent the people. Mr. Kendry said he would support the Government, for he believed it was the Government for the country. From the enthusiasm he had seen he was certain that the Government was going to be returned by a good majority. He agreed with the Government and Mr. Stevenson on the trade question. If they were going to have manufactures they must protect them. The manufactures were a benefit to the farmers, for they consumed the latter's products. If the Reformers were put into power they would have annexation, and the result would be that Canada's small manufactures would be swallowed up by the great centres. They wanted Canada for the Canadians. He again declined the nomination, and wished them to do all they could to return the late member.

MR. STEVENSON ACCEPTS.

Mr. Kendry's name was then withdrawn and the nomination tendered Mr. Stevenson amid great enthusiasm.

Mr. STEVENSON said he could consent to accept the nomination only with the greatest reluctance, but as he felt a great interest in the country he would sacrifice a good deal to secure its prosperity, and he would stand as a candidate. Referring again briefly to our local manufactures he pointed to the noteworthy fact that the Edison Company intended to manufacture cars, engines, boilers and other electrical appliances which all would be imported from the States but for the protective duties. He referred to the town's manufacturing facilities, to its past prosperity, and what might be hopefully expected in the future if the Government was sustained. He closed with another reference to the reluctance with which he consented to stand, and as he resumed his seat he was tendered a storm of applause.

MR. LARKE'S ADDRESS.

Mr. LARKE upon rising was received with applause. He opened with a happy reference to his previous visit to Peterborough and said he wanted to come here again for two reasons. First it did him good to see an enterprising people and when he saw Peterborough growing in a few years to be a city he was sure to get some inspiration of its people. His second reason for wanting to come was because he wanted to assist in any way he could, not only in securing Mr. Stevenson's election, but in using his influence to get his acceptance of the nomination if it was tendered him, as he had thought it would be. He

CONGRATULATED THE CONSTITUENCY,

the Province and the Dominion upon the nomination of Mr. Stevenson, because that gentleman was made of the material representatives ought to be made of but were not always. (Applause.) He was a man of excellent judgment, wide experience and was no party heeler, but one whose judgment could be relied upon to give assistance and support to the party he acted with. (Renewed applause.) He wished he could congratulate Mr. Stevenson as well as the constituency, but, while that gentleman undoubtedly appreciated to the full the honor done him, yet he felt the full responsibility and he (the speaker) had the knowledge that the desire to shift the burden upon some other shoulders was not a feigned one. Mr. Lark said when the telegram reached him asking him to come to Peterborough he was in Ottawa with Sir John Macdonald. Sir John had said, "Go there and don't leave Peterborough until Mr. Stevenson accepts the nomination, for I want him in Ottawa to help during the next four years." There was one thing he wanted the chairman to do when the meeting was over, and that was to telegraph Sir John that Mr. Stevenson had accepted the nomination and was virtually elected. (Applause.) There had never been a

MORE IMPORTANT ISSUE

presented to the people of this country than the issue at this coming election. In saying this he did not underrate confederation, he did not underrate the election of 1878 when the people decided for the National Policy, or the election of 1882 when that decision was repeated. They were important elections, but there was this difference. If they had made a mistake then it could have been rectified, if they had made a false step at one session it could be righted at the next. But it was not so this time. They were now called to make a treaty with another country, to sign a document having put their name to which they could not change, but would have to abide by the results for weal or woe until the treaty expired. And when the time did expire the conditions might then be such that they could not withdraw if they would. The last time they faced the country they met a party who sought to condone murder and, in the case of Riel, to justify murder. That was an important election, but the issue to-day was greater. The question to-day was, "Is our young nationality to be slaughtered or not?" The slaughter of a nation was as much a crime as the slaughter of a human life. (Cheers and hear, hear.) Some were crying out because the election had been brought on. A short time ago the Grits were condemning the Government for not appealing to the people and they were condemning it now for doing that very thing. Sir John Macdonald, said the speaker, never did please those people and no doubt never will and so long as they remain in the same frame of mind he probably will never try. (Laughter). There were reasons why the people had been appealed to. Sir John was getting to be an old man and did not like the trouble and worry of an election. But for the first time in 40 years the American people extended an about the relations between these two countries and it was a very proper thing, Sir John thought, that the people should say who should negotiate and what those negotiations should be. Sir John, Mr. Lark said, never did a thing more proper or never was more faithful to the people of this country, than when he said, "I am going to put the matter into the hands of the people and let them say what the treaty is to be. You are to say if that treaty is to be, and, if it is, what is it to be. If it is Commercial Union, then you must get some one else to frame it and not me. If you want American domination, then let Laurier and Cartwright, the mouthpieces of Erastus Wiman, give it to you." They would not hear any Reform speaker state the issue plainly. The policy of the Reformers was a peculiar one. First the proposed a zollverein, then it was Commercial Union and then they called it Unrestricted Reciprocity. They all were the one thing. When they saw a man who called himself Robert Jones in one place and Richard Culvert in another and some one else in another, they put him down as a thimble rigger or a horse thief, and when this policy of the Reformers was changed in name three times in three years, they could say it was a deliberate attempt to obtain a verdict by fraud and deception. This policy was not the choice of Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Laurier or Mr. Davies. Every one of them made excuses for it. Mr. Davies said there might be mistakes in it, but it was better than protection. Sir Richard Cartwright said he admitted that it discriminated against Great Britain, but they must take Commercial Union before protection. Mr. Laurier talked in the same way. Why did they thus make excuses? Because they knew they were trying to deceive the people and that it was the first time in the history of this or any country that a policy had been

DICTATED BY A FOREIGN NATION.

(Hear, hear.) They advocated this policy, they said, because the condition of the country had become so depressed. A more deliberate untruth, he said, was never uttered. He had examined the speeches of Sir Richard and Mr. Larier, and he found such bold statements, and not one tittle of evidence, with two exceptions, to support them. What evidence, he asked, was there in Sir Richard's speech at Chatham? He (Sir Richard) stated that in some districts the rural population had actually decreased, and, therefore, the country was going to the dogs. Had the population decreased in the whole province? No. Had the rural population decreased? No, it had not. Only in three districts had this been the case, and this was no evidence of "arrested development" as Sir Richard Cartwright called it. The last ten years, Mr. Larke said, had been years of the self-binder and seed-drill, and the farmer could now work the same number of acres with much less labor, and he therefore employs less help, and in this way the population might seem to be decreased. The Liberals said, "We must have free trade with the United States." But did they not find any decrease in population over there? Take the banner State of New York and in 28 counties of that state out of 60 the population had actually decreased, counting town and city as well as rural population. Taking them all together there were 60,000 less than ten years ago. Yet Sir Richard said we were decreasing by the hundreds and asked us to go over where they were decreasing by the thousands. Mr. Larke said he had had the pleasure of going upon the Peterborough market that morning and he had looked at the farmers standing by their waggons, and had gone up into the market, and no one who looked at the happy, smiling faces and saw the farmers' wives and daughters coming to market comfortably and sometimes fashionably dressed could see any sign of decay or poverty. He doubted that they could anywhere find such evidences of prosperity and happiness as he had seen that day. These Reformers also

AGED TURTLE DOVES.

One Has Buried Five Husbands, the Other Four Wives.

SOUTH COLCHESTER, Feb. 8.—Milton Brown, aged 84, of Anderdon will next Tuesday lead to the altar a bride in the person of Mrs. Margaret Clickert, aged 97. The bridegroom-elect has buried four wives and the bride mourns the loss of five husbands. Her last husband died two years ago at the advanced age of 124 years.

THE MORIN-TUPPER SUIT.

The Testimony Closed for Both Sides—Summing Up to Begin To-Day.

BUFFALO, Feb. 8.—There was no abatement in the interest of the Tupper-Morin trial yesterday and the court room was crowded as on the previous days.

While Mr. Morin was testifying an affecting incident occurred. Mrs. Tupper suddenly burst into tears. Her husband beckoned Mrs. Sessions and the two ladies left the court room, Mrs. Tupper sobbing quietly with her handkerchief before her face. They returned in a few minutes, but Mrs. Tupper was far from being composed.

Mrs. Tupper was then called to give rebuttal testimony. She swore positively Cuddy had said nothing to her about Buffalo despatches and that he was one of three men who passed her on the station platform. Her testimony differed materially from that of the Canadian officers, and was important as tending to show that she was arrested because she carried a certain trunk check and not from any resemblance to the Wilson girl.

It was then announced that the evidence was all in, and Tracy Becker, addressing the court, asked for a verdict in favor of the defendant. Mr. Morin, he said, had reasonable grounds for ordering the arrest, believing the woman on her way to Toronto was the one who robbed Mr. Miller's house. Justice Lewis decided to allow the case to go to the jury. An adjournment was then taken until to-morrow morning at 10.30 o'clock.

Burned By Her Baby.

GUTHRIE, O.T., Feb. 7.—Mrs. William Grimes, after completing her domestic duties to-day, laid down on the bed in her room and went to sleep. Her 4-year-old daughter found a box of matches and with them set fire to the window curtains and the clothes in the closet. The child had previously locked the bedroom door and thrown the key out of the window. When the mother awoke the whole room was ablaze. She could not escape by the door and was obliged to leap from the window with her child in her arms. Her clothing had caught fire, and when she fell to the ground she was wrapped in flames. She died in terrible agony this evening. Her little daughter escaped severe injury.

Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Discount was in moderate demand during the week. The rates quoted were 1¾ for three months and 1⅞ for short. The Bank of England will pay back to the Bank of France at the end of the present month 3,000,000 bullion borrowed during the Baring's crisis. It will be returned as received, as it has never been unpacked since it was shipped to London. There has been a small daily inflow from the provinces, which strengthens the Bank of England's bullion stock. The stock exchange was inactive throughout the week, yet the tendency of the market was good. Silver securities were especially weak, owing to growing fears that nothing would be done with the silver bill in Congress this session. In foreign securities the features of the week has been the relapse in Argentines. American railway securities were firm and there was an all round rise on Paris and Berlin bourses. Prices were firm.

Will Probably Result Fatally.

PORT HOPE, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Simmons, aged 80, was walking from the house to the driving shed when she slipped and fell down a flight of steps and struck with terrible force on the ice below. She lay unconscious at the foot of the steps, and when raised from the position it was found that she had sustained terrible injuries. Blood was oozing from her mouth and ears and she had fractured her collarbone in three places besides sustaining many serious bruises. Her recovery is doubtful.

Sawmills in Ashes.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—About 7.30 o'clock fire broke out in McLaren's sawmills, situated at the mouth of the Rideau River, near Edinburgh. The firemen were soon on the ground but their efforts in saving the mill were fruitless. The flames have spread to the adjacent lumber piles, which are now burning fiercely.

PROFIT IN DAIRYING.

PROF. J. W. ROBERTSON'S PLAIN HINTS TO DAIRYMEN.

This Noted Canadian Expert Puts Facts in a New and Understandable Shape—Principles Underlying Profits in Boarding Cows.

Prof. Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, says:—

A man's skill having settled that a cow can serve him, and his skill having determined the peculiar character of the cow that can serve him best, he will expect that she will do her best for him. A cow always boards on some man or some woman. Did you ever think of that? For myself, I would not like to have ten men boarding on me who would not pay for their food; in fact, I could not afford to have ten men at my table, five of whom paid for their board while five did not. What would I do with the five that did not pay? If I were a politician, which I probably never will be, I would get those five cows or men who did not pay their board to board on the other party. That is successful party politics. If I have ten cows in my stable; they really board on me as truly as these men at my table.

But the fact remains that nearly half of our boasted 750,000 cows in Canada board on some citizen, and neglect or forget to pay in full for their board. The cows that pay for their board are the cows having power to keep their accounts straight with the man whose food they eat. I could get a cow for a threefold purpose—for the purpose of getting milk at a profit, for the purpose of getting valuable calves, and for the purpose of making rich beef—so that I would have no waste and loss, so far as the life of this animal was concerned.

Now suppose I begin at the other end. If I keep a cow for the beef she can make, for the calves she can drop, and for the milk she can yield, I will find eleven times out of twelve that the whole three do not leave me as much as the cow took from me. If I want beef at a profit, I conclude that the calf that drinks all the milk his mother gives costs more for every pound of beef he carries three times over than I can get for that beef. If I get a dairy cow for beef from her own carcass, I may board her at a loss for eight or ten years, for the pleasure of having some two or three pounds extra of old-cow beef that costs me four times what it is worth.

Then, since the second object that I am seeking to attain in keeping cows is to get valuable calves at a profit, I will find out the time of year that I can raise them to the most advantage. In this Province that period lies between October and April. When a man rears calves in the summer time they are very often neglected. Twice a day they are called up, and, as a rule, get a supply of sour milk. I would prefer them raised through the winter. They can be protected from the sun and from the flies, and be ready to eat grass when the summer comes. I would have the cow begin her working season from October onward, and then when I want to make beef I would have the steers matured at 2 1-2 years.

Asiatic Breeds of Fowls.

Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans constitute the standard Asiatic breeds. Fowls of this class recommend themselves by many desirable qualities, such as being fair layers, good setters and mothers and docile. There are two recognized varieties of Brahmas—the light and the dark. The Brahmas are prolific winter layers. Being fashioned with broad full breast and deep round body this breed produces a tempting amount of flesh both as broilers and roasters. The flesh is juicy and well flavored.

The Cochin breed gives a choice of four varieties, in which the color of plumage affords the chief point of preference, these being buff, partridge, white and black Cochins. The chief characteristics of the Cochins are their large size, gentle disposition and hardiness. The hens are prolific layers and good mothers and persistent setters. Where early chickens and large eggs are the objects Cochins do well, but the flesh is inferior in quality, especially that of the old fowls.

The Langshans, which were admitted to the American standard of excellence by the American Poultry Association in 1883, have found many admirers. Their merits are briefly summarized as follows: Extreme hardiness, rapid growth, large size combined with small bone, white skin and white flesh, full breast, delicacy of flavor. The Langshan hens are probably as prolific layers of winter eggs as any breed we have. The eggs are large in size and of rich quality. The hens are not such persistent setters as those of the Cochin breed.

Value of a Hen's Time.

When feeding fowls many persons seem to think any delay in putting down a full supply is dreadfully wasteful of time. Why a hen's time should be thought of so much consequence would puzzle them to tell. If they feed whole corn it must be put through the sheller and thrown out by handfuls. Watch them as in their eagerness they gobble their mouths full, and then, stretching up their necks, let all go down in a heap. Much the better way, if corn is to be fed at all, is to shell it slowly and throw it among straw, to be scratched over before all of it is found. Smaller grain, as wheat or oats, is better than corn, and partly because thus scattered among straw it is harder to find. For the same reason, if meal is used it must be wet to enable the chickens to eat it faster. Young chickens are often killed by wet food. It clogs in their little crops, which most need just the exercise that digesting whole grain would give. An unused organ soon becomes not only inactive, but unfit for action. So the dyspeptic hen becomes dumpish, and finally dies, all from the effect of unskillful feeding. Young chicks a week old will eat whole wheat, and even earlier they will eat if broken into small, hard bits.

Hints and Helps.

To take paint out of white cloth, soak well in spirits of turpentine.

Glue is said to be waterproof, if first soaked in water until soft, and then melted with gentle heat in linseed oil.

The outer skins of onions make a very pretty yellow dye for silk or woolen; set with alum.

To Keep Milk Sweet: Put into a panful, a spoonful of grated horse-radish; it will keep milk sweet for days.

To Clean Carpets: Mix ox gall and water; rub the carpet with a flannel dipped in the mixture; then rub dry with a linen cloth.

If you want nice colors, get your carpet rags colored at a gingham mill; it will not cost over 10c per lb and they will not fade.

To remove ink, wine or fruit stains, saturate well in tomato juice. It is also an excellent thing to remove stains from the hands.

To take ink stains out of a red table-cloth, soak the spot in sweet milk or melted tallow; if that doesn't remove it all, hold it over burning matches.

DID HE CHEAT AT CARDS?

LONDON'S SCANDAL STILL CREATES EXCITEMENT.

A Baronet Accused of Cheating at a Card Table at Which the Prince of Wales Was Seated—The Part a Highly Polished Cigar Case is Alleged to Have Played in the Game.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The most strenuous efforts are being made to suppress the latest scandal in connection with the Prince of Wales' unfortunate stay at Mrs. Wilson's country seat, Tranby Croft, last autumn.

The unpleasantness at the card table at Tranby Croft is entirely different to the version published in the newspapers, and the charge made in print that Sir William was caught in the act of surreptitiously tampering with the stakes is devoid of truth. What occurred was this: Sir William had on the table before him a silver cigaret case with an exceedingly highly polished back, on which were reflected the faces of the cards as he dealt them. Whether this was intentional on his part or not is a question that has given rise to much discussion. It is probable, however, that no one would have given any attention to the matter had not Sir William been winning very heavily. So few men know how to lose at cards without betraying signs of ill-humor, and one of the unfortunate ones, more crusty than the rest and searching for some peg on which to hang his ill-temper, caught sight of the cigaret box and gruffly suggested its removal. Sir William, who has hitherto been known as a man of unblemished character and of great gallantry, is not blessed with a particularly patient or enduring character, and a full-fledged scrimmage was only averted by the presence of the Prince. At the suggestion of the latter the matter was submitted to the arbitration of three well-known clubmen present, who decided the matter by acquitting the baronet of taking any unfair advantage. Conscious, however, of the disagreeable position in which the fact of his having been a large winner that evening had placed him, he took an oath in the presence of the prince, and before the arbitrators had announced their decision, never to touch a card again. Sir William, who is a lieutenant-colonel of the Scots Guards, and who distinguished himself greatly in the Afghan, Zulu, Egyptian and Nile campaigns, is not a particularly popular man, and inasmuch as one or two of the men present were indiscreet enough to tell their wives of the incident the matter was soon bruited about in all the country houses and London clubs in a considerably exaggerated form. Sir William has succeeded in tracing his two fellow-guests at Tranby Croft to whose indiscretion he is indebted for the present rumors affecting his honor and has commenced libel suits against them, subpœnaing the Prince as a witness in his behalf. It is these lawsuits that are now in the act of being settled out of by court abject apologies on the part of the defendants in the two suits.

The scandal has, however, served to revive memories of similar incidents which have occurred in late years. The most notable cases are those of George Russell and Walter Harbord. Each of them was the son-in-law of a Duke and each of them a particular friend and crony of the Prince. George Russell, who is a first cousin of the late Duke of Bedford, and whose wife was the charming daughter of the Duke of Roxburghe, was formerly one of the best known and most popular men about town. He held the lucrative Government post of Secretary of the Public Works Department, and as such controlled all the Government parks. This privilege he made use of to convert the pretty park-keeper lodges in Hyde Park and St. James' Park into so many gambling hells, luxuriously furnished at the expense of his department. Not content with the profits obtained as the "runner" of these hells, he set to work to cheat, and was finally caught in the act at the Turf Club.

CUPID SEALS AN ATONEMENT.

A Montana Stockman to Marry the Woman He Made a Widow.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—Mrs. George Harkness has gone from the home of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Burton of Bennett Station, this county, to her own home in Jersey City, where she will next week be married to James Henderson, who killed her first husband at Garfield, Warren county, in August, 1883.

Several weeks later his widow received an anonymous letter containing $100. The letter stated that the writer had been indirectly responsible for the death of her husband, and that she should not want as long as he lived. Every month she received from $50 to $100 and an anonymous letter. Six months ago the writer requested an interview. It was accorded. He proved to be a tall, handsome, full-bearded man of 38 or 40. He told how Harkness was in a gambling-room in the second floor of the building where he was killed, and had been knocked out of a window during a fight between the speaker and a stranger. He said his name was James Henderson, and that he had tried to atone for the accidental killing of Harkness. Cupid has sealed the atonement with his approval.

There is danger in impure blood. There is safety in Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. 100 doses one dollar.

THE CAMPAIGN IS HOT.

SPEECHES BY CARTWRIGHT AND PREMIER MERCIER.

A Large Batch of Candidates Nominated in Various Constituencies — A Big Liberal Meeting to be Held in Toronto Friday Evening—General Political Notes.

OSHAWA, Feb. 9.—A meeting was held in the Music hall this evening in the Liberal interests which was addressed by Mr. Feodor Boas, a woolen manufacturer of St. Hyacinthe, and Sir Richard Cartwright. Mr. Boas said that, as a manufacturer of large experience in his special line, he did not want protection, and was quite prepared to take his chances of success with the manufacturers of any country and that a market was all that he needed. Cartwright referred to the speeches of the four ministers in Toronto as indicating that party did not want to treat with the United States for reciprocity on grounds that would be acceptable to us, and in reply to a question by C. W. Scott as to whether Liberals favored discrimination against Great Britain by admitting American manufactures free and taxing manufactures of Great Britain, said, "Certainly we do," and intimated that it was more to the interest of Great Britain that Canada place herself in a position to pay interest on the eight hundred millions of British capital invested here than that her interests as a trader be considered.

THE SITUATION IN QUEBEC.

Sir Adolphe Caron Opens the Campaign at Levis.

QUEBEC, Feb. 9.—After vespers yesterday at Levis, Sir Adolphe Caron addressed a large meeting in the town hall. The meeting was opened by the Mayor, Mr. Belleau, Q.C. Sir Adolphe appealed to the intelligent electors to support a policy truly national which made the country prosperous, and which had received the almost unanimous support of the people since 1878, and to vote against a policy of unrestricted reciprocity, which must inevitably lead to direct taxation, and as a necessary consequence to annexation. He stated he was no annexationist but wanted Canada to remain what it was, regulating its own fiscal policy, instead of handing it over to Washington, and his fondest hope was that our country would still remain one of the brightest jewels of the British crown. The Mayor spoke after him and besought the electors to support a policy which had done so much for the industries of the town of Levis. T. C. Casgrain was followed by Mr. Roy of Levis, Mr. L. Taschereau, candidate for Beauce, Mr. Darveau, Captain Martineau, Mr. Joseph Roy and Mr. Darveau. At the close of the meeting the Mayor offered the candidature for Levis to Sir Adolphe, promising him the support of the Conservative party with the certainty of defeating any candidate who would run against him. Sir Adolphe promised to consider the question. The mayor of Levis recalled the fact yesterday that Mr. Chapleau's successful provincial campaign of 1881 was opened by him at Levis, and he anticipated that equally successful results would attend the present contest.

THOUSANDS OF MINERS IDLE.

A Great Strike Inaugurated in the Connellsville Coke Regions.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 9.—The great strike in the Connellsville coke regions was inaugurated to-day, and by to-morrow every mine and coke works in the region will be closed. The miners, to the number of about 10,000, refused to go to work to-day, the only men now working being the coke drawers. There are 6000 men employed at this work, and as soon as they have drawn the coke from the ovens they will quit. The strike is for an advance in wages on 12½ cents per ton and against a 10 per cent reduction.

Both sides are firm and a long struggle appears to be inevitable. The workmen offered to continue at the present wages until March 1, provided the operators would arrange a satisfactory scale in the meantime, but this was refused. The independent or small operators then offered to pay their men the old wages until a settlement of the trouble, but this also was rejected. The operators claim it is necessary to make a reduction owing to the depression in the coke and iron trades. There are over 16,000 ovens and 70 coal and coke works in the region.

SOUTH DUMFRIES' TRAGEDY.

Further Evidence Taken, But No New Facts Divulged.

Mrs. Bradley, Ogden Wilson, Mary McEwen and Mr. Carr were examined, but nothing new transpired. On account of the stomach and viscera not having been returned from Toronto, where they had been sent for analysis, the inquest was adjourned for two weeks.

FROM NEWFOUNDLAND.

It Is Alleged That Premier Whiteway Is Guilty of Treachery.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 9.—Intense excitement prevails at what is claimed to be the treachery of Sir William Whiteway, Attorney-General and Premier, who was sent to England by the Islanders to interview the Imperial authorities concerning the making of redress on the French shore question. Whiteway, it appears, on Saturday filed an intervention in behalf of the British Government in the suit of the lobster packing case of Bank against Sir Baldwin Walker, admiral of the British North American squadron. This is tantamount, it is claimed here, to going back on the Islanders. It is claimed he has received a promise of the governorship for his act of alleged treachery

Favors Universal Suffrage.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 9.—King Leopold received a delegation from the workmen's council of industry to-day. In a speech he said he had decided to pledge his support of the demand for universal suffrage. He had the cause of the working classes greatly at heart, he said, but not being a dictator he must leave the suffrage question to the nation. "Workingmen are wrong," he added, "in considering themselves a separate caste. We are all Belgians in different grades and all workmen." The delegates replied that the workmen had been made a separate class by being refused the right of voting. They trusted the King would assist in conciliating the classes in order to prevent unfortunate occurrences.

Collisions at Sea.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Several collisions between steamers occurred in a dense fog last night at Gravesend. The steamer Caroline, from Grangemouth for London, was in collision with the steamer Lambeth. The nomination was then cancelled. The polling takes place Thursday.

DUBLIN, Feb. 9.—A shocking suicide is reported from Galway, Ireland. The chief of police of that place killed himself by shooting with a revolver, owing to the fact that he was seriously charged with having been concerned in the recent rows between the soldiers and police in which a number of persons were injured. It is a coincidence of some interest that the former chief preceding the one who just shot himself ended his life by deliberately taking a dose of poison.

Watching the Workingmen.

He had with him twelve bottles and flasks of liquor, including rye and malt whiskies, Holland and Tom gin, and brandy. Last night the store of Asher & Leeson, in the Moore Block, was also burglarized. The burglars, which were evidently boys, made a big haul, carrying off four pieces of worsted, four watches, two large accordeons, three dozen ladies' rings, a lot of gentlemen's rings, and a large quantity of cuff buttons, ladies' brooches, ladies' and gentlemen's Albert and fob chains, and other articles. Albert Sare, aged 16, was arrested here this morning for a burglary at London.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1891.

THE TOWN'S PROSPERITY IN DANGER.

WHAT effect unrestricted reciprocity, as proposed by the Liberals, would have upon manufacturing industries is an important question for the people of this town and district. We are building up here a manufacturing centre, and of late years—in fact ever since the beneficial effects of the National Policy began to be felt—the industrial importance of the town has grown rapidly.

A good illustration of the advantages given by the National Policy is afforded by the recent very important addition to the town's list of factories—the Edison general electric works. At these works all kinds of electrical machinery and appliances will be made, from the smallest wire to the largest motors, electric street cars and boilers to drive the machinery. The plan of the buildings shows that an immense area will be covered and the company expects to have six hundred employees in the shops. But why did this company wish to expend hundreds of thousands of dollars in Canada to build shops instead of doing all their work under one management in their immense shops in Schenectady? Because there is an import duty on the articles they manufacture. And in order that they would be in a position to do business in Canada, they decided to establish works on this side, for by doing so they would not have to pay the duties, and could sell cheaper and meet competition. The National Policy brought the Edison works to Canada and but for it the men who will be working and living here, and purchasing their supplies from our farmers and merchants, would remain in the United States and buy from American merchants and farmers and assist to build up the Republic instead of the Dominion. This is a practical and pointed illustration of the beneficial operations of the National Policy, for the truth of these facts is obvious to anyone and was confirmed by the company's representative in Peterborough.

What is true of the Edison works is also true of other large industries. It was the National Policy that encouraged Mr. Brooks to come here and led to the establishment of the lock works. It was the protective traiff that encouraged Mr. Law to enter into bridge building and built up that industry from a small foundry to be the large and flourishing industry it now is, sending its products to all parts of the Dominion. It was the same tariff that enabled the carbon works to be started, the trade and output of which is steadily growing despite the efforts of the United States factories to freeze it out. The Auburn mills and other industries that have increased their capacities and have grown up under the National Policy might be pointed to and they teach the same lesson. The Wm. Hamilton Company's works have been greatly enlarged. That company is sending machinery across the continent to British Columbia and Peterborough mechanics are working on the machinery that will equip mills on the Pacific coast. Why, only for the fiscal and railway policy of Sir John Macdonald's administration that market could not have been entered, for, apart from other considerations, without the Canadian Pacific railway the machinery could not be sent there.

Thus the National Policy has furnished employment for our artisans, has developed our industries and has built up our town, and has by so doing built up a market for our farmers at their doors—the best and most profitable kind of a market.

What effect would the adoption of unrestricted reciprocity have upon the town? We have seen that the industries have been developed by the National Policy. Reverse the fiscal policy and the conditions favorable to the growth of the industries will be reversed—the conditions will become unfavorable. Retrogression will take the place of advancement. The powerful manufacturing combinations in the United States—combinations formed and maintained for the very purpose of killing off opposition—will have free play upon the industries of Canada until they get the markets of this country under their control. Mr. Stevenson has told us truly of the attempts that have already been made to freeze out the lock works and the carbon works. Remove the protection and the lever of resistance to these attacks will be weakened or destroyed. And not only will these industries be effected, but all the other important and many less important industries. And the Edison works—will that company go on erecting the large buildings it purposes to erect when the very reason for their coming here is gone?

These are hard facts, known to all of us, which the electors of Peterborough should seriously consider, and having considered them how can any elector who feels an interest in his home or his country vote for the destructive policy of the Liberal party? The people of Peterborough have been and still are anxious to secure manufacturing industries. When they learned that the Edison Works and other industries were to be established some place in Canada, they were ready to pay for privileges for them in order that they might select this town for their location. On this point the people were practically unanimous, as was shown by the vote on the Edison by-law. Yet the Liberal leaders ask the people to accept a policy that would drive out such industries and make their existence here impossible. From every point of view, unrestricted reciprocity would be a disastrous and suicidal policy, one that would not only stop the growth of the town, but would drive it back to the position of a village, and its effect upon the whole country would be the same.
